BRITISH PARLIAMENT WILL SOON MEET AGAIN

A BIG BLUE BOOK ON THE NATION'S TRADE

It is Issued by the Board of Trade to Supplement Mr. Balfour's Pamphlet

London, Sept. 16.—On the heels of Premier Balfour's academic exposition of his personal views of the fiscal problem, contained in the pamphlet on "Insular Free Trade," advance sheets of which were issued last night, came the long-promised and much demanded Government statistics dealing with that subject.

They were issued this morning by the Board of Trade, in the shape of a blue book of nearly 500 pages of bewildering tables of figures showing the various aspects of British and foreign trade, and the industrial conditions.

No deductions were drawn, though the publication teams with interesting notes upon what are regarded as points of fact. The preferences to foreign trade were chiefly confined to France, Germany and the United States.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

One of the most important phases dealt with in the blue book are imports and exports. The tables show that exports from the United Kingdom to the United States declined from $148,000,000 in 1890, to $97,500,000 in 1902, while the imports rose from $485,000,000 to $635,000,000. The total exports to all foreign countries declined in the same period $90,000,000, though when the colonies are included, the decline only amounts to $5,000,000.

TRADE HAS BEEN REVERSED.

The proportion of the United Kingdom exports, as between protected and unprotected countries, in the markets of the world, has been reversed since 1850. Then it was 56 per cent, to the protected countries, and 44 per cent. to the others. In 1902 the proportion was 42 per cent. to the protected countries and 58 per cent. to the others.

A VERY IMPORTANT POINT.

A valuable explanation is given of the much-quoted excess of imports over exports, which has so often been held to be a sign of British trade decline. The blue book says that while the excess yearly averages about $[illegible], the income receivable from foreign investments, calculated at $[illegible], added to the earnings of the British merchant fleet engaged in foreign trade, calculated at $[illegible], "is probably more than sufficient to account for the average excess of imports."

Americans have made large investments in the United Kingdom of recent years, and American re-purchases of railroad and other securities are admitted to have to some extent affected the fiscal figures; "but they are not likely to form a serious factor."

THE WORKINGS OF FOREIGN TARIFFS.

Much attention is devoted to the tinplate industry, and the effect of the Dingley and McKinley tariff. The figures show that the total exports of tin from the United Kingdom have declined only a little over $5,000,000 since 1897, with a marked increase in the quantity produced, and in in the value of a number of mills since 1898.

Dealing exhaustively with the tariffs of all nations the Blue Book says the American system of drawbacks "necessarily results in inequality of treatment, and may yield an export bounty to the best equipped manufacturers, while others sustain a loss."

In a table showing the ad valorem equivalent to import duties levied by foreign countries on the principal articles of British export, Russia comes first with 131 per cent., the United States next with 73 per cent. Though Germany comes sixth it is pointed out that her existing tariff is so effective as to be more highly protective against Great Britain than the percentage shows.

SHIPPING, FOOD AND WAGES.

Before the trade of the United Kingdom and any of the colonies should be reserved to British vessels, the Board of Trade states that the existing treaties with Austria, Greece and other countries would have to be denounced.

The tables show that the United Kingdom is most dependent on imported wheat. The question of wages and the cost of living, especially the price of food, which has figured so largely in the recent Chamberlain agitation, takes up pages, and is summed up as follows:

"The average level wages in the United States are one and a half times greater than in the United Kingdom, while in Germany wages are only two-thirds, and in France three-fourths of the average prevailing in the United Kingdom."

THE CHINESE MUST NOW BE RETURNED

Habeas Corpus Case Decided by Mr. Justice Loranger

IMPORTANT POINT RAISED

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company was Interested in the Case

Montreal, Sept. 18—Mr. Justice Loranger rendered judgment today on the demand of habeas corpus made by Mr. Lighthall, on behalf of Joe Chew and other Chinese immigrants, who claimed that they were illegally detained as prisoners by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

The company contended that the plaintiffs had no right to the exemption privileges conceded by law concerning the immigration of Chinese. The plaintiffs having said they possessed the necessary qualifications entered the United States of America; the C.P.R. transported them from Hong Kong to Vancouver, thence to Richford, from which place the American authorities rejected them. The company then decided to send them back to China.

When the company was about to do this a demand of habeas corpus was produced against it. The company contended the Chinese were here in transit, and had not conformed to the conditions under which they might remain in Canada. The plaintiffs replied that they had chosen Lacolle as a port of exit, and not Richford, but that the company had taken them to the latter place.

The court decided that the port of exit need not necessarily be chosen by the plaintiffs. Moreover, when they had asked to be taken to Lacolle they had already been refused to Richford, before that they had no choice; and in any case it was Mr. Schell, inspector of Chinese immigration, who had refused the entry, and the company had no right to discuss his decision, which could only be appealed after having been referred to the American authorities.

The company had no alternative but to return the Chinese; it was obliged to do so. The request was therefore [illegible]

DROPPED DEAD

Sudden Call Came to Little Five Year Old Child

—Montreal, Sept. 18—Meline Lachapelle, 5 years of age, who resided with her parents at 423 Craig street, dropped dead last evening while playing around the feet of her father and mother.

The case is considered by medical experts to be one of the most remarkable that ever occurred in the city, and Dr. T. Trudeau, who was called in, was unable to assign any cause of death.

Two or three years ago the dead child suffered from the effects of a sore throat, but it is not thought that that had anything whatever to do with her untimely end.

The matter was reported to Coroner McMahon and after a careful investigation the cause of death was not ascertained.

The Coroner, however, disposed of the case, "as it was fully established that no crime had been committed." Dr. Duncan McTaggart, medical expert, when seen today by a representative regarding the matter said that the cause of death might be due to heart failure or some internal displacement. The doctor remarked that the case was a strange one, as the little girl was laughing and playing, and without any warning fell dead on the floor. "Usually in cases of sudden death," he said, "there is some little struggle before the end comes."

THE WESTERN STORM

A More Hopeful View of the Crop Situation

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 17.—The situation in the wheat belt is unchanged. Telegraphic communication has just been opened a little west of Brandon but the evidence of travelers is rather to the effect that the heavy grain districts in the Territories from Moosomin to Moose Jaw did not have a bad storm.

Mr. S. A. McGaw of Goderich Mill, formerly western manager of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, came in from Brandon to-day and is inclined to take a hopeful view of the situation. He opened some stacks and found them dry inside. He thinks that with good weather the damage will be confined to the loss of one or two grades.

Mr. G. H. Shaw, traffic manager of the Canadian Northern, also thinks that the first reports of damage were over estimated, so far as the country along their line is concerned.

Eighty-five head of cattle perished in Whitewater Lake during the storm on Saturday. They were driven by the gale to the shore, and, becoming entangled in the mud and weeds, [illegible]

CORN AND COTTON RUINED.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 17 — Reports from fifty of the seventy counties in the corn belt of Nebraska, received by the World-Herald up to midnight indicate that frost was general in the State last night. In many localities it is killing; in others, light. Crop bureau estimates place the damage to corn at 25 per cent.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 17. — Reports from the southern and southwestern portion of the State indicate that torrential rains have fallen there, and the damage to cotton is great and widespread. The country is flooded, overflowing and damaging railroads and country roads, beside the injury to crops.

STORM REACHES PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Sept. 17.—A severe storm from the Gulf region reached this city about 5.30 o'clock this morning. The rain fell in torrents and was driven by a 38-mile gale, but by 8 o'clock the velocity of the wind had reached to 24 miles an hour. Up to 8 a.m. one-tenth of an inch of rain had fallen. The temperature at that hour was 77 degrees, rendering the atmosphere oppressive. The telegraph and telephone service is badly crippled and there is no communication with Atlantic City. Passengers arriving from Atlantic City say the storm there was very severe, and that the wind unroofed in the neighborhood of fifty houses and cottage. A. G. McCausland, superintendent of Atlantic City Railroad, arrived from Cape May at 9 o'clock, and reported that the fury of the storm there was unprecedented. A bank building was unroofed, the Queen Anne railroad pier was partly destroyed, and a number of cottages were damaged. All telegraph wires to the coast are down, and some suburban trolley lines are idle because of prostrated wires.

WAS IS NOW ON, LABOR vs CAPITAL

Intolerable Condition of Affairs in Chicago.

TROUBLES IN STORE

Believed by Many That a Revolution is Close at Hand in the United States

Chicago, Sept. 18—There is a growing feeling that nothing short of a revolution will be the outcome between capital and labor in the United States. As an instance of how strained the relations have become, the Chronicle of this city prints the following:

"It is announced that the Associated Building Trades organization of Chicago has decided to do no more work on the Wendell Phillips school building unless the sheet metal work done on the structure by E. A. Rydser & Co., is torn out and thrown away.

That organization has also decided that the union men of the building trades shall not work on the new John Lane school if the contract for the sheet metal work on that building is awarded to the Rydson company.

This high and mighty organization has served notice on the board of education to this effect. That is to say, an association of strike societies has notified a branch of the city government [illegible] must obey the orders issued by that association, or work on public buildings will be stopped. The notification implies, of course, that the usual slugging and rioting methods will be employed if the city government does not obey the orders of the strike societies.

The association threatens the city government with dire consequences if it refuses to join the strike conspirators in their attempt to ruin a firm, which for some reason has incurred their ill will. The intolerable insolence of the threat addressed to the city of Chicago appears in a glaring light when it is stated that the strike societies are attempting to wreck vengeance upon the Rydson company for seeking through the courts redress for injuries done it by those societies. In order to assert and establish their own irresponsibility and their exemption from the consequences of their lawless acts they assume to exercise an authority superior to that of the city of Chicago.

But that is merely an incident aggravating the offence. The essential thing is that an organization having no lawful authority whatever, a purely voluntary organization claiming to be irresponsible for the consequences of its acts, has the colossal insolence to issue its orders to the city government, the authority of which is unquestioned, and to back up its orders with threats.

Of course, it is not for the board of education to think for one instant of obeying the orders of the strike bosses or of turning aside one hair's breadth from its course in the fulfillment of an existing contract or the awarding of a new one because of any threat from any association of strike societies, much less in furtherance of any vindicative purposes that association may cherish towards anybody with whom the board has made or wishes to make a contract.

Here is a good place to find out whether the city of Chicago is and is to be governed by its government and created and established under the constitution and laws of Illinois or by the bosses of an irresponsible aggregation of a lot of irresponsible trade guilds having no lawful authority of any kind.

The frost is on the pumpkin. Later on the frost will be on the political candidates.

CANADIAN PACIFIC ENTERS CONTINENT

London Fleet to Call at Antwerp After St. Lawrence Season

FOUR SHIPS ON THE ROUTE

Will Take Freight Between London and Antwerp as Well as St. John N. B.

London, Sept. 18—The Canadian Pacific's new steamship departure on the continent is anticipated with keen interest. Upon the close of the St. Lawrence navigation, the company's London fleet, namely, the Montreal, Montezuma, Mount Royal and Milwaukee will extend their operations to Antwerp, securing freights between London and Antwerp, as well as between St. John, London and Antwerp. They will in summer proceed also to Quebec and Montreal.

This departure is especially interesting as indicating how far reaching the Canadian Pacific means to be in securing a paying business, and also how determined the Canadian Pacific is to gain abroad a footing in the steamship world, despite the Morgan trust and other hostile combinations

Will Meet Parliament

London, Sept. 18— The Times thinks there is no doubt that Premier Balfour will meet Parliament and defend the policy embodied in his pamphlet. Even should there be, as rumored, one or two Ministerial [illegible] was unlikely that there would arise any question of the resignation of the Government, or an appeal to the country.

THE INDUSTRIAL FAIR

Entries of Exhibits Now Coming in Very Fast

The outlook for the approaching fair never was better. Entries are coming in rapidly as well as enquiries from intending exhibitors. The fact that fees are required from those who enter live stock will not make for reduction in the list, but on the other hand it is apparent that if anything, it will be larger, and that the exhibits will be of the finest. Mr. Green would advise market gardeners and all others whose display will find place in the main building to make their entries as soon as possible before Saturday night. In former years these people have refrained from handing in their lists until late in the evening of the last day in the week and thus have crowded a great amount of work into a couple of hours. Everything does to indicate that the Industrial will be a success.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Charlotte Street Hold Their Annual Meeting

The ladies of Charlotte st. auxiliary of the W.M.S. held their annual business meeting on Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance and the reports were very encouraging, both membership and funds being an increase over last year.

Pres.—Mrs. J. Kilgour.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. W. J. Joliffe
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Campbell.
Rec.-Sec.—Mrs. A. O Adam
Corres.-Sec.—Mrs. Lightfoot.
Treasurer—Mrs. T. A. Allum.
Programme Com.—Mesdames Cunningham (Dr.) Jeffs and Lightfoot.

ACTION TO BE TAKEN

Opponents of Lighting Contract to Appeal to Courts

The Times was yesterday informed that as soon as the by-law is passed by the Council granting a ten years' contract for the lighting of the streets to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, legal action will be taken to set the contract aside. This is what The Times has all along predicted would happen.

Harvest Festival Tonight

The annual Harvest Festival service will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, at All Saints' church. The Rev. Chas. J. James, M.A., of Toronto, will preach. Special festival music will be rendered. The church is being decorated for the occasion by the ladies of the congregation. It is specially requested that flowers and vegetables be sent in before three o'clock this afternoon.

Far East Mails Via Canada

London, Sept. 18—A prominent city merchant doing a large trade with China and Japan, says that something ought to be done to secure the carrying of the mails between Britain, China, Japan via Vancouver. With fast steamers on the Atlantic and quicker trains, that route would have the chance to compete with trans-Siberian, which at present is the quick-

MARRIED AT FORT ROUGE

Nuptials of Mr. C. H. Bradburn and Miss Marion C. Sherwood

The following paragraph from the Manitoba Free Press will be of interest to the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bradburn in Peterborough.

"A quiet and pretty wedding took place at four o'clock on Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mr. H. W. Whitla, Fort Rouge, when Miss Marion Carnegie Sherwood, youngest daughter of the late William E. Sherwood, of Peterborough, Ont., was united in marriage with Mr. Charles Herbert Bradburn, barrister, of Battleford, eldest son of T. Evans Bradburn, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. B. Smith, M.A., rector of All Saints. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. The happy couple will take up their residence at Battleford, N.W.T. Miss Sherwood was one of the most popular young ladies in Peterborough and possesses marked ability as a vocalist. Mr. Bradburn is a rising young lawyer, having practiced a number of years in Peterborough.

WEDDING BELLS

A Pretty Home Wedding Celebrated in Otonabee

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized on Wednesday last at the residence of Mr. John Ambrose, Otonabee, the father of the bride, when his daughter, Miss Jane, was united in marriage to Mr. William Clemence, of Niagara Falls, New York. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, B.C.L. The bridesmaid was Miss May Donnel, of Peterborough, and the groomsman, Mr. C. R. Robertson, of Boston. Many valuable presents were received by the bride, who is one of Otonabee's most popular young ladies.

The ceremony took place at one o'clock and after the wedding breakfast was served the happy young couple left on the 5.10 C.P.R. train for western points.

A LABOR OF LOVE

Work of the Children's Aid Society in Town

Mr. George Cochrane, agent of the Children's Aid Society, has been investigating some cases which came under the notice of the society. The three Mowry children have again been taken from their parents and placed in the shelter, where they will remain until homes can be found for them. As this is the third time the children have been taken from their home, it is proposed to place them in good homes where they will remain. Another case is where two boys, whom their parents can't control, have been handed over to the society.

Moors Kill Frenchmen

Algiers, Algeria, Sept. 18—An unconfirmed despatch from Ain Sefra—a small oasis 152 miles from Tlemcen—says a French convoy under Major Bucheuit, escorted by sharpshooters, was attacked recently in the vicinity of Beniabbes, and that Bucheuit and thirteen men were killed.

BULGARIA MOBOLIZES HER ENTIRE MILITIA

PRINCE FERDINAND TO TAKE FULL COMMAND

Note Asking Intervention of the Great Powers Does Not Meet With an Answer

Sofia, Sept. 18—Twenty thousand Bulgarian reserves belonging to three divisions on the Turkish frontier have been called to the colors. This action is believed to presage war with Turkey, though the declaration will probably be withheld pending the return to the capital of Prince Ferdinand and a reply from the powers or some intimation from them in response to Bulgaria's note. Prince Ferdinand will return tomorrow.

The air is filled with rumors of mobilization. It is alleged that the three first divisions of the army, having centers at Sofia, Philippopolis and Slivnac, have been called out. In official quarters, however, it is declared that the only step actually decided on is the summoning to colors of the first three divisions that retired from the army during the last three years.

Await Replies from Powers.

It is expected that a week will suffice to enable the ministry to judge of the extent to which its final appeal to the powers is likely to prove successful. Doubts are expressed in diplomatic circles whether the Bulgarian note will bring any decisive results, but there is every disposition to recognize the sincerity of the ministry's attitude and its complete justification for issuing such a document in view of the immense forces that Turkey is gathering in threatening proximity to the Bulgarian frontier.

It is said the porte has protested to Austria against Austrian and Hungarian firms being allowed to furnish the Bulgarian government with cartridges at the present time.

Turks Kill Greek Monks.

More fighting is reported from the vilayet of Monastir. A large body of troops sent to the Polister mountains to disperse the bands concealed there was attacked by the insurgents and suffered heavy losses from bombs. The Turks also lost many men in a fight near the monastery of Kamikia at Okrida. A detachment of Turkish troops went to the Greek monastery of Barcabani, near Monastir, to seek a number of revolutionists supposed to be hiding in the building, and finding none there, set fire to the monastery and killed the servants and women.

At Konskigiavis, near Bomengrad, a body of Turkish infantry and cavalry accompanied by a mountain battery, fought a three-hour engagement with a number of insurgents. The Turks had thirty killed and many wounded.

General Revolt in Salonica.

Salonica, Sept. 17—A general insurrection in the vilayet of Salonica east of the Vardar river is announced to have begun yesterday. The region is divided into eight districts each commander by a Bulgarian officer, General Zontcheff, president of the Macedonian committee, is the commander in chief.

A band of 120 insurgents posted at Baroritza killed thirty Turks in a recent engagement and retired to the mountains without sustaining any losses.

Christiania, Sept. 18—As a result of a fire in some business premises on Kongens Gade today eleven persons were burned to death and great damage was done.

Can You

Cut-Out

the "Yellow"

Streak?

All got one, you know. Some small, some large. The more "yellow" in your make-up, the less yellow gold in your character and pocket-book.

Is your yellow streak the coffee habit? Does it reduce your working force, kill your energy, push you into the big crowd of mongrels, deaden what thoroughbred blood you may have, and neutralize all your efforts to make money and fame?

It does that very thing for thousands who don't suspect it. Languid, half sick, stomach and bowel troubles, heart weak and hardly half alive, you cannot succeed under such fearful handicaps nowadays, when the world only yields the crown for the best efforts of keen people.

Try leaving off coffee for 10 days. Build back to a clean, clear-cut mind and healthy body by Postum Coffee. That's the true route to health, and with bounding exuberant health you acquire "energy plus."

Then, to "do things" is easy.

There's a Reason.

Have a try.

NOTE.—Postum is only good to the taste when well boiled. Then it is prime and toothsome.

PETERBOROUGH, SEPTEMBER 18, 1903

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

The Renfrew Mercury continues its interesting series of articles dealing with municipal ownership in the smaller towns of Ontario. The latest contribution is a sketch of conditions in Port Arthur, written by Mr. F. B. Allen, editor of the Evening Chronicle of that town. Port Arthur has pushed municipal ownership further than is usually the case in Ontario, the town owning a street railway system, a telephone service, an electric lighting plant and the means of developing a considerable quantity of electric power. It is also installing water works and a sewage system. The street railway is seven miles long, and connects the town with Fort William and West Fort William. An extension of a mile and a half has been authorized to a large park which has recently been acquired. The original investment was $115,000 and the railway is now paying.

The earnings last July were rather over $4,000 and the operating expenditure during May last (the last month for which figures are available) were less than $1,750. To operate the cars the municipality has erected works on Current River, which give 750 horse power, and an amount which can be increased to 1,000 horse power. The Canadian Northern has asked the town to quote a rate for a large quantity of power for use in its elevators. Some energy is sold at $25 a horse power per year.

The town owns its lighting plant, which has cost about $65,000, and is installing a waterworks system which will cost about $160,000. The water will be pumped from Lake Superior. Sewers will be laid concurrently, at a cost of over $80,000. The taxes at present are 15 mills on the dollar. The people feel that while they have invested considerable sums, they have value. They also feel that they will profit by any increase in profits. They expect ultimately to have "the lowest rate of any town in Canada."

THE SALVATION ARMY

The tribute paid by the Minister of Justice in the House of Commons to the work of the Salvation Army is creditable to that gentleman's head and heart.

Mr. Fitzpatrick stated that the Army has prison gate missions which ascertain by enquiry from the department the dates upon which convicts are to be released from penitentiaries. The prisoners are met at the gate and are given lodgings and employment. The Minister added that the army had never made any application to the department for financial assistance.

A released prisoner is probably as great an object of pity as the world affords. He is free, but the stain of his crime is almost indelible. In this most pitiable condition the Salvation Army takes him up, feeds and clothes him, and finds him employment; gives him another chance, and does its best to restore him to the manhood he has forfeited.

The act is Christlike, and is personal to him, for "inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, My brethren, ye have done it unto me."

A Life-Saving Kite.

Of late years the kite has emerged from the position of a mere toy, and has been successfully employed for meteorological observations at high altitudes. A more recent application of the kite principle is as a life-saving appliance, to be carried on shipboard, its particular duty being to establish communication between a stranded vessel and the adjacent shore. It stands to reason that a ship in this position generally has the assistance of the wind in carrying anything shoreward, and it would be far easier to launch a kite under such conditions than it would be to fire a rocket in the reverse direction. The kite carries a guide-rope, and contains in a pocket a set of signals and instructions. It is also furnished with apparatus for telephonic communication between the crew and their would-be rescuers. But we must confess that, seeing the frequent difficulty of telephonic conversation ashore in a quiet office, we can hardly believe that it would be possible in a howling tempest. The kite is the invention of the Comte Brossard, and it is said to have been tried with success at Toulon and at Brest.—"Chambers' Journal."

Evidence is Conflicting

London, Sept. 16.—Truth, in a lengthy article on "Labor as an Export," says: "It would be extremely interesting to know the real truth as to the openings for emigrants, otherwise than farming, that at present exists in Canada. The Canadian Government is doing its best not merely to import farmers, but workers of all classes, and the labor organizations resist this policy." Truth quotes two Toronto letters as showing that a direct conflict of evidence and opinion prevails on the subject. Truth compares the cost of living in Canada and England as a warning to the British emigrant who is tempted to emigrate to Canada. The article includes: "Even Imperialists must see the futility of an gration process when settlers transported to Canada for the purpose of increasing the number of our brethren across the seas drift in the course of a year or two into the United States."

Shot His Little Brother

Sydney, N.S., Sept. 17—Two little boys aged 4 and 2, children of John Young, went into their father's room yesterday and in a bureau drawer the elder found a loaded revolver, with which he shot his little brother in the head. The child is not expected to live.

FERROZONE

Furnishes in a convenient form, a Tonic-Laxative which cures Constipation and a host of other disease, more or less common

The entire length of the intestinal canal can be gently and thoroughly cleansed of all foul decaying matter, by taking Ferrozone after each meal.

Ferrozone helps the kidneys and liver to their work, and by preventing the pores of the skin from being clogged up, it clears and beautifies the complexion. Ferrozone relieves irritation and pressure on the tissues of the brain and nerve centres, and insures a healthy vigorous condition of mind and body.

The great merit of Ferrozone is that it instantly relieves constipation, and permanently cures it without interference with business or pleasure, and never causes inconvenience or distress. It keeps all the bodily functions regular, and is the only medicine for constipation that acts gently, acts quickly, acts surely, without grip or gripe.

Ferrozone will keep the entire family in perfect health. It regulates the bowels, cures headache and stomach troubles, and effectually cleanses the blood from all impurities. It builds up muscle and sinew, strengthens debilitated constitutions, and permanently remedies all manner of skin blemishes.

Ferrozone is especially efficacious in cases of over-work, headache, brain fag, torpid liver, weak memory, and [illegible]. It relieves that "tired feeling," and puts elasticity into every movement. Ferrozone gives strength to the regenerative organs, and for the relief of nervous prostration, nervous debility, or decline of mental or physical power, is certainly superior to any curative agent the world has ever seen.

The range of adaptability of Ferrozone is simply wonderful. It is entirely vegetable in composition, and quite free from any possibility of injurious effects even under long continued use. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet, and no uncertainty or mistake as to the proper quantity or dose can ever arise.

Ferrozone is recommended and sold by all druggists, price 50 cts. a box, or three boxes for $1.25. Remember the name and see that the genuine Ferrozone is supplied. Refuse a substitute. Sent safely by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co. Kingston, Ont.

—The funeral of the late Mrs. Archibald Weir, of Ashburnham, took place here on Monday and was largely attended. The deceased lady was 81 years of age and was highly respected by all who knew her.

—A horse belonging to Dr. Harrison ran away on Sunday and badly damaged the buggy. It was tied in front of Mrs. Pue's house and took fright at some hogs. It ran out through the gate, and striking the post upset the buggy. It got loose from the rig and ran to Keene, where it was caught. Fortunately, there was nobody in the buggy at the time.

—Mr. James Kane, one of the oldest residents of Keene passed peacefully away on Thursday last. The deceased had been ailing all summer, but was able to move about every day, and death came to him while sleeping. The late Mr. Kane was a native of Ireland and came to Canada in the early days and engaged in school teaching. His wife predeceased him about four years ago. Four children, three daughters, and one son, survive him. The funeral took place on Friday to the Pine Grove Cemetery.

Ingenuous.

Sada Yacco is a charming Japanese actress, who is not only professionally delightful, but in private life says exactly what she thinks in a way which offends nobody. The following incident is an amusing sample of her naivete: During her stay in Paris she was honored by a request to appear at a private entertainment given by M. Loubet. Every one was delighted with her recitations, and the President brought out and presented to her a rare and valuable Sevres vase. The little lady gazed at him with that beaming and child-like smile only to be attained by the Japanese. "Very sorry," said she, in her soft broken French. "Very sorry. Not take vase to Japan. Too far. Get broken. Take money. Very sorry." The onlookers gasped, but Sada Yacco still beamed on the President. She was serenely unconscious of having done anything out of the ordinary way. But she got her money, and offended nobody.

His Brother at the University

A small urchin picked up by the Melbourne police, a few days since, stated, in reply to the usual questions put to lost infants, that he had a brother at the university. His own unkempt appearance scarcely seemed to corroborate the assertion, so the matter was pressed.

"What part of the university?" he was asked.

"The Medical School," glibly replied the kid. The police looked at one another. Then it occurred to a constable that the relative might be a sweeper-out, or something of the sort.

"What does he do there?" he demanded.

A SEPTEMBER HOLIDAY

Peterborough Industrial Exhibition

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY

SEPTEMBER 22 to 24

Owing to the liberal and substantial subscriptions made by Peterborough citizens, the Directors of the Exhibition Association have been enabled to have the Prize List thoroughly revised, and the amounts offered as Prizes largely increased, particularly in the lines of Horses, Cattle, Sheep and Swine.

The advance in many cases equals from 100 to 300 per cent. It is expected that the enterprise shown in this respect will ensure an active competition in all classes of Farm Stock.

Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. R. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 14, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommend him from the bottom of my heart."

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500.00, and to the five next nearest $100.00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the estimate is in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to help us [illegible] felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write them [illegible] plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $5.00 per day while here, so nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA., PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

COPETE MINING Co.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar —Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

After securing their arms and lanterns, they set out for the old house. On arriving, they found the door locked, the workmen having been there, taken away their tools, and closed the house. They consulted together a few moments in whispers. Then they got their arms ready, lighted the lanterns, and Anthony Saybrook applied the key, opened the door, and the two adventurous investigators stepped into the old hall.

For a moment all was dark and gloomy, and they peered cautiously and suspiciously about. Not a sound was to be heard. The feeble light of the lanterns scarcely sufficed to dispel the shadows that hung about the dusky old hall The long perspective faded into darkness; the doors leading off to adjoining rooms seemed to glower blackly at them; the tall climbing staircase, with its heavy balustrades, showed spectral and ghostlike; in short, there was an air of gloomy mysteriousness about the dusky surroundings that greeted the two adventurous investigators of the mystery that had so long been the subject of legend and unquestioned faith.

"Ugh! Ralph," said the elder Saybrook, "this old, gloomy hall strikes a chill to my veins. I don't wonder that people get ghost-frightened on coming in here. It is high time the old house was put in order, and the light and air allowed to enter and banish this ghostly gloom. One's voice sounds unearthly in here. Ah, here is where the masons have been at work. Pity they couldn't have kept at it. A coat of good white over this old brown wall would have lightened this gloomy aspect and afforded us a more cheerful reception. Now, which way shall we turn—upstairs or down? I suppose the proper place to investigate is down in the basement and cellars; but, before doing so, suppose we take a turn about up here and view our future domicile.

Acting on this suggestion, they proceeded up the stairs, and, passing from room to room, chatted cheerfully on the subject of the peculiarities of the rooms and the improvements that could be made in them. But there was little to attract them long in the bare, unfurnished floors, and they proceeded down stairs again and wandered through the rooms leading off from the old hall. Here there was much to interest them in the quaint and massive furniture, the once rich but faded decorations, and the many evidences of former grandeur and taste surrounding them. Ere long they found themselves in the room that had been occupied by the late mistress of Rolff House, and in which she had died. While examining this room, the keen glance of Anthony Saybrook detected a small door that was set in the dark wainscoting, and which appeared as if it might be a closet. Opening it casually, he was surprised to discover a staircase, which evidently led down to the basement.

"Ah, Ralph," he said, "here is a discovery. This seems to be a secret staircase, and perhaps it is just the clue we want. It leads down stairs, and, as we are about ready to go below, suppose we see where this will take us to."

By this time, the two men had recovered from any feelings of nervousness felt on first entering the house. The dead silence reigning everywhere had convinced them that there was nobody in the house, and the trip up stairs had been taken by the shrewd but not over-courageous lawyer to give ample time to any individual, if he were secreted in the house, to get out of the way. But they had ceased to have any expectations of meeting anybody, and the discovery of the secret stairway had simply awakened curiosity.

Nevertheless, before entering it, they trimmed their lanterns, and looked again to their arms. Anthony Saybrook then proceeded ahead, carefully holding his lantern so as to throw its beams forward as he slowly picked his way down the narrow stairs.

Arriving at the bottom, they found that the stairs led into a long, narrow, dark hallway. They stopped and peered carefully ahead, and the quick eye of Anthony Saybrook discerned what seemed to him the faint, struggling gleam of a ray of light piercing the darkness from the key-hole of some door.

He stopped, and whispered to Ralph his suspicion. They closed the slides of their lanterns, leaving the hallway in darkness; and then the surmise of the lawyer became a reality. There was certainly a door-way ahead, and rays of light gleamed from within.

"It may be sunlight," whispered the lawyer, "which finds its way in through some chink or window. We must examine into it, Ralph. Keep close up to me, and have your pistols ready."

Thus prepared, they proceeded cautiously forward toward the door. The lawyer placed his hand on the latch, lifted it, and pushed the door open before him. A sight was presented that caused the two intruders to start back in consternation.

The door opened into a large room. The bare stone-walls were unplastered; the beams overhead were unlathed, and hung with cobwebs. The floor was of rough boards; and no window admitted a single ray of sunlight. At a tall, old-fashioned secretary in one corner of the room there sat the figure of a tall man, clothed in a dark robe that entirely covered his figure. Two candles burned on the secretary, and from these proceeded the rays of light that had shown through the door. The desk of the secretary was covered with papers.

The door had scarcely ceased creaking on its rusty hinges, and a single glance shown this picture to the two astonished gazers, when the figure at the secretary arose. It was the sudden spectacle of his strange appearance that caused the intruders to start back in horror.

The figure was that of a tall, very venerable man. He was shrouded from shoulders to feet in a long black robe. A small, close-fitting black cap was upon his head, from underneath which escaped snowy white locks. His face was smooth-shaven, and large, piercing eyes looked out from underneath shaggy white eyebrows. The expression of his countenance was dignified and majestic as he gazed sternly at the intruders.

For a moment, the two men stood huddled together in the narrow hallway, in the full light issuing through the door. Sudden surprise had deprived them of all power to act in so unexpected an emergency. They could only gaze as if petrified at the majestic and apparently unearthly figure before them.

Raising an arm, and pointing a long, skinny finger at them, the strange personage spoke:

"Who are you that intrude uninvited on my sacred privacy? Begone, ere it prove the worse for you."

Anthony Saybrook strove to speak, but no words came from his chattering teeth. The gloomy, strange surroundings, and the sudden aspect of this strange figure, had deprived him suddenly of all courage whatever. He felt frozen with fear, as if in the presence of a spirit from the nether world.

Again the figure warned them away with a majestic and almost threatening gesture.

Neither of the men could resist the inclination to flee. They hurried through the hall and up the stairs, nor did they pause till, pale and panting, they were a half-a-dozen rods from the house.

"Don't ask me," replied Ralph.

"It's a mystery beyond my fathoming," said the lawyer.

"I expected to be annihilated on the spot," exclaimed Ralph.

"I, too," responded the father. "It's a most incomprehensible mystery. What shall we do?"

"Go home," responded Ralph.

"And Rolff House?"

"Leave it to the devil and old Rolff's ghost," replied Ralph; "I've had enough of it."

"Ralph, a suggestion strikes me," said the lawyer.

"What is it."

"I will tell you when we get home. I must have time to collect my thoughts."

"I need light," said Ralph. "The whole thing is an impenetrable mystery to me. If that was not old Rolff's ghost, who was it?"

"Ah, there's the point, Ralph. It was no ghost. I'd rather it were. There's work for our wits now, and all that we will want. Let us go home."

They made all haste to reach their domicile.

No sooner did they enter the house than Anthony Saybrook proceeded to

From a Self-Made Mother to a Home-Made Daughter.

"Dear Gertrude—Now that you are out of finishing school, I shall expect great things from you. Don't think of getting married yet. At present do not bother about how much money a man has. What you are after is experience, and oftentimes you can get it better from the poor than from the rich. Later you can discriminate. When any money is spent on you, however, never fail to be appreciative. It's a fatal mistake to allow a man with money to know how much of a fool he is making of himself. Above all things, say your prayers every night. It's a good sedative, and you need sleep at your age. Your affectionate

"Mother."

"Dear Gertrude—I am glad you are visiting in New York. Everyone should go to New York occasionally to acquire the proper nervous pitch. But I want you to remember that just because you are moving around in good society you mustn't drift too much with the current. You've got to work for a living just the same as all the rest, and it's going to depend altogether on yourself whether you get the right one to work or not. If I hadn't known that your father, when I first met him in Pittsburg, was the right man to work for a living, I might have been a cloak model to-day. So keep your eyes open and learn all you can. I want you to draw a prize in the marriage lottery, but to do that you must sit up nights. Your affectionate

"Mother."

"Dear Gertrude—I've just been reading what you have written about late suppers and a midnight tete-a-tete, and this is only a word of warning. Go slow! Remember that health and beauty are the same in all languages, and you can't make your husband walk a chalk-mark with a ruined digestion. By all means have a flirtation if you can, but have it in business hours. Don't be afraid to wreck any young man's life. If he's poor, it may be the means of making him a future; and if he's rich, it doesn't matter anyway. Your affectionate

"Mother."

"Dear Gertrude—The announcement of your engagement was telegraphed on to the papers here, and I read it this morning before your letter came. It's all right as long as you don't marry him But remember that one engagement does not make a winter in town. Do not let him monopolize you too much, however. You must fit yourself for married life as early as possible, and early habits count. I enclose a check for a thousand. Buy a brooch with it. Your affectionate

"Mother."

Dear Gertrude—Have you found out how much he is really worth—not what the papers say? This is important When I married your father he didn't have a cent. But I had faith in him. Nowadays, however, it is not faith, but cash, that counts. You will find it a difficult matter to guess accurately, but here are a few rules: If he talks big and spends little, look out. If he spends big and talks little, beware. He's unbalanced. If he lets you do all the ordering, don't trust him. He's not good business. If he spends one day and doesn't the next, break off the engagement at once. He's a gambler. But if he spends steadily, silently, unconsciously all the time and pays taxes on at least two million dollars (see papers) he's all right. Your affectionate Mother."

Honest Speculation

There has never been a period in the history of the world when wealth could be acquired any other way than by conservative speculation.

Speculation is the world's financial pivot. Without it man would relax into the mental indifference of savages, and governments would decay.

It is the ruling force of the world. It absorbs the attention of the greatest minds, the keenest intellects. It is the line of demarcation between the listless, phlegmatic man, and the alert, progressive, ambitious man.

Are you going to speculate with a little surplus cash?

A ground floor opportunity is in every enterprise, and it is the ground floor investor who reaps the greatest benefits.

More honest millions come from mining than from any other pursuit. When mining is followed with energy, honesty and economy, it is as certain and honest as banking and more profitable. The banker makes his money off the earnings of others. The miner is an original producer and adds to the wealth of the world. Get a mine Give it honest and economical management and success is assured. That the number of dividend paying mining companies is larger than all other combined industries, is fully sustained by statistics. That mining produces greater and quicker profits than any other industrial pursuit, is evidenced by the score of multi-millionaires. That there are risks in mining as well as in all other business pursuits, is well known to all reasonable minds, but the immense fortune of the Mackays, the Fairs, the Fields, the Shurons, the Baldwins, the Clarks and hundreds of others, are due to mining, cannot be denied. W. C. Greene was a poor man four years ago. To-day he is worth $50,000,000. Each producing mine in Sonora was only an uncertain prospect a few years ago, and stock in the different companies developing them sold at from $1.00 par value down to five cents per share, and now cannot be bought at any price in many cases, and in others, away above par.

There are many persons who assert that there is nothing in it for the average investor and that it does not pay to invest small sums in stock. Let such persons ask themselves what returns they can hope to get through banks or real estate speculations, for sums of under $100.00, and then consider the following:—

Two years ago $100.00 invested in the Greene Consolidated stock at $1.00 a share is now worth $8,700.

The New York Engineering Journal gives a list of 237 dividend paying mines, of which shares are at a premium, and in all of which the first cost of the shares was away below par. Many fortunes made by mining investments of small amounts can be recited.

Mallory, of Spokane, bought one-third interest in the Flagstaff for $20, which is now paying $100,000 yearly.

The Union sold for $1,000, afterwards paid several hundred thousand in dividends and sold for $1,000,000.

The Red Boy owners borrowed money to freight a car load of ore and now pay $50,000 monthly.

Nor does it require immensely rich ore for successful mining—The Home Stake in the Black Hills cannot be bought at any price. Ore mills only $2 25 per ton. It works 15,000 men. 5 000 men go down 1,000 feet or more, and 5,000 come up every eight hours.

No mining proposition has ever failed on a developed deposit of good value and honest management. Respectfully submitted,

HIDALGO MINING COMPANY

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 29th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 14 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 412 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough, 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.25.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $500 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD —— $80,000,000 —— GOLD
If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.
OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 450 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 200,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividend whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission.

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 28 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $54.30 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 par share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file of investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 17—There was more or less irregularity in the stock market today, though there were firm spots and shorts at times displayed considerable irregularity. The crop news was less seriously regarded and traders were more inclined to accept the optimistic expressions of traffic officials the country over as representing the true status of business conditions.

There were favorable railroad statements at hand and it was stated in many instances that the railroad earnings on an average will continue to increase for an indefinite period of time to come. United States steel common made a new low record and this development served to affect the general market favorably, inasmuch as there were good sales of the profit taking sort on the lower levels. The late trade was fairly active and was well distributed there being a fair proportion of business from the outside through commission houses. On the close there was a mixed opinion. The market for outside stocks was steady but the demand was light. Bonds were rather dull and irregular.

In consequence of the peculiar actions in the stock market during the past few days there is a rather mixed and uncertain feeling at the moment and the expressions of leading interests are still rather conflicting. The crop situation appears to have turned at a time when all of the dangers resulting from unfavorable climate conditions were supposed to have been passed. Under the circumstances it is only natural that conservative speculative interests should hold off pending a clearer conception of the extent of the damage done in the corn and spring wheat belt. It is believed that there has been a good deal of damage in the corn belt but whether or not the damage is of the irreparable type but this phase depends largely upon the exact state of the crops when the frosts come. Railroad officials are not dismayed over the bad turn in the weather conditions. In fact they continue quite enthusiastic as to the outlook for business and the leading systems are confident that the traffic returns will continue to increase for a number of months to come. The money market position is still the subject of much comment, but leading bankers are not inclined to talk very much on the subject. The preliminary movements thus far this week are not of the most encouraging and it is likely that there will be some poor averages in the bank statements Saturday. Professional interests will in all probability continue in control of the general speculative situation for some days to come and feverish fluctuations are likely.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—

There was a rather irregular market for various cereals Thursday. The whole market fluctuated nervously and sentiment throughout the day was quite mixed. The cash business was slow and the general movement was up to the expectations, the country offerings being of goodly proportions. The advices from the northwest were mixed and while houses were inclined to express bullish views, others were disposed to feel rather bullish, inasmuch as it was pointed out that the mills hold a great deal of December wheat and will therefore not have to worry as to future supplies. The feeling on the close was rather mixed.

There was considerable profit-taking in evidence in the corn market. The crop news was less serious, but it was generally figured that more or less damage had resulted from recent developments. The prices current summary was surprisingly bearish figuring that the general condition had been maintained during the week. There was some buying on the lower prices, but generally the offerings were ample to meet requirements.

A Londoner was some years ago a visitor in Oxfordshire at a time of terrible drouth, when distress was imminent. At length the welcome rain came—on market day, too. He had been all that day talking with farmers and dining with farmers, and wining with farmers, till he outfarmered any farmer of them all in his joy at the change in the weather. Almost fiercely he refused the loan of an umbrella to shelter him in his transit from the White Horse, where the last drink had taken place, to the Red Lion, where his trap was put up. While going over this course he caught sight of a man crouching in a doorway.

"Wh'ar you doing there?" thundered the citizen, in a voice of authority.

"Trying to keep out of the rain. What d'you suppose?" answered the man.

"What! Don't you know this rain is worth a thousand guineas a second to the country? Come out and let it beat upon you, as I do. Come out and try to grow above yourself. Come out and be a crop!"

Inspired By the Muse.

He was calling on a young lady and had been talking against time for several hours, not noticing that she was, to say the least, slightly wearied.

"Do you know," he said, after completing a monologue of several thousand words, and thinking a little flattery would be appreciated, "while talking to-night, I have felt as if I were inspired by one of the Muses. And which one do you think it is?"

He looked searchingly into her beautiful face. The modest blush for which he was watching proved to be a wide yawn, which grew wider as she answered:

"I guess the Muse that inspires you to-night must be Euterpe."

He didn't really know anything about mythology, so he couldn't tell just what she meant. But when he got home he took down his encyclopaedia, and there in cold type, staring him in the face, he saw:

The Love Cure.

The latest departure in medical treatment, according to an English exchange is "The Love Cure." It appears that certain sensitive natures—perhaps people who are afflicted with inordinate vanity and they are many—wither through the unkindness they meet with in the world. The Love Cure is devised to remedy this. The patients are surrounded with trained nurses who pander to their vanity with assiduity. If the patient is a woman they praise her beauty, her cleverness her taste, they admire her character, and by every conceivable means restore her confidence in herself. Self-confidence is to the things of this world that which Faith is to those of the next; it will "move mountains." The principle upon which the system is based is correct, and no doubt, many could be treated with considerable success.

How to Get a Husband.

A very interesting fete has just taken place at the village of Ecaussines, where the girls, finding that husbands were 'backward in coming forward,' determined to give an international luncheon, to which all marriageable men were invited. Numerous addresses against celibacy were given outside the Town Hall. The loverless girls took their places, each having an empty seat beside her. In time most of the chairs were filled. Many of the men were over forty. After dessert the girls who had found sweethearts danced in the village streets.

brought in on Monday the 20th of July one of the biggest gushers in Sour Lake. It is situated in the Wirt-Davis tract and has been producing oil continuously since it came in, the Spindletop Power Company taking the entire output from the well. Besides owning this gusher the Company owns two other valuable pieces of Oil Land at Sour Lake, and also owns property in Beaumont, Texas where there are two wells. The Company also owns a 12th. interest in 12 acres of Oil Land near Saratoga, with which goes other valuable options.

On the 20th. of August a 5 per cent. dividend will be paid and it is expected that another dividend will be paid the same time in September.

All who purchase the stock prior to September 15th. will participate in the September dividend. The price of the stock is 20 cents per share. No orders accepted for less than 50 shares.

DEAF

FOR THIRTEEN YEARS

Mr. Geo. Warner, publisher of the Masonic Register Toronto was almost totally deaf in both ears for a number of years. He experimented with a thousand different remedies and only got relief by using Catarrhozone and is cured

Mr. Warner says: "For the past thirteen years my hearing has been badly affected. The streets were as as quiet to me as if I lived in the city of the dead. I could neither hear the noise of the street cars or sound of human feet on the pavement. Before I had used Catarrhozone inhaler three days I was able to notice a great change in my condition, which gradually improved until now I can hear a whisper across the room. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate Catarrhozone, or of the wonderful results I have derived from using it. Catarrhozone has my strongest endorsement and I am quite willing that you should use it."

Mr. Warner's unsolicited testimonial furnishes abundant proof that deafness can be cured, even in old age, if Catarrhozone is used. This remedy is scientific in its application and meets with the endorsement of prominent ministers and doctors all over Canada. Our best equipped health institutions always keep it on hand, and cases are recorded where it has been used with great success in the Government deaf and dumb institutions where other means proved futile.

If your hearing is poor, if you have head noises or ringing in the ears, be sure and use Catarrhozone. It is a regular miracle worker and is sure to help you. Complete outfit costs $1; trial size 25 cents. Sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Guard's Band

Bandmaster Glidden of the 57th speaks in the highest terms of the Coldstream Guards' Band which he heard in Toronto last week. He says their playing is magnificent, but the performance overture and Tschaikowsky's "1812 overture" were simply revelations indescribably fine. The public of Peterborough will be delighted to learn that these numbers will form part of the programme to be presented by the Coldstreams at their concert here on Sept. 23rd.

Who Are They?

At the Police Court in Toronto, on Wednesday, two young girls, who gave their names as Mary and Edith Davis, and Peterborough as their home, pleaded guilty to soliciting aid under false pretences, representing themselves as students, just come to the city, whose money had not arrived. Edith said that her sister was innocent. They were charged with having defrauded J. C. Palmer out of $10 under false pretences. They were remanded for one week, to enable the police to make further inquiries. Chief Rossel would be pleased to receive information regarding the girls.

The Street Railway Franchise

Sir,—In the report of the Meeting of the Town Council, I notice that Alderman Morrison, in moving the second reading of the by-law to authorize the execution of the Agreement with the Radial Railway Company stated "When we negotiated "this contract there was no law "that compelled or even allowed us to "submit it to the ratepayers."

I notice that Alderman O'Connell at the same meeting of the Council stated as follows: "In the first place we "had an offer which meant a reduc"tion of some $1400.00 a year for ten "years for street lighting, and if we "chose to accept it the Otonabee Pow"er Company is undoubtedly in a po"sition to give ample security whereby "we will be provided with safeguards in "having the contract carried out. "There can be no doubt that by ac"cepting that offer it will mean $1,"400.00 per year loss. They may call "this a bonus or any other name, but "the fact still remains—— It seems "to me that the Council is taking a "great responsibility upon their "own shoulders in saying to the citi"zens, you must pay $14,000.00 in ten "years, extra for street lighting for "the privilege of the street railway, "and without submitting it to the "people——"

There is no question about it that the Town Council purposes to give the street railway company a bonus of $14,000.00. It does not matter whether this is given through the front door or through the back door. The ratepayers will have to pay it.

It appears that Alderman Morrison is altogether wrong in his law. According to the Municipal Act of 1897 Sec. 600 express provision is made with regard to aid to street railways. According to this section one-fourth of the ratepayers, who are owners of property and who represent at least one-third of the assessed value of the property in Town, may petition the council to aid any street railway, and upon receipt of such petition the Council may submit the question to the ratepayers, and after the assent of a majority of the ratepayers has been obtained in the manner provided by the Municipal Act, the Council may then pass a by-law granting the bonus applied for in the petition. That being the law upon this subject there is no doubt that the present by-law is illegal, and may be set aside on the application of any ratepayer. It seems strange that this provision of the Municipal Act should have escaped the attention of so shrewd a lawyer as Alderman O'Connell.

The Council have not yet passed the by-law affecting the street lighting franchise. They still have the opportunity of setting this right, and avoiding expensive litigation by coming out fairly and squarely before the ratepayers and giving them an opportunity of expressing themselves upon the question as to whether or not a bonus of $14,000.00 should be given to the street railway.

Yours, etc.,
RATEPAYER.

DEATH OF MR. W. G. GREER

A Former Resident of Peterborough Passes Away at Bethel

The Dundalk Herald of Thursday, September 10th, contains the following:—"The Herald last week noted the serious illness of W. G. Greer, of Bethel. This week it is our painful duty to announce his death, which occurred last Thursday. Mr. Greer has been in failing health for the past two years, but it was only a few days before his demise that he was considered dangerously ill. The immediate cause of death was stomach trouble and his illness throughout was borne with Christian patience. His closing hours were peacefully and happy. The deceased was born in Peterborough County and came to Proton twenty-three years old. The funeral on Saturday afternoon to Bethel Cemetery was largely attended and the burial ceremony was conducted by Rev. N. Wellwood. He leaves to mourn his departure a widow, one son, Fred, at home, and two daughters, Lena, at home, and Mrs. Kennedy of Campbellford, Mrs. Reid, of Peterborough, Mrs. Taylor of Otonabee, Mrs. Ball and Miss Jennie Greer, of Peterborough, the four sisters of the deceased, were present at the funeral, as well as Mrs. Walsh, of Millbrook, Mr. Evans, Tiverton, and Chas. Evans, Toronto."

Mrs. Nathan Nicholls, McDonel street, is also a sister of the deceased.

HARVEST FESTIVAL

At St. John's a Pleasing Service—It Was Followed by a Presentation to Miss M. Pratt

The Harvest Festival at St. John's last night was attended by a fair congregation only, due no doubt to the sudden and unpleasant change in the weather. The sacred building had been very tastefully decorated by members of the congregation, under the superintendence of Miss Barlee. The arrangement of the many excellent specimens of fruits, vegetables and grain grown in this district were such as to produce a soft and harmonious blending of color. Extended from pillar to pillar were festoons of oats, the pillars themselves being encircled from top to bottom with grain, with here and there a bunch of green centred by red berries, which gave sufficiency of life to produce a pleasing effect. Each window had its quota of the products of the field, such as miniature sheaths of oats, wheat, barley, rye, etc., forming an appropriate surrounding to splendid specimens, tempting vegetables and luscious fruits. The corners and doorway of the building had not been forgotten, and presented to the view mammoth sheaths of corn, in exemplification of the bountiful harvest in this respect. In fact the decorations were a success in every way, and reflect great credit on the taste and skill of Miss Barlee and her able assistants in Harvest Festival decorating.

The service was of a specially joyous and thankful nature, and was conducted by the Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rector of St. John's, assisted by Rev. W. L. Armitage, of All Saints', and Rev. T. Owen, late of Peterborough, and now connected with St. James' cathedral. The work of the choir, under the direction of Mr. Glidden, and to the accompaniment of his orchestra, was in harmony with the occasion, and would bear repetition. The rendering of an anthem, "Praise the Lord, O, my Soul," in which both the congregation and the choir took separate parts, was an acceptable innovation. The offering was in aid of the North-West Missions. The Rev. T. Owen delivered an eloquent discourse on Christ's feeding the five thousand on five small loaves and two small fishes. The keynote of his sermon was that it is utterly impossible for man, under ordinary circumstances in this hum-drum sphere of life, to be really happy, to rejoice in his heart and give genuine thankfulness for blessings received, unless he realizes that Almighty God has made an extraordinary dispensation to render that which was impossible quite possible. Man's most ordinary opportunities are sufficient to give happiness, with Divine aid, and support. To quote an old proverb: "A live dog is better than a dead lion."

ZEALOUS WORK RECOGNIZED.

At the conclusion of the Festival many of the congregation adjourned to the Guild Room, where Miss Margaret Pratt, who is about to sever her connection with the church, was presented with a handsome silver table service of knives, forks and spoons, in recognition of her many years' faithful and zealous work in the Sunday school, Girls' Guild and King's Daughters. The service was the gift of the congregation, and was presented by Miss Birdie Dawson, Secretary of the Girls' Guild. It was accompanied by a neat and appropriate address by the Rector, who eulogised Miss Pratt as standing in the front rank of the church's army of faithful and zealous workers.

Miss Margaret Pratt is to be married to Mr. Bert Roberts on Tuesday next, at 1.30 o'clock, in St. John's church. The happy couple will take up their residence in Toronto.

The Sabbath School superintendents of the various churches are all members of the Executive, and a full attendance is requested.

BACK UP

If Coffee is the "Hidden Worker" in Your Case

Study your diet and see if in a natural way you cannot build back to good health, which means steady nerves and the good old comfortable easy feeling of being well. If you drink coffee and are ill you should make sure whether coffee is, or is not the cause of the trouble.

The easy way is to shift to Postum for a few weeks and then weigh results. A Texas lady says: "I was attacked with nervous prostration three years ago this month and became so weak and nervous that I could not talk to any one or have any one talk in my room. My circulation was so poor I was so weak I could not even read. Everything I tried failed to help me, and it was not until I read an article in the newspaper and gave up my coffee and drank Postum Food Coffee that I had any relief.

"But from the time that I quit coffee and shifted to Postum I began to improve and I am now completely restored to health. My nerves are strong and sound and I am normal in every way." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The same result always follows the use of Postum which is a food drink, in place of coffee which is a drug drink. "There's a reason."

HOW HEALTH IS GAINED

The story of a great deal of the unhappiness of women is a story of lost health. Women wonder how it is that little by little the form loses plumpness, the cheeks grow hollow and sallow, and they feel tired and worn-out all the time. In a large proportion of cases when women are weak, run-down and falling off in flesh and looks the root of the trouble can be traced to womanly diseases which undermine the general health. The proof of this is that women who have been cured of painful womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have recovered their general health, gained in flesh and in appearance.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the womanly diseases which sap the general health. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I suffered for three years with ovarian trouble," writes Mrs. Anna Quinn (Treasurer Woman's Athletic Club), of 802 Sycamore St., Milwaukee, Wis. "The treatment I took did not do me a particle of good, until a good neighbor who had been using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription advised me to give it a trial. The next day took my first dose, and it was my first step toward recovery. In nine weeks I was a different woman; my flesh which had been flabby became firm, complexion clear and my eyes bright. It was simply an indication of the great change within from pain and suffering to health and happiness."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

Leaders in Ready-to-Wear Garments.

New York, Sept 19—The Vienna correspondent of the New York Herald says: The Macedonian game seems pretty well nigh played out. Lack of sympathy from the powers, lack of funds and wet, cold weather, all combined, have stopped further proceedings for the present.

The last move of the leaders of the insurrection, who comfortably enjoy life in Sofia, is to appeal to England and the United States for a trifle of a couple of million pounds sterling, in order to continue the revolution next year.

The Central Committee at Sofia, seriously announces, without an iota of evidence, that the Turks recently "massacred" forty-five thousand aged people, women and children. Illustrated papers have been furnished with photographs of the women and children, all dressed in Sunday clothes and with a peaceful expression, waiting for the bloodthirsty Turk to come and slaughter them. People in this part smile when they hear and see such petty tricks being played.

A DIFFERENT STORY.

The Evening Journal's correspondent has succeeded in passing the Turkish lines and joining the Macedonian rebels. He found appalling desolation, according to the following despatch, which he sent from Alamkai Reak, thirty miles south of Bourgeoe:

"Although I have not yet reached the centre of the revolting district, the scene here is bad enough. All, is waste and desolation. The villages to the south of us have all been burned to the ground by the Turks. No houses are left standing. A heavy pall of smoke hangs along the horizon. So far we have come across 2,000 fugitives, entirely destitute. . . A terrible famine seems to be inevitable. I went to three burned villages, and did not find a sign of life. Everything has been looted or burned. The sufferings of the fugitive women and children are terrible. Thus far we have had only some sharp skirmishing. I have seen a few dead and several wounded Macedonians, but no women or children have been injured.

PRISONERS ARE TORTURED.

London, Sept. 19—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Monastir describes the underground cells in the prisons there used for political prisoners. They are so low that the inmates cannot even sit; they must lie down. Water is poured into the cells at night time by soldiers who probe the prisoners with their bayonets to keep them from sleeping. Food is withheld for three days together, and the air passages are stopped and other tortures inflicted in order to force the prisoners into confessions of complicity with the revolutionaries. Many have died under this treatment.

UNIQUE CASE

Three Vanwormer Boys Sentenced to be Hanged

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 19—Thrice unique in the criminal history of New York state was the hearing before Gov Odell today on the application for commutation of the death sentence in the case of the three Vanwormer brothers, awaiting executing for murdering in his own doorway their uncle, Peter A. Hallenbeck, at Greendale, on Christmas Eve, 1901. The unique feature of the case are that three brothers, all under 30, and one barely 21, stand together in the peril of the electric chair, that five jurors, representing eleven of the jury which convicted the Vanwormers, appeared in opposition to the appeal and that a Christian minister argued for the infliction of the death penalty. Further a petition signed by 283 residents of the vicinity of the crime urged that the governor show no clemency. Former Judge J. Ryder Cady, of Hudson, was was originally detailed to defend the boys, argued for the appeal, pleading among other things the lack of childhood care, due to their mother's early death. District Attorney Chase, of Columbia county opposed the application as did also Rev. C. E. Corwin, of Greendale The latter cited many tales of the alleged misdoings of the Vanwormers. Governor Odell said he would render a decision by Monday.

THE LAKE OVERFLOWED

Manitoba Farmers Suffer Damages From Floods

Portage, la Prairie, Man., Sept. 19—Word has been received here from Longburn district, some eighteen miles northwest on the shore of Lake Manitoba, that considerable damage resulted to crops from floods on Saturday There is an inlet of the lake here, and the waters rose many feet, with the result that the fields of wheat and barley stocks were washed away. About one dozen farmers were losers.

CHANGE BABY'S DIET AT ONCE. —The persistent and even regular feeding of babies with foods that lack the necessary nutritive elements of mother's milk, and that tax the weak powers of digestion, will induce sickness and suffering. If your baby is not thriving, change its diet at once. Give it Lactated Food, that delicious invigorating food that the baby relishes at first feeding. Lactated Food has saved thousands of weak and sickly children in the past. Mrs. R. J. Kirk, Dungannon, Ont. says: —"We have a baby six months old who was greatly benefitted by the use of Lactated Food. He was very thin, and scarcely grew any till we commenced giving him Lactated Food he now weighs twenty-five pounds, and is very bright and lively." All Druggists.

AN INTERESTING CASE

Mr. McKay, Liberal M.L.A. for Owen Sound is the Defendant

Owen Sound, Ont., Sept. 19—After an offer to settle a suit upon a retraction of certain statements had been rejected by the defence, the action of Matthew C. Beckett, of this town against A. G. McKay, M.L.A, for $10,000 damages for alleged slander, came to trial here on Wednesday afternoon before Chief Justice Meredith.

Mr. W. D. McPherson, of Toronto, appeared for the plaintiff, Beckett, Beckett, and Mr. J. C. Maybee, K.C, of Chatham, and Mr. W. H. Wright, Owen Sound, for Mr. McKay. The court was filled when the case was called yesterday, and as protest proceedings are pending the utmost interest is being taken in the case in town.

The alleged slander is said to have been uttered by Mr. McKay at his nomination meeting on December 19 last year here, when he charged that on the night before the election held on May 29, 1902, electors had been drugged in the local Conservative Committee rooms and wrongfully induced by vote for Mr. Boyd. Matthew Beckett was named as one of those concerned in the matter. After evidence had been heard to prove that Mr. McKay had given utterance to the statements attributed to him, the plaintiff, Matthew C. Beckett, went on the stand, and emphatically denied that he either had administered whiskey or taken the men to the polls. His cross-examination was not concluded when the court rose.

FINDS $18,000 IN WRECK

A Fisherman Buys a Treasure Ship for 21 Shillings

Digby, N.S., Sept. 19—By the aid of a diver Thos. Burns, a fisherman of Seawall, N.S., has recovered nearly $18,000 in gold from the hull of a wrecked vessel, for which he paid 21 shillings, and he expects to find even more treasure.

The brig was that of a brig lost a mile below Centreville seventy years ago. She is said to have been the Barberie, lost on her way home after a three years' trading cruise in South America. It was said that her commander and his son had for the owners $60,000 in gold, the profits of the trip.

Burns bought the hull for the copper nails and fastenings. A diver who was exploring other wrecks was engaged to look into this one. Most of the gold coin is Spanish One piece bears the date 1824 and is stamped "Republica Del Colombia." Others are dated 1917

A COLD-BLOODED ACT

Three People Murdered in the State of Nebraska

Superior, Neb., Sept. 19—Mrs. R H Payne, an aged woman, her daughter Mrs. Williams, and a thirteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Williams were murdered in their home on a farm near Judson, Kansas, last night. They had been accustomed to sleep together. Mrs. Williams was found dead outside the house. The girl was dead in bed, and the grandmother was unconscious and died soon after the discovery of the crime. The murderer had broken in the skulls of all the victims with a cultivator bar.

A young farm hand, named Madison, is suspected of the murder. He was in love with Mrs. Williams, who is seeking a divorce from her husband, and who had refused to marry Madison. Madison has disappeared.

WOULD CONFER BENEFITS

Favorable Opinion Expressed by Many Birmingham Merchants

London, Sept. 19—At a meeting of the Council of Birmingham Chambers of Commerce, out of eighty-nine members representative of the trade districts replying to questions by letter, 68 said preferential trade would enable manufacturers of the United Kingdom to sell goods more largely to the colonies, ten stated preference would confer no benefits, two that they did not suffer from foreign competition in colonial markets. The remainder of the replies contained no expression of opinion on preferential tariffs."

COAL NEAR OTTAWA

If This is True It Certainly is Great News'

Ottawa, Sept. 19—The existence of a large coal deposit up the Gatineau is reported by Mr. J. J. Collins, C.E., of 370 Lisgar street, Ottawa. Mr Collins gave out an interview today, stating that a seam 277 feet thick, and running northward upwards of 100 miles, had been discovered by a mineralogist friend of his, who returned to the city yesterday. The local authorities are looking for further confirmation.

TREACHERY OF THE OCEAN

Narrow Escape of Two Vessels From Wreck Off Newfoundland

St. John's, Nfld. Sept 19—The Norwegian steamer Bergenms, bound for Labrador, to take on a cargo of fish, has returned here, having struck a submerged wreck, which punched a large hole in her bottom. She will be docked for repairs.

The steamer Labrador reports that a large steamer barely escaped being wrecked on the rocks of Belle Isle Strait last week, during a fog. She was warned away by fishermen, when almost ashore.

Loop the Loop Man Injured

Ottawa, Sept. 17—Charles White, who is one of the special attractions at the fair in doing the loop the loop act with a bicycle, fell fifteen feet last night, wrecking his wheel and suffering a fracture of a small bone in the right shoulder.

CASE IN GOOD HANDS

Sir Robert Finlay is an Able Advocate of Alaska Case

London, Sept. 16.—St. James' Gazette says Attorney-General Sir Robert Finlay is in his element over the argument before the Alaskan Boundary Commission. Whatever may be the conditions of the conference, no man of his profession on or off the bench knows his law better than does Sir Robert. He glories in technicalities, and in the subtleties of a big cause such as that in which he is now engaged. Sir Robert was never known to crack a joke in court but it is equally true that he has never been known to miss a point.

IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Sir Thomas Lipton is Suffering From Appendicitis

Chicago, Sept. 18—Sir Thomas Lipton is suffering much pain today from the sickness which attacked him on his arrival in Chicago yesterday, and another conference of doctors has been called. The physicians agree that his indisposition, which was at first pronounced acute indigestion, has developed unmistakable signs of inflammation of the stomach and bowels. To-day Sir Thomas' condition was regarded as serious.

About Your Barber

A contemporary says truly that if it should be known that every barber in a shop cleanses his hands thoroughly after each shave it would be the best advertisement which the establishment could receive. A neat man, careful of himself and with dainty senses, does not want to smell on his barber's hands the effluvia of the previous customer's person. After a barber has been manipulating the face of one man rubbing his scalp free of dandruff, encountering perhaps cutaneous eruptions, the muck of perspiration, and possibly previous oils and scents, the artist should thoroughly disinfect his hands before treating the succeeding customer. Several Peterborough barbers are noted for their cleanliness, both in person and in surroundings, but it is impossible to be too clean in a barber shop. It has been suggested the proprietors be asked to take out licenses and that their premises and methods be reported on by the sanitary inspector.

MANUSCRIPTS BEAR OUT GOSPEL STORY

Valuable Finds Made in the Monastery on Mt. Sinai

DISCOVERIES DESCRIBED

An Interesting and Instructive Lecture Was Given in Emanuel Church Last Night

Montreal, Sept. 18—One of the most interesting lectures heard in Montreal for a long time was that given last night in Emmanuel church by Mrs. Lewis, LL.D., and Mrs Gibson, LL.D., two ladies from Cambridge, Eng., who are famous for their discoveries among ancient Christian and Jewish manuscripts. These discoveries have proved of great value and interest to scholars and students.

The two sisters were the discoverers on Mount Sinai of the oldest Syrian copy of the Gospels, and were the first women to go to Mount Sinai to investigate manuscripts there.

Both ladies are highly educated, and have a thorough knowledge of Greek as well as modern languages, which was of great value to them in their investigations.

In a manner which held the interest of the audience to the close of the lecture, Mrs. Lewis last night gave her history of "Work and Discoveries Among Ancient Christian and Jewish Manuscripts," illustrated by some excellent limelight views.

VISIT TO MOUNT SINAI.

In 1892 she and her sister, Mrs. Gibson, through the encouragement given them by a scholar, Dr. Rendel Harris, went to Mount Sinai, intent on visiting St. Catharine's convent or monastery. This monastery being entirely isolated from the inquisitive world, and being also the habitation of monks whose inclinations were not always to extend hospitality to foreigners, the two ladies knew that access to the dark cells of the ancient building could only be obtained in the most diplomatic way. They, therefore, secured letters of introduction to the monks from Dr. Harris, who had been there, and brought away with him, in 1889, a very important MS., "The Apology of Aristides." They also took letters from a prominent monk of the Orient, and being thus in a position to make themselves known, they felt confident that they could obtain admittance to the secluded rooms, in which they hoped to find something more of interest than that secured by Dr. Harris.

They had also mastered the Greek tongue, and this fact so greatly pleased the monks that the lady scholars gained their confidence at once. Having been shown into the cells, by the aid of tapers, they at last were shown six boxes, in which were held MSS. dusty with age. Some of them they photographed there, but one or two were so saturated with grease that they had to be steamed before the leaves of the parchment could be separated.

PHOTOGRAPHED MSS.

However, after a good deal of labor, the entire MSS. were photographed, and when Mesdames Lewis and Gibson returned to England, they took the films and showed them to certain English scholars. For some time the discoveries were scarcely recognized, but later an interest was taken in them, and at a subsequent date Prof. Bendy, and Messrs. Harris and Burkitt accompanied them back to Sinai, where these gentlemen copied a great number of the writings from the original MSS. from which the ladies had previously taken photos. They did not copy them all, however, and in 1895 Mesdames Lewis and Gibson returned to the monastery and finished the copying. Later on these copies were compiled and published by the University Press, Mrs. Lewis also publishing a little book, "In the Shadow of Sinai," which gives a complete account of the journey and the findings.

After appearing before the public, the MSS. attracted attention, and men began to compare them with the Revised Version of the New Testament.

They have been found to correspond closely with the four Gospels in Syriac, and their chief value lies in the fact that they corroborate in nearly every respect the judgment of those who, some years ago, revised the New Testament, and they go to prove the authenticity of the Bible. Previous to these discoveries, the oldest Greek Biblical MSS. extant dated back only to the fourth century, but are supposed, and with good reason, to have been translated in the fourth century from the Greek in which the New Testament was written by the scribes, into Syriac, in which they now appear. The shape of the letters, etc., leads scholars to fix the date of their original writing in the second century, while other marks and words lead them to believe that they were translated on to the parchment on which they now may be seen, in the fourth century.

RUGBY CLUB IS RE-ORGANIZED

A Very Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Night — Officers Elected.

A large crowd of Peterborough sports assembled in the Council Chamber last night for the purpose of organizing the Rugby Club, and by the enthusiasm shown, this popular game is by no means dying out. Mr. E. S. Clarry was elected chairman of the meeting, and after expressing his opinion as to the future of the club, he called on several old members, all of whom were very anxious that the club be organized. The only drawback was the want of funds, but as that point was soon settled by a number of suggestions from members of the Turf Club, the members showed their interest in the welfare of the club by electing the following officers:

Hon. President—R. A. Morrow.
President—E. S. Clarry.
1st Vice-President—W. Crowley.
2nd Vice-President—F. Clarke.
Secretary-Treasurer—C. Graham.
Committee of Management—Messrs. Brooks, Dillon, Hollingshead, Noble, and Pascoe.
Captain—W. Crowley.

The members have decided to enter the Intermediate Series of the O.R.F.U. this fall, and will commence their practice at once, the first practice being arranged for this afternoon at the Oval at 3.30, when all the members should be present and bring other new men who might join the club.

The price of membership tickets has been placed at $1.00, and doubtless many will be sold in the next few weeks. On the whole, judging from last night's meeting, a club that will be a credit to our town has been formed, and one that will be able to compete with any like organization in Canada.

PETERBORO' AND HALIBURTON

Better Railway Connection With the Back Country Desired

The Times would suggest that an effort be made by the Board of Trade and Council to secure better railway connection with the back country. The train that leaves Haliburton in the early morning reaching Lindsay at 9 where it connects with the train for Toronto, might be run through to Peterborough, where it would connect with the train to Belleville, thus giving better train service eastward for Lindsay and the back country. This change would enable the people living along the line of the old Victoria Railway to come to Peterborough, do their business, and return same day. Under the present time table the whole north country is tributary to Toronto.

We have no doubt that an arrangement of this kind could be made, whereby a train could leave Haliburton daily for Peterborough, returning same evening.

We commend the matter to the attention of the Board of Trade.

UNION LOSES $100

One of the Officers Said to Have Skipped Out

There is considerable anxiety and indignation amongst the members of the Machinists Union over the disappearance of one of its officers with the funds of the union.

The proceeds of the excursion, held on Civic holiday is also gone. It is said that the missing man has been located in an American city, and that steps will be taken to have him extradited.

FRANCE ISSUES DENIAL

That She is Contemplating Conquest of Morocco

Paris, September 18—The French Foreign Office categorically denies that France is contemplating the conquest of Morocco and declares that the assertion that Great Britain had given her consent to the conquest, in the hope of divorcing France from her Russian alliance, is simply ridiculous.

THE GUARDS ARE COMING

The Famous Band of the Coldstreams, England's Oldest Regiment

"The Guards are coming" was the inspiring message which the cables sent to Canada a short time ago when at the request of the Dominion Government His Majesty King Edward VII was graciously pleased to grant leave to his famous band, the Coldstream Guards, to cross the Atlantic with the primary object of visiting the Dominion Exhibition in Toronto. Their leave has been extended to permit of a visit to the other principal cities of Eastern Canada. For the first time in history the people will hear a crack regimental Band and the blood of every loyal Britisher leaps at the thought of hearing the strains which have inspired England's soldiers to deeds of heroism and bravery. The Coldstream Guards is the oldest regiment in the British Army, and its band is now recognized as the finest not merely in the Guards' regiments but in His Majesty's service. They come in complete regimental strength, 46 strong, led by their bandmaster J. Mackenzie Rogan, who is also bandmaster of the Brigade of Guards.

Will be in Peterborough during the Industrial Exhibition, at the New Rink, Brock street, on Wednesday evening, September 23rd. Seats now on sale at Ormond & Walsh's.

A MIDNIGHT TRAGEDY

How a Well Known Citizen Raised Excitement

It was nearing the hour of midnight. A faint light was burning in a poorly furnished back room of a George street home.

At a table in the centre of the room sat a man. His thin, nervous fingers trembled as he read the long expected letter, "It is just as well," he murmured, as, laying down the finished letter, he took a shining revolver from his pocket, "it is even better so."

Slowly the hands on the clock approached the midnight hour.

"Almost time," he muttered, huskily, "and all will be over. Perhaps it is for the best; she—she will never know!" Then his grizzled locks sank low on the table.

One—two—three minutes passed, silently away. Then a low wailing cry was borne up on the night wind through the open window. Again it was repeated and again the cry reached the ears of the desperate man.

"Now, now is the time," he cried as the slow, musical bell of the clock struck twelve, and seizing his revolver he strode heavily to the window.

Again that low, mournful cry was wafted up on the air.

"Bang! Bang!. Then deathly silence.

The next morning an old gray cat was found dead in the alley.

PUBLIC IN THE DARK

How a Clique in the Council do Public Business

For a year or more there has been been a clique in the Council which has been doing its best to thwart the reporters from keeping the public informed as to what goes on there. At the time the clique was dealing with the street railway franchise, in which many thousands of dollars of the people's money is involved, and the Times was exposing their star chamber proceedings, every effort was made to keep the public in the dark. We do not believe in secret meetings of the council. They are dangerous to the well-being of the people. It is safe to say that Peterborough is probably the only town or city in Canada where the press is excluded from Civic committee and council meetings.

The council meet in committee of the whole, and do their business behind closed doors. What is the difference between committee of the whole council and open council? In the former business is transacted with barred doors and in the latter it is not. Consequently the full committee is popular with the clique.

Once again The Times protests against these star chamber methods.

HARVEST FESTIVAL

Interesting Services Last Night at All Saints Church

The pretty little All Saints' church was beautifully decorated for the Harvest Festival services last night, which were attended by a large number of citizens.

Rev. Charles J. James, M.A, Rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Toronto, preached an eloquent and impressive sermon, suitable for the occasion.

Special music of a very high order was supplied by the choir.

Married in Toronto

A pretty, though quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday last, at the residence of the bride's mother, North Toronto, when Miss Bertha Stewart, daughter of Mrs. R. Stewart, was married to Mr. S. Parks, formerly of Peterborough. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. W. Amoss, of Aurora, in the presence of relatives and the immediate friends. The bride was dressed in white silk and carried a bouquet of white roses, while the bridesmaid, Miss Ada Lindsay, of Toronto, carried a bouquet of red roses. The groom was supported by Mr. John H. Hancock, of Osgoode Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Parks will reside at 84 Summerhill avenue, North Toronto.

AMERICANS GIVEN PUZZLING POINTS IN THE ALASKA BOUNDARY DISPUTE

A Very Able Argument Made By Sir Robert Finlay

A Rule Which Does Not Apply in This Dispute

London, Sept. 18.—The tribunal hearing the Alaska boundary dispute took their seats at 11 o'clock this morning. The Attorney-General, Sir Robert Finlay, continuing his argument on the Portland Canal, produced a volume of Vancouver's charts obtained from the London library, which he stated to be identical with the set used yesterday, and which came from the Parliamentary library at Ottawa. He then proceeded to discuss the argument of the United States, based on the Thalweg rule, which is to the effect that where national territories are divided by a river or a stream having several channels, the middle of the deepest channel should be taken as the boundary. He contended that this rule applied only to rivers and streams, and not to an estuary, such as Portland Channel.

QUESTION OF ABANDONMENT.

Again, referring to the United States contention that Russia was not likely to have abandoned the only deep channel to the south, Sir R. Finlay pointed out that there was no question of abandonment, that the right of innocent passage would remain, and further, that the line was to run not through any channels but la long de la Passe. He then touched on one point suggested by the United States, that the lower portions of Portland Canal and Observatory inlet were held by the negotiators to form one inlet, and, after pointing out the impossibility of this, passed to a consideration of the third question: What course should the line take from point of commencement to the entrance to Portland Channel?

VIEW WITHOUT WARRANT

Dealing with the United States contention that the line should follow along the parallel of 54 degree, 40 minutes, he showed that there was no warrant for this view, that the treaty explicitly declared the point of commencement to be the southernmost Point on Prince of Wales Island, and not the parallel of latitude which was mentioned merely for the purpose of identification, and that this point was not exactly that of the above island. This being so, how was the line to get from the point to the parallel? He showed most clearly from the negotiations that, although Mr. Canning had the United States treaty of 1824 before him, in which latitude 54 degrees 40 minutes was fixed as the line separating Russia and the United States sphere of influence, he made no reference to that latitude in his instructions to Bagot, but spoke of the southernmost point of the island as the commencement of the line. The Russians, on their part, steadily claimed 55 degrees as the line, and that was adopted, though, as it cut Prince of Wales Island, it was modified as regards that island so as to secure it entire to Russia.

TREATY WITH RUSSIA.

When later 54 degrees 40 minutes was alluded to by the Russians it was as being about the latitude of the southern point of the island, as it happens to be. The United States treaty with Russia of 1824 related to trade and commerce; it did not deal with territorial demarcation, so 54 degrees 40 minutes as being about the southern point of Prince of Wales Island was named by the Treaty of 1825 between Russia and England. It settled questions of sovereignty, therefore accuracy was necessary, and latitudes not known to be correct were discarded for natural features such as the southernmost point of the Prince of Wales Island and Portland Canal, which forms the first natural opening in the main coast south of 55 degrees. The Attorney General handed in a lot of maps of the period showing variations in latitudes of the various capes on Prince of Wales Island, and also at the mouth of Portland Channel, in support of his contention that the negotiators in making the treaty defining the boundaries of the two countries preferred natural features to latitudes which were but imperfectly known.

CANADIANS PLEASED.

Sir Clifford Sifton and all the others of the Canadian party are exceedingly pleased at Attorney-General Sir Robert Finlay's work at the Alaska Boundary Commission's sittings.

PETERBOROUGH, SEPTEMBER 19, 1903

LANSDOWNE'S UNPOPULARITY

The people of England are so wrought up over the disclosures made in the report of the South African war commission that they are now clamoring for the removal of Lord Lansdowne from the office of foreign secretary. During the struggle which resulted in the defeat of the two Boer republics, Lord Lansdowne was at the head of the war department. While this statesman seems to have been totally unfit for his duties, he was compelled to avail himself of material wholly unfit for the campaign against the well equipped Boers. There are others besides Lord Lansdowne who should be held responsible for the pig-headedness which brought about the disasters at Ladysmith and Spion Kop and elsewhere during the attempts to crush the burghers. As usual, the British people are taking a long time to understand that the Conservatives, as a whole, deserve reprobation for the conduct of the war.

PROSPERITY IN IRELAND

Recent discussion of the Irish land bill caused the public to lose sight of the fact that thousands of small farmers in the islands owned land for some time because the landlords were willing to sell. Up to this year, 773,000 occupying owners were tilling the soil and striving to better their condition.

Under the land purchase act, the British government is to furnish the money to buy the landlords out, and the land is to become the property of the tenant when his instalments are paid. The British treasury gives $[illegible] over a period of fifteen years, and pledges itself as security for an amount up to $550,000,000.

A correspondent in Collier's Weekly declares that the results of previous land purchase bills, with limitations which the last enactment avoids, shows that out of 73,000 purchasers only three are eighteen months in arrears, and that out of the $4,000,000 due to the State last year, only $30,000 remains unpaid. This indicates that the Irish people are not improvident, and that they are making strenuous efforts to meet their obligations.

Already the condition of the Irish peasants who have purchased farms is showing decided improvement. The unhealthful and unclean cottages are giving place to neat and substantial little dwellings, and men, women and children are working on the farms with the knowledge that they are improving their own property.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

It is a hard job to keep Bulgaria outside the ropes.

If this Turkey war lasts until Thanksgiving, it is likely to get the stuffing knocked out of it.

One of the soldiers who assisted in the capture of President Davis of the Southern Confederacy died last Monday on a train while returning from the Grand Army Encampment at San Francisco. The veteran, who was J. M. Wheeler, always maintained that Mr. Davis wore a long waterproof coat instead of skirts as reported by certain historians, when he met his captors. Northern writers who declared that the Confederate leader donned feminine costume in the hope of escaping capture seems to have been wrong. The dispute might be dropped if the Southern people would acknowledge that Mr. Davis had exaggerated coat-tails on the garment which he wore when he fell into the hands of the Philistines.

A CONVERTED TRAMP

Sends $10 Conscience Money to the C P R

Montreal, Sept. 17—Mr. Robert Kerr, passenger traffic manager of received ten dollars from a former tramp who is a Dowieite. The letter reads: "Enclosed find postal note for ten dollars to pay for rides which I stole on your trains while a tramp, for I was a tramp and hoboed almost from Maine to California, largely on C.P.R. trains. Now I am a Christian, brought to know the love of God, and I must pay all my bills. I will pay them all in time. Hoping to get a reply from you. God bless you, Mr. Kerr."

Catarrhozone

The Only Cure for Catarrh endorsed by the Medical Profession

Physicians boldly state that every requirement of a perfect cure for catarrhal diseases is fulfilled in Catarrhozone, and on this account it is prescribed by almost every intelligent doctor.

It is the most powerful antiseptic known. When the lungs are filled with its germ-killing vapor the microbes which cause and maintain the unhealthy condition of the mucous membrane die immediately. Disease germs cannot exist where Catarrhozone is used.

Although very penetrating, Catarrhozone is soothing and healing treatment. It quickly heals raw spots and allays irritation and congestion of the mucous membrane.

When using Catarrhozone you don't have to wait a day for relief; it comes with every breath taken through the Inhaler. Head and throat are cleared and cleansed almost at once. Droppings in the throat, headache, coughing, and spitting, and all other disagreeable symptoms of catarrh are banished by a few days' use of this superior remedy.

Catarrhal diseases of every description yield without much difficulty to Catarrhozone. When used for Bronchitis, Lung Trouble and Colds, it affords not only instant relief, but cures in a very short time.

Croup, Whooping Cough and Winter Ills simply won't live any time if Catarrhozone is inhaled four times daily, and as a safeguard for Pneumonia and Consumption it has no equal.

Better get a Catarrhozone Inhaler; use it occasionally, and you won't have a cough or cold in the head or catarrh. These afflictions can be prevented by Catarrhozone as well as cured. Complete outfit, full two months' treatment, costs $1. Small size, 25 cents. Sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

LIKES WORKHOUSE FARE

Wealthy Irish American Prefers It to Boarding at Hotel

Dublin, Sept. 18—At the weekly meeting yesterday of the Donegal board of guardians a man named McGroary, who said he had returned to Ireland, after making a fortune in America, applied for admittance to the workhouse as a paying boarder, on the ground that he found the hotels in the northwest of Ireland not to his liking. The application was granted, and McGroary drove to the workhouse in a carriage and pair. He pays $3.25 a week for his board.

Parks Heavily Fined

New York, Sept. 18—Walking delegate Parks paid a fine of $50 in the the Court of Special Sessions yesterday when arraigned for the long delayed sentence on his conviction for assault on Patrick O'Neil, the walking delegate of the Plasterers' Union. At the same time he received warning that his trial on the second indictment for extortion would be moved in the Court of General Sessions today. Justice Mayer held that the assault of O'Neil was the result of a bar room brawl.

BLOOD DISEASED MEN

If you ever contracted any blood disease you are never safe unless the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Have you any of the following symptoms? Sore throat, ulcers on the tongue or in the mouth, hair falling out, aching pains, itchiness of the skin, scrofula blotches on the body, eyes red and smart, dyspeptic stomach, sexual weakness—indications of the secondary stage. Don't ruin your system with the old fogy treatment—mercury and potash—which only suppresses the symptoms for a time only to break out again when happy in domestic life. Don't let quacks experiment on you. Our New Method Treatment is guaranteed to cure you. Our guarantees are backed by bank bonds, that the disease will never return. Thousands of patients have been already cured by our New Method Treatment for over 20 years. No names used without written consent.

Mr. R. A. C. writes: "Your remedies have done me more good than Hot Springs and all the doctors and medicines I had previously tried. I have not felt any of those pains or seen any ulcers or blotches for over seven years and the outward symptoms of the loathsome disease have entirely disappeared. My hair has grown in fully again and I am married and happy."

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $250.00, and to the five next nearest $100.00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the returns are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $5.00 per day while here, so nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,

FRANKFORD, PHILA., PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty Numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000, Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D. Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

his closet and brought out bottle and glasses.

"I must have something to steady my nerves, Ralph," he said. "This day's bad luck has upset me completely. Curse all the blundering fates that have conspired to create this snarl in our plans. Oh, it's too bad, too bad, when all was going forward so nicely. Here, Ralph, take a glass. You need it."

Ralph did not decline the invitation. He felt the want of a stimulant.

Ralph waited awhile, and then spoke: "You said you had a suggestion?"

"Yes," was the reply. "I have been comparing probabilities in my mind. This is a deep riddle, Ralph. There is more in it than I like to think. That strange old man in Rolff House—who can it be? The ghost of Magnus Rolff? That's too weak—too silly. Who then? Why not old Magnus Rolff himself. He never died that anybody knows. He simply disappeared. That is the only explanation I can think of to meet this mystery. It seems incredible, too; but what else are we to think? Where could he have been all these years? Is it he that has been creating all these strange doings at Rolff House? What can his object be? The whole subject grows more complicated and strange as one thinks of it. I am puzzled beyond expression; but many little things occur to me that seem to fit this theory. If it is not Magnus Rolff, then the strange old man we met must be a madman or a thief. But it is—it must be him. He may be mad, also—an eccentric, at least—or why this strange reappearance?"

"Supposing all this is true, what then?" inquired Ralph, eagerly.

"Aye, what then?" answered the lawyer. "Who knows? It will depend on circumstances to which we can obtain no clue. Of course, no one would believe in his identity, if he should show himself and endeavor to establish it. But he might be able to prove it legally. Still, the property has passed out of his hands—in a legal point of view, he is as a dead man to us. But that is what makes the whole matter the more inexplicable. I am not worried yet as to our legal safety and standing as regards the property; but rather at the strangeness of this whole matter, and the check it gives to our plans because of possible developments against which we can make no calculation. We will have to wait awhile and watch events. Our present plans with regard to Rolff House are completely blocked. One thing, Claude is safely out of our way. He can hardly find a way to get back now, when nothing but ships of war and privateers can keep the sea; and, besides, I doubt if he would come if he had the chance while his money lasts. Perhaps this bugaboo of an old fellow at Rolff House will disappear as strangely as he came. All we can do is to wait and hope for the best."

There came a knock at the door.

Ralph stepped to it, and opened it. There entered a young man, in sailor's garb, and with a countenance as pale as one from the tomb.

Ralph staggered back in consternation.

"You!" he exclaimed.

"Yes, it is I," replied the young man. "I am glad you recognize me. I hardly thought any one would know me. I presume my visit is unexpected."

As the young man thus spoke, he turned his eyes on Anthony Saybrook.

That individual still sat on his chair; but he had leaned forward; his small, sharp eyes were fixed on the face of the young man; a waxy, sickly pallor had overspread his face; and his hands grasped the arms of his chair convulsively.

There was good reason for his surprise.

The face and form of the young man in sailor attire were those of Claude Rolff.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Claude was the first to break the spell that his presence seemed to have produced.

"With your permission, I will take a chair," he said. "I have travelled far, and am not well."

Claude sat down in a chair near the door.

Ralph meanwhile was beating a tattoo with his fingers on the desk near which he had taken his seat, while he eyed Claude with a scowling and rather rascal countenance.

The lawyer had apparently sunk back into the stupor of surprise which Claude's first entrance had caused him; but, in fact, all his wits were at work in considering how to meet this unexpected emergency.

Claude saw that it was necessary for him to open the conversation.

"An opportunity being offered me to return home on a privateer," he said, "I thought it well to embrace it as I felt keenly the pang of being separated from my native land in the hour of her peril. I was hurt in an engagement with an enemy's vessel on our return voyage and am probably in no condition to transact much business—still, there are some matters which I deem it important to seek the earliest possible explanation of."

"Oh, of course," replied the lawyer, smiling from habit, but still speaking in rather an embarrassed way. "M-m-m—yes—happy to explain anything. Very agreeable surprise, my dear sir; wasn't expecting your return. I—er—m—I—in fact, I'm very agreeably surprised. I—I—by the way, won't you allow me, my dear young sir, under the happy circumstances, to set out a little wine, and drink to your safe return before proceeding to any business."

The lawyer arose, and bustled with a hospitable air that enabled him to conceal his embarrassment.

"No, no, I thank you," responded Claude, to his invitation. "I shall be obliged to decline, as I am disposed to be a little feverish, and I am afraid any stimulant would be bad for me. Pray don't trouble yourself, Mr. Saybrook."

But the lawyer, nevertheless, brought out bottle and glasses, and poured out three bumpers, offering Claude one which he again declined. The father and son tossed their glasses off, however, and the former resumed his seat, having recovered in a measure his usual collected and wary demeanor.

Claude, after waiting a moment, said: "I will state at once, frankly, Mr. Saybrook, that I do not come in a very friendly mood. Some very strange rumors have come to my ears, which hardly seem credible, it is true, but which certainly justify me in demanding an explanation. If true, they brand you with treachery and fraud in the conduct of my business. Of course, I have held my own judgment on the matter in suspense until giving you an opportunity to explain. I trust you will be able to clear up all my doubts satisfactorily."

"To what do you refer?" inquired the lawyer, in bland tones that indicated that he had entirely regained his self-possession.

"I refer," responded Claude, "to the statements current here in this village that you have taken possession of Rolff House and a portion of the adjoining property under authority of deeds purporting to be given by me. I need not remind you that I gave no such deeds, and that there is no possible chance for there to be any misunderstanding on the point that it was my wish, most distinctly expressed, to place no incumbrance whatever on Rolff House, or any of the homestead property, or to imperil my possession of it in any way. You probably can inform me whether the rumors I have heard are true."

"Well, really, my dear sir," replied the lawyer, rubbing his hands and smiling as pleasantly as possible, "I do not exactly comprehend your meaning. You are aware, of course, that a number of papers were drawn and signed by you, intended to secure me for moneys loaned you, some of which moneys I was forced to borrow. Among these securities, were certainly two deeds, which received your signature in due form, and are properly witnessed, and which I have doubtless treated somewhat differently from what you expected, owing to the fact that I supposed circumstances had rendered your return home for a series of years exceedingly problematical. These deeds were intended, of course, only as collateral security, and I never had any idea of using them until the outbreak of war rendered your return uncertain and the impossibility of securing anybody to remain in Rolff House called for some disposition of the property. Under the circumstances, I placed the deeds on record, and am nominally the owner of the property in question, but of course I consider myself bound as a man of honor to keep the matter open for a satisfactory adjustment if we can come to amicable terms."

"I confess I do not understand you," replied Claude. "I wish to state, with the utmost distinctness, that I signed no deeds by way of collateral security or for any other purpose, and that if any such deeds are in existence they are fraudulent. My instructions were explicit, and our understanding complete, that there was to be no mortgage, incumbrance or obligation whatever relating to Rolff House."

"Ah, my dear young friend," replied the lawyer, still maintaining his smiling and insinuating mien, "I was more than half suspicious at the time of our business arrangements that you did not fully understand all the details we entered into. You left all the arrangements pretty much in my hands, and expressed your willingness to be governed by my judgment—in fact, I thought you were far too careless of your interests. Of course, left to act almost entirely on my own judgment, I drew up such papers as I considered wise and necessary in the premises, and you signed them. I am quite confident you did not critically examine all the papers you signed. It is well, perhaps, for you to remember this fact, before proclaiming any papers that may be in existence fraudulent. It might be difficult for you to disprove your own signature."

VERY CLEVER SCHEME

Prominent Montreal Jeweller Swindled

HE LOSES A LARGE SUM

Montreal, Sept. 18—Chief Carpenter and his entire staff are working hard to catch the individual calling himself W. J. Langley, who is accused of having tried to swindle several steamship companies out of $550, and of having succeeded in one instance.

By as neat a trick as ever was tried, $800 was also secured last week from a St. Catherine street, jeweller of note by an unknown individual.

It was the Canadian Pacific Atlantic Steamship line that handed out the money to the stranger under exactly the same conditions as those tried upon the Allan line and narrated in detail in Monday's papers. Mr. D. W. Campbell, manager of the company, has placed the matter in Chief Carpenter's hands, and every outlet from the city is being watched.

But it was the scheme worked upon the jeweller that was as original as any that has been heard of for some time.

The man called at the store and bought $800 worth of jewellry of different kinds and tendered a cheque for the amount payable at the Bank on Montreal. He explained that he was in no hurry for the goods and that as they did not know him he was quite satisfied to let them get the cheque cashed and then he would call for the goods.

The cheque was duly endorsed by the firm and sent down to the bank for payment, but there were not sufficient funds.

When the man called yesterday he appeared surprised at the announcement, and then asked as to which bank he had drawn the cheque on. When told it was the Bank of Montreal, he said it was very stupid of him, as he intended to have given it on the Bank of Canada, in which he had an account. He added, however, that it did not matter as he would pay the cash, and thereupon he produced a roll of bills and paid the full amount, receiving in exchange the goods purchased and his original cheque.

Down town he went and, with the firm's endorsation on the back of the $800 cheque, he found no difficulty in getting it cashed.

Now the firm is wondering why its endorsation was not crossed out before the cheque was returned to the man.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Postoffice, Bowmanville, Ont.," will be received at this office until Friday, September 25th, inclusively, for the construction of a building for Post Office, &c., at Bowmanville, Ont., according to plans and specifications to be seen at the present Post Office, Bowmanville, and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10 per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, must accompany each tender. This cheque will be forfeited if the party tendering decline the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD——$80,000,000——GOLD
—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 600 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,200 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 250,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividend whatever. After such dividends have been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission.

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sergeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $54.80 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. (This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the [illegible] and [illegible].

New York, Sept. 18—There was more or less nervousness in evidence in the stock market today and the price variations were rather irregular. Trading interests were mixed in their views and under the circumstances the business was only of moderate proportions. The London market was relatively steady. There was more favorable news regarding the affairs of the big steel combine, but certain interests were persistent in their endeavors to create bearish impressions and in some cases their efforts brought about the desired end, in that here and there the stocks were sold quite freely. The monetary situation was closely considered and the consensus of opinion was that there will be a poor bank statement tomorrow inasmuch as the banks have lost over $3,000,000 through sub-treasury operations on the week. Steel common made a new low record and served to cause selling in other portions of the room. The late news was without special feature. Outside stocks were quiet and easy in tone, while the bond market was dull and irregular.

Weakness in the steel and iron stocks attracted relatively the bulk of attention in the stock exchange quarter yesterday. The new low record made by steel common came as a surprise inasmuch as it was hoped that the inside interests would support the stock at 19. The weakness in the T.C. & I. also was a surprise, in view of the excellent statements of earnings and the official report to the effect that the company was in a very strong position. There are many who are ready to admit now that the steel stocks are the subject of systematic bear attacks, while in some circles there is said to be a large block of the steel stocks hanging over the market. Under the circumstances it would seem that there is but little likelihood for any support in the immediate future. Public holders of these steel stocks are beginning to lose confidence in the various reports of excellent business in circulation and the commission element sold quite a lot of the common stock yesterday. The railroad stocks generally were well supported at times yesterday, but it pointed out in some circles that the buying was fictitious and was done in order to facilitate sales The feeling at best this morning is rather mixed and the bears in some parts of the room are inclined to express confidence in their position. On the other hand many conservative interests are disposed to figure that professional bearishness is being carried too far; the chances are that the fluctuations will be erratic.

Chicago, Sept. 18—The wheat mkt. fluctuated irregularly Friday; professional interests expressed conflicting opinions and the general trade was dull. The crop and weather news was more favorable, but advices from the northwest indicated clearly that a lot of the spring wheat will be unmarketable this year. The slow export demand seemed to be the chief basis for bearish arguments. The Argentine shipments were half as big as last year, but they were bearish as compared with last year. The late market today was bearish and rather irregular. Corn was fitful and subject to differing opinions in professional circles. The crop news was conflicting, while the weather news was more favorable. The late market was slow with pit interests at work on both sides of the account. Oats were firm in tone, though there was only a moderate trade. The clearances were small and the foreign inquiry was slow. Outside shorts were inclined to cover; provisions were dull. There was some selling on the better levels, but packers were inclined to give a moderate degree of support. The movement of product was moderate, while the cash demand was slow.

This was the reply:

The rose is red

I'll send you fifty,

THE CHETICAMP EXHIBIT

Thousands of Booklets Distributed at Provincial Fair Regarding The Inverness Copper Mines

The prominence given the minerals of the province at the Provincial Exhibition at Halifax this year is a matter of general satisfaction and it is hoped that this tardy recognition of the importance of this large producing and rapidly expanding branch of industry is but the beginning of greater efforts in future years to attract public attention to the gold, iron, copper, and other mineral resources of Nova Scotia. Many thousands have viewed with interest the display of minerals at the Exhibition this year, located in the north gallery of the main building, and probably no one section of the large mineral exhibit attracted more attention than the north-western portion, where the copper, gold and arsenical ores ores, from Cheticamp, Inverness County, were displayed. Companies operating the mines at Cheticamp had been alloted a large space, and they made a fine display of views of the mineral scenery about the mineral region. There were some fifty of these framed, 12x16 and 16x20 in size, and in addition a large assortment of ore samples, carrying gold, silver, copper and arsenic was displayed near at hand, and a man employed to give information to visitors and answer questions relative to the mining Company. Great interest was evinced by visitors, and over 10,000 booklets and other literature referring to the Cheticamp mining region and to the copper industry there were distributed among visitors to the fair.

The companies operating at Cheticamp had intended to conduct a large excursion of experts and interested parties to the mining properties during the present month, but owing to the impossibility of securing proper accommodation at the mines for a party of 100 people such as it was proposed to invite, it has been necessary to postpone the general excursion indefinitely. So much interest has been taken in the development of the Cheticamp region, however, that several geologists will visit this section for scientific reasons. It is understood that about September 25th Dr. Gilpin, Professor of Mines; Professor Woodman, head of Dalhousie School of Mines; Mr. Hugh Fletcher, in charge of the Dominion Geological Coal Survey; and Mr. Faribault, in charge of the Dominion Gold Survey, will visit the Cheticamp mines and spend several days there. The government officials will secure information with reference to the geology of this district for incorporation in the next year's government reports, and Professor Wodman, who has been in Cheticamp before, will secure further material on this occasion, and also some photographs for lantern slides to illustrate lectures which he purposes giving to the students of the school on mines. Professor Sexton, who has lately been added to the School of Mines staff will also visit Cheticamp.

FERROZONE

Will give you an Appetite and with Appetite and good digestion comes health and strength

Ferrozone will in one week give you a splendid appetite, and will so improve digestion and assimilation that full benefit will be derived from everything eaten.

There is nothing like Ferrozone to create a keen healthy relish for food for the brain, and a tonic for the nerves and brain. To those leading a sedentary life it is a perfect boon.

The reverend Dennis O'Brien, D.D., the well known Evangelist says of Ferrozone: "I have pleasure in saying that I have found Ferrozone a remarkably good preparation. It keeps up one's appetite, cures nervousness and sleeplessness, and perhaps the very best tonic I have used. Being in the form of chocolate coated tablet, it is both pleasant and convenient to take and is well worthy of my highest recommendations."

This is an example of the way people speak of Ferrozone who have used it, and should be convincing evidence of its unusual merit. It is warranted to cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Lost Appetite, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Troubles, Catarrh, and all other diseases arising from impairment of blood or nerve tone.

Refuse to accept a substitute for Ferrozone. Every druggist sells it 50c. per box, or three for $1.25. Prepared by N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., and Kingston, Ont.

It is likely that suitable trophies will be given to the team winning the series.

As Others See Us

—Lindsay Post: On account of a lack of interest displayed by the Peterborough citizens, that town will have no Rugby football team this year. After many fruitless attempts to get the game started, a resolution was passed at a meeting the other night that the club be formally disbanded. There is no lack of material in that town, but enthusiasm on the part of the citizens is wanting.

St. Paul's Young Folks

Lakefield News: A great many improvements have been made on the St. Paul's R. C. church during the summer. A fine new vestry and sanctuary has been added. The sanctuary is connected with the main body of the church by an arch, which gives the church an increased seating capacity, accommodating now about sixty additional people. The building has been re-shingled and generally renovated, and is in first-class condition. Rev Father Phelan is to be congratulated on the appearance of his church. The work was performed by Messrs. Baptie Bros. in their usual satisfactory manner.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

Newsy Paragraphs Picked Up by Reporters on Their Rounds

—Thursday, October 15th, has been set aside as Thanksgiving Day.

—Fred Barrett was fined $2 at the Police Court this morning for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk.

—The ninth annual fall show of the Harvey Agricultural Society will be held at Lakehurst on October 1st and 2nd.

—The O. C. of the 57th Regt. requests that all officers attending the band concert next Wednesday appear in uniform.

—The athletic section of the T. A. S. will hold an "At home" in their rooms on Monday evening. A good programme is being prepared.

—The country people are kicking because the Coldstream Guards are not playing classical music. If they did play it the kickers couldn't kick. They'd be paralyzed.

—The sugar beet crop around Omemee promises to be the most favorable of root crops, and if prices are as satisfactory as promised an increase of acreage is assured.

—An excursion to Bobcaygeon by steamer Empress will be run from Chemong Park on Tuesday, September 22nd, leaving at 8 a.m., and calling at Indian Village, Oak Orchard, Gannons and Sandy Point. Returning leave Bobcaygeon at 5 p.m.

—In Belleville the eligibility of the tax collector for reappointments depends on his having returned the previous year's roll complete at the appointed time. Last year's collector having accomplished this, his application to be re-appointed was the only one considered.

PERSONAL MENTION

Movements of the People—What They are Doing and Saying

—Mr. W. H. Meldrum was in Fenelon Falls yesterday.

—Master George Strickland, Lakefield, has obtained a position in the local branch of the Ontario Bank.

—Miss M. Mitchell, of Innerkip, formerly of Messrs. J. Sutcliffe & Sons, has accepted a position with Mr. E. P. Cuffe, Norwood.

—Mr. L. M. Hayes has received a letter apprising him of the fact that Lieut.-Colonel Greenwood is now on his way home and is expected to arrive at Quebec in a few days.

—The many friends of Mr. E. Phelan will be pleased to learn that he is gradually recovering from his recent severe illness. The Times joins his hosts of friends in the wish that he may be fully restored to health.

IN THE KINDERGARTEN

The Grape-Nuts Boy at the Head

A proud mother, whose little fellow leads his class in the kindergarten says of his babyhood: "My little boy was as strong as any child could be up to a year old when he began to decline.

"He grew worse rapidly and in a few weeks was only a shadow and although infant foods and other prepared foods were prescribed he continued to grow worse. The physician said he would have to have proper nourishment or he would die and he was certainly getting weaker all the time.

"We had been using Grape-Nuts food in our family so concluded to try it on the baby. To my surprise and delight he relished it and from that time it began apparent that he was gaining in strength. In a remarkably short time baby had recovered his health and by the time he was 20 months old he was completely cured of all trouble. He is now over 4 years old and in the last two years has used Grape-Nuts steadily as a part of his diet and as a result of the power of this proper food I now have a boy rosier and stronger than the average 4 year old boy and in perfect health.

"He is the youngest in a class of 20 at his kindergarten and in his games and memory work he excels them all. He is certainly a perfect specimen of boyhood now, physically and mentally. All of this I know is attributable to the food Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

NOTE—The Times does not hold itself in any way responsible for the opinions expressed by its correspondents.—ED. TIMES.

FREE LIGHT IN ORILLIA

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—I notice that Ald. Morrison denies that Orillia has its street light free, under municipal ownership. Here are the facts, as presented by the Canadian Engineer, which tells of the harnessing of the Ragged Rapids, on the Severn, nineteen and one-half miles from Orillia, at a cost of $75,000, by which it was expected 800 horse-power would be developed, but the tail race was defective, and that amount of power was not available. The revenue derived from the various services operated by electricity is: Water, $5,000, light, $9,700; power $6,537; total $21,237. The cost of running the works, with repairs, is about $7,500, adding to which the interest on investment, leaves a profit of from $600 to $1,000 on present capacity. IN ADDITION THE TOWN HAS ITS STREET AND MUNICIPAL BUILDING LIGHTS FREE. The flat rate for residences is 25c per month for each sixteen candle power lamp; for stores, hotels, halls and churches, 35c per month. When ten or more lamps are installed the current is supplied on a metre basis at the cost of 12c. per thousand watts. On all these there is a discount of twenty per cent. for payment within ten days of presentation of the bill. Fifteen cents a month is the rental charge for the metre. The charge for power is $16 per horse-power per annum.

What is the difference in municipal ownership of electric lighting, and municipal ownership of water supply? Is it not the greatest absurdity for us to pay $50, or even $25, per lamp for street lights, when we have our own dam and power with the water running to waste! I am told by an expert that there is power enough to furnish light to the citizens at even cheaper rates than now charged by the two lighting companies, and give our own street lights absolutely free. If this is true, will some good citizen who is clever at arithmetic kindly let us know, in the light of these figures, what extent of bonus we would be giving to have our buried street railway resurrected!

What has become of our Board of Trade? Why do they not take up this matter of municipal street and house lighting?

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, &c.,

STILL ANOTHER RATEPAYER

VETERANS OF '66

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I notice that the government has been pleased to extend the time for receiving the Fenian raid medal and the land grant until January, 1904. So far this is all right, as no doubt there are quite a few who have not got their medal or land. They claim that there was not land enough to supply the demand; at least they had not enough surveyed. It seems too bad that the old boys have to wait so long before they get any value for their noble stand to protect our country against those misguided dupes called Fenians. Had we been under the American government every man or boy who would have come out in defence of our country and homes would long ago have received a pension worthy of the work done. Many a poor fellow who in '66 shouldered his gun to defend his country has been called home without ever getting so much as thank you. One by one the few that are left are going, and what have they got from their country that was of any value to them? Is it not a standing shame to any country to use its protectors as the old vets have been used by our government? The Turks do as well as this. The few old vets that are left should have something better given them than a piece of wild bush or a medal. Far better give them a few shillings a day in their declining years. They could use it in sickness or want. I think it is not too late to ask for our rights; surely we have waited long and patiently. How much longer shall we have to wait? Every man, woman and child would be pleased to see the old volunteers get some useful reward for their work. What are our representatives doing for the old boys?

The Deadly Trail

Of disease is often the trail marked by a woman's gown. A recent investigation showed a horde of microbes, including those of influenza, consumption and a dozen other varieties, gathered in the trail of a woman's dress.

The microbe is everywhere, but its prey are the weak and feeble people whose blood is "poor" and digestion "weak." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and purifies the blood. It strengthens the body by increased nutrition to resist or throw off disease.

"Please accept my thanks for the good Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has done for me," writes Mrs. N. Cheesley, of Cleveland, Cuyahoga Co., Ohio. "I was troubled for over a year with what the doctor pronounced indigestion. I had nervous headaches, an unpleasant taste in my mouth in the morning, and my blood was very poor. I tried different medicines but to no avail. My parents insisted on my taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I did so; am now on the fourth bottle, and feel stronger than I have for two years. I cannot speak too highly in its favor."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are easy and pleasant to take. A most effective laxative. They do not beget the pill habit.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN WHO USE PE-RU-NA.

HEALTHY WOMEN

Miss Elizabeth Uber, No. 67 Bassett street, Albany, N. Y., writes:

"I have always dreaded the fall and winter because of my extreme liability to catch cold, when catarrhal trouble would quickly develop through my entire system which it would take weeks to drive away. I am thankful to say that since I have taken Peruna, I do not have any reason to dread this any more. Last fall when I suffered with my old trouble I took Peruna and in nine days was completely cured and since that time, if I have been at all exposed to the damp, wet or cold weather, I take a dose or two of Peruna and it throws out any kind of sickness from my system. I gladly indorse it."—Miss Elizabeth Uber.

Mrs. Wm. Dewey, Saranac Lake, N. Y., is second cousin of Admiral Dewey. In a recent letter she says:

"Peruna is the most valuable of any remedy that I have ever used for coughs, colds, etc. I cheerfully recommend it as a certain cure if used according to directions."—Mrs. Wm. Dewey.

"Last winter I took a long drive in the country, and being too thinly clad I caught a bad cold which settled on my lungs, and which I could not seem to shake off. I had heard a great deal of Peruna for colds and catarrh and I bought a bottle to try. I am pleased that I did for it brought speedy relief. I only took two bottles and I consider this money well spent.

"You have a firm friend in me, and I not only advise its use to my friends, but have purchased several bottles to give to those without the means to buy, and have noticed without exception that it has brought about a speedy cure wherever it has been used."—Miss Rosa Gerbing.

To neglect a cold is to invite chronic catarrh. As soon as anyone discovers the first symptoms of catching cold he should at once begin the use of Peruna according to directions on the bottle, and the cold is sure to pass away without leaving any bad effects.

Unless this is done the cold is almost sure to end in the second stage of catarrh which is making so many lives miserable. If Peruna was taken every time one has a cold or cough chronic catarrh would be practically an unknown disease.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

THE CAMPAIGN WILL BE PUSHED VIGOROUSLY

s Plan is to Fight on Until Victory is Secured and the Colonies Get the Favors Demanded

London, Sept. 21.—Mr. Chamber- ain's intimate friends scout the suggestion that he will abandon prefer- ntial policy. On the contrary, he signed because, to quote himself, "I m more firmly convinced than ever at, being now unshackled, I can put the case for the beginning of nperial partnership so as to win e next election, whenever that mes."

IS WELL BACKED.

Ample funds and some of the ablest the rank and file of the Minister- ialists are behind Mr. Chamberlain. ritain never had an astuter election- rer than he. Almost single-handed o won the last election for Balfour. ow, when free, Mr. Chamberlain will nnly lead the campaign, putting up hamberlainite candidates in every nsiltuency where there is a chance success. Already one hundred and fty members of parliament have declared for him

THE FALL CAMPAIGN.

His personal October campaign cov- e six leading cities of the north of ngland and Scotland, and invades dical Wales.

A PREDICTION.

It is important to note that Mr. Balfour still supports Mr. Chamberlain's general policy, only he shrinks before the "dear loaf" cry, and says the time is not yet ripe, whereas Mr. Chamberlain sets out forthwith, determined to prove the fallacy of the cry. Not a few sound prophets expect that before next year is out Mr. Chamberlain will be the real, if not also the nominal, leader in a Ministry elected upon a moderate preference cum-retaliation policy, Mr. Balfour being his chief colleague. What stand immensely to Mr. Chamberlain's advantage is the fact that he is admittedly the only real efficient Minister and successful administrator in a Cabinet, which holds a Lansdowne and a Brodrick.

CANADA'S ATTITUDE.

When approached recently upon Canada's seeming hesitancy to officially support his policy, Mr. Chamberlain replied very quietly: "Oh, well, it is here in the Motherland that the question must now be fought. The Colonies made their position clear enough at the Colonial Conference, and I have no fears."

ROBBERY OF $9000

e Money Abstracted From a Leather Bag

Vancouver, Sept. 19—Detectives are investigating the robbery of $9,000 rom the Wellington Colliery Company. The amount was taken from he sum sent up to pay the month's wages at the Comox mines on Tuesday from the head office here. Thirty-four thousand dollars was sent, equally, in a leather bag. It was given charge of the purser of the City of Nanaimo, arriving at the Comox wharf late on Tuesday night. The bag with the cash to pay the wages was left on the Joan until the morning when it was taken in charge by the paymaster at Union mines, who personally took it upon an engine to the head office. On opening the packet it found that $9,000 had been extracted. No clue has been found as yet. One of the staples on the bag had been broken, and the lock left unmolested. The mouth of the bag had then been pried open enough to allow the money to be extracted.

TO FIGHT ROUSEVELT

Organized Labor's [illegible] Hostility Because of the Miller Case

Washington, Sept. 19.—Now President Roosevelt is threatened with hostility of organized labor. With capital distrustful of him on one side and labor showing its teeth on the other, the Presidential election of 1904 may not be so easily won as some of the President's friends have imagined. The Washington Central Labor Union, with the approval of the American Federation of Labor has appealed to every affiliated body in the country to condemn the President's attitude in causing the reinstatement of W. A. Miller in the Government employ as foreman in the bindery of the Government printing office. The Central Labor Union urges that the affiliated bodies petition the President to modify his order directing no discrimination in the employment of Government workers.

While the circular issued by the Central Labor Union to sister organizations is not belligerent in tone, labor leaders in this city do not conceal the fact that behind it lies a determination to organize a powerful opposition to the political aspirations of the President for re-election if he declines to accede to their demands for the dismissal of Miller and the recognition of organized labor. Labor leaders here say they are in earnest, and that unless the President complies with their request they will fight him at the polls into every State where organized labor has a foothold.

Copies of a resolution adopted by the Washington organization calling attention to the President's attitude toward organized labor have been sent to the 520 central labor unions representing the entire number of organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in the United States. The unions have a membership of approximately 2,500,000. There are good reasons to believe that the American Federation of Labor endorsed the movement and is preparing to stand by the local organization in its demands. Secretary Cortelyou of the Department of Commerce and Labor, who has had the Miller case in hand for the President, recently held several interviews with President Gompers of the American Federation, and was not satisfied with Mr. Gompers' attitude.

CANADA'S ADVOCATE

The Attorney-General, Sir Robert Finlay, is in His Element

London, Sept. 19.—The Outlook says Attorney-General Sir Robert Finlay's gifts are just the kind to be seen to advantage in the present inquiry, where arguments are addressed to trained intellects.

It is rumored that Attorney-General Sir Robert Finlay will become Lord Chancellor in the new Cabinet.

SELLS HIS VIEWS

London, Sept. 19.—The political crisis is still the sole topic of discussion in the United Kingdom. Premier Balfour is expected to have an audience with King Edward at Balmoral today, when, doubtless he will present the nominations for the Cabinet vacancies. The exact nature of these appointments still continues a matter of varied surmise. Regarding the eventual result of the upheaval the Spectator's forecast that Mr. Balfour, when he appeals to the country, will be beaten and succeeded by a Rosebery Cabinet, which will not last long, attracts the greatest attention.

A curious phase of the situation is the severe criticism, regardless of party lines, bestowed on Mr. Balfour's action in publishing his views and selling them in pamphlet form. By Mr. Balfour's own admission, he is a "mere child in such matters," and his inexperience in business affairs now appears to have put him at the mercy of the publishers of the pamphlet who are coining money over the vital issue in national affairs. The Outlook, which is a warm supporter of the Premier, declares Mr. Balfour's indiscretion "strikes a rude blow at one's reverence for the traditions of English public life, when a public servant's position seems to be used for private gain, no matter whose."

THE WORST FEATURE.

The Outlook adds that the fact that a note was sent to the editors with the pamphlet, only allowing them to quote one thousand words textually, is "one of the worst features in this deplorable business."

The Spectator and other periodicals also express concern on the latter point. The Outlook estimates that the profits on 100,000 copies will be over $17,000, of which Mr. Balfour will receive a large share. The pamphlet promises to reach a sale of a million copies. In the meantime there are no pamphlets in print, and the copies printed have reached a premium, many of them selling for 10 cents, double the price of the issue. Mr. Balfour's party managers openly proclaim grave dissatisfaction. In the first place, they say they cannot get any more copies for their impatient constituencies, and they object to paying for literature which is supposed to be the most powerful aid in keeping the Government in power.

Several of the conservative agents have gone so far as to threaten to resign. The publishers make no discount to party organizations, even though thousands are ordered, and actually demand the money in advance.

VENEZUELA FOR PEACE

Secretary of State Denies Intent to Interfere in Colombia

Washington, Sept. 21—Dr. Hernandez, the Venezuelan minister, today received a dispatch from Minister of State Urbaneja authorising the legation to deny the reports emanating from Willemstad and published in this country that Venezuelan troops have been sent in the direction of the Colombian frontier, and suggesting that war between the two countries is inevitable. The dispatch says that Venezuela is at peace and desire to remain so.

NEW CABINET MINISTER

Lord Stanley is Definitely Slated for Advancement

Deputy Minister Lowther is Mentioned as a Probability

New York, Sept. 21—The London correspondent of the New York Herald cables: "Chamberlain has cleared the air with a thunderclap and changed the whole political situation in a moment by the most startling and dramatic event of its kind since the retirement of Bismarck. The Colonial Secretary's retirement is far from meaning the fall of the minister or the defeat of his policy, but is an act which marks him out more conspicuously than before as a commanding figure in British public life."

CHURCH TO ADVERTISE

Wisconsin Minister Suggests Change in Clerical Methods

Milwaukee, Sept. 19.—Christianity must go into the advertising business or it will disappear. That is the opinion expressed by clergymen in two large representative religious bodies in Wisconsin this week. Presiding Elder Dr. D. C. John, of the Oshkosh district, created a decided stir at the Methodist Episcopal Conference in session at Green Bay yesterday with the statement that the Methodist church must adopt new methods for attracting people or conversions would cease.

Dr. John said the people exhibited not only indifference, but actual hostility to the old revival methods. It was, he said, almost impossible to gather a congregation for revival without some special attractions.

Dr. John said it was impossible to reach persons over 25 years of age. Therefore he advocated a concentration of work on the children. To get the older people special features had to be brought into play.

Dr. Sanderson, at the Presbyterian meeting just closed here, made even a more direct statement. He said the Church would have to go into the advertising business if it expected to keep up its growth. He said flatly that the church ought to advertise so as to keep the subject before the people. If it did not it would die. He said this was what the Roman Catholic church was doing, and for that reason it was continually before the people, and attention was attracted to it. Dr. Sanderson will give a prize for the best plan suggested for advertising the church.

BIG MONTREAL STRIKE

Men in Building Trades in City Are Restless

Men May Quit Work This Week, Causing Loss and Trouble

Montreal, Sept. 21—It is just possible there may be another big strike in the building trades early next week. The decision was practically reached at a mass meeting of the Builders' Laborers' Protective Union, now a powerful organisation.

The men have been restless all summer as the result of a sliding scale being in operation. It appears the men are being paid from 15 cents to 20 cents per hour. The demand which is to be made is for a flat scale of 20 cents an hour, and nine hours to constitute a day's work.

An officer of the union when seen by a reporter regarding the matter, said that the final decision would be reached at a general meeting of the union which has been called for Sunday afternoon in the St. Joseph's Hall, at the corner of St. Catherine and St. Elizabeth streets. He inclined to the belief that many of the prominent contractors would agree to the new demands, but he expected there would be trouble with some of the smaller contractors. He said the financial position of the union was now very strong. He hoped, however, that a fight would not have to be made. He did not think that 20 cents per hour was an exorbitant demand under the circumstances.

The cost of living in Montreal had increased twenty per cent. during past year, he contended, while the builders' laborers' wages had remained stationary.

TO UNITE EMPIRE

The Question Already Solved in Reduction in British Duties

London, Sept. 19.—A letter in the Spectator this morning draws attention to a letter written by Mr. William Hughes to the same journal long ago. Hughes then said that among Canadians he did not happen upon a single Home Ruler. In fact, he was obliged to own that Canadians set more store upon the unity of the Empire than we do as yet in the United Kingdom, but what was really exercising them was the probability of a more intimate union, or federation, with the Mother Country for defensive purposes. Mr. Hughes found that Canadians saw no difficulty whatever in carrying out the idea. They believed, indeed, that the question was already solved, but all felt that the really difficult problem was a commercial union, which nevertheless must be managed somehow if the Empire is to hold together. Mr. Hughes says the scheme suggested by the Canadians was one almost identical with that submitted by Sir Alexander Galt to the London Chamber of Commerce and Colonial Office. The editor of the Spectator says the scheme referred to had the great advantage of requiring no sacrifice of the fiscal principles prevailing from time to time in any quarter of the Empire. It only required a discount or reduction in the Customs duties in favor of British goods when such duties existed, and did not require their imposition when they did not exist. Herein it differed essentially from Mr. Chamberlain's scheme.

Proud of His Work

London, Sept. 19—Sir William Des Veux, formerly Governor of Newfoundland, has written a book on his services in the colonies.

ADVANCE ON MULLAH IS ABOUT TO BEGIN

Has Been Decided Upon—Traction Enginet to be Used to Facilitate Transportation of Supplies

London, Sept. 21—It is understood that the operation in Somaliland will very shortly be renewed, with, of course, General Egerton in command.

The intention of the Government is to make a supreme effort to deal the Mullah a really effective blow, although in well-informed circles little hope exists of catching him, unless the British force has specially good fortune.

The plan of campaign, contrary to expectation, will be similar to that which failed last year, and the base of operations from which the third brigade will start will again be Obbia, in Italian Somaliland. It has been recognized that the plan of campaign which made Obbia the base is the best; it was spoiled in the first instance by a lamentable lack of transport.

The British forces will co-operate with those of Abyssinia; the Emperor Menelik is extremely well-disposed and will probably help the British in every possible way. Active operations will probably begin this month, and for some time past elaborate preparations have been made for securing efficient transport. For instance 10,000 donkeys have been purchased at at Aden for carrying water to the troops.

Troops have been poured into Somaliland, and all kinds of appliances—including mule wagons from the Cape and even traction engines—have been accumulated at the bases. It is to be feared that the traction engines will not be of much use, seeing that practically nothing but camels or mules can ascend the steep paths which lead to the maritime plain.

Abyssinian Co-operation.

Thousands of camels have been employed in laying in a sufficient stock of rations for the garrisons up country, and in accumulating supplies for the two columns (each 2,000 rifles, mainly mounted) which are being formed. Two thousand ponies are to be purchased in the Ogaden country.

Much importance is attached to the co-operation of the Abyssinians, and the presence of a large body of Menelik's troops holding the wells at Galadi and Mudug will be of great help to our operations, as the Mullah's retreat to his favorite resort at Wardair will be closed, and he will have to stand and fight.

The only question appears to be as to whether the Mullah, who has taken advantage of the cessation of hostilities to lay in further supplies of arms and ammunition, will remain in the Nogal Valley (where he was when last heard of) until our preparations are completed.

There is no doubt, however, that the cheapest and most effective way of securing permanent peace would be to construct a light railway from Berbera to Bohotle, for which the route has already been surveyed and found to present no serious obstacles. The cost of the expedition now preparing is estimated at £50,000 a month and a few months of this expenditure would soon exceed the cost of the light railway.

A rumor comes from Jibuti, under date September 6, that the Mullah looted Illig last month, killing a large number of people, and capturing 500 rifles, 300 ponies, and many camels and sheep.

SAYS CANADA IS PLEDGED

Would Exclude Colonies From Enquiry Into Trade Relations

London, Sept. 19.—The Statist, referring to the resolution passed at the Chambers of Commerce Congress in Montreal urging that a special commission be appointed to consider trade relations within the Empire, says that both protectionists and free traders in Canada favor the preference idea, and it would therefore be hardly wise to invite the colonies to join an enquiry leading to a state of things in favor of which all are beforehand known to be committed. In considering whether the Mother Country will carry out the plan of the favored colonies, it is suggested that the commission should be judicial, not expert.

BUBONIC PLAGUE

Manila, Sept. 21—One hundred cases of bubonic plague are reported in Toledo, the most northern and populous surburban district of this city. Of these eighty have had a fatal termination. Twelve cases, with nine deaths, are also reported from Cebu in the province of Visayas.

Idea Abandoned

London, Sept. 19.—The Commonwealth Government has abandoned the idea of running an independent mail service between Australia and England, being convinced that no shipping company would undertake the contract that no colored labor may be employed.

REBELS KILL 600

Sultan of Morocco Barely Escapes Being Captured

Madrid, September 21—Private despatches from Morocco says that Ben Jusei, commanding a detachment of the imperial troops, and 600 of his men were killed recently in an engagement with the insurgents. The sultan is reported to have had a narrow escape from falling into the hands of the enemy.

Paris, Sept. 21—A despatch received by the French foreign office Aug. 29 from Morocco said that a large imperial force which was going to the relief of the troops commanded by the sultan had been surprised and almost annihilated by insurgents.

3,500 MEN OUT

Stoppage of the Works at the Canadian Soo

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Sept. 21—The Consolidated Lake Superior Company today announced the immediate closing of all industries here and in Michipicoten, excepting the water, the light, the car and ferry system. This decision throws thirty-five hundred men out of work.

The reason given is lack of funds to carry on the works and no prospects of getting any.

Stocks Went Down

London, Sept. 19.—The resignation of Mr. Chamberlain has had a distinctly weakening effect on colonial stocks. Last night the quotations of Canadian stocks registered a current price of 100. The highest this year was 103 7-8, and the lowest 100.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN WILL RETURN AS PREMIER

His Resignation Has Greatly Strengthened Him With the People

So Thinks Mr. C. F. Phillimore, of Leeds, Eng., Who is Visiting Canada at Present

Montreal, Sept. 19—"Don't make any mistake. He is not by any means down and out."

That was the verdict of Mr. Charles F. Phillimore, a prominent woollen manufacturer of Leeds, when approached by a reporter at the Windsor today, for an expression of opinion with regard to the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain.

Mr. Phillimore is one of the many mill men in the big mill district of the north of England, whose opinions have changed during the past few years in regard to the fiscal policy of the country. For years Mr. Phillimore looked upon Free Trade as the substantial foundation of Britain's greatness. Then he began to see mill after mill closed up or running at half blast. He saw the markets of Great Britain inundated with the cheap wares and merchandise of the United States and Germany. His opinions underwent a change, and, like many of his fellow manufacturers in Lancashire and Yorkshire, he hailed with delight the proposals of Mr. Chamberlain to change the fiscal policy of Great Britain.

"What do you think will happen now?" he was asked today.

"Oh, everything will go on about the same.

"Mr. Chamberlain has the opportunity that he could never have had as a Cabinet Minister, of going throughout the length and breadth of the British Isles explaining his doctrine and meeting the electors. He is the greatest factor in the political problem of today. He has an immense following in Great Britain. His resignation shows his strength.

"He is free. Heretofore he was to a certain extent muzzled.

"As a member of the Cabinet anything he might say was regarded as an official or semi-official declaration of the policy of the government. Now he is untrammelled and is able to go before the people to make clear the benefits that will be dervied by an adoption of the policy he advocates."

"Is a general election in sight?"

"Undoubtedly it cannot be long delayed," replied Mr. Phillimore. "It may be that the appeal to the country will not be made until Mr. Chamberlain has had an opportunity of stumping the country, and, in that way, bring the voters into line on the fiscal question. The country at the present time is entirely in the dark as to the nature and extent of the proposed changes. The matter had been gagged in Parliament, and there has been no way in which the details of the proposed fiscal changes could be determined. Of course, the elections may be forced on the Government earlier than they intended. The weakness of the Opposition favors the Government however.

"How a Gladstone would have revelled in the present opportunity.

"For my part I do not expect an appeal to the country before the end of the year. The vacant positions in the Cabinet will be filled and everything will go on as usual.

"There is then a strong feeling in the manufacturing centres of Great Britain in favor of a change in the fiscal policy?"

"There is a strong feeling in the large centres.

"The British manufacturer cannot hold his own against the flood of cheap goods that is pouring into the country from countries the markets of which are closed against us by prohibitive tariffs. The Liberals are raising the cry of a tax on food."

"That is not a true cry."

"There is nothing that has so far appeared in the proposals of Mr. Mr. Chamberlain that would lend color to the idea that food is going to be taxed. The cry will have a considerable effect upon the vote at the coming elections, however. The working man of England, in my opinion, would not tolerate any advance in the price of the necessaries of life."

WILL RETURN AS PREMIER.

Mr Phillimore, is confident of the return of Mr. Chamberlain into public life at an early date, and is inclined to believe that, when Mr. Chamberlain does come into power again, it will be as Prime Minister. In the meantime, the proposed tariff changes will be put before the electors in their entirety and the people will have an opportunity of seeing for themselves the national benefits to be derived from the policy.

The opinions of Mr. Phillimore are all the more important as in everything else, but the tariff question, he is an ardent Liberal. He is strongly opposed to the education legislation of the Balfour administration and is of the opinion that the Education question will play no small part in deciding the fate of the present Government at the coming elections.

In matters fiscal he is for Chamberlain, and believes firmly in the successful issue of the proposals.

A BLOW AT UNIONS

Mine Owners Decide on Very Radical Action

ARE TIRED OF DICTATION

Will Henceforth Employ No Union Man

Colorado Springs, Col., Sept. 21—The Mine Owners association, which includes the owners of nearly every shipping mine at Cripple Creek, has decided to employ only non-union men hereafter. The members of the association employ 5,000 of the 7,000 miners at work in the camp and thus control the situation. Notices were printed and tomorrow they will be conspicuously posted at every mine owned by members of the association.

The announcement has created considerable excitement as this action makes Cripple Creek a non-union camp. Throughout the twelve years of Cripple Creek's history union and non-union men have been about equally numerous. They have worked side by side in all the mines. Mine owners have heretofore refused to discriminate against union men and the Western Federation of Miners has not made war, except in strikes, against non-union workmen. Mine owners have never before attempted to destroy the union nor has the federation made any special effort to unionise the camp.

The action of the mine owners now is revolutionary. If the ultimatum wins organised labor must vacate the great gold camp, and only non-union men will work the mines as in the days before strikes and shutdowns were thought of.

Present Strike Provokes Action.

The provocation for the action is the present disastrous strike, which is in sympathy with the union employes of the United States Reduction and Refining and American Smelting and Refining companies. There is general discontent among the strikers themselves because of being called out to aid the mill and smelter men. A strong movement is on foot to disavow allegiance to the federation because of its various labor bodies and to organize a distinctive Mine Owners' association is its present revolution.

The presence of the state militia, which is in complete control of the camp, paralyses the federation, prevents picketing and the usual methods employed by strikers in defending their jobs against non-union workers. Adjutant General Bell says all comers even to train loads of imported men, shall be protected. He is a Cripple Creek pioneer and is generally credited with an honest wish to protect both sides from violence and to preserve order at all hazards. He says as workmen are imported they shall be protected like all other American citizens. Rumors are being circulated that a train load of non-union men to supplant strikers will arrive here here tonight en route to the camp.

The Mine Owners' Association is understood to be against unionism rather than against members of the union individually. If these strikers sever their connection with the federation they will be employed. An effort will certainly be made to reopen the mines with non-union men, imported or otherwise.

Says War Articles Rule

Adjutant General Bell will appear in the district court on Friday to make answer and return of the writ of habeas corpus which were issued against him and General Chase by Judge Seeds on behalf of four prisoners in the military guardhouse. In his answer to the complaint General Bell will set forth the articles of war which govern troops in the field, and which have been adopted in Colorado to govern the militia as the basis of his right to hold the prisoners. General Bell takes the position that at the present time not only the militia but all the inhabitants of this district are amenable to the articles of war.

SMOTHERED IN GRAIN

Montreal Boy of Fifteen Falls Into a Bin

Montreal, Sept. 19—Ernest Ennis, a fifteen-year-old boy, employed in the Montreal Warehousing Company's warehouse, Wellington street, fell into a grain bin today and was carried into the spout. The grain piled over him, causing suffocation, and when taken out he was dead.

Praise for the Jews

London, Sept. 21—A correspondent writing from South Wales to the Daily News, regrets that ironworking Israelites have been packed off to Canada, as had they been given time they would have settled down among the people and have become decent, law-abiding members of the community.

The Fingal Fraud

London, Sept. 21—Anthony S. Rowe who is reported to have been arrested in Toronto for the alleged great Fingall fraud, was also a member of Berwick, Moreing & Company, the well known mining engineers. Since Rowe's disappearance it was alleged that a large number of share certificates had been manipulated. The firm promptly undertook to make good the defalcations revealed in the mining company [illegible]

THE CAMPAIGN WILL BE PUSHED VIGOROUSLY

Some of the Ablest of the Rank and File Are Behind Mr. Chamberlain

His Plan is to Fight on Until Victory is Secured and the Colonies Get the Favors Demanded

London, Sept. 21.—Mr. Chamberlain's intimate friends scout the suggestion that he will abandon preferential policy. On the contrary, he resigned because, to quote himself, "I am more firmly convinced than ever that, being now unshackled, I can so put the case for the beginning of imperial partnership so as to win the next" election, whenever that comes."

IS WELL BACKED.

Ample funds and some of the ablest of the rank and file of the Ministerialists are behind Mr. Chamberlain. Britain never had an astuter electioneer than he. Almost single-handed he won the last election for Balfour. Now, when free, Mr. Chamberlain will really lead the campaign, putting up Chamberlainite candidates in every constituency where there is a chance of success. Already one hundred and fifty members of parliament have declared for him.

THE FALL CAMPAIGN.

His personal October campaign covers six leading cities of the north of England and Scotland, and invades Radical Wales.

A PREDICTION.

It is important to note that Mr. Balfour still supports Mr. Chamberlain's general policy, only he shrinks before the "dear loaf" cry, and says the time is not yet ripe, whereas Mr. Chamberlain sets out forthwith, determined to prove the fallacy of the cry. Not a few sound prophets expect that before next year is out Mr. Chamberlain will be the real, if not also the nominal, leader in a Ministry elected upon a moderate preference cum-retaliation policy, Mr. Balfour being his chief colleague. What stand immensely to Mr. Chamberlain's advantage is the fact that he is admittedly the only real efficient Minister and successful administrator in a Cabinet, which holds a Lansdowne and a Brodrick.

CANADA'S ATTITUDE.

When approached recently upon Canada's seeming hesitancy to officially support his policy, Mr. Chamberlain replied very quietly: "Oh, well, it is here in the Motherland that the question must now be fought. The Colonies made their position clear enough at the Colonial Conference, and I have no fears."

ROBBERY OF $9000

The Money Abstracted From a Leather Bag

Vancouver, Sept. 19—Detectives are investigating the robbery of $9,000 from the Wellington Colliery Company. The amount was taken from the sum sent up to pay the month's wages at the Comox mines on Tuesday from the head office here. Thirty-four thousand dollars was sent, as usual, in a leather bag. It was given in charge of the purser of the City of Nanaimo, arriving at the Comox wharf late on Tuesday night. The bag with the cash to pay the wages was left on the Joan until the morning when it was taken in charge by the paymaster at Union mines, who personally took it up on an engine to the head office. On opening the packet it was found that $9,000 had been extracted. No clue has been found as yet. One of the staples on the bag had been broken, and the lock left unmolested. The mouth of the bag had then been pried open enough to allow the money to be extracted.

TO FIGHT ROOSEVELT

Organized Labor Threatens Hostility Because of the Miller Case

Washington, Sept. 19.—Now President Roosevelt is threatened with hostility of organized labor. With capital distrustful of him on one side and labor showing its teeth on the other, the Presidential election of 1904 may not be so easily won as some of the President's friends have imagined. The Washington Central Labor Union, with the approval of the American Federation of Labor has appealed to every affiliated body in the country to condemn the President's attitude in causing the reinstatement of W. A. Miller in the Government employ as foreman in the bindery of the Government printing office. The Central Labor Union urges that the affiliated bodies petition the President to modify his order directing no discrimination in the employment of Government workers.

While the circular issued by the Central Labor Union to sister organizations is not belligerant in tone, labor leaders in this city do not conceal the fact that behind it lies a determination to organize a powerful opposition to the political aspirations of the President for re-election, if he declines to accede to their demands for the dismissal of Miller and the recognition of organized labor. Labor leaders here say they are in earnest, and that unless the President complies with their request they will fight him at the polls in to every State where organized labor has a foothold.

Copies of a resolution adopted by the Washington organization calling attention to the President's attitude toward organized labor have been sent to the 520 central labor unions representing the entire number of organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in the United States. The unions have a membership of approximately 2,500,000. There are goodr easons to believe that the American Federation of Labor endorsed the movement and is preparing to stand by the local organization in its demands. Secretary Cortelyou of the Department of Commerce and Labor, who has had the Miller case in hand for the President, recently held several interviews with President Gompers of the American Federation, and was not satisfied with Mr. Gompers' attitude.

London, Sept. 19.—The political crisis is still the sole topic of discussion in the United Kingdom. Premier Balfour is expected to have an audience with King Edward at Balmoral today, when, doubtless, he will present the nominations for the Cabinet vacancies. The exact nature of these appointments still continues a matter of varied surmise. Regarding the eventual result of the upheaval the Spectator's forecast that Mr. Balfour, when he appeals to the country, will be beaten and succeeded by a Rosebery Cabinet, which will not last long, attracts the greatest attention.

A curious phase of the situation is the severe criticism, regardless of party lines, bestowed on Mr. Balfour's action in publishing his views and selling them in pamphlet form. By Mr. Balfour's own admission, he is a "mere child in such matters," and his inexperience in business affairs now appears to have put him at the mercy of the publishers of the pamphlet who are coining money over the vital issue in national affairs. The Outlook, which is a warm supporter of the Premier, declares Mr. Balfour's indiscretion "strikes a rude blow at one's reverence for the traditions of English public life, when a public servant's position seems to be used for private gain, no matter where."

THE WORST FEATURE.

The Outlook adds that the fact that a note was sent to the editors with the pamphlet, only allowing them to quote one thousand words textually, is "one of the worst features of this deplorable business."

The Spectator and other periodicals also express concern on the latter point. The Outlook estimates that the profits on 100,000 copies will be over $17,000, of which Mr. Balfour will receive a large share. The pamphlet promises to reach a sale of a million copies. In the meantime there are no pamphlets in print, and the copies printed have reached a premium, many of them selling for 50 cents, double the price of the issue. Mr. Balfour's party managers openly proclaim grave dissatisfaction. In the first place, they say they cannot get any more copies for their impatient constituencies, and they object to paying for literature which is supposed to be the most powerful aid in keeping the Government in power.

Several of the conservative agents have gone so far as to threaten to resign. The publishers make no discount to party organizations, even though thousands are ordered, and actually demand the money in advance.

BIG MONTREAL STRIKE

Men May Quit Work This Week, Causing Loss and Trouble

Montreal, Sept. 21—It is just possible there may be another big strike in the building trades early next week. The decision was practically reached at a mass meeting of the Builders' Laborers' Protective Union, now a powerful organization.

The men have been restless all summer as the result of a sliding scale being in operation. It appears the men are being paid from 15 cents to 20 cents per hour. The demand which is to be made is for a flat scale of 20 cents an hour, and nine hours to constitute a day's work.

An officer of the union when seen by a reporter regarding the matter, said that the final decision would be reached at a general meeting of the union which has been called for Sunday afternoon in the St. Joseph's Hall, at the corner of St. Catherine and St. Elizabeth streets. He inclined to the belief that many of the prominent contractors would agree to the new demands, but he expected there would be trouble with some of the smaller contractors. He said the financial position of the union was now very strong. He hoped, however, that a fight would not have to be made. He did not think that 20 cents per hour was an exorbitant demand under the circumstances.

The cost of living in Montreal had increased twenty per cent. during past year, he contended, while the builders' laborers' wages had remained stationary.

ADVANCE ON MULLAH IS ABOUT TO BEGIN

Has Been Decided Upon—Traction Enginet to be Used to Facilitate Transportation of Supplies

London, Sept. 21—It is understood that the operation in Somaliland will very shortly be renewed, with, of course, General Egerton in command.

The intention of the Government is to make a supreme effort to deal the Mullah a really effective blow, although in well-informed circles little hope exists of catching him, unless the British force has specially good fortune.

The plan of campaign, contrary to expectation, will be similar to that which failed last year, and the base of operations from which the third brigade will start will again be Obbia, in Italian Somaliland. It has been recognized that the plan of campaign which made Obbia the base is the best; it was spoiled in the first instance by a lamentable lack of transport.

The British forces will co-operate with those of Abyssinia; the Emperor Menelik is extremely well-disposed and will probably help the British in every possible way. Active operations will probably begin this month, and for some time past elaborate preparations have been made for securing efficient transport. For instance 10,000 donkeys have been purchased at at Aden for carrying water to the troops.

Troops have been poured into Somaliland, and all kinds of appliances—including mule wagons from the Cape and even traction engines—have been accumulated at the bases. It is to be feared that the traction engines will not be of much use, seeing that practically nothing but camels or mules can ascend the steep paths which lead to the maritime plain.

Abyssinian Co-operation.

Thousands of camels have been employed in laying in a sufficient stock of rations for the garrisons upcountry, and in accumulating supplies for the two columns (each 2,000 rifles, mainly mounted) which are being formed. Two thousand ponies are to be purchased in the Ogaden country.

Much importance is attached to the co-operation of the Abyssinians, and the presence of a large body of Menelik's troops holding the wells at Galadi and Mudug will be of great help to our operations, as the Mullah's retreat to his favorite resort at Wardair will be closed, and he will have to stand and fight.

The only question appears to be as to whether the Mullah, who has taken advantage of the cessation of hostilities to lay in further supplies of arms and ammunition, will remain in the Nogal Valley (where he was when last heard of) until our preparations are completed.

There is no doubt, however, that the cheapest and most effective way of securing permanent peace would be to construct a light railway from Berbera to Bohotle, for which the route has already been surveyed and found to present no serious obstacles. The cost of the expedition now preparing is estimated at £50,000 a month and a few months of this expenditure would soon exceed the cost of the light railway.

A rumor comes from Jibuti, under date September 6, that the Mullah looted Illig last month, killing a large number of people, and capturing 500 rifles, 300 ponies, and many camels and sheep.

SAYS CANADA IS PLEDGED

Would Exclude Colonies From Enquiry Into Trade Relations

London, Sept. 19.—The Statist, referring to the resolution passed at the Chambers of Commerce Congress in Montreal urging that a special commission be appointed to consider trade relations within the Empire, says that both protectionists and free traders in Canada favor the preference idea, and it would therefore be hardly wise to invite the colonies to join an enquiry leading to a state of things in favor of which all are beforehand known to be committed. In considering whether the Mother Country will carry out the plan of the favored colonies, it is suggested that the commission should be judicial, not expert.

BUBONIC PLAGUE

Manila, Sept. 21—One hundred cases of bubonic plague are reported in Tondo, the most northern and populous surburban district of this city. Of these eighty have had a fatal termination. Twelve cases, with nine deaths, are also reported from Cebu in the province of Visayas.

Idea Abandoned

London, Sept. 19.—The Commonwealth Government has abandoned the idea of running an independent mail service between Australia and England, being convinced that no shipping company would undertake the contract that no colored labor may be employed.

TO UNITE EMPIRE

The Question Already Solved in Reduction in British Duties

London, Sept. 19.—A letter in the Spectator this morning draws attention to a letter written by Mr. William Hughes to the same journal long ago. Hughes then said that among Canadians he did not happen upon a single Home Ruler. In fact, he was obliged to own that Canadians set more store upon the unity of the Empire than we do as yet in the United Kingdom, but what was really exercising them was the probability of a more intimate union, or federation, with the Mother Country for defensive purposes. Mr. Hughes found that Canadians saw no difficulty whatever in carrying out the idea. They believed, indeed, that the question was already solved, but all felt that the really difficult problem was a commercial union, which nevertheless must be managed somehow if the Empire is to hold together. Mr. Hughes says the scheme suggested by the Canadians was one almost identical with that submitted by Sir Alexander Galt to the London Chamber of Commerce and Colonial Office. The editor of the Spectator says the scheme referred to had the great advantage of requiring no sacrifice of the fiscal principles prevailing from time to time in any quarter of the Empire. It only required a discount or reduction in the Customs duties in favor of British goods when such duties existed, and did not require their imposition when they did not exist. Herein it differed essentially from Mr. Chamberlain's scheme.

REBELS KILL 600

Sultan of Morocco Barely Escapes Being Captured

Madrid, September 21—Private despatches from Morocco says that Ben Jusei, commanding a detachment of the imperial troops, and 600 of his men were killed recently in an engagement with the insurgents. The sultan is reported to have had a narrow escape from falling into the hands of the enemy.

Paris, Sept. 21—A despatch received by the French foreign office Aug. 29 from Morocco said that a large imperial force which was going to the relief of the troops commanded by the sultan had been surprised and almost annihilated by insurgents.

3,500 MEN OUT

Stoppage of the Works at the Canadian Soo

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont, Sept. 21—The Consolidated Lake Superior Company today announced the immediate closing of all industries here and in Michipicoten, excepting the water, the light, the car and ferry system. This decision throws thirty-five hundred men out of work.

The reason given is lack of funds to carry on the works and no prospects of getting any.

Stocks Went Down

London, Sept. 19—The resignation of Mr. Chamberlain has had a distinctly weakening effect on colonial stocks. Last night the quotations of Canadian stocks registered a current price of 100. The highest this year was 102 7-8, and the lowest 100.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN WILL RETURN AS PREMIER

His Resignation Has Greatly Strengthened Him With the People

So Thinks Mr. C. F. Phillmore, of Leeds, Eng., Who is Visiting Canada at Present

Montreal, Sept. 19—"Don't make any mistake. He is not by any means down and out."

That was the verdict of Mr. Charles F. Phillimore, a prominent woollen manufacturer of Leeds, when approached by a reporter at the Windsor today, for an expression of opinion with regard to the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain.

Mr Phillimore is one of the many mill men in the big mill district of the north of England, whose opinions have changed during the past few years in regard to the fiscal policy of the country. For years Mr. Phillimore looked upon Free Trade as the substantial foundation of Britain's greatness. Then he began to see mill after mill closed up or running at half blast. He saw the markets of Great Britain inundated with the cheap wares and merchandise of the United States and Germany. His opinions underwent a change, and, like many of his fellow manufacturers in Lancashire and Yorkshire, he hailed with delight the proposals of Mr. Chamberlain to change the fiscal policy of Great Britain.

"What do you think will happen now?" he was asked today.

"Oh, everything will go on about the same.

"Mr. Chamberlain has the opportunity that he could never have had as a Cabinet Minister, of going throughout the length and breadth of the British Isles explaining his doctrine and meeting the electors. He is the greatest factor in the political problem of today. He has an immense following in Great Britain. His resignation shows his strength.

"He is free. Heretofore he was to a certain extent muzzled.

"As a member of the Cabinet anything he might say was regarded as an official or semi-official declaration of the policy of the government. Now he is untrammelled and is able to go before the people to make clear the benefits that will be dervied by an adoption of the policy he advocates."

"Is a general election in sight?"

"Undoubtedly it cannot be long delayed," replied Mr. Phillimore. "It may be that the appeal to the country will not be made until Mr. Chamberlain has had an opportunity of stumping the country, and, in that way, bring the voters into line on the fiscal question. The country at the present time is entirely in the dark as to the nature and extent of the proposed changes. The matter had been gagged in Parliament, and there has been no way in which the details of the proposed fiscal changes could be determined. Of course, the elections may be forced on the Government earlier than they intended. The weakness of the Opposition favors the Government however.

"How a Gladstone would have revelled in the present opportunity.

"For my part I do not expect an appeal to the country before the end of the year. The vacant positions in the Cabinet will be filled and everything will go on as usual.

"There is then a strong feeling in the manufacturing centres of Great Britain in favor of a change in the fiscal policy?"

"There is a strong feeling in the large centres.

"The British manufacturer cannot hold his own against the flood of cheap goods that is pouring into the country from countries the markets of which are closed against us by prohibitive tariffs. The Liberals are raising the cry of a tax on food."

"That is not a true cry."

"There is nothing that has so far appeared in the proposals of Mr. Mr. Chamberlain that would lend color to the idea that food is going to be taxed. The cry will have a considerable effect upon the vote at the coming elections, however. The working man of England, in my opinion, would not tolerate any advance in the price of the necessaries of life."

WILL RETURN AS PREMIER.

Mr Phillimore, is confident of the return of Mr. Chamberlain into public life at an early date, and is inclined to believe that, when Mr. Chamberlain does come into power again, it will be as Prime Minister. In the meantime, the proposed tariff changes will be put before the electors in their entirety and the people will have an opportunity of seeing for themselves the national benefits to be derived from the policy.

The opinions of Mr. Phillimore are all the more important as in everything else, but the tariff question, he is an ardent Liberal. He is strongly opposed to the education legislation of the Balfour administration and is of the opinion that the Education question will play no small part in deciding the fate of the present Government at the coming elections.

In matters fiscal he is for Chamberlain, and believes firmly in the successful issue of the proposals.

A BLOW AT UNIONS

Mine Owners Decide on Very Radical Action

ARE TIRED OF DICTATION

Will Henceforth Employ No Union Man

Colorado, Springs, Col., Sept. 21—The Mine Owners association, which includes the owners of nearly every shipping mine at Cripple Creek, has decided to employ only non-union men hereafter. The members of the association employ 5,000 of the 7,000 miners at work in the camp and thus control the situation. Notices were printed and to-morrow they will be conspicuously posted at every mine owned by members of the association.

The announcement has created considerable excitement as this action makes Cripple Creek a non-union camp. Throughout the twelve years of Cripple Creek's history union and non-union men have been about equally numerous. They have worked side by side in all the mines. Mine owners have heretofore refused to discriminate against union men and the Western Federation of Miners has not made war, except in strikes, against non-union workmen. Mine owners have never before attempted to destroy the union nor has the federation made any special effort to unionize the camp.

The action of the mine owners now is revolutionary. If the ultimatum wins organized labor must vacate the great gold camp, and only non-union men will work the mines as in the days before strikes and shutdowns were thought of.

Present Strike Provokes Action.

The provocation for the action is the present disastrous strike, which is in sympathy with the union employes of the United States Reduction and Refining and American Smelting and Refining companies. There is general discontent among the strikers themselves because of being called out to aid the mill and smelter men. A strong movement is on foot to disavow allegiance to the federation because of its various labor bodies and to organize a distinctive Mine Owners' association in its present revolution.

The presence of the state militia, which is in complete control of the camp, paralyzes the federation, prevents picketing and the usual methods employed by strikers in defending their jobs against non-union workers. Adjutant General Bell says all comers even to train loads of imported men, shall be protected. He is a Cripple Creek pioneer and is generally credited with an honest wish to protect both sides from violence and to preserve order at all hazards. He says if workmen are imported they shall be protected like all other American citizens. Rumors are being circulated that a train load of non-union men to supplant strikers will arrive here here tonight en route to the camp.

The Mine Owners' Association is understood to be against unionism rather than against members of the union individually. If these strikers sever their connection with the federation they will be employed. An effort will certainly be made to reopen the mines with non-union men, imported or otherwise.

Says War Articles Rule

Adjutant General Bell will appear in the district court on Friday to make answer and return of the writ of habeas corpus which were issued against him and General Chase by Judge Seeds on behalf of four prisoners in the military guardhouse. In his answer to the complaint General Bell will set forth the articles of war which govern troops in the field, and which have been adopted in Colorado to govern the militia as the basis of his right to hold the prisoners. General Bell takes the position that at the present time not only the militia but all the inhabitants of this district are amenable to the articles of war.

SMOTHERED IN GRAIN

Montreal Boy of Fifteen Falls Into a Bin

Montreal, Sept. 18—Ernest Ennis, a fifteen-year-old boy, employed in the Montreal Warehousing Company's warehouse, Wellington street, fell into a grain bin today and was carried into the spout. The grain piled over him, causing suffocation, and when taken out he was dead.

Praise for the Jews

London, Sept. 21—A correspondent writing from South Wales to the Daily News, regrets that ironworking Israelites have been packed off to Canada, as had they been given time they would have settled down among the people and have become decent, law-abiding members of the community.

The Fingal Fraud

London, Sept. 21—Anthony S. Rowe who is reported to have been arrested in Toronto for the alleged great Fingall fraud, was also a member of Berwick, Moreing & Company, the well known mining engineers. Since Rowe's disappearance it was alleged that a large number of share certificates had been manipulated. The firm promptly undertook to make good the defalcations revealed in the mining company accounts.

BRITISH CABINET CRISIS

Canada and the whole empire are particularly interested in the grave crisis which has developed in the British cabinet. The resignation of Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Ritchie would indicate a very large breach in the Balfour cabinet, coming, as it does, immediately after the publication of the premier's pamphlet on the fiscal situation. It would appear that Mr. Chamberlain, as representing the protective idea as an imperial measure, for knitting the colonies with the mother country, and Mr. Ritchie, who represents the free trade element in the government, are equally dissatisfied with the premier's pronouncement in favor of protection for Britain for protection's sake.

Mr Chamberlain has been represented as stating that the Balfour government will be succeeded by a Liberal ministry which will not last six months, and then, it is presumed, though he did not say so, that Mr. Chamberlain expects the country to adopt his policy. Mr. Chamberlain is undoubtedly a good judge of public opinion and possibly gauges correctly the attitude of the British public on his policy, but from the colonial standpoint it would be much better if the British electorate could be induced or educated up to pronouncing on the question of protection first of irrespective of the preferential scheme, and as a purely British measure. If they are impetuously rushed into a verdict for a preferential tariff pure and simple, they will expect immediate results of a pronounced characted, whereas the building up of inter-imperial trade may not be so rapid, though sure, as to meet their expectations. Disappointment might result in the reversal of the policy before it received a fair trial. If on the other hand, they adopt protection for protection's sake, the ultimate working out of the preferential idea could be proceeded with with the deliberation which it will in all probability require.

BRITAIN'S WAY

The present investigation of Britain into the causes of the disasters of the South African war, is splendidly typical of the slow relentless, stolidity for which the name of Britain has ever stood.

The war and its disappointments came, and Britain although unprepared, sent men and money as the call came, until the Empire won.

Then she set her new nations in order.

And after all is over, she sits down to reckon just where the weakness lay.

In France, in the United States, in Canada three years after a war was over it would have been relegated to history. As the war finished there would have been a hasty counting of the cost, approximate justice would have been dealt carelessly out, and that would have been all.

But three years after the South African war Britain is only beginning to get mad.

From cities, towns, and villages of Great Britain comes demands for reports of the war commission, impossible to supply at once. The Englishmen will read and ponder and when his chance comes at the polls or otherwise, his ultimatum will have no uncertain sound.

"It is England's little way of doing business," sings Kipling. The reckoning may be long in coming, but come it surely will.

PRAIRIE CROP PROSPECTS

A day or two after our last report about the crop was printed there came news of one of those sudden drops of temperature to which parts of our prairie country are subject. There were storms of wind and cold rain over many of the Northwestern States of the Union, doing great damage. Manitoba also suffered from rain and snow. Much apprehension was felt lest the very large proportion of grain uncut or yet in stock should be irretrievably injured. Later information helped to dispel these fears. Damage has been done, but it is not extensive damage. Our customary Winnipeg despatch of Thursday noon says this week: The latest news from the country concerning the crops is somewhat reassuring after the reports of great damage which it was feared the storm of last Saturday and Sunday had entailed. The latest advices tend to relieve anxiety, for they are generally hopeful and indicate a minimum of damage. Threshing will be greatly delayed generally, but the favorable weather which has prevailed since the storm should prove the saving of the country.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The International Typographical union binds its members with an oath which shall not be limited by any allegiance that the individual member may now or hereafter owe to any other organization, social, political or religious." President Roosevelt has counteracted that by compelling all members employed in the government bureau at Washington to take the oath of allegiance to support the constitution and the government, if, hereafter, those who have taken this oath shall attempt to interfere with the conduct of the government printing office, by demanding the discharge of a non-unionist employe, they will be instantly dismissed for violating their oaths of office.

ARE JOINING HANDS

Radicalism and Labor Fighting for the Same Cause

London, September 19.—Radicalism and labor are surely joining hands in British politics. Some significance therefore attaches to a long article in Truth, the organ of Henry Labouchere, the leader of one wing of the Radical party, in which British encouragement of emigration to Canada is sternly denounced. The article declares: "It is sheer madness to courage healthy, energetic, enterprising Britons to settle in Canada. Britain has exported to Canada during the past decade 300,000 picked people whom Britain can ill afford to lose. How much better it would be for British trade and industry, if the potential producers and consumers remained, and if Canada took Britain's criminals, paupers, lunatics and ne'erdowells. Emigration is useful and wholesome, but as the colonies refuse the less able classes, Britain is simply being drained of her first element of wealth."

This is pretty much the attitude of the British Trade-Unionists and labor leaders, who are attaining a greater hold each month upon the Liberal party here.

NEURALGIA

THIS DISTRESSING COMPLAINT IS DUE TO IMPOVERISHED BLOOD

When the blood becomes thin and watery, as a matter of course, you become weak, vitality goes down low, and there is but little power in the system to ward off disease and pain.

Neuralgia hunts out a weak spot, and makes a home there, so secure that it is [illegible] of proper remedies it can be driven from the system, never to return. To obtain immediate relief, first apply to the painful parts, a good quantity of Polson's Nerviline, and then bind on a hot flannel cloth.

This local treatment will be found very efficacious, but must be followed by a course of Ferrozone treatment. Ferrozone is a blood food, and a blood purifier, and quickly strengthens the system so that further attacks may never be feared. It makes the rich red kind of blood that gives strength and vigor to weak constitutions and puts them in good shape to resist neuralgia attacks.

This combined treatment of Nerviline and Ferrozone in Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Rheumatism, is marvelously effective and cures after all else has failed. Because of the unique success of these remedies we have no hesitation in recommending them to our readers. All druggists sell them.

A VERY STRONG TEAM

Balfour and Chamberlain Will Stand Together

And Fight for the Colonies—British People must Face the New Position

London, Sept. 18—I have good authority to state that the Daily Mail is quite unwarranted in its assumption today that Balfour's pamphlet means his hostility to Chamberlain and his refusal to accept Mr. Chamberlain's preference plans. Since the pamphlet was circulated among the Cabinet Ministers, Mr. Balfour has made speeches strongly supporting Mr Chamberlain's general ideas.

Moreover the whole pamphlet is based on the conviction that the British people must face the new position brought about by the development of the Empire, and while preparing to retaliate against foreign bounties, must also prepare to add the tie of self-interest to the present sentimental bond between the Colonies and the Motherland.

In a word Balfour took the Chamberlain stand together with the retaliation cum-preference policy though Mr. Balfour's influence will certainly be used to secure moderation in the new measures and to avoid any highly protective proposals.

Despite the predictions of enemies, despite also the possibility of some Ministerial resignations, which necessitate a slight reconstruction in the Cabinet, there are good grounds for expecting that the Ministry will make a united stand in parliament next session in support of the policy urged at the last Colonial Conference by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and other Colonial Ministers.

Smith: Waste-Product.

There were four of us, met together one Saturday evening in our accustomed quiet Bloomsbury tavern—three of us friends of long standing, the fourth only admitted to the circle of late; we knew little of him save that his name was Smith; his age would be something over thirty, and he seemed to have done and seen most things under the sun.

That evening someone had mentioned the case of a young fellow who had just been told by his doctor that he must not expect to live more than ten years, and we had been discussing whether he should live "the strenuous life" for his short span, or take things easily. Smith listened in silence for a time, but presently broke out.

"Blame me if I can understand you fellows," he said, "and your talk of the strenuous life and fame and success and the rest of it; I suppose it's not in me

For to be'old and for to see,
For to admire this world so wide

—that's me. I've not had much of a time of it on the whole; had a bad start for one thing. I was what people call the 'love-child' of a barmaid. Don't know nor care who my father was—bit of a swell, probably; he settled a hundred and fifty a year on me for life through some lawyers. I was put out to nurse soon after I was born and never saw my mother to know her—lawyers told me who she was. I had a middling education and could gabble my 'Arma virumque' with the best of 'em when I was sixteen. I started in Canada, took up my 160 acres, wheat got frozen two years running, so I chucked it and went lumbering. Got down into the States, was a potman in New York, clerk in a tinned beef show in Chicago, cow-puncher in Utah, and worked on fruit ranches in California. Fine country, California. Signed on a tramp at 'Frisco, left her at Sydney and did Australia—sheep-shearing, cattle stations, 'sundowning,' anything, mostly 'sundowning.' Made a bit of money over a deal in cattle, blued it in a week in Sydney, and got on another tramp for Cape Town. Left her there, went up country and joined the B. S. A. Police, went through the Matabele war and was in the Jameson Raid, and then came home for a spell."

Why "home"? I thought.

"Went out to the Cape again a bit before the war; when that started joined the I.L.H., and went all through it. War's about my mark, I guess—not soldiering, mind you. There's a grisly kind of fascination in the zip-zip-zipping of the bullets, seeing fellows go down all round you, and wondering where the next one's coming. It's like swapping yarns with death. What am I going to do now? Lord knows; there's not much left in life for me; it's a mystery why some bullet didn't come my way a bit straighter, but my sort don't seem to get killed that way. Marry and settle down? Not likely; women 're just like places to me—I get sick of 'em. I've loved a few; I'm all human that way I'm not one of your cold blooded kind Holy Mary! pity women!"

He brought his fist down on the table with a display of emotion that was astounding.

"I've broken all the ten commandments and I haven't the conscience of a self-respecting rat: but when I think of those poor, simple, trusting fools—God! why had I no mother?"

"Ah, well," he went on, "Ca ira. Some fellow once called me a waste-product of the Empire—it's a fancy phrase, but I guess he wasn't far wrong. I'll be on the move again soon—I'm sick of your cursed stuffy city—I want God Almighty's winds in my face, and the smell of the sea in my nostrils, and the sound of it in my ears; I want the veld or the prairies again—space—God! I want space."

He stretched out his arms and drew in a long breath through clenched teeth and then got up.

"Well, good night, you fellows: I've been drinking too much to-night, but I'll give you a last toast—here's to the next war, and pray God I'll never see forty." He drained his glass and lurched unsteadily out into the night.

SEPTEMBER 22 to 24

Owing to the liberal and substantial subscriptions made by Peterborough citizens, the Directors of the Exhibition Association have been enabled to have the Prize List thoroughly revised, and the amounts offered as Prizes largely increased, particularly in the lines of Horses, Cattle, Sheep and Swine.

The advance in many cases equals from 100 to 300 per cent. It is expected that the enterprise shown in this respect will ensure an active competition in all classes of Farm Stock.

ARE YOU A PRISONER?

THOUSANDS of men are prisoners of disease as securely as though they were confined behind the bars. Many have forged their own chains by the vices of early youth, exposure to contagious disease, or the excesses of manhood. They feel they are not the men they ought to be or used to be. The vim, vigor, and vitality of manhood are lacking. Are you nervous and despondent? tired in the morning? have you to force yourself through the day's work? have you little ambition and energy? are you irritable and excitable? eyes sunken, depressed and haggard looking? memory poor and brain fagged? have you weak back with dreams and losses at night? deposit in urine? weak sexually?—you have

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500.00, and to the five next nearest $100 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the returns are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 8% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $4.00 per day while here, as nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA., PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty Numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

"What I mean," replied Claude, "is that I expressly informed you that Rolff House was not to be included in any of the transactions, and you could not have mistaken me in the matter. If you took advantage of my confidence in you to disobey my instructions and deceive me in the nature of the papers drawn up, it places your conduct in an equally bad light. The fraud is not less for being a cunning instead of a bold one. Now, sir, I wish only to be informed if you claim to have deeds covering Rolff House and the adjoining estate?"

"I do, most certainly," replied the lawyer. "And I will add that they are regularly drawn, and duly signed and witnessed. Still, as said——"

"That is enough," replied Claude, flushing with indignation. "I do not feel able to-day to discuss this matter further. You will next hear from me, most probably, through my counsel."

"You mean war?" asked the lawyer.

"I do—if it is necessary to assert my rights."

"Before proceeding to extreme measures, it might be well to more fully understand your position," said the lawyer.

Claude did not reply. Making a low bow, he withdrew.

Lawyer Saybrook rubbed his hands in a self-satisfied manner as he turned to Ralph, and said:

"I fancy I bluffed him pretty neatly, Ralph."

"Yes, very nicely," drawled the son.

"We have got to fight this out, Ralph," continued the lawyer, "that is, unless we [illegible] the young fool and come to a satisfactory arrangement."

"Exactly," responded Ralph.

"He can't bother us much. I am satisfied of it," continued the lawyer, "still, his coming now is very awkward for us. I am particularly concerned on account of your relations with Rose. I am afraid it will have a bad influence on the girl. Still, we must not give up the battle yet. Our case, I maintain, is not desperate."

"I should hope not," responded Ralph. "I am too much interested in the young lady to be willing to give her up. I would prefer to resort to the most extreme measures rather than give her up."

"So we will, Ralph, so we will," replied the father. "Leave that to me. The longest head is bound to win. We will see who has got it."

CHAPTER XXIX.

It was the third day after his arrival home before Claude made any effort to see Rose. He well understood the nature of old farmer Bruyn's feelings toward him, as he had been fully informed of the situation in Rose's letter and from old Carl's statements since his return.

Claude had arrived home in the evening, having come by stage to a neighboring town, and then, in his anxiety to reach home, taken to the saddle from there. He went at once to the humble domicile occupied by Carl Cram, and was heartily greeted by that worthy old fellow. After a good night's rest, he had spent the morning in hearing from old Carl a full account of all that had passed during his absence, and in the afternoon had [illegible] to lawyer Saybrook's office and had the interview described in the last chapter. It appears that he had not received the letter dispatched to him by Rose and old Carl by the hands of the privateer sailor, but, becoming uneasy in regard to the plans of British invasions that were [illegible] in Europe, and resolved if possible to give his services to his country in her hour of need, he had taken passage for home in the manner and with the results before described.

Claude was [illegible] to see Rose, but very much perplexed how to gratify his wish without injury to his self-respect. He understood well enough that the old farmer would be decidedly opposed to his having any intercourse with her, and he felt scruples as to his right to use any influence to induce her to disobey her father's wishes in any way. But if "love laughs at locksmiths," it certainly has a way of overcoming lesser obstacles; and Claude soon resolved in his mind to send a note to Rose by old Carl, asking her to meet him in the old wood, at their trysting place, at a certain hour, provided that she secured the consent of her mother to the interview. In this way he felt that he had compromised with his conscience to a sufficient degree, and at the same time would secure his object, as he remembered that he had been a favorite with Mrs. Bruyn, and did not doubt that she would readily consent to the interview.

In response to his note, he received a tender and brief epistle from Rose, telling him that her mother had consented to the interview, but only on condition that she accompanied her and was present. Claude could not well object to this arrangement, spite of his [illegible] to meet Rose alone and have a full explanation and understanding in regard to the obstacles that had been thrown into the pathway of their love.

A little before the hour he proceeded to the appointed place, and had not long to wait ere Rose and her mother appeared. Claude's bearing was so courteous and sincere, that it at once dispelled any prejudice against him that might have been excited in Mrs. Bruyn's mind. And, withal, he looked so handsome, and his evident suffering condition so appealed to the sympathies of the good lady's womanly heart, that it was well for him that she had chosen to be present at the interview.

Claude first greeted Mrs. Bruyn, and then taking Rose's hand pressed it to his lips. Not a word was said by either, but their eyes told the tale of mutual distress and longing during the months of their separation.

Claude's story was soon told.

"My early return," he said, "is no doubt a surprise. The war had hardly broken out, however, before I resolved to take the first opportunity to reach home. Mr. Saybrook had constantly assured me in his letters that there would be no outbreak of war, so I had not been led to anticipate it. But when I found that I was really shut out from my native land in her hour of peril, and [illegible] I came to think what changes [illegible] I left Dresden and went to Hamburg and other Dutch ports, but could find no vessels going to America. I then went to France, as I had heard that occasionally an American privateer would avoid the British blockade, and run into port for repairs. I went to Calais, and after waiting there until I was almost discouraged, I was gladdened one day by learning that a schooner had escaped the blockade and run into the harbor, and was probably an American vessel. I took a boat and went on board, and found, to my joy, that it was an American privateer. I at once offered the captain to ship with him as a common sailor, and, as I was an American, he took me at once. On our return I was hurt in an engagement with a British brig, which accounts for my weak condition. But I shall get well if—if——"

He hesitated, as if somewhat fearful to repeat the thought that had occurred to him; and Mrs. Bruyn quickly replied:

"I trust you will get well without any 'if,' Claude. You are young and of vigorous constitution, and a long and useful life should be yours."

"But, my dear Mrs. Bruyn, I would not care to live a moment if the dream of happiness I have cherished should be rudely destroyed. I think it needs no words to tell how truly Rose and I love each other. No one else can ever fill her place in my heart. I am alone in the world, without kith or kin; my friends seem to turn to enemies; those whom I trusted with implicit faith have proven false and tried to rob me of my inheritance; and if, now, the one dream of happiness that I have cherished above all others is to be ruthlessly shattered, I shall regret that the wound I received on board the Harpy did not strike me dead at once."

Rescuing the Baby.

One of Mr. T. G. Warren's most successful farcical comedies was a piece called "Nita's First," and the plot of this, as its title sufficiently reveals, turned upon the attempt of a secretly married young couple to hide their offspring from a rich relation—which rich relation was, of course, an eccentric uncle in a plaid shawl and [illegible] whiskers, with a desperate desire to pay his nephew's debts only on condition that the nephew was still single. To make it known to the man in the street, and the man in the street's wife, that there was a baby in the case (there was a great run on wax babies for farcical comedy some fifteen years ago), the management of the Novelty Theatre, where "Nita's First" was to be produced, sent out a procession of sandwich men, carrying in their arms counterfeit babies in red hoods and long white robes. Towards the end of the day it was observed that one of the sandwich men had been drinking too much with his sandwich. [illegible] along the narrow [illegible] like an intoxicated [illegible] the time he reached [illegible] he had become hopelessly detached from his companions, and [illegible] about in a vague [illegible] search for them, now and again, as he stumbled along, looking [illegible] down at the baby in his [illegible] as if [illegible] puzzled to know how [illegible] it got there. Crossing westward into Oxford street, the wretched human hoarding made a too adhesive shuffle over a protruding road-block, and sprawling forward on his hands and knees, shot the red-hooded infant under the wheels of a passing omnibus. Women shrieked and turned the color of ivory, men shouted and rushed to the heads of the horses, [illegible] policeman who was on traffic duty [illegible] left it for the scene of the tragedy. Turning the infant gently over, to ascertain the extent of its injuries, one of the policemen discovered that it could only [illegible] in the worst of accidents, and to the horror of the excited crowd, who were not in the secret, went over to the drunken sandwich man and whacked him over the head with it. Then [illegible] from his baby's eyes with the [illegible] ragged coat.—M. A. P.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 29th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails went to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Punka Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 412 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, [illegible] per box or [illegible]

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's [illegible] for [illegible] will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

My Newspaper

I want to commend my newspaper to a weary public. You would not permit free advertising, so I must not mention its name. In fact, there is a little practical difficulty in so doing, that I will let you infer.

My newspaper depends upon its reputation for giving all of the news, rather than upon the tricky device of staring headlines to gull the thoughtless. Therefore, it does not think it necessary to begin every important article on the first page.

Before I discovered my newspaper, I used to become very irritable at the breakfast table. I would begin a piece of news, read down the column, and find this formula, "Continued on page three." Then I would refold the great sheet, stand it up against the water-pitcher, and read a dozen lines to the end. Turning back to the first page, I would begin another article and soon come to a stop with the words, "Continued on page nine." This time I would rumple the paper considerably as I hunted for the sequel. About the third time, I would say to my wife, "What is the matter with this coffee? I never drank such vile stuff before in my life."

We killed a man at our club the other night, and he was a good fellow, too. We all liked him, but we all joined in the most brutal assault upon him. The trouble was that he would everlastingly interlard his talk with such expressions as this: "The news about Smith, that I was the first to make public, etc." Or this, "As I told you all last week, etc." Some of the gentlest members of the club fell upon him in a perfect rage.

There came into the village a man who undertook to reform the club; he said we were too dull, too remote from real life. "What," said he, "do we care about the downfall of the British ministry, or the prospects of polar exploration?" He said the daily newspaper was a very good index to what the people were interested in, and we ought to get our subjects from the press.

Well, to be brief, he carried his point and revolutionized the club. I will give a few of the topics that I hear have been under discussion: "Who began the row at McFlynn's saloon?" "The naked facts of the Jonesbury divorce case." "The art of padding for scrawny built women." They tell me the meetings are very full I don't know. My wife and I stay at home and read my newspaper.—Kilmis Caston in "Life."

An Unhappy Woman.

"Mary Queen of Scots was a most unhappy woman, wasn't she?" enquired a thin man of a friend in the train the other day.

"Indeed she was," replied the other earnestly.

"Queen Elizabeth was also far from happy, wasn't she?"

"Very much so, I should say, if history is to be believed."

"Then there was Catherine——"

"What on earth are you driving at, may I ask?" broke in the man who was being regaled with the names of the unhappy women of history.

"I was just about to remark," continued the thin man, "that the name of the unhappiest woman in the world does not appear in history. Now, I've got a sister-in-law named Martha Tabbs, and just at present she is the most wretched woman on the face of the earth."

"What's the matter with her—lost money?"

"No——"

"Ill, maybe!" broke in the other.

"No; but, you see, last week her husband bought her a two-guinea hat——"

"And I suppose the two-guinea hat made her more unhappy than Mary Queen of Scots was, when she discovered that her neighbor had one costing five?"

"That was not it at all. She was as happy as a skylark in a June meadow until she tripped and fell going up some steps and sprained her ankle. She is now lying in bed, unable to wear the hat, and by the time she can wear it, it will probably be out of fashion. I tell you it is sad to watch her looking tearfully at that hat, which hangs on a peg near her bed. Talk about the unhappy women of history. Why she is more unhappy than any ten of them put together."—"Pick-Me-Up."

Caught in the Act.

Walter A. Wyckoff, professor of sociology at Princeton, recently married Miss Leah Brich of Colorado Springs, whom he met while, disguised as a tramp, he traveled in order to study the lives of the homeless. Some time after he returned to Princeton, he related an incident that happened on a train on which he was riding in the West. The train was a slow one that ran twice a week between two small stations. He boarded it with two companions, and half an hour after starting it entered a very black tunnel. A man seated across the aisle asked the conductor how long it would take to pass through the tunnel.

"Oh, about two hours," the conductor snapped, and hurried through the car.

The man opposite fumbled among his grips. Soon he seemed to be struggling with something in the darkness. Suddenly the car was illuminated with a glaring sunlight, for the train had emerged from the tunnel. All eyes turned toward the man opposite. The two hours of darkness promised him by the conductor he had begun to use in changing his shirt. He now sat thunderstricken, his coat, shirt, necktie and collar thrown over the next seat, as naked from the waist up as a man about to take a bath.

Senator Ingalls' Epitaph.

In accordance with the wish of the late Senator Ingalls, his widow has placed at his grave one of the huge red bowlders with which the Kansas prairies are strewn. The stone weighs five tons, and bears a bronze tablet with the following inscription selected from Senator Ingalls' work, "Blue Grass:" "When the fitful fever is ended, and the foolish wrangle of market and forum is closed, grass heals over the scar which our descent into the bosom of the earth has made, and the blanket of the infant becomes the blanket of the dead."

"Professor, I know a man who says he can tell, by the impression on his mind, when his wife wants him to come home to dinner. Is it telepathy?" "Not at all, miss. I should call that mendacity."—Chicago "Tribune."

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000

PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD——$80,000,000——GOLD

—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 100 to 400 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill-site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ore. For that purpose it now offers for sale 250,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cts. per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent. annual dividend on the stock paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends have been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
136 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 22 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. [illegible] shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $8 to $54.20 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file of investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 19—It is estimated that thus far this year $600,000,000 in wages have been lost through strikes. Certain bulls have passed the tip around to brokers that October and December cotton are to have an advance. However, the cotton market as a whole appears to be manipulated, in that the proportion of business through commission houses is still rather small. Frosts in Ohio this morning; Patents is advising the sale of wheat. Omaha had no frost last night. Frost in Cincinnati and Louisville.

London market has been weak, now hardening; 40 roads, 2nd week in Sept., gross increase 17.00 per cent. No deterioration in crop conditions over night. Political developments in far east more favorable. Southern railway shows surplus in pfd. divs. $707,000.

Bank lost $2,770,000 since Friday. Dun's weekly crop report not so favorable for corn and cotton. U. S. steel officials say undue significance is attached to the closing down of mills.

Chicago, Sept. 19— Winter wheat crop is under 45,000,000. Snow figures spring wheat crop in three north western states at between 170 and 180 million bushels; he considers corn outlook favorable for some under rather than over 2 billions. Weather Kansas—Cool and cloudy; St. Louis—Clear and cool; Dayton, O.—Frost last night; Dakotas—Fair and warm today.

The Butlers of England.

Butlers in the old houses of the British aristocracy, writes the Marquise de Fountenoy, in The New York Tribune, have always enjoyed a certain amount of prestige and respectability, and their loyalty and devotion to the interests of the families in whose service they have grown grey furnish a favorite theme in those of the popular novels of the last hundred years that deal with the English nobility. The species of halo thus acquired in the eyes of the general public by these usually rather impressive leaders of high life below stairs is likely to be rendered still more effulgent by the announcement that the late Thomas Couchman, who died at the age of nearly seventy, as butler of the Earl of Ravensworth, has left a fortune which, according to the records of the Probate Court, exceeds $190,000. His entire life, or rather, I should say, the whole term of his domestic service, extending over a period of nearly half a century, has been spent in the employ of the family of Lord Ravensworth, and the estate which he has left represents not merely his savings, but also the result of several very fortunate investments, and likewise three substantial legacies. How fortunes of this kind can be accumulated by servants who remain for long numbers of years in the employ of the great houses of the English nobility was shown some time ago, in the course of certain legal proceedings, during which a footman in the service of Lord Northcote testified under cross-examination that, although his wages did not exceed $300 a year, yet his place was worth $3,000 a year, thanks to the tips which he received from his master's guests, and likewise to occasional gifts and perquisites from members of the Earl's family. It will be seen from this that, after all, there are some compensations in the life of a domestic servant, especially when one rises to the eminence of butler in one of the old houses of the English nobility, with free access to cellars that are often of national celebrity, and the satisfaction derived from the knowledge that one is, after all, part and parcel of that time-honored institution known as the English aristocracy.

Cartridges as Money.

For a great number of years salt bricks and Maria Theresa thalers have formed the only currency of Abyssinia, says Commercial Intelligence. It appears, however, that the salt bricks, representing the minor forms of currency, have lately been more or less superseded in the financial transactions of everyday life by cartridges. This is undoubtedly due to the great affection of the natives for their firearms. In all the markets of Northern Abyssinia, more especially in Adua and Makalle, the native dealers are displaying alongside their sugar-loaves and pieces of soap long rows of glittering cartridges which serve the same purpose as the contents of an English merchant's cash box.

The Latest Humor.

She—The captain is the very picture of bravery, isn't he?

He (Jealous)—Oh, I don't know. You will observe that he has a retreating forehead.—Kansas City Journal.

Van Quiz—You shouldn't growl at your mother-in-law. Didn't she save you from drowning?

Fitz Bile—Yes, but didn't she save herself, too?—New Orleans Times Democrat.

Some Irish Wit.

Mr. McDonnell Bodkin, K.C., tells some fine stories of the Irish judiciary in his recent book on the "Diversions" of the Irish law court. Of an eminent Judge he says:—He was an Irishman and a Connaught man to his finger-tips—with a western brogue which, to use his own expression, you could "hang your hat on." There is a story current that on one occasion he was present at a wedding with the Irish Sydney Smith, the famous Father Healy of Bray, to whom he complained he had "no slipper to throw after the bride." "Throw your brogue, my Lord," retorted Father Healy, promptly.

Fortunately for the fun of the world, the advice was not taken. The broad brogue was part of the man's self. It was relished as keenly at the most aristocratic dinner tables in London as in the Claddagh, in Galway. Our Judge, though a strong Irishman, was a strong Unionist. It is told that he sat at a brilliant dinner beside Lord Aberdeen when he first came as home rule Viceroy to Ireland.

"I assume, my Lord," said the unsophisticated Viceroy, glancing round at the brilliant gathering, "I assume we are all home rulers here."

"Faith, your Excellency," was the blunt and unexpected retort, "there isn't a home ruler in the room except yourself—and the waiters!"

I have often heard him quaintly justify his political creed. "Here we are," he said, "a quick-witted, poor nation, in partnership with a dull-witted, rich nation, with our full share of the till, and yet nothing will please us but to go off and set up a miserable little shebeen of our own."

That the humor of the Bench and Bar is still alive, let one or two stories of living personages prove. An eminent living leader of the Bar, as eloquent and powerful an advocate as ever addressed a jury, has a perplexing habit of confusing the Christian names of the parties to a case. He got mixed up badly in his speech for the plaintiff in a recent case of "Brown v. Robinson." The Judge bore it for some time with exemplary patience. At last he interrupted:—

"Mr. Attorney," he said, "will you pardon me for one moment? So long as you persistently and consistently called the plaintiff Brown by the name of the defendant Robinson, and defendant Robinson by the name of the plaintiff Brown, the court could contrive to follow your speech; but when you introduce a third party—by the name of Jones—without explaining whether you intend him to represent the plaintiff Brown or the defendant Robinson, some difficulty arises."

Just an illustration or two of modern Irish judicial politeness, and I have done. Two criminals were recently convicted of an atrocious offence. The Judge proceeded to pass sentence. "The prisoner Moriarity," he said, "is the more guilty of the two. Which of these two men is Moriarity?"

"Thank you, Moriarity," replied the courteous Judge, "twenty years' penal servitude, Moriarity."

Another old offender was more fortunate in a recent case. The jury acquitted him in the teeth of the plainest evidence. They sat abashed when the Judge had read aloud a yard long list of previous convictions for similar offences. "But," his Lordship concluded, gravely, "the jury have in their wisdom acquitted you of the crime for which you were here tried. In the eye of the law you are wholly innocent of that crime, and you accordingly leave the dock without any—additional—stain on your character."—From M. A. P.

Cold in the Head

What's the sense in sneezing and Sniffling, dosing with purgatives or bothering with atomizers?

Catarrhozone

Sensible people long ago abandoned the idea of "working off" a cold by means of laxatives and purgatives for the simple reason that the cure is as bad as the disease itself.

To cure a cold in about ten minutes time use Catarrhozone. It is aromatic delightful to inhale, clean and very simple to use.

Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic, and perfectly safe and harmless. Even children and infants can use it. The vapor is inhaled at the mouth, and after passing through the respiratory organs is exhaled slowly through the nostrils.

Catarrhozone never disappoints. It stops sneezing, coughing and running at the eyes, by a few inhalations. Inflammation, congestion and all irritation disappear under the influence of Catarrhozone more quickly than can be told.

C. B. College, of Clarence Street, London, says: "I had a continuous cold in the head for years, and never used anything with such quick results as I derived from five minutes' use of Catarrhozone. I am delighted to find a remedy that cures colds in a few minutes. Catarrhozone cures every time."

To carry a Catarrhozone Inhaler in the pocket means you won't have colds, catarrh or any lung trouble. It keeps these diseases away and is warranted to protect you against all the ills of winter. Complete outfit, with Hard Rubber Pocket Inhaler costs $1.00. Small size, 25 cents. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

On Wednesday in Victoria Park, a gold locket containing hair. Had four settings, two rubies and two pearls. Finder will be rewarded by leaving same at this Office.

Turquoise Pin Lost

Wednesday night, on either Dublin, George or Charlotte streets, or at the G.T.R. station. Finder will be rewarded by leaving the pin at the Times office.

Meet This Afternoon

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold their annual meeting this afternoon, at half-past three o'clock, in the Y.M.C.A. building. All members requested to be present.

A Good Scheme

The proposed action of the County Teachers Association in making a house to house canvas of the town is a good one. They will be assisted by the churches, and the action will no doubt result in a very large increase to the membership of the Sabbath schools.

A Coming Event

The Entertainment committee of the Guild of the Charlotte street church, have closed an engagement with the Killen-Keough Concert Company for a concert in the Opera House on October 9th. The company consists of Mr. and Mrs. Keough and Miss M. Brown, well known in Peterborough, and Miss A. H. Lary, of Boston, elocutionist. Full particulars will appear in The Times at an early date.

Coldstream Guard Band

The celebrated Band of the Coldstream Guards made its first appearance in Canada at Massey Hall in Toronto, and the musical critic of the Mail and Empire waxes thus eloquent over the King's Bandsmen:—"A ponderous bass of unparalleled sweetness, a wood wind, perfect in its ensemble, and a full-toned brass entirely free from harshness—this in few words describes the Band of the Coldstream Guards. Miss Howard, who accompanies the band as soloist, made an instantaneous success. Her voice is a contralto of exceptional fulness and resonance.—The band will appear in Peterborough on Wednesday evening next.

AN INQUEST ORDERED

Sad Death of Estimable Lady Under Suspicious Circumstances

A particularly sad death occurred on Saturday at Zion, Otonabee, when Margaret M. W. Rutherford, wife of Mr. Herbert John Miller, passed away, under circumstances that called for an investigation. The deceased lady was about 30 years of age, and was highly esteemed and very popular with all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

Coroner Gray was notified at 11 o'clock on Saturday, and yesterday morning ordered an inquest. The following jury was empanelled: Joshua Smithson, foreman; Wm. Shaw, Thos. G. Hazlitt, Samuel Redmond Henry Crane, Thos. Hunter, Robt. Scollie, Arthur Morgan, Anthony Taylor, John Kindred, Richard J. Swan, Chas. F. Graystock, Richard Nurse, Robt. H. Orde.

After viewing the body, a post mortem was ordered by the Coroner, and was performed by Drs. McWilliams and Shaw, of Keene, yesterday afternoon, and the inquest was adjourned until tomorrow morning at nine o'clock, at the Oddfellows' Hall, Zion.

The distressing event has cast a gloom over the entire district, and much sympathy is felt for the bereaved relatives.

The funeral will take place this afternoon.

BIG BEND LUMBER CO

A Concern in Which Local People Are Interested

The Lindsay Post says that Mr. R. R. Hall, barrister, of Peterborough, was in town, and, accompanied by Mr. Geo. Jordan called on the Post. Mr. Hall, Mr. Jordan and several citizens of Lindsay and Peterborough are interested in the Big Bend Lumber Co., whose limits and mills are located at Harrow Lake, in British Columbia. The company has altogether about 300 million feet of choice timber, having acquired about 200 million within the last month. The mills are at the mouth of the Columbia River, near Harrow Lake, and will be ready for the manufacture of lumber by Oct. 15th. The company's interests are being looked after by Mr. Theodore Ludgate, formerly of Peterborough, who has had a large gang of men in the woods all summer. The company is capitalized at $500,000 and has a bright future, as there is a great demand for timber at present in the West. Mr. Hall intends making a trip West. Mr. Jordan will not go West till next spring.

Fearless and Independent

The Chicago Record-Herald is a conspicuous example of the success with which the public rewards fearless nonpartisanship in the columns of great metropolitan daily paper. It is an independent newspaper, in which men and measures are invariably viewed wholly from the standpoint of the public good and not from that of the interests of any particular political party. It is the very reverse of neutral—fearless and outspoken on all the great questions of the day, but presenting its editorial opinion upon independent judgment and entirely regardless of political affiliations. Partisanship is barred as strictly from the news columns as from the editorial page. All political news is given without partisan coloring, thus enabling the reader to form correct conclusions for himself. In the ordinary partisan newspaper political news is ordinarily colored to such an extent as to make it difficult if not impossible to secure a sound basis for intelligent judgment.

THE LIGHTING CONTRACT

To the Editor of the Morning Times:

Dear Sir,—I was surprised to read in your paper this morning a letter written by "Still Another Ratepayer," on the subject of Electric Lighting. Your correspondent should at least know what he is writing about before he plunges into cold type. If you allow either of the town lighting companies here the privilege of charging what is charged in Lindsay for lighting houses I venture to say they will light the town streets for nothing. They charge up there thirty dollars a year for what we get here for eight and ten dollars. Their metre rate is 12c. per 1000 (both 20 per cent.), here we are charged 8c. per 1000. Nuff sed!

RATEPAYER.

[Note—In justice to our correspondent we would say in Lindsay the current is transmitted from Fenelon Falls, a distance of 16 miles, and is supplied by a company who, naturally, expect to make money out of their investment. In Orillia, however, where public ownership exists, we are told that the streets are lighted free—that is, there is profit enough out of sale of light and power to enable the commissioners to make no charge for street lights.—Ed. TO WIND UP BIG CONCERN

The Colonial Construction Company That Builds a Factory

The Beardmore Belting Co., of Toronto, creditors to the sum of $1,400, filed an application this morning at Osgoode Hall to wind up the Colonial Construction Co., of Windsor, Ont. The embarrassed company had a contract to build the Wiarton beet sugar factory, for which it was to receive $150,000 cash, $100,000 in mortgage bonds, and $100,000 in common stock. The Colonial Construction Company was not able to realize money on the bonds and stock, hence the failure to pay its debts and the present proceedings.

This Company tried to secure the contract for the erection of the Peterborough Sugar Company's factory, but their offer was not entertained.

A Spirited Runaway

About noon on Saturday the horses attached to the wagon on the McClellan Coal Company, became frightened while the wagon was being loaded with coal from one of the cars, near Charlotte street crossing, and dashed down the track towards the station. Upon reaching Charlotte street the tongue of the wagon struck against a telegraph pole just behind the flagman's office and the pole as well as the whiffletrees were badly smashed. Mr. Chas. Noyes, the flagman, by prompt action soon had the frightened animals under control and no further damage was done. Mr. Noyes' timely action is worthy of credit as the horses were behaving in a manner that made the handling of them a rather unpleasant matter.

TWO TIPS

And Both Winners

A Nashville man says: "For many years I was a perfect slave to coffee drinking it every day and all the time I suffered with stomach trouble and such terrific nervousness that at times I was unable to attend to business and life seemed hardly worth living that his nervous troubles had other causes than coffee and continued to drench my system with this drug. Finally I got so bad I could not sleep, my limbs were weak and trembling and I had a constant dread of some impending danger and the many medicines I tried, failed to help me at all.

"One day a friend told me what Postum had done for her husband and advised me to quit coffee and try it but I would not do so. Finally another friend met me on the street one day and after talking about my health he said 'You try Postum Cereal Coffee and leave coffee alone,' adding that his nervous troubles had all disappeared when he gave up coffee and began to drink Postum.

"This made such a great impression on me that I resolved to try it, although I confess I had little hope. However I started in and to my unbounded surprise in less than two weeks I was like another person. All of my old troubles are now gone and I am a strong, healthy, living example of the wonderful rebuilding power of Postum. It is a fine drink as well as a delicious beverage and I know it will correct all our coffee ills. I know what a splendid effect it had on me to give up coffee and drink Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

THE FIRST LESSON

That the young girl has of womanhood is not seldom a painful one. She learns to know what headache means, and backache, and sometimes is sadly borne down by this new experience of life.

All the pain and misery which young girls commonly experience at such a time, may in almost every instance be entirely prevented or cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity. It tones up the general health, and cures headache, backache, nervousness and other consequences of womanly weakness or disease.

"I received your letter some time ago, with advice about your wonderful medicine," writes Miss Stella Johnson, of 28 Brady Street, Dayton, Ohio. "I was troubled with severe pains every month when I wrote to you for advice. After receiving your letter and following its directions, I am now happy to say that after five years of untold suffering I have not had any pains since first using your 'Favorite Prescription.' I was induced through a friend to write to you and follow your kind advice. I thank God and Dr. R. V. Pierce for the health I now enjoy. I shall urge other women who suffer as I did to use your medicine."

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

Fifth Anniversary of the Guild Celebrated Yesterday

St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild celebrated the fifth anniversary of its organization yesterday, when special services were held commemorative of the event. A very interesting and instructive sermon was delivered by Rev. D. D. McLeod, D.D., of Barrie, and in the evening devoted his attention to young men.

A very pleasing program of music was arranged, one number being charmingly rendered by Miss Helen Davies, and another, equally pleasing, by Miss Miller.

There was large congregations both morning and evening.

SPIES OUT ABYSSINIA

To Discuss Business Matters With King Menelik

Paris, Sept. 19.—An interview is printed with William H. Ellis, an American, who is on his way to Abyssinia to discuss business matters with King Menelik.

Mr. Ellis intends to make a general observation of the country, with a view to its development. He says he has a strong backing of American capital, and will probably found an Ethiopian bank. He is taking numerous valuable presents to the King. He is also taking some adornments for the Queen from Paris, notably a splendid gold purse set with diamonds and a sapphire and diamond collar.

Mr. Ellis will be accompanied by Capt. Benito Silva, aide-de-camp to Negus Menelik, and a suite of 12 persons. He expects to reach Addis Adeba on November 1.

THREE CANADIAN MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT JOIN CHAMBERLAIN

General Laurie, Bonar Law and Gilbert Parker Declare Themselves--Will Canada Follow Suit and Help Chamberlain

And Strengthen Chamberlain by Solid Support as Australia Has Done

London, Sept. 22—Three Canadian-born members of Parliament have declared themselves from Chamberlain in the preference cum retaliation campaign, for which he is now preparing with tremendous energy. They are Mr. Bonar Law, Gen. J. Wimburn Laurie, and Sir Gilbert Parker. Mr. Mackenzie Brown is classed among the wobblers, Mr. McNamara is an anti-Chamberlainite, and Mr. Blake will follow Mr. Redmond in adhering to whichever side gives Ireland the best terms for their votes.

WHAT WILL CANADA DO?

Anglo-Canadians wonder whether Sir Edmund Barton's example will be followed from Canada. He lost no time proclaiming himself and Australia, Chamberlainites. He cables Mr. Chamberlain today: "Your great policy commands the support of Australia. We know you will persevere."

It was a resolution of Canadian as well as Australian Ministers at the Colonial conference that induced Mr. Chamberlain to launch the present campaign.

MISLEADING REPORTS.

Anti-Chamberlain journals twist every chance expression of Canadian journals and public men into Canadian disapproval of the preference. The Ottawa correspondent of the Standard, who is understood to be in the confidence of at least one Canadian Minister, flatly declares that there is no demand for the preference in Canada, and says: "Such a thing is not even discussed. Chamberlain will find it difficult to awaken enthusiasm over it."

CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND

The Federation Idea Grows in Newfoundland

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 22—Hon A B Morine, leader of the Newfoundland Opposition, who has been attending the Nova Scotia Exhibition, states in an interview that the sentiment in the colony in favor of federation with Canada is growing steadily. But there is no feeling or desire for a political alliance with the United States. There will be a general election in the colony next year, but the federation scheme, according to Mr. Morine, will not be a factor unless by a third party.

GAMEKEEPER SHOT

Fired at Twice While Attending to His Duties

Caledon, Sept. 20—While Mr. T. Roberts, who has been employed by the Caledon Mountain Trout Company for the last year as caretaker of their fish and game on their property in Caledon, was attending to his duties Dufferin Lake on Thursday, he was shot at, the ball passing through his hat from the front, cutting through the hair. Another shot was fired, the ball striking the water within ten feet of A. Pickering, a comrade of Roberts, who was in a boat at the time. Roberts had heard some persons talking, and was going in their direction when the shot was fired. He followed the track of the person or persons, but owing to the thickness of the bush, he could not see who they were.

SIGNOR MARCONI EXPLAINS DELAY

States That He Is Waiting to Test Some New Inventions

MESSAGES WERE RECEIVED

At Table Head From Poldhu, Says Wireless Wizard

Sydney, Sept. 22— Signor Marconi who arrived here from Montreal by late train Thursday night, went to Glace Bay yesterday and began immediately upon the conducting of experimental work and was thus engaged when a correspondent called upon him. In the interview which followed, Mr. Marconi stated that the purpose of his present visit to Table Head was to test four new improvements that he recently invented in connection with the apparatus used in his system of wireless telegraphy. These inventions he says, will greatly improve speed and accuracy in transmission and receipt of messages.

After seeing the installation of these improvements, he leaves for the Wellfleet station, at Cape Cod, where like appliances will be placed. He then sails for England from New York on the Lucania, and will conduct an extensive series of experiment from aboard the steamer, with both these stations, the one at Table Head in particular, and at the same time with Poldhu.

MESSAGES RECEIVED.

Signor Marconi admitted that several messages had been received at Table Head from Poldhu, this being the first occasion on which he has done so for publication. Mr. Marconi says that his system is now heavily subsidized by the British Government and is in use on 66 ships of the navy, instead of 29 last year.

On being reminded that the public were becoming impatient as to the progress made in the establishment of his system, Mr. Marconi added:—"That is natural, but we do not want to rush into the matter hastily, particularly when the British Government, by whom the company is handsomely subsidized, insisted on the system being perfected in every detail, before attempting to found it on commercial basis. We must put every ingenuity at our disposal to test between Cape Breton and Cornwall, because upon the success of these will depend the establishment and success of stations in other parts of the world. For instance, we have a contract for twice the distance between Table Head and Poldhu, but we must first satisfy ourselves that the system will prove a commercial success between these two stations before attempting longer distances.

STILL CONFIDENT.

"I assure you, however, that very shortly our 'line' between England and Cape Breton will be opened for commercial business, when, I think, we shall be able to furnish English news to Canada at much cheaper rates than the cables do at present. I regret the public should be impatient, but you see the absolute necessity of having every detail completed before beginning the work otherwise after we had announced ourselves ready for commercial transactions, we would have had, in all probability, to close down in order to test any new improvement that we might come into possession of later.—

Sig. Marconi leaves for Cape Cod Monday, where he will spend two or three days before returning to England.

FOOD, NOT MEDICINE — Ninety nine babies out of every one hundred who are emaciated, weakly sickly, and almost lifeless, require food, not medicine. When we say food, we do not refer to the poor preparations such as many babies are now fed on, but Lactated Food, that perfect substitute for healthy breast milk— a food that babies love, that builds up flesh, bone and muscle, and that makes the little ones happy and contented. Infants fed on Lactated Food are never sick; they are raised to childhood vigorous and strong. Try it for your baby dear mother if it is not thriving. All Druggists.

PASTORS WITH BIG FEET

A Unique Advertisement Which Appeared in a Religious Journal

Pittsburg, Sept. 19.—Itinerant pastors who have big feet well planted on the solid ground of common sense are wanted for work in this district. The Methodist Recorder, the organ of the Methodist denomination, today contains the following advertisement written by President Gladden:

"This conference needs at least three or four more pastors for circuit work, and anyone who can fill the following conditions will be welcomed, to wit: Must have small family, if any, and to able to furnish a horse and come to the charge unassisted; not afraid of hard work, no hobbies, no place-hunter, sound on the doctrine of holiness, willing to begin for the nominal salary of $400 or $500; a good, clear head; a warm, loving heart; and, big feet, well planted on the solid ground of common sense."

Vancouver, Sept. 19.—Detectives are investigating the robbery of $9,000 from the Wellington Colliery Company. The amount was taken from the sum sent up to pay the month's wages at the Comox mines from the head office here. Thirty-four thousand dollars was sent, as usual, in a leather bag. It was sent in charge of the purser of the City of Nanaimo, arriving at the Comox wharf late on Tuesday night. The bag with the cash to pay the wages was left on the Joan until the morning, when it was taken in charge by the paymaster at Union mines, who personally took it up on an engine to the head office. On opening the packet he found that $9,000 had been extracted. No clue has been found as yet. One of the staples on the bag had been broken, and the lock left unmolested. The mouth of the bag had been pried open enough to allow the money to be extracted.

IMPORTANT ARMY ORDER

Emperor Francis Joseph Determined to Uphold Present Regulations

Vienna, Sept. 19.—Emperor Francis Joseph, who yesterday returned from the army manoeuvres, has issued an important army order, emphatically declaring he will never consent to the demands of the Hungarian party, who insist on the use of their own language by officers in giving commands to the Hungarian section of the forces.

"I am bound and determined to uphold the army's present well-tried regulations. Certain one-sided efforts calculated to undermine the sterling structure of the army, must have it borne home that I will never give up the right and prerogative which are guaranteed to me as the supreme commander."

The impression caused by the imperial order is almost indescribable. Hitherto the Emperor has been regarded as the most silent monarch in Europe. It is taken as being the beginning of a conflict between the throne and the Hungarian Parliament.

KING APPROVES

And Lord Selborne Will be Secretary for the Colonies

London, Sept. 21.—King Edward is reported to have approved the appointment of Austen Chamberlain, the Postmaster-General, to be Chancellor of the Exchequer, in succession to Charles T. Ritchie; Mr. Arnold-Forster, Secretary to the Admiralty, to be Secretary for War, in succession to Mr. Brodrick; Mr. Brodrick, the Secretary for War, to be Secretary for India, in succession to Lord George Hamilton; and Lord Selborne, the First Lord of the Admiralty, to be Secretary for the Colonies, in succession to Joseph Chamberlain.

No official confirmation of the appointments has yet been forthcoming. It is known that Lord Milner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa, was offered the Colonial Secretaryship.

THREE SECTIONS IN UNIONIST PARTY

They Are Represented by Balfour, Chamberlain and Ritchie

A DETERMINED CAMPAIGN

Between Preference Men and Retaliationists and Advocates of Free Trade

London, Sept. 22—"We shall stand aside and try to run the government while you fly at each other's throats in the constituencies and on the cross benches of the House of Commons," is what Balfour and his colleagues appear to say to the seceders from the Cabinet. Of the ministerialist dissenters Chamberlain represents the pronounced protectionists, and Ritchie and Lord George Hamilton are extreme free traders. The result of the split is the imminence of a final campaign of the utmost determination. The approaching struggle, it is believed, will involve not only the fate of existing parties, but also the character of the country's future policy, touching vital problems in domestic and foreign affairs.

Chamberlain's resignation shows more plainly than ever that the Unionist party is split into three sections—Preferentialists, Retaliationists and Free Traders. The views of the Preferentialists or Chamberlainites are reflected in the following communication to a correspondent from the Birmingham Tariff Reform League:

"Half way measures will not suffice when there are tendencies within the Empire towards disintegration, and agitation for the radical change of public opinion in the United Kingdom on the subject of Imperial reciprocity, which necessitates a tax on food, is imperative and must begin at once."

Though headed by Mr. Balfour, the Retaliationists are without an organized mouthpiece, but from individual members it has been learned that they regard the whole matter of fiscal alterations as rather remote and far from justifying the precipitate course favored by Chamberlain.

There is no doubt about the free trader's position. They stand as a solid phalanx against the Chamberlainites, and view with deep suspicion Balfour's colorless collection of half-convinced protectionists, who are neither Preferentialists or Free Traders. They cannot entirely conceal their contempt for Balfour and his followers, but for the present suffer the Government to exist lest the Liberals return to power and hasten forward radical legislation, including a home rule bill for Ireland.

NEW BLOOD IN ARMY

Some Radical Changes in the British Forces

MEN WHO NOW COMMAND

Younger Men Will Henceforth be the Support of the Army

London, England, September 22.—A number of military changes took place this autumn, when the service will lose some famous officers by retirement.

The chief of these is Lieut-General Sir Baker Russell, the famous cavalry man who led the charge at Kassassin. He now commands at Portsmouth and will be succeeded by Major-General Montgomery.

Major-General Sir William Gatacre is also giving up the command of the troops at Colchester, and Major-General Boyce Combe retires after long service in the East.

The Dover command is to be relinquished by Sir Leslie Rundle, who will probably be given the 8th Army Corps. Sir Hugh McCalmont vacates the command of the 8th Division in Ireland.

All these changes will make room for promotions by merit of younger men. Since the army corps organization came into being, a much younger class of general has been placed in power.

The following table of the army corps appointments which have been confirmed will show the improvement in this direction:

ARMY CORPS' COMMANDERS.	Age
Sir John French	51
Sir Evelyn Wood	65
Duke of Connaught	53
Lord Grenfell	62
Sir A. Hunter	47
GENERALS OF DIVISION
Maj.-Gen. Paget	52
Maj.-Gen. Douglas	53
Maj.-Gen. Sir Bruce Hamilton	45
Maj.-Gen. Sir Charles Knox	57
Maj.-Gen. Sir Leslie Rundle	47
Maj.-Gen. Sir P. de C Morton	58
Maj.-Gen. Sir H. McCalmont	58
Maj.-Gen. Leach	56
Maj. Gen. Sir W. Gatacre	59
GENERALS OF BRIGADE.
Brig.-Gen. Alderson	44
Maj.-Gen. Plumer	46
Brig.-Gen. Scobell	44
Brig.-Gen. Franklin	47
Maj.-Gen. Vetch	58
Brig.-Gen. Rimington	45
Maj.-Gen. Oliphant	56

The average age of army corps generals, commanding 36,000 men each, is fifty-five; that of divisional generals, command 10,000 each, fifty-four; and those commanding brigades of 4,000 soldiers reach the average of only forty-one. This is a considerable improvement upon the pre-war ages, when seniority placed worn men in the most responsible conditions.

Now the promotion is be merit, and officers are commanding brigades at an age when, under former conditions they would still be with their battalions.

A Noble Gift

Ottawa, Sept. 22—Lord Strathcona has subscribed $5000 towards the expenses of Captain Bernier's expedition to the North Pole. The Captain is much encouraged by the token of confidence in his plans from such a distinguished source. He now only awaits the action of the Government which he hopes will enable him to begin preparations for his voyage before the end of the year.

QUIET AT THE SOO

And Town is Unable to Finance Relief Measures

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 21—The Soo is quiet today, but trouble is brewing. The first of the out-of-town brigades arrived here this morning. Thirty-five men from the mines came in on the steamer Minnie M. from Michipicoten. The Consolidated Lake Superior Company officials, fully recognizing the danger of demonstrations, took immediate charge of the men and quartered them in the street railway sheds on the Canadian side.

These are the men who got away from the mines before the telegram ordering them to be kept out of town arrived.

They are, fortunately for the peace of the town, quiet Scandinavians, and not the fiery tempered, restless Italians from the railroad camps, or the French-Canadians from the woods. All these men are being kept out of town, the officials fearing serious riots if they are allowed to gather. Food is being sent to the camps. When the Scandinavians found that, though there was no money for them, the company had provided food and shelter for their comfort, they patiently settled down to wait.

SEEKING THEIR WAGES.

All day the offices of the company were beset by men after wages. No hostile demonstration was, however, made, though several in the crowd pleaded that they had no money and could obtain no food. Some of the men have not been paid for two months. Credit has been shut off in every store in town. Such stringent measures are forced in this wholesale way by the wholesalers, who renewed the retailers' paper in March, and who now demand payment for the past and cash on future orders. There are some storekeepers in town who have been making a big show on little capital, who will go to the wall during the coming week unless authentic news of a reassuring character is posted.

CLERGUE HAS NEW BACKERS.

Messrs. F. H. Clergue and A. H. Harvey, A. Wilson and T. Tulloch, of London, Eng., the promoters who were prominent in South African operations prior to the Jameson raid, and other big enterprises, who have been in this district some time, ostensibly busy with the Kakabeka Falls power schemes for Fort William and Port Arthur, left yesterday for England, and Mr. Clergue is father of the significant remark to a friend: "They have English capital behind them and will be in control again in three months."

Business men, however, think that Clergue's chances of regaining control are very slim.

For Italians, lumbermen, and rough laborers there is a fair outside demand which will relieve the situation some.

If money is not forthcoming on September 28, as promised, the situation will be alarming. To relieve immediate distress, a provisional committee has been formed, but this is practically useless, because the municipality cannot finance its operations.

BESSEMER ORE FOUND.

Returning survey parties report a find of real Bessemer ore fifteen miles north-east. The exact whereabouts is withheld, but if the ore analyzes as expected, it will be a big factor in future Soo operations, for it will ensure the reopening of the big steel plant.

VERDICT RETURNED

By the Jury Appointed to Enquire Into the Death of McAuliff

The inquest into the death of the late Robt. McAuliff, who met death on a G.T.R. engine, (No. 168) on Sunday morning, July 5, by the blowing out of the crown sheet, was resumed last night in the Council Chamber.

No evidence of any importance was taken, and at about nine o'clock the jury retired. After fully considering the evidence, the jury returned the following verdict:

We find that the late Robt. McAuliffe died from the effects of a scalding on July 5th, 1903, due to the collapsing of the crown sheet of the boiler of engine 168 of the G. T. Railway System, which he was driving at that time.

We found that the crown sheet collapsed in consequence of over-heating, due to low water in the boiler.

We find that the engine was repeatedly reported as steaming very badly, and that successful efforts to correct this fault were not made.

We believe that if an engine steams very badly the engineer in his efforts to keep his train in motion is tempted to feed water too slowly, and hence we think that the extremely faulty steaming of this engine should have been corrected, or the engine should have been put out of heavy service.

BREAD FROM TORONTO

A Baker Objects to Foreign Bread Coming In

Yesterday a local baker entered a protest with The Times against the importation of Toronto bread. Especially during the summer is large quantities of the staff of life imported from the Queen city, says our informant.

The price of bread has advanced in many places, while Peterborough bakers have asked no increase. The Times would like to see home industries patronized, and we cannot understand why Toronto bread should be brought to town unless there was something to be saved by the consumer.

INTERRED AT KEENE

The Remains of Mrs. H. J. Miller Were Buried

The remains of Mrs. H. J. Miller, whose sad death at Zion, Otonabee, on Saturday last occasioned so much regret, was interred at Keene cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral was a very large one, testifying to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The enquiry into the cause of death will be continued this morning under Dr. Gray, Coroner.

PREMIER BALFOUR TORE UP SCORE CARD

Following Resignation He Could Not Make Good Score at Golf

CHAMBERLAIN UNDISTURBED

His Plans Are All Ready for a Vigorous Campaign

London, September 22 Those persons who imagined that Mr. Chamberlain, having been politely driven from the Cabinet, meant to retire to his Birmingham home and cultivate orchids, as Lord Salisbury retired to his ancestral Hertfordshire estate and laboratory, received a rude awakening this morning. Mr. Balfour no sooner had launched upon the public his philosophical treatise characteristically labelled "Economic Notes on Insular Free Trade" than he hurried off to the North Berwick golf links, where, yesterday, he played so poor a game that ultimately he tore up his scoring card. Mr. Chamberlain is not that type of man. Outside his home he has no passion but politics. He shuts himself up in council with his leading political associates, carefully maps out the kingdom for his own and his supporters' campaign, singles out his man for each fight, and today publicly sets a definite programme before all his friends.

HE ABANDONS NOTHING.

Not one particle of his original plan does he abandon. First stands a closer union with the colonies, by means of preferential tariffs, and an endeavor to make the Empire self-sufficing as regards food supply. Second stands the employment of the tariff to secure reciprocity, and, failing that, retaliation; In a word, Mr. Chamberlain means fight, and British politics never had a more alert, unsparing, or even bitter fighter, than he.

AN AMERICAN SYNDICATE TO DEVELOP ONTARIO AND QUEBEC

Strong Wall Street Syndicate Formed Composed of Leading Steel Magnates Headed by Morgan and Schwab

A Big Thing For the Canadians if This Is True

New York, Sept. 22—A strong Wall Street syndicate has been quietly formed by leading steel magnates and financiers, in which it is reported that Morgan and Schwab interests are participating, to secure Canadian concessions, to construct several large water power electric plants and to develop and convert into steel the vast beds of magnetic ore in Ontario and Quebec, by the new electrolytic process of reduction, such as is now used at the new plant in Chippewa, on the Welland River.

The report of Dr. Hamel, Superintendent of Mines for the Dominion at Ottawa, who recently inspected the new plant operated by the Canadian Niagara Power Company, and visited the Lockport reduction plant, is the basis of the syndicate's movements.

It is stated in New York that Sir William Van Horne, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, the Westinghouse interests, and John Charlton, M.P., are among the Canadian interests concerned with the Morgan-Schwab and the United States Steel Corporation in the new enterprise.

MR. CHARLTON'S STATEMENT.

Mr. John Charlton, M.P., who is now in Ottawa, disclaims any interest in the United States Steel Trust's project. The connection of his name with the matter, he says, probably arose from the fact that while in New York four or five weeks ago he had a conversation with Mr. James Galey, first vice-president of the United States Steel Corporation, and Mr. Galey, on that occasion, intimated that while they had no immediate intention of doing it, it was considering the propriety of establishing works at some point in Canada.

Mr. Charlton says his information is that Port Burwell will be one of two or perhaps three points on Lake Erie to be selected. He presumes the corporation will draw much of its ore from Northern Michigan, but it also will develop some of the ore beds in Northwestern Ontario, where they now have large deposits.

HARDLY CREDITED HERE.

"In the first place," states a prominent Montreal iron manufacturer, "there has yet been no method discovered by which ore can be smelted by electric power. This may be a matter of the future, but up to the present it is a dream rather than a realization."

"The use of electrical furnaces in the smelting of refined iron, has proved practicable, but up to the present the blast furnace has been the only means of reducing ore, where the waste material is so great as in ordinary ore."

CREWS SAVED

Vessels and Cargoes Went Ashore at Cape Race

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 21—The British steamer Topaz, from Cardiff for Bonde Bay, Newfoundland, with a cargo of coal for the British warships, went ashore Saturday morning off Cape Race in a dense fog, and will become a total loss. The crew were saved. The Topaz is the steamer whose crew were arrested by the Venezuelans last December at Puerto Cabello, for which insult to the British flag the British warship Charybdis and the German flagship Vineta bombarded Puerto Cabello.

The British fishing schooner Viking bound from the Newfoundland fishing banks for European waters, with a cargo of fish, also went ashore Saturday morning at Cape Race as a result of the fog, and she, too, will become a total loss. Her crew was saved.

The French fishing vessel Aiglon was wrecked at Cape Race on Friday within two miles of the spot where the British steamer Topaz was wrecked. The crew escaped.

ANTHRACITE FOUND

Discovery of Extensive Deposits Found in Labrador

Sydney, Sept. 19.—The Government cable steamer Tyrian, which arrived yesterday from Labrador, reports the discovery of an extensive deposit of hard coal, of excellent quality, at Fortune Bay, on Labrador coast. The discovery was made by Captain Reid of Guysboro, N.S., who took possession of the deposit. The existence coal this far north has until now been unknown, the belief being that there was none.

The Late Miss Ida Grimison

Port Hope Guide: The funeral of the late Miss Margaret Ida, daughter of Mr. Thomas Grimison (formerly Reeve of Hope), who died in Peterborough, on Thursday last, took place this afternoon from the G. T. R. station on the arrival of the train from the north. There was a very large number of old personal friends present to show their sympathy with the bereaved family. The following are the names of the young men from Peterborough who were chosen pall bearers: Melville Jackson, Rowley Ferguson, Lewis Ferguson, Norman Andrews, George Young and Norman Harper. Rev. R. L. Edwards, pastor of the Methodist church, Welcome, conducted service at the Methodist cemetery, Welcome, where the interment took place.

HAVE YOU CHRONIC AILMENT?

Recognized as the oldest established and most reliable specialist.

In the course of his practice as specialist in the treatment of chronic ailments, Dr. Goldberg has evolved a system of his own, which is a positive cure. His method differs widely from the old fashioned system as taught in colleges, and yet is along the strictest scientific principles, with this exception, that where the old methods took months and sometimes years to bring about a cure, his latest method does it in a few weeks and cures are thorough, permanent and reliable. The curing of chronic diseases has been his specialty for years.

He will cure you quicker than any other specialist in the world. There are thousands in this broad land today who are healthy and happy, who once suffered as you perhaps now suffer, and who owe their present well-being to Dr. Goldberg's Latest Method Treatment. If you are sick it is only natural for you to want to be well. Before you decide definitely on the doctor to intrust your case call or write to Dr. Goldberg and find out all about his Latest Method of curing chronic diseases without pain and permanently. It will cost you nothing to learn the particulars and it will in no way put you under obligations to him.

If it is inconvenient for you to call in person write the doctor and he will explain his method to you just the same, free. Do not delay; promptness is certainty.

Each Time You Call You See Dr. Goldberg Personally or each time you write it receives his personal attention, and remember he is the only specialist who allows the patient to pay when cured. You need pay nothing until a complete cure has been made.

DO YOU GO TO CHURCH?

The Rev. R. A. White, of Chicago, has ideas of his own about the work and duty of the Church towards the people. He sees that an enormous number of people seldom or ever go to church, and the problem that presents itself to him is How to get them to go, or, rather perhaps, How to keep them from following their own evil devices. A preacher may preach [illegible]quently, but if the pews are empty what avails his eloquence? Mr. White sees that, and in looking about for a remedy of some sort or another, he says:

> Every church ought to have its hall for dancing, its parlors for social pleasures, its billiard tables, and even a place for a social game of cards. Failing to find these opportunities under legitimate guidance, thousands of young men are drawn into questionable companionships and places. The saloon is as often sought for sociability as for strong drink.
> Here in Englewood I learn the churches have been greatly scandalized over the event of the Sunday theatre. I do not know that I am ready to say that I am glad the Sunday theatre has invaded our community, but if the plays are of a high order worse things might have come to us. But what are the churches doing but fulminating? The usual stereotyped Sunday evening service, sermon, exhortatory, well-intentioned and doing good, I doubt not. But what have we for the thousands who do not care for that sort of thing, but whose social instincts take them somewhere? We have no popular reading rooms in Englewood, no Sunday evening song services attractive to the young, no popular lectures.

And he asks, what can the churches do to create a counter attraction? The people flock to the theatres and other amusements provided them by the worldlings. The church cannot drive young or even old people into the churches of a Sunday. Then it must go out after them. His proposal is to give these people the recreation and amusement they crave, but under healthier and cleaner auspices than they get them at present. If a man is to be enticed away from the saloon he must have some place else to go, where he can spend his time as agreeably as he can in it. If he is to be deprived of attendance at the theatres or music halls, something will have to be provided that will give him the amusement he craves for. In short, the church must take upon itself the duty of catering to the social as well as the spiritual side of the masses. That is Mr. White's opinion. The problem is well worth the serious consideration of the churches.

THE WHITE PLAGUE

It is an extraordinary fact, as stated by Rev. Dr Moore in an address on tuberculosis delivered at the meeting of the Canadian Union of Municipalities, that twice as many people die each year in Ontario from tuberculosis as from the next half-dozen most fatal contagious diseases combined—including typhoid, scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, small-pox.

Think of it. Twice as many deaths from consumption alone as from all these others put together!

And for every death occurring from tuberculosis, it is calculated that four or five persons are alive suffering from it—so that for instance in Ottawa today, where the latest year's deaths from consumption numbered 120, there are probably 500 or 600 sufferers living for whom there is no hospital, and for whom it is difficult to find quarters and impossible to provide isolation. They are plague-spots, alas for themselves, and what can be done? Hospitals don't want them, hotels don't want them, boarding houses don't want them, sanatoria are few and expensive. At home the sufferers menace the lives of all near and dear to them.

It is a terrible problem, this white plague, the greatest that medical science and public self-preservation have to face. Every organized effort to check or diminish the evil deserves the sympathy and support of humane and intelligent people.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The domestic service problem has been easily solved in Japan. Sir Edwin Arnold tells of a dinner party at the house of an English official, where seven or eight good-looking and well-dressed boys attended on the guests. They proved to be high-born, educated sons of native families, who, not only with willingness, but gladly and gratefully carry out every domestic task for the sake of learning the English language quickly, and of becoming familiar with Western manners and habits.

The smoke crusade in Chicago has been reinforced by the laundrymen, who will henceforth charge extra on collars and cuffs because of the soot. A popular revolt against the smoke nuisance is expected in consequence. In a newspaper cartoon a monster mass-meeting is being harangued by an anti-smoke orator, while the plain people are bearing transparencies with such significant mottoes as:—"Abate the smoke nuisance so that we can make a clean collar last two hours instead of one," "a clean city makes a clean collar," etc.

TO FEDERATE WITH CANADA

Newfoundland Sentiment Strong for a League with Dominion

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 19—Hon. A. B. Morine, leader of the Newfoundland Opposition, who has been attending the Nova Scotia Exhibition, states in an interview that the sentiment in the colony in favor of federation with Canada was growing steadily, but scouts the idea of a political alliance with the United States.

He said: "There will be a general election in the colony next year, but the federation scheme will not be a factor unless by a third party, which, under the circumstances, would have very indifferent chances of any success.

"Generally, the sentiment in favor of closer federation of the Empire is as strongly felt in Newfoundland as anywhere else, and there is not the slightest feeling or desire for any political change with the United States, but the trade relations of that country with the people of the colony are most amicable."

Pope is Independent

London, Sept. 19.—Many innovations are being made at the Vatican. The strict etiquette and pompous ceremonial are gradually disappearing. For instance, his holiness prefers walking unattended to using a sedan chair, and audiences can be had for the asking. The Pope has selected a secluded room as his private apartment, and has bought his own plain furniture from Venice. According to an old custom, the Pontiff is always supposed to dine alone, but the new apartment has been provided with a large dining salon. When his chamberlain hinted at the old custom Pius X. replied: "Please order that four covers be laid for dinner, as my secretaries are invited."

Americanizing Canada

London, Sept. 19.—Prof. Young of Trinity College, Toronto, at present in London, writing to the Times on the University of Oxford and colonial graduates, says much has been said recently about the Americanization of Canada, but none of the articles have touched upon the most serious aspect of the question, the great migration of Canadian students to American universities, on the ground of cheapness. Canadians have gone into the United States hitherto; now the Rhodes scholarships seem to provide the means for some of them to come to Oxford instead, but whether the inducements are sufficiently strong remains to be seen.

THE WAR ON RYSDON

Union and Foot Keep Up the Fight on Contractor

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Business Agent Fred Pouchot of the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' Union declared yesterday that he will not try to force the School Board to tear out the work at the Wendell Phillips School which has been installed by E. A. Rysdon.

"All we want the School Board to do now," he said, "is to cancel the contract given to Rysdon on the new Lanne school. There will be a strike of all the building trades working on that building unless Rysdon hires union help or the contract is given to some one who does."

To this statement of Pouchot, John O. Williams, Rysdon's attorney, replied:

"Mr. Rysdon has always been willing to hire union help, but Pouchot will not permit it. Mr. Pouchot himself has intimated that he cannot allow union men to work for Rysdon until the contractors in the sheet metal pool permit him to."

Witnesses against the Federal Company, dealers in plumbing supplies, have disappeared with such promptness in the last four days that William F. Moore is disposed to think they were advised to leave the city. Three men who were expected to give important testimony were suddenly called from the city. One went to Denver and another to New York, while a third suddenly developed a bad case of hay fever, which necessitated his immediate departure for Mackinac notwithstanding the favorable weather conditions here for sufferers from that unpleasant disease.

"We wanted these witnesses in the hearing before Justice Underwood this afternoon," said Attorney Samuel J. Howe, "but sudden engagements called them from the city. We will manage to get along without them for the present as I believe we have sufficient evidence to prove our case. These witnesses may be used later."

Morgan Got at Them.

Mr. Pierpont Morgan's offer to present his entire art collection, valued at $5,000,000, to the proposed national art gallery in Washington, will create a smile among British Museum officials, who entertain very settled convictions as to the genuineness of much of his collection. Some weeks ago, when the Satitapharnes tiara scandal was raging, one of the heads of the Museum said, in an interview, that there were not many costly art forgeries in the market, as Mr. Pierpont Morgan had absorbed all that had been offered of late! When their patron was possessed of numberless millions of dollars art agents in Paris, where Mr. Morgan had scattered his commissions, grew reckless in buying, hoping to unload on American millionaires who knew everything about finance, but nothing about art. [illegible] and foresaw its doom; Michael Angelo painted its annals when Rome was still the awful centre of the earth and the earth the proof of Creation. There is in the superb pride of his superhuman figures the conscious authority, the imperial instinct of a painter who worked for God's vicegerent. It seems intolerable that these tremendous monuments of the great days before Galileo should ever turn to crumbling plaster and pitiable fragments.

Aged Couple Weds

Aylmer, Sept. 19.—The Sun says: A wedding which created some talk, owing to the advanced age of the bride and groom, was performed the other day at Strathroy by Rev. Mr. Jackson, a superannuated minister. The parties were Joseph Poole, of Lambeth, and Mrs. N. Perkins, of Warminster. Unknown to few if any of their friends, Mr. Poole and Mrs. Perkins took the train to Strathroy, and were married at the residence of Mrs. Joseph Pullen. Mr. Poole is 79 years of age, while his bride is two years his senior.

A SEPTEMBER HOLIDAY

Peterborough Industrial Exhibition

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY

SEPTEMBER 22 to 24

Owing to the liberal and substantial subscriptions made by Peterborough citizens, the Directors of the Exhibition Association have been enabled to have the Prize List thoroughly revised, and the amounts offered as Prizes largely increased, particularly in the lines of Horses, Cattle, Sheep and Swine.

The advance in many cases equals from 100 to 300 per cent. It is expected that the enterprise shown in this respect will ensure an active competition in all classes of Farm Stock.

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500.00, and to the five next nearest $100.00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the lists are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children under three years of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $5.00 per day while here, as nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA., PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty Numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5
More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.00 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

"You are sure you speak honestly, Claude?" asked Mrs. Bruyn.

"As I live, I do," replied the young man, fervently.

"I do not question the truth of your statement," continued the good lady; "but perhaps it is well to have an explanation of a matter that I confess has influenced my opinions to a certain extent. Not many months ago, Mr. Saybrook exhibited a letter from you that seemed to indicate that you had formed connections in Europe that hardly render your present statement of your feelings toward Rosa sincere."

The young man colored, but it was with indignation more than embarrassment.

"Carl Crum has told me," he replied, "of the base use made of a mere phrase in a letter of mine, written in humorous reply to some of Mr. Saybrook's suggestions that I might have become involved in love affairs in Europe. I now see through his double-eyed duplicity and villainy. It was his purpose not only to rob me of my property and of the only girl I have ever cared for, but to incite me to conduct that would destroy in my heart the pure love it cherished. Oh, weak as I am, if I had him here I would make him own his duplicity or take the consequences."

"Do nothing rash, Claude," pleaded Mrs. Bruyn. "Public opinion will come to your aid if you have been wronged. Rely first on the law for justice, and do nothing to prejudice your cause."

"And did you believe that I had so soon proved false and villainous, Rosa?" he asked, turning impetuously to the fair girl.

"No, indeed, Claude," replied Rosa, with a frank and kindly tone that indicated her perfect confidence in him. "I did not doubt you for a moment, or believe there was anything in the letter that you could not readily explain. Mother can bear me witness in this. Yet where all was so dark and everything seemed conspiring against us, I could not explain your silence of your strange words even to my own mind, so I attempted no defence of you, but kept my belief in your good faith in my own heart."

Claude folded her impetuously to his heart.

"I knew it—I knew it," he exclaimed. "God bless you! The devotion of a lifetime will be too little reward for your faith in me, Rosa."

"Say no more, Claude," answered Mrs. Bruyn, quietly separating the lovers. "I believe in your fidelity and goodness, and see through Mr. Saybrook's evil plans. But much wrong has been done, and it may be hard to right it. It is not advisable to prolong this interview. If you will receive a little advice from me, I will suggest a course that may lead to the evil that has been done being corrected."

"Oh, most gladly," replied the young man.

"Mr. Bruyn is deeply incensed at what he regards as your treachery and recklessness," continued the lady, "and it will be difficult to reverse his opinion. Indeed, he looks upon you as hopelessly fallen from good. But although I fear for the result, I am compelled to suggest that you go to him and endeavor to explain all that seems wrong to him in your conduct. He will not approve of your resuming your friendship with Rosa unless you disabuse his mind of the impression he has gained—no doubt chiefly through Mr. Saybrook's influence. It would be wrong for Rosa to disobey him, and hold communication with you clandestinely in anyway. I could not approve of such a course, and I cannot believe that she would so forget her duty. I have accompanied her here, because I thought it was necessary there should be an explanation that would perhaps prevent future trouble. So far as I am concerned, my dear Claude, I would willingly admit you to our home as the most welcome of guests and friends; but it is not my province to decide in this matter, and you will have to secure Mr. Bruyn's consent before again attempting to see or communicate with Rosa."

"This decision seems hard," he said. "I am fearful—but, no, I will do as you say. I am strong in my own sense of integrity; I may have been foolish, but criminal—never. I think all can be explained, and I will trust in Mr. Bruyn's justice and charity."

With this understanding the interview terminated. Claude was allowed to give Rosa a farewell kiss, and to whisper to her a pledge of his unalterable devotion, which was returned by a glance that assured him that she could be trusted to the uttermost and then he turned away his soul filled anew with indignation toward the author of his unhappiness.

He took early occasion to have an interview with Mr. Bruyn. The old farmer received him curtly, and only after the most earnest pleadings gave his consent to even hear his explanations. But this concession was of no benefit to the young man. The old fellow shut both his ears and his heart to his pleadings, and remained obdurate and unconvinced in spite of all the earnestness and eloquence with which Claude defended his conduct.

"No, no, no," he said at last, "I tell you young fellow, that I've made up my mind on this matter. You're none of the kind for my Rosa. She must marry a sensible, plain fellow, with no rattlebrain notions about him. You don't care for her, and she's made up her mind to some one else. It will only make trouble for you to go to sparking her again. I was a fool to allow it in the first place. Now, don't say anything more. I've had enough of it. You can never have her—let that end it. No is as good as a clubbing with me. If you can't take the first and stay away from here, you may get the second to help your understanding."

Thus insultingly rebuffed, Claude turned away, and returned to his temporary home at old Carl Crum's utterly disappointed and miserable, and meditating a dozen expedients in his mind to restore his relations with Rosa.

CHAPTER XXX.

Recognizing that he had a hard battle before him, Claude devoted himself heart and soul to the contest he had in hand. The thought of regaining his property, and taking revenge on the knavish lawyer, was some relief to his wounded feelings. There was balm in action, at least, and day and night he gave his time and thoughts to consultation with his lawyer and to details of the proposed suit. He did not rely alone on such legal talent as the little village afforded. He retained the services of an experienced and prominent lawyer from a neighboring town, who undertook to unravel the thread of villainy, which he was convinced from Claude's statements had been perpetrated by Anthony Saybrook.

The name of this lawyer was Halstead. He was a short, keen, cool man whose sharp gray eyes and broad brow indicated unusual mental acuteness. After a careful study of the situation, Mr. Halsted decided on his plan of campaign. He determined that it was necessary to undermine the enemy's defences by counter-plots, and, if possible, to create a defection in his camp that would lead to a revelation of the methods by which the forgery of the deeds had been accomplished. Choosing his agents with keen judgment, he sounded every person who had in any way been employed by lawyer Saybrook, and was not long in getting a hint that the widow Grewy would become a valuable witness if she was won over to their service. And this—alas for feminine constancy!—was not a difficult matter. Lawyer Halstead, it happened, was a bachelor of considerable wealth. Though verging close on to sixty, he was still well preserved, and of a gallant and vivacious disposition not unlikely to impress the fancy of a susceptible and lonely widow like Mrs. Grewy.

Interviews were arranged, in which, little by little, the confidence of Mrs. Grewy was gained, and step by step was learned from her every detail of the plot for the possession of Rolff House, which her sharp ears and eyes had enabled her to obtain, in spite of

Before and After.

When a new newspaper starts up in the territories, according to The Kansas City Journal, the country exchanges greet it in a form which reads something like this, "Vol. 1, No. 1, of The Doakesville Daily Tribune has just reached our table. The Tribune is a neat and newsy little sheet, which supplies a long-felt want in that thriving community by the placid waters of picturesque Bitter Creek. The editor, Mr. James Smith, is a scholar and a gentleman, who has acquired great journalistic experience and ability by serving a number of years on the reportorial staff of one of the metropolitan newspapers of Kansas City. Good luck to you, Jimmy. We affectionately welcome you to the fold of the true moulders of public opinion." But these amenities don't last long. James runs counter to the prevailing opinion on some living issue, and the next thing he reads of himself runs in this fashion: "Vol. 1, No. 2, of that disreputable organ of the Snake Indians, The Doakesville Tribune, published in that h—hole near the sewer of creation, by that dough-faced, pudding brain idiot who recently fled from Kansas City, leaving a $2 laundry bill unpaid, the which seems queer, as he does not have any washing done here."

She Must be Stunning.

Here is a tribute of southern chivalry and eloquence to beauty:—"Miss Isabella Huffman, a most prepossessing, vivacious and highly accomplished young lady of Rome, Ga., is visiting the interesting and happy family of her brother, Conductor J. M. Huffman of Gadsden. The fair Miss Isabella is one of those modest, sweet young ladies that look the picture of loveliness, happiness and beauty, and is one of the most radiantly and beautifully luminous figures to be found among her sex; she is the rich and proud possessor of a most fascinating pair of sparkling peepers, supplemented with the most gorgeous, beautiful showers of coal black tresses, which fall so gracefully and nestle so closely, charmingly, admirably and covetously about her neck and shoulders in such rich profusion, and which would make a Grecian beauty or a queen envy could they but see her. Miss Huffman belongs to a distinguished Georgian family of the genuine thoroughbred type, refined, modest, cultured and intellectual, bordering somewhat on gilt-edged aristocracy, while sprightliness is set upon her lips, and in readiness of wit she is unsurpassed. The Mirror wishes for the fascinating and fair Miss Isabella a most deliciously pleasant time during her sojourn in the beautiful Queen City on the Coosa."

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 29th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done me no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 411 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 35c per box or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. [illegible] will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

For the Farmer.

Thousands of tons of grass (and even weeds) go to waste annually along the roadside which might be easily utilized. A farmer lately made a few movable hurdles, in which he placed sheep, and pastured them along the road, the farm fence forming one side of the hurdle. The hurdles were moved forward daily, and the result was that the roadside was cleaned off wherever the sheep were hurdled, while quite an amount of mutton was secured at a trifling cost. It is worth practising by others.

Apples vs. Strawberries in England.

The folly of keeping Canadian apples until late in the spring with the hope of selling them for export at an increased profit is shown by a recent report to the Fruit Division, Ottawa, by Mr. A. W. Grindley, one of the agents of the Department of Agriculture in Great Britain. Mr. Grindley says:—"Prof. Waugh of the Massachusetts Agricultural Experiment Station and myself were looking at some States apples in barrels, arrived 29th of June in cold storage. They were soft when discharged, and did not bring much, as they will go off very quickly, besides, who wants poor apples when the market is swamped with English strawberries at their best?"

The Value of Barnyard Manure.

The subject of manures is perhaps the most touchy one in the whole category of the good old-fashioned farmer's principles and practices. Here he feels master of the argument. He is standing up for an old friend, a faithful servant of the family—something that has done good work in his day, and in the days of his father and grandfather. It is the hardest worker on the farm; its work is not done, says he, in one year; you can see it the next year, and the next. The farmer does not attempt to explain this apparently permanent benefit, nor to understand it in so far as it is so. Nor does he discriminate much between manures and manures, good, bad or poor; nor does he calculate the money value of this manure, unless he have need to buy it, and then he often calculates long and earnestly, and fails to buy. Nor does he often think it worth while to give attention to this faithful servant until he is ready to plow it into the ground. It may lie in his barnyard and leach away, or burn; a passing brook may flood it and wash the life out of it; still, it is his old faithful and true standby. If it fails to stand by him, something else receives the blame. The season or the soil is at fault, but barnyard manure is infallible.

Now, if the good old-fashioned farmer knew the full and true value of this friend—barnyard manure—he would guard it as the apple of his eye, and use it as carefully as gold dust. He would build a wall around it and a roof over it, would preserve it from flood and fire, and in the end old barnyard manure would do itself more than old-time credit in the work for which it was created.

Now, let us consider a few things in regard to these barnyard manures. First, there is quite a range in their chemical (food) composition and value. Manures of highly-fed animals are different in value from those of low-fed animals—those of fattening from those of milking animals. Manures composted with leaves, cornstalks, tobacco stems, etc., have the added value of the composting material, while those housed from the sun and rain keep whatever value they first possessed. This housing cannot always be done by the average farmer, in which case he has two things to be careful to guard against—heating and washing. Heating may be avoided either by spreading the manure or by adding to it something to take up the ammonia as it is formed by decomposition. Land plaster or lime sulphate will do this, and both add lime to the manure and form the valuable fertilizing compound of ammonium sulphate—an ingredient of all high-grade commercial fertilizers. So the addition of leaves straw, tobacco stems, etc., add to the manures the mineral elements of those materials. The value of barnyard manure is twofold. First, it adds certain chemical plant foods to the soil, just as the commercial fertilizer does, but usually in a much smaller degree in proportion to cost. Twenty loads of barnyard manure at a value of $30 would furnish somewhat less food, but produce about the same yield of corn as 650 pounds of plant food, costing $12, in a high-grade commercial fertilizer; the same with clover hay.

Barnyard manure has, however, an additional value—one which at times becomes quite as important as its food value. To a sandy soil it gives body, moisture-holding power, and a slow and steadily available food supply—one that will not wash out easily. To a clay soil, particularly if it has had land plaster added, it gives circulation of air and moisture—two essentials to plant growth.

For these last reasons it is a valuable helpmeet for the commercial fertilizer in all but very rich, loamy soils and those rich in decaying vegetable matter. Its benefit extends over into years succeeding its application, for these two reasons—first, its improvement of the texture of the soil is more or less permanent; second, it decays slowly, and slowly yields up its food constituents. The whole $30 worth is not available, and is therefore not used the first year, although it was necessary to place this much within the reach of the plant.

A word as to a disadvantage of barnyard manure. All decaying vegetable and animal matter is favorable to insect life; hence crops upon which barnyard manure is used are more liable to insect pests than those nourished with commercial fertilizers. This may be in part avoided by spreading the manure late in the fall, and leaving it exposed to the winter frosts.

Barnyard manure is especially valuable for crops which have a long period of growth, like corn and potatoes and clover hay, though it must not be forgotten that there are also slow-acting commercial fertilizers which serve the purpose as well.—W. W. Fowler, in The Country Gentleman

LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD——$80,000,000——GOLD

—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

—Purchase the Treasury Stock of

The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.
OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,110,000, consisting of 2,110,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 450 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 300,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission.

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $5 to $54.88 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. (This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file of investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 21—There was a mixed and uncertain feeling in the stock market Monday. Conflicting arguments were advanced regarding the intrinsic value of the industrial stocks and talk of forced liquidation simply encouraged the professional bears. The steel and iron stocks were especially protested against, and they responded to the pressure. However, other stocks throughout the list were sold quite freely at times and this selling was difficult to understand in view of the relative strength of the London market and the reported tendency among foreign houses to buy stocks. The bank statement of Saturday was favorbly regarded and the report of the comptroller of the currency regarding the national banks of the country was construed as reporting a very strong position for the money institutions. Illustrated earnings were favorable almost without exception. The harvest reports were conflicting while other news was without special feature. A renewed selling pressure in steel common drove that issue to a new low level. The one reached today had the effect of bringing selling orders to part of the list. There was some investment buying in evidence, but rallies for the most part were but feeble and sentiment naturally in the latter part of the day was rather mixed and uncertain. Outside stocks were dull and featureless, though easy in tone; bonds were dull and heavy with a small demand.

The bank statement Saturday was much better than looked for. The averages were far from favorable, but the fact that there was less bearishness than looked for, has helped sentiment somewhat. The tendency of certain industrial stocks to rally has also helped matters, though regarding the industrials still a mixed view of the professional bears is expected to make an effort to maintain control of them. Just what is affecting the industrials is not plain at the moment inasmuch as there are a lot of conflicting arguments for instance says the market is likely to suffer more or less feverishness as a result of certain professional cliques. During the ensuing week there is likely to be considerable irregularity.

Chicago, Sept. 21—There was more or less irregularity in the wheat market today with conditions generally bearish. The world's shipments were of good size and there was a small increase in the amount on passage. Other statistics were without special feature. The crop news as a whole was conflicting, and Minneapolis reported a fair demand for good milling wheat. The late market was rather narrow. The market for corn was easy in tone. There was a small cash demand and accumulation was noted in the West. The visible supply increased and other statistics were without feature. The crop news was favorably regarded and served to keep the bears from covering their short contracts. Oats were dull. The statistical changes were without special feature. Provisions were dull and rather irregular. The movement of production was moderate, while the cash demand was rather slow.

ONE LIBERAL M. P.'S VIEW

England Must Suffer a Severe Depression

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—Hon. Arthur Priestley, Liberal member of Parliament for Grantham, Lincolnshire, who is here with the Kent County cricket team, and concerning the resignation of the British Ministers that Mr. Chamberlain had disrupted the Unionist party, that Premier Balfour must resign, and that a Liberal victory would follow with the formation of a new Cabinet, probably by Lord Spencer. Mr. Priestly said: "Mr. Chamberlain has disrupted the Unionist party more seriously than the Liberal party was disrupted in 1886 by the Home Rule question. The financial men of the Unionist party, such as Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, and Lord Goschen, are as opposed to the Balfour-Chamberlain policy as are energetic, able young men like Lord Hugh Cecil.

"It is my conviction that England will never adopt a taxation of food policy or a retaliatory system of tariff duties without first suffering from a period of deep industrial depression. Then, but not until then, she may lend a willing ear. At this time the combined Liberal party is opposed to any comprehensive system of protection.

"If relief is wanted from commercial conditions prevailing in our country, we must seek it, I think, in higher and more perfect education in all branches. We must employ, where necessary, the business methods of other countries. We must reduce the dead weight resting on our commercial interests by reducing royalties and similar restrictions, and generally infuse into our commercial life a more strenuous spirit.

"We must meet the world's competition along lines of wider, deeper knowledge and greater energy, and not by instituting a system of tariffs that will increase the cost of living, proportionately reduce the standard of comfort and increase immigration detrimental to national welfare."

HUNGERS FOR MOOR BLOOD

France Too Would Like to Extend Her Civilization

Paris, Sept. 19.—M. Jaures, the Socialist Vice-President of the Chamber of Deputies, has written a letter to the Petite Republic in which he asserts that an expedition to Morocco has been decided upon. He also asserts that the organization of a French protectorate is being considered. He appeals to the public to register its opinion against such a policy.

The Temps, commenting upon M. Jaures' complaint, says that Morocco is, after France's eastern frontier, the most important strategic point in the French empire. It adds that M. Jaure's alarm over the military adventure in Morocco arises from the fact that the military authorities are investigating the situation for the purpose of providing against eventualities should France's endeavors for a pacific settlement fail.

The French diplomatists in England and in Spain are negotiating for the maintenance of France's preponderating influence in Morocco. Once that is settled the Temps says, the pacific policy of M. Jaures for the gradual spread of civilization in Morocco will become possible.

Arrested on Serious Charge

Owen Sound, Sept. 19. — Emma Boyce, the woman wanted in the carbolic acid throwing case, was arrested at the home of a prominent farmer in Derby. She was charged with conspiracy at the police court, and was remanded. She is the victim of the acid thrower, and it is alleged that she has been keeping out of the way to avoid testifying, the suspicion being that it was made worth her while.

Graveyard Coughs and Colds

Cured Quickly by Catarrhozone

A cough or cold this season of the year paves the way for pneumonia or consumption. The best remedy is "Catarrhozone." It eases a cough in five minutes, and colds cannot exist but a few hours where it is used. Mrs. H. L. Chenoweth, residing at Glendive, Montana, was worried by a "graveyard" cough. In the following letter she tells how Catarrhozone cured her in one week;

"I had a bad cough for several months last fall that settled on my lungs. I was worried very much to think that nothing I used could shake it off, but reading in the Halifax "Presbyterian Witness" of the wonderful cures Catarrhozone was effecting, I decided to try it. The irritability and soreness was taken out of my throat in a few days, and in less than one week it entirely cured my cough.

"It is with great gratitude and pleasure that I recommend Catarrhozone. I am sure it will benefit and cure all who use it."

(Signed) Mrs. H. L. Chenoweth.

The reason Catarrhozone always cures is that it goes right to the sore spot, which it heals and makes well quickly. It is antiseptic and destroys disease germs in every part of the system. For Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis, nothing compares with Catarrhozone. It is very simple to use, contains no injurious drugs, and is warranted perfectly safe to use. Catarrhozone Inhaler is suitable to use in a street car, theatre, church any place at any time. Complete outfit costs but $1.00 and is guaranteed to cure or your money back. Trial size, 25c., sold by druggists, or by mail, from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

"Did you give that woman two good eggs for her five cents?" asked the corner-grocer of the new boy. "I did, sir." "You're discharged. You should have sold her two bad eggs, so that she'd come back to kick, and give me a chance to sell her a porterhouse steak."—Baltimore "News."

Mrs. McCall—So your dear old uncle has gone to heaven? Willy—We don't know yet. His will won't be read till after the funeral.

Change of Life

A TIME OF INTEREST AND GREAT IMPORTANCE TO ALL WOMEN.

Wrecked health is produced by neglect during this trying period, and small wonder that women look forward with dread to its coming, for if not properly passed, is but the beginning of an endless chain of troubles.

As soon as the unmistakable signs known to all women make their first appearance, Ferrozone should be used regularly, and if persistently taken will be a guarantee of happy, healthy old age.

Nothing can bring more pleasure than to know that the days of sickness and suffering are over. This can best be accomplished by building up the system with Ferrozone, which produces blood, muscle, tissue, and strength to resist and ward off disease.

Ferrozone increases the appetite strengthens and improves nerve tone and digestive processes, thereby strengthening and invigorating the whole system. It gives tone to the heart, regulates its action, removes distressing palpitations, and it lays the sound foundation of perfect health.

Ferrozone is a sensible and efficient tonic; it brings back strength very quickly, and few people are so strong and healthy, that they would not be benefited by using it.

Be advised and try Ferrozone. It is very pleasant to take, one tablet after each meal. All reliable druggists sell it for 50c. per box, or three boxes for $1.25. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Seven Cents on the Dollar

A letter to The Times from Stouffville says that the Cold Storage and Packing Company, of that place, formed a few months ago with a capital of $200,000, has been wound up, the stockholders getting seven cents on the dollar for their money. All of which goes to show that men cannot make a success of a business of which they know little or nothing.

Hunting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting Deer, Moose, Reindeer, Caribou, etc, in the "Highlands of Ontario," and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk Ticket Offices, or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

A Concrete Wharf

Fenelon Falls Gazette: The old, half-rotten wharf below the locks is to be replaced by a new one built of concrete, and ten or a dozen men are now at work, under the superintendence of Mr. Peter Grant, of Bobcaygeon. The new wharf will be about 170 feet long, 14 feet wide and 15 feet high—the first ten feet of stone and the other five of concrete. The work of tearing up the old wharf was commenced on Monday, and, weather permitting, the new one will be finished by the end of next month.

Reopen Tomorrow

The Times is requested to state that the Ontario Institution for the Deaf and Dumb at Belleville will open tomorrow. Pupils from Orillia and stations in the Muskoka District will arrange to take the 8.10 a.m. train from Orillia to Blackwater Junction, thence on arriving at Port Hope at 12.50 p.m., to make connection with the train from Toronto arriving there at 1.20 p.m. Pupils from Peterborough, Lindsay, Kinmount, Irondale Junction, Haliburton, Fenelon Falls, Coboconk, Brechin, Gelert and other points in this district will be expected on this train when it arrives at Port Hope.

The House Famine

Peterborough is not the only place where houses are scarce. Taking advantage of the scarcity of small houses in Toronto, the Single Tax Association has addressed a letter to the Mayor, advising the Council to petition the Legislature for power to exempt from taxation all dwellings to the extent of $700 on buildings only. In this connection, it may be stated that Ald. Allen was not far astray when he stated in the Council on Thursday night that the city owns one-third of the rateable property of the city. Taxes, water rates and civic improvements eat up about four months' rent out of the twelve.

THE TIMES AND THE STREET RAILWAY

There appears to be some misunderstanding concerning the position taken by The Times in regard to the street railway franchise. This journal is not opposed to giving the franchise for the street railway to Mr. Stuart and his friends. On the contrary, we would favor placing the matter in the hands of men like Mr. Stuart and those associated with him, because we would then be dealing with men whose responsibility, integrity and business ability is unquestioned. But what we do object to is the way the Council has gone about it. It is all very well for certain Aldermen to say that there is no law under which a by-law of this nature can be voted on by the people. They know that the only legal and proper way to put the matter through is to give Mr. Stuart's company the lighting contract at the same price as the Otonabee Company ask, and then vote them a bonus to operate the street railway, equivalent to the difference. There would then be no room for argument, and certainly no chance for litigation.

The Times objected also because instead of securing the street railway, the taxpayers will get a gold brick in the shape of an expensive lawsuit with its usual heavy costs.

These are the reasons why The Times is not in favor of the present scheme.

ORILLIA'S CHEAP LIGHT

How It is Obtained—an Example for Peterborough

In discussing Orillia's municipal ownership of light and power, the Kingston News says:

"If all municipalities could be certain of the beneficial results of municipal ownership as Orillia with its experience as a common light furnisher, there would be a big rush for it. A yearly revenue of $21,237 from a plant investment of $7,500 is certainly a good thing."

The mistake of a contemporary has led to many such erroneous paragraphs in the Ontario press, and it would be a pity if advocates of municipal ownership and operation of such plants should be deceived by it. A review of the venture may be useful.

Orillia has a population of over 5,000, and when it was first proposed to utilize Ragged Rapids, on the Severn, 19 1-2 miles distant, so favorable were the conditions for developing electric power that it was estimated that 800 horse power could be generated and 720 delivered in Orillia at a cost for installation of $75,000. Like most municipal ventures, however, the cost was underestimated, and there was difficulty with the tail-race, which rendered it impossible to realize the 720 horse-power; troubles with the contractor resulted in law suits which are still going on, and large extension contracts will not be completed until next spring. The cost of the works so far has been about 150,000, not 7,500, as stated in the paragraph quoted.

Interest on $150,000 at 4 per cent	$ 6,000
Annual cost of operation	7,500
Allow for deterioration, etc., 5 per cent	7,500
Total annual cost	$21,000

Against this are to be set the following items,

For water service	$ 5,000
Light	9,700
Power sold	6,537
Total	$21,237

In addition to the revenue in cash the town has its municipal buildings lighted, and has fifty arc lights for street use, and from the revenue account is to be deducted interest and repairs to that part of the waterworks and electric light plant not covered by the $150,000 capital outlay, having been in use by steam power for some years.

Orillia probably has a reasonable margin on her investment, but with such favorable conditions, it is to be wondered at that the showing is not better. The best feature of it is that the people get electricity at $15 per annum per horse.

A GREAT BAND'S HISTORY

The Drums of the Coldstream Date Back to 1650

The Band of His Majesty's Coldstream Guards, which is about to visit Canada, leave being granted by the King, is one of the oldest in the British Army. Its drums date back to 1650, before the English Army in its present establishment was formed. It was not until 1783 that a regular band of the regiment was established, and its nucleus was thirteen musicians brought over from Germany by the then Duke of York. At the end of the Napoleonic war, when Paris was occupied by the Allies in 1815, the band was stationed for six months in the French Capital, which is probably the only instance in modern times of an English band being quartered in a foreign country. In 1825 Mr. Charles Godfrey was appointed Bandmaster and remained at the head of the regiment's music till 1863. He was followed by his son, Fred Godfrey, who after 17 years, in 1880, was succeeded by Mr. Thomas, who gave place to Mr. Rogan, the present bandmaster, in 1896. Under Charles Godfrey the Coldstream Band gained a very high state of efficiency, and under Mr. Rogan, with its strength increased to 48, has won the distinction of being the finest in the Army. With the exception of two drummers, not required for concert purposes, the Band in its full regimental strength will be heard here on Wednesday evening, September 23rd, at the New Rink, Brock street. General admission, 50c. Reserved seats, 75c. and $1.00. Plan at Ormond & Walsh's.

PERSONAL MENTION

Movements of the People—What They are Doing and Saying.

—Hon. J. R. Stratton spent Sunday in town.

—Mr. Chas. Leonard, barrister, Toronto, was in town Saturday.

—Rev. E. A. Langfeldt attended the Rural Deanery meeting in Lakefield yesterday.

—Miss Edyth Pearson, of Ottawa, is the guest of Mrs. Leary, McDonel street.

—Mr. Geo. G. Gladman, of Parry Sound, is in town, and will remain over for the Exhibition.

—Mr. Percy Langford, of Winnipeg, is a guest at the home of his father, Mr. Wm. Langford.

—Mr. Harry Leonard, of Toronto, who for some days was the guest of relatives in town, returned on Saturday evening.

—Mr. Robert A. Pratt, of Brantford, and Miss Helen M. Pratt, of Toronto are in town to attend a pleasing event this afternoon.

—Miss Foote, who has been in training as nurse at Clifton Springs, N.Y., is spending a short vacation with her sisters in town, before entering the Kingston General Hospital.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

Newsy Paragraphs Picked Up by Reporters on Their Round

—Out goes the straw hat.

—It's all up with the supplementary summer.

—Peterborough boys are always stepping up to the highest places. The latest report has it that a well known young Peterboronian is bell-hopping at the King Edward.

—Three boys appeared before the Police Magistrate yesterday. One was charged with stealing $15, which the others helped to spend in livery rigs. The Magistrate dismissed the boys with a warning.

—A dollar saved is a dollar made. The Times is sure that many wide-awake readers have made a few dollars this week by reading some of the many excellent bargain advertisements which are a specialty of Fair week.

—The Young Men's Guild of George street church will meet this evening at eight o'clock in the lecture room of George street church. As this is the first meeting of the season a good turnout of the members is expected. Besides a good musical program, which has been prepared, the annual election of officers will take place, and plans will be discussed for the coming fall and winter's work.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Young Lady Had Leg Broken in Runaway Accident

A serious accident occurred yesterday afternoon by which Miss Bella Morgan, sister of Mr. Harry Morgan, Ashburnham, had her leg broken close to the ankle. It appears that Miss Morgan had been attending the funeral of her cousin, Mrs. H. J. Miller, Otonabee, and when on her way home met a traction engine. There were four persons in the rig with Miss Morgan, and the horses became unmanageable when passing the engine, overturning the carriage, which was badly damaged, and fracturing Miss Morgan's leg.

It was said that those in charge the engine, were under the influence of liquor.

DEATH OF EDWARD PHELAN

He Passed Away at Four O'clock Yesterday

It is with regret we announce the death of Mr. Edward Phelan, who for nearly half a century has been a resident of Peterborough. The deceased had not been in good health for a year or more. The death of Mrs. Phelan about 12 months ago was a blow that he did not appear to recover from. Some weeks ago he suffered from an attack of asthma, from which he rallied, but yesterday a relapse set in, and he peacefully passed away.

In the death of Mr. Phelan Peterborough loses one of its most esteemed and best known citizens.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

WILL OPEN TO-DAY

Peterborough's Industrial Fair Will Open Today

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will open today, but the formal opening will take place tomorrow. There are a large number of entries, and the outlook is very promising.

To-morrow Hon. Mr. Blair will be present, and "touch the button," so to speak, and the Coldstream Guards' Band will give a concert in the evening in the new rink.

All that is needed is fine weather, and we hope old probs will do his duty in providing it.

CUBS' FOOD

They Thrive on Grape-Nuts

Healthy babies don't cry and the well nourished baby that is fed on Grape-Nuts is never a crying baby. Many babies who cannot take any other food relish the perfect food Grape-Nuts and get well.

"My little baby was given up by three doctors who said that the condensed milk on which I had fed it, had ruined the child's stomach. One of the doctors told me that the only thing to do would be to try Grape-Nuts, so I got some and prepared it as follows: I soaked 1 1-2 tablespoonfuls in one pint of cold water for half an hour then I strained off the liquid and mixed 12 teaspoonfuls of this strained Grape-Nuts juice with six teaspoonfuls of rich milk, put in a pinch of salt and a little sugar, warmed it, and gave it to baby every two hours.

"In this simple, easy way I saved baby's life and have built her up to a strong healthy child rosy and laughing. The food must certainly be perfect to have such a wonderful effect as this. I can truthfully say I think it is the best food in the world to raise delicate babies on and is also a delicious healthful food for grown-ups as we have discovered in our family." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Grape-Nuts is equally valuable to the strong healthy man or woman.

Many a man would better go without lunch at all than eat the hurried lunch which forms the noon-day meal of many a business man. Hasty eating, foods hard to digest, and no time allowed for digestion are the cause of many a case of stomach "trouble."

Disease of the stomach seriously threatens the health of the whole body and should be promptly cured. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect assimilation of food and the proper nutrition of the body on which physical strength depends.

"Nine or ten years ago my health became very poor, and in 1893 was so far gone that good doctors pronounced my case the worst they had ever treated," writes Mr. Harvey Phipps, of Florence, Ala. "I had acute stomach trouble, liver complaint, catarrh and was nervous to such an extent I could not sleep. I finally got three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and some 'Pellets.' Took them according to directions on the bottles, and in a few days noticed a decided improvement. I commenced to get more rest at night and could eat with pleasure, where formerly food was like chips to me. When I had used three bottles of the 'Discovery' I was a new man; could eat mince pie for supper, go to bed at seven P. M. and sleep until seven A. M. I am now working at my trade (carpentry), every day in all kinds of weather, and think if I had not taken your medicines I would now be under the sod."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the clogged system from accumulated impurities.

SALARIES ARE INCREASED

The Post Office Employees Are to Get More Money

It will be good news to those who labor in His Majesty's post offices to learn that Mr. Birkett's amendment to the new Civil Service Act has borne fruit. Sir William Mulock's bill which made no increase in the salaries of first, second, and present third-class clerks, or in those of messengers, packers and sorters, was withdrawn and a new bill has been brought down, following the suggestions of Mr. Birkett, and providing the increases omitted, but not to the extent urged. It makes the salaries of chief clerks $1,900 and $2,500; first-class, $1,600 and $1,900; second-class, $1,200 and $1,600; junior second class, $700 and $1,100; third-class (new), $500 and $700; messengers, packers, and sorters, $500 and $700.

NEW COLD STORAGE PLANT

The George Matthews Company to Increase Their Plants

We learn that the George Matthews Packing Company on Saturday last purchased a block of land close to their factory, known as the Leonard homestead, on which they propose to erect a mammoth cold storage plant. The object is, we believe, to fill a long felt want in Peterborough, in the way of providing facilities for shippers of eggs, butter, cheese poultry and live stock.

We understand that active building operations will be begun at once, and that the plant will be completed during the coming winter, so as to be ready for next season's business.

A GREAT COUNTRY

What the Grand Trunk Pacific Will do for Alberta

We understand, says the Alberta Eye Opener, that when the Grand Trunk reaches the Peace river country a branch line will be run to the Arctic ocean paralleling the McKenzie River. This will give a fairly straight shoot from the Arctic Circle to Edmonton. The main object will be to ship whales from the Arctic ocean to Edmonton; where they have no whales, and haul back hay and oats to the Esquimax, many of whom run large herds of walruses. The whales will be watered on the way down at Great Slave Lake, which will be liberally stocked with herring and some of the smaller dishes for feeding purposes. What between whales at Edmonton, sharks at Calgary, lobsters at Okotoks and suckers every place else, Alberta bids fair to become an interesting aquarium of marine curiosities. The whales will be utilized by the real estate men of Edmonton to help them spout.

AN IMMENSE SHORTAGE OF BRITAIN'S AVAILABLE WHEAT SUPPLY

Estimated at Thirty-Six Millions of Bushels, Which Canada Will be Asked to Supply

Sir Charles Tupper Added to Committee Which Will Support Mr. Chamberlain

London, September 23—Mr. Thomas Thom, of the Liverpool Corn Exchange, estimates this year's shortage at 36,000,000 bushels in the world's wheat available for British needs. Canada's average export of wheat to Britain during the past six years had been only six million bushels. Mr. Thom contends that any deficiency can scarcely be supplied from Canada. The natural outlet for Manitoba and Alberta is the Pacific ocean. To meet the increasing bread wants of China Japan and the Philippines, Mr. Thom thinks those who expect sufficient supplies from the Canadian Northwest will be doomed to disappointment.

BUTTER IN DEMAND.

There was a good demand last week for Canadian butter and particularly fresh arrivals. Prices, however, have not materially advanced, but the early rise is expected. THE CIVIL SERVICE BILL

Provision for Statutory Increases Done Away With

Ottawa, Sept. 23—The Postmaster-General and his colleagues, who share with him the responsibility for drafting the second edition of the new Civil Service bill, seem to have very little heart in the work of increasing salaries. It follows the lead of Mr. Borden's proposal to make the increases general, instead of confining them to two or three classes, but at the same time wipes out the authorization for granting the increases by regular annual advances, which the amendment of the senior member for Ottawa provided in the case of each class, and as the present civil service also provides. The omission is not made, however, in the case of deputy heads, and chief clerks, who were the special object of consideration in the first or expurged edition of the bill.

For instance, the new bill, or resolution provides that deputy heads shall advance by annual increases of $100 to the maximum of $4000 a year, that the grade "A" chief clerks shall advance by annual increases of $100 to the maximum of $2,800, and that newly appointed third class clerks shall receive statutory increases of $50 a year. But, in regard to chief clerks, first class clerks, second class clerks and the present third class clerk, no provisions whatever are made for statutory increases, and as the clauses of the present act which provides for statutory increases in those classes are repealed, the Government need not under the act make any increases at all.

A MILLIONAIRE SHOT

Orlando P. Dexter Is Fired on With Fatal Effect

SHOOTING IS A MYSTERY

Poachers Whom He Had Been Severe With Are Suspected of the Crime

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 23—Orlando P. Dexter, a Norwalk, Connecticut, millionaire, who spent his summers at his home near Santa Clara, where he owns a vast amount of property, was deliberately murdered by some unknown person on Saturday afternoon as he was driving along a lonely road. He was fired upon from ambush. Two bullets went through the back of his buggy, passed through Dexter's body, and lodged in the horse's hip. Dexter was found lying dead on the road by Bert, Russell, a hired man of Mr. Dexter's.

Mr Dexter was about fifty years of age. He has had much trouble of late with parties owning property adjoining his, which has undoubtedly made him some enemies. The authorities are making every effort to apprehend the murderer. The dead man's body was taken to Malone, and will be sent to New York. The sheriff and his posse are at the scene of the murder. The motive is believed to be revenge for Dexter's efforts to keep poachers off his big game preserve.

BODY TAKEN TO NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 23—The body of Orlando P. Dexter, the New York millionaire, who was assassinated near his summer home in the Adirondacks, near Santa Clara, N.Y., arrived at the Grand Central station today in care of John P. Badger, Mr. Dexter's attorney.

"I have no doubt that large sums will be spent to run this cowardly assassin to earth," said Mr. Badger. "Mr. Dexter was deliberately murdered. His assassin planned the crime skilfully and has so far covered his tracks, but there are some clues which I hope will put us on the right track.

"The motive for the crime was revenge for some real or fancied wrongs suffered by somebody. Mr. Dexter had many enemies because of his relentless warfare against game poachers and timber cutters. He had much litigation, and many of the woodsmen felt bitter against him as they do against other wealthy gentlemen, who have established game preserves in the north woods, and who are held to be infringing on the rights of the original settlers.

"Some of these men had made threats against Mr. Dexter's life, and naturally they are under suspicion."

Henry Dexter, father of the murdered man, said to-day:

"No money will be spared to bring the guilty one to justice. I begged my son repeatedly to give up the fight against these outlaws. I warned him they would end by killing him. His murder is the work of one or two men who have repeatedly threatened his life."

Yellow Fever in Mexico

Monterey, Mexico, September 23—Dr. Roy Martin, Quarantine Inspector for the Government, who recently returned from Linares, declares the city to be dead commercially and partly deserted on account of yellow fever. Although there are less than two hundred fever cases in Linares, there are fully 1,000 people sick with various ailments.

A PREMIER'S COURTSHIP

Hon. G. W. Ross' Name Associated With Interesting Rumor

Hamilton, Sept. 23—It is reported in social circles that the greatest and pleasantest sensation of the season will be the announcement of the engagement of one of Ontario's leading statesmen to a Hamilton matron, whose position in the exclusive rank of society has been long secure. The engagement is the common property of a few intimate friends of the lady in question, but apparently the psychological moment for its announcement has not yet arrived. In some quarters the name of Premier Ross is mentioned in this interesting gossip.

BULL FIGHTS IN MEXICO

Terrible Scenes at the Opening of a New Ring

Elpaso, Texas, Sept. 23—Eleven thousand Americans and Mexicans witnessed the formal opening yesterday afternoon of a new bull ring just over the Rio Grande in Mexico. Six wild bulls were fought to death and seven horses terribly gored. Five of them were taken from the arena to die outside. Antonio Cevera, the principal toreador, a relative of Admiral Cevera, killed three bulls, and another toreador the other three. The opening of the ring was the occasion for general rejoicing among the Mexicans along the border.

Struggle for a Crown

Marsouch, Sept. 21—King Menelik's health is growing more precarious, and there are so many pretenders to the throne that when he dies a struggle is certain.

His own daughter, Zandletou, married a simple colonel for love, and her children are not considered worthy to mount the throne.

This leaves several generals as claimants to the power.

KING EDWARD VII., COLDSTREAM'S COLONEL

His Majesty, the King of Great Britain, is the Colonel of the Famous Guards

His Majesty the King is Colonel-in-Chief of the Coldstream Guards and is greatly interested in common with the officers in the very fine band of the Regiment which in recent years under the direction of the talented bandmaster, Mr. J. Mackenzie Rogan, has reached the foremost place among the bands of the British service. Not that the Coldstreams have not always had a fine band, but Mr. Rogan is a musician of exceptional ability, and his merits have won him the recognition of Bandmaster of the Brigade of Guards. He is withal a fine soldier and has seen active service in South Africa, in India, and in Burmah. He received for his work on active service a medal and two clasps from Queen Victoria, and has been decorated by King Edward VII. with the silver medal of the Royal Victorian Order. Mr. Rogan is a composer and a conductor. At a celebration at Eton he conducted a chorus of voices numbering 1200 and was specially complimented by the Queen on the magnificent effect. He has composed march band music and arranged all the parts for the massed bands of the Guard's Brigade. This notable band and leader will appear this evening.

SCHOOL OF EMPIRE FOR LITTLE ENGLAND

Chamberlain's Campaign Pictured Strikingly by Canadian Cartoons

CANADA STILL SILENT

Laurier Government Has Not Yet Joined Australia in Supporting Preference Campaign

London, September 23—Again to-day the papers publish many official and unofficial South African and South African messages supporting Mr. Chamberlain. From Chicago even, through the State Department at Washington, Mr. Chamberlain received the Illinois Manufacturers' Association's cordial invitation to visit the United States. No similar messages have come from Canada and doubt is cast on the authority of Washington Post interview, in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier is represented as unreservedly in favor of Mr. Chamberlain's policy. Day after day the Anti-Chamberlain journals assume the exact contrary and assert that if Mr. Chamberlain's ideas are adopted, it will be in direct opposition to the best Canadian and Australian opinion.

THE COLONIAL LEAGUE.

In the hope of filling the gap left by Canadian silence, some Anglo-Canadians here have formed a Colonial Tariff Reform League movement, which is well supported by subscriptions. Sir Charles Tupper has joined also. Dr. Rankine Dawson, Dr. Armour and other leading Anglo-Canadians are being canvassed. P. H. Congdon, a brother of the Yukon Commissioner, is the secretary. The object of the committee is to secure a full and effective expression of colonial opinion on Mr. Chamberlain's side.

CANADIAN CARTOONS.

Canada is also represented for the first time. J. W. Bengough, engaged by Chamberlain's league, publishes a half page cartoon in the St. James' Gazette, representing John Bull as welcoming Mr. Chamberlain, the new schoolmaster, whose establishment is labelled, "The School of Empire for Little Englanders."

FATAL SHOOTING ACCIDENT

Mr. Edward Reid Victim of Shooting Accident

Montreal, Sept. 22—A distressing shooting accident resulted in the death early today at the Montreal General Hospital, of Mr. Edward Reid, of 104 Belmont Place, Westmount, of the firm of Brown & Reid, general contractors and builders.

Mr. Reid left on Saturday afternoon to enjoy a hunting trip of a few days' duration. He was near Bellevue with some friends. While pulling his boat to the shore his rifle was accidentally discharged. The contents entered his right breast. He was brought in as quickly as possible to the General Hospital, where he passed away, about 1 o'clock this morning.

The deceased leaves a widow and four children—two sons and two daughters—the eldest boy being about 17 years of age.

Gagged the Wrong Man

Chicago, Sept. 23—A bold attempt by two men to lock themselves in a Michigan Central Railway express car with the express messenger, overpower him after the train left the yards at thirteenth street, and then rifle the two safes in the car, was frustrated on Sunday night. William Gaughin, an express man, was knocked unconscious and gagged in the express car shortly after 8 o'clock in the evening. The men discovered that he was not the express-messenger and fearing detection fled. This is the theory of railway officials. The express messenger, who had charge of the car left Chicago at 8.30 o'clock this morning with one guard and about $25,000 in two safes in the car.

CAN FEED THE EMPIRE

Hasty Opinion by a British Grain Merchant

London, September 23—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reported Washington assertion that Canada could easily feed the Empire stands in striking contrast to the reported statement by Mr. Thomas Thorne of the Liverpool Corn Exchange, that the Canadian West would always be a most precarious source of supply owing to the short season and early frosts. The value to be attached to Mr. Thorne's opinion is best illustrated by his positive assertion that China, Japan, and the Philippines are the natural outlet for North-West wheat, and not Great Britain.

IS DYING

The Ex Empress Carlotta of Mexico Is Dying

Brussels, Sept. 23—Carlotta, the unhappy widow of the ill-fated Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, is dying. She still holds a mock court daily in the Chateau de Bouchot, near Brussels, fancying herself yet the Empress of Mexico, for she has been bereft of her reason for thirty-seven years. The most pathetic feature of Carlotta's fate is her hallucination that her husband is still alive.

A VICIOUS LION

Tore Off Trainer's Hand at Street Carnival

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept 23—During the performance of a street carnival company yesterday an angry lion sprang upon Keeper Ricardo, who was in the cage, and tore off his right hand. Only the prompt work of attendants who beat off the lion and dragged Ricardo from the cage, saved the keeper's life. The lion has killed three keepers.

PASSENGER AGENTS MAKE PROTEST

They Are Being Charged With Misleading Emigrants

SIR CHAS. TUPPER'S VIGOR

Bonar Law, Canadian Member of British Parliament, May Succeed Hon. Arthur Elliot.

London, Sept. 23—Messrs. Hayward & Son, of Birmingham, vigorously protest against bona fide passenger agencies being tarred with the same brush with the unauthorized emigration agents. Haywards have received letters from emigrants employed in Winnipeg as gas fitters at 14 shillings and sixpence per day, and an art metal worker in Toronto earning thirty dollars a week.

AN OFFICE FOR BONAR LAW.

Mr. Bonar Law is spoken of as a probable successor to Hon. Arthur R. D. Eliot as secretary treasurer. Mr Law was born in New Brunswick.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER'S VIGOUR.

The Westminster Gazette says—"Sir Charles Tupper having recently entered his eighty-third year, apparently thinks he ought to make a fresh start in public life, and so has entered into the fiscal campaign. He delivered a vigorous address at Plumstead, and more is to be heard from him.

COLONIAL NAVAL RESERVE.

The October number of the Pall Mall Gazette in an article on Colonial naval reserves, says that Newfoundland "is an ideal province in which to establish a naval force, and that its people are the finest and most skilful seafolk in the world.

INSURANCE ON CATTLE.

Canadian cattle can now be shipped to Manchester on the same terms of insurance as to Liverpool.

GORED BY BULL

Wm. Henderson Nearly Killed Yesterday on Show Grounds

Wm Henderson, who is employed by Wm. Stewart & Son, stock breeders, Campbellford, had a narrow escape from death yesterday at the exhibition grounds.

It appears while Mr. Henderson was giving a large thoroughbred bull, which the firm have on exhibition, a pail of water, the animal viciously attacked him, and threw him over the partition into an adjoining stall. Mr. Henderson suffered severe wounds on the groin, necessitating several stitches. His wounds necessitated several stitches. His wounds were attended to by Dr. Greer, and he is now doing nicely.

Had the bull struck Mr. Henderson on the abdomen, he would undoubtedly have been killed.

Burglars at Brockville

Brockville, Ont., September 23—The local police were notified of a burglary committed in the office of James Cumming, the Lyn Miller, and well-known as Canadian Trade Commissioner to South Africa. The safe in the office was blown to pieces. Entrance to the office was gained by the aid of tools stolen from a neighboring blacksmith shop. Fortunately the safe which ordinarily contains large sums of money over Sunday was empty, Saturday being pay day, having used up nearly all the cash on hand.

Retail Merchants Decide to Prosecute Labor Union Business Agent

Toronto, Sept. 23.—The Retail Merchants' Association, at their meeting, which lasted until nearly midnight, decided to prosecute F. C. Letts, business agent of the Amalgamated Meat-Cutters' and Butchers' Workmen, on a charge of violating the Criminal Code. Letts is alleged to have sent out blackmailing circulars to a number of city butchers, who did not display the union card in their store, and who did not close at 7 o'clock in the evening, telling them their customers had noticed that they were not friends of organized labor, and unless they complied with the rules of the union they would find that there would be a falling off in business.

TRAGEDY AT BUFFALO

Old Man Kills Son-in-Law and Commits Suicide

Buffalo, N.Y.—September 23—James Mears, 70 years old, on Sunday shot and fatally wounded his son-in-law, Michael Crotty, 34 years old, and then sent a bullet through his own brain, dying instantly. Family quarrels were the cause of the crime. A year ago Mears deeded some property to his daughter Katherine, stipulating that she should not marry and that she should provide for him until his death. Katherine was married to Crotty three months ago. Crotty was employed as a switchman on the Nickel Plate, and it is said that Mears made no objection at the time of the marriage. Recently affairs in the household had not been running smoothly.

HE GOT HIS SHAVE

But Will Likely Deal With Another Barber

There was only one vacant chair in one of our George street barber shops on Saturday and John A——, and a little nervous-looking man made for it together. The little man got the best of the start and without seeing A— behind, threw himself into the chair. A— had taken off his coat, and was wearing a soft summer shirt and belted trousers, and the little man looked at him carelessly and said:

"Once over and hurry up."

The barber was back by this time, change, and A—. seized the mug and began lathering his unconscious rival.

"In for the Fair?" he asked, as he jammed the little man's head into the rest.

"No."

"Pleasant after the rain."

"Yes. Don't shove that brush in my mouth again"

The barber was back by this time, but A—. waved him away and continued his work.

"You're hair's a little thin," he said, suggestively, slapping the man's head, "I like it thin. I hate fat hair," was the muttered rejoinder.

"Ever put anything on it?" pursued the pseudo-barber.

"I put my hat on it," and there was asperity in his reply.

"Better take some of that liquid hair restorer," murmured the barber, rubbing in the lather with a flowery five-cent parlor movement.

"I don't drink." The relations were getting strained.

"Come to this shop often?"

"No, thank heaven—can't you keep that brush away from my mouth?" The bystanders thought they could see a fight coming.

"Wonderful the business we're doing," said A—. methodically, beginning to strop a razor.

"It's a wonder you're doing any. Hurry up," was the sharp rejoinder.

"What's that?" and the patient began to wriggle uneasily.

"I was just wondering if I couldn't sell you something for that hair."

"You can sell me one shave, and you better get busy," retorted the little man through the layers of lather which stood out on his face. "You're the worst I ever saw."

"My but I'm anxious to know the ball score today," and with that A— stepped up to the mirror and began to touch up his own hair with a brush.

"Say," shouted the little man, "I want you to take this soap off my face. I'm going to a shop where I haven't got to listen to a gibbering idiot. I've stood for this long enough. And don't you slap me on the head again either.

Every one was enjoying the fun now, but the boss barber came hurrying down the shop and took in the situation at a glance. He sent A— away, told the wrathful customer that the man would be discharged, and ordered the other barber back to his place. At the sight of the boss the customers straightened their faces and the barber re-commenced work.

A— was led off to another chair to be shaved.

"Most impatient little man I ever saw," he said.

All Saints' Senior Guild

All Saints' Senior Girls' Guild held an open meeting last night, when a number of new members were brought in. Amusements were indulged in, and a bright start was made in the season's work. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served. Mr. T. H. Hooper supplied ice cream. The following officers were elected:

President—Miss Cairns.
Vice-President—Miss C. Hutchinson.
Secretary—Miss M. Richey.
Assistant Secretary—Miss Campbell.
Treasurer—Miss [illegible]

Says the Works Will Be Re-Opened Right Away

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—F. H. Clergue arrived here from the Soo this morning, and a big batch of telegrams greeted him. Mr. Clergue registered at the Russell House, and shortly after breakfast was closeted with certain French capitalists from Paris.

Mr. Clergue is quite sanguine that the trouble will blow over. He told his interviewers that the works at the Soo would be running "right away." He stated that the plant had been closed down without the authority of the directors. Although the works were being operated at a profit of $150,000 a month, these figures did not represent the full productiveness of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company, because for some time a large part of the plant had been idle. This was particularly the case with the steel plant, which was handicapped by having to wait for its battery of charcoal furnaces to be completed.

Mr. Clergue is in touch with a number of capitalists, and fully expects that assistance will be forthcoming to relieve the situation. He has no fear that the mortgagee will be allowed to get a $117,000,000 outfit for a trifle like $9,000,000.

WILL NOT FORECLOSE.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 22—Mr. F. H. Clergue and his English associates, Messrs. Harvey, Wilson, and Tulloch, stole a march on the townspeople. On Sunday the report was circulated that they were bound for England to secure backing for a scheme to take over the Consolidated Company's property and franchises. Today it developed that the quartet were in the Sudbury nickel district looking over the Gertrude mine, owned by the Consolidated, and nickel claims controlled by Mr. Clergue himself, and it was stated here last night by a man in touch with Mr. Clergue that he was making an attempt to secure control of the uncompleted nickel plant here, in expectation of a great boom in that metal."

"Speyer & Co.," said the same informant, "are not anxious to put a receiver in charge, because they have discovered that such action annuls the Ontario land grant to the Algoma Central Railway, and would seriously depreciate several other franchises which the Consolidated Company hold. It is more than likely that Speyer & Co. will sell out their interests to English capitalists for the loan and reasonable interest, and be glad to get out even on that basis."

MINERS FLOCK IN.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 22—A telegram this morning from President Shields announced that yesterday's negotiations with Speyer & Co. ended without results.

Three small retail firms have already collapsed, and more are tottering.

Though there was some trouble at the company's offices necessitating police interference last night, things were quiet today, though several groups of unemployed workmen gathered and crowded around the paymaster's office.

Today about a dozen women visited the offices and appealed for money due their husbands, but without avail.

The closing of works and mines has created a panic among Helen and Grace miners up the lake. They refused to remain at the camps, and the company has been compelled to bring them into town. The steamer Minnie M. left yesterday to bring another load. There are 800 of them, and the company will feed and shelter all until they are paid.

"The works are still closed tight, and the prospects for immediate resumption are not bright," remarked Mr Coyne, private secretary to Mr. Shields, this morning. "I anticipate no trouble unless we are unable to meet obligations next Monday."

A SALE NECESSARY.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22—The Stockholders' Protective Committee of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company, composed of E. O. Miller, W. W. Kurtz, William Ratch Victor, and Nicholas Brice, held a conference here today to decide upon a plan of procedure.

A member of the committee said: "If Speyer and Company have decided to foreclose on the properties, it is by agreement with the management. A sale is a necessary part of the reorganization plan, and only a sale will put the reorganization in a position in which they can say to the stockholders: 'You must either pay an assessment or lose your interest.'"

E. O. Miller said: "I think the influence of the company should be sufficient to offset any unfriendly attitude taken by any large rival steel interest. As to the receivership, I do not see what could be gained by our filing an application at this time."

London, Sept. 21.—As part of the organization of the Tariff Reform League a committee of colonial gentlemen resident in this country has been formed to secure a full and effective expression of opinion on behalf of colonials here and in the colonies, in support of the fiscal proposals of Mr. Chamberlain.

At the first meeting a resolution was passed to the effect that the committee expresses [illegible] heartfelt regret that Mr. Chamberlain has resigned the position of Colonial Secretary. Sir Charles Tupper's name was added to the [illegible]

DO YOU SING IN CHURCH?

Two of Toronto's Presbyterian Churches are to begin classes this week with a view to promote and improve congregational singing. The course will include both theory and sight singing, and it is for the special benefit of the members of the congregations. This is a step in the right direction. Congregational singing in many churches is much neglected. It is too much the fashion nowadays—in fact, it appears to be the fashion altogether — for choirmasters and organists to devote their whole time and attention to their choirs. Once a week or so the choir meets for practice, when the soloists are given a chance to show what they can do, and that is all. Neither of these functionaries are to blame in the matter. That is what they draw their salaries for —nothing more. Now we have an idea that that is decidedly wrong. If the congregation is to join in the singing of praise to the Almighty, some effort should be made by which it could be enabled to do so pleasingly and intelligently. The writer has seen a minister in this city, who now occupies a Toronto pulpit, stop the singing when the congregation was not joining as heartily as he thought it should, and ask it to begin over again. Being a good singer himself, he would take the lead out of the hands of the choir, and before the people knew it they were all singing heartily. The result was that that church was then noted for its hearty congregational singing. Some such classes are needed in most of the Peterborough churches — in some the congregational singing is so poor that if a stranger happens to lift his voice above a squeak, his neighbors on the pew or the next one turn and look at him with surprise, as much as to say, "What are you making such a noise for? To drown the choir?" Congregational singing should be cultivated or dropped altogether. Why should there not be practice for congregational singing as well as choir singing?

THE CLERGUE DIFFICULTIES

The situation at Sault Ste Marie, where the closing of the Clergue works throws many hundreds of men out of work and leaves them unpaid, is one that is to be deplored. The gigantic enterprise appears to have been too great for the capital of the promoters, or bad judgment in its investment has been exercised by those in control. Some months ago a stock market crash led to serious trouble in financing it, and there have at various times since been talk of receiverships and reorganizations, but negotiations do not appear to have been followed by the results desired. It is rumored that the influence of the U. S. Steel Trust has been used to prevent the company from making the necessary loans, probably with a view to securing control of the works or crippling them. The Speyer Syndicate, of New York holds a $5,060,000 mortgage on the plant, and it is understood that is foreclosed. It is to be hoped that Canadian capitalists will be able to come to the relief of the concern and put it on its feet again soon, as the stoppage of $150,000 wages a month is a very serious matter for the town of Sault Ste. Marie and district, to say nothing of the effect on the country.

OBITUARY

Christian Guardian on the Death of Wm Church

The Christian Guardian in its obituary column has the following notice.—

Wm. M., eldest son of Oliver and Matilda Church, was born in the county of Northumberland, township of Percy, on December 2, 1849, and came to the township of Burleigh, in Peterborough county, in the year 1870. Here he spent his time carving in red cedar, at which trade he became very proficient, and many a camper on Stony Lake has carried away the product of his skill, to be treasured as a souvenir of this delightful summer resort. Although not until about three years ago did Bro Church take a public stand for Christ, still he was a man who was always held in very high esteem in the settlement in which he lived. Very honest, upright and honorable in everything, he lived and died highly respected by all who knew him. For several years he had not been very rugged, and a few weeks before his death he was taken quite sick, but seemed to be in a fair way to recovering his usual health, being able to attend church on Sunday, May 17th. But during the following week he was stricken again, and very unexpectedly was called away about noon on May 21st. Though unable to bid his friends good-bye, he opened his eyes with a smile, and closed them in death. He leaves behind him a sorrowing widow, formerly Marion Borrowman, of the town of Peterborough, at one time a teacher in the public school, and one sister, Mrs. Chas. Lander, and two brothers, Allen and Israel, all of Burleigh. We mingle joy with sadness for we know that God hath given his beloved sleep.

REFUGES FOR DISPOSSESSED

Paris to Establish Practical Charity on the Berlin Plan

Paris, Sept. 21.—Paris is about to follow in the footsteps of Berlin and establish a house of refuge for the dispossed.

This practical philanthropy has worked so well in the German capital that M. Bussah, vice-president of the Paris Municipal Council, went to study the methods on which it was operated. He returned with the conviction that a series of such institutions is an immediate necessity in Paris. He estimates that several refuges can be established at a cost of $24,000, to furnish food as well as lodging to the inmates.

These houses would be a great aid to workmen, who, for some good reason, at the beginning of winter, when their rent was due, were unable to pay and were turned into the street, to be exposed with their families to the rigors of the cold.

Chronic Biliousness

The proper elements needed to promote good digestion, regularity of the bowels, correct action of the kidneys and liver, must be supplied when a bilious condition of the system is once established.

Ferrozone can't help but do this. It gives the stomach perfect rest, and allows you to partake of and enjoy the variety of food that is necessary for maintaining health. One Ferrozone tablet taken after each meal will separate the nutritious portions of the food from the waste, which is carried off, thus preventing and curing constipation and its attendant evil, piles.

Being a potent blood purifier, Ferrozone cleanses the crimson flood of all bile and impurities, and as a result the complexion is restored to a rosy, healthy hue, and the dark circles under the eyes and the deathly pallor of the cheeks, go away never to return.

Taken for disorders of the stomach, commencing with biliousness and ending with derangements of the liver and kidneys, Ferrozone achieves marvelous results. It is at the same time a tonic and stimulant, and a regulator of all bodily functions, and chronic sufferers should not fail to give it a fair trial. It will do them good without doubt, and if the malady is curable it will yield to Ferrozone.

With the use of Ferrozone appetite will be better, the blood made rich and pure, sleep will be dreamless and sound. Your muddy complexion will be cleared and beautified, your eyes will acquire a new brightness, and as your spirits rise and good health returns, you will bless the day you learned the secret of Ferrozone's power.

If you think you need Ferrozone go to the nearest drug store and procure a supply. Refuse a substitute and insist on having the genuine Ferrozone, which costs 50 cts. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

HEROISM ON STEAMER

Passenger and Freight Boat Destroyed by Fire

Mate Ran Vessel Ashore Though Surrounded by Flames

St. John, N.B., Sept. 21—The Star Line Steamship Co.'s steamer David Weston, Capt. Edward W. Day, caught fire off Craig's Point, about 20 miles up the river, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and was totally destroyed. Three people were drowned and seven or eight injured. The dead are:

Fred Downey, aged 21, of St. John; deck hand.

None of the injured were seriously hurt.

The David Weston was on her regular trip from Fredericton to this city and carried about forty passengers, eighteen officers and crew, and had a large freight cargo and up-river mails.

EASY PREY TO FLAMES.

The fire started among some baled hay on the lower deck, presumably from a cigar stub or a match thrown carelessly away by a smoker. The engineer connected with the pumps at once, but almost before the stream could be raised he was driven from the post by the flames. Feeding on the hay and on the dry and oil-soaked woodwork of the steamer, the fire spread with rapidity, and in five minutes the hull was ablaze.

Capt. Day placed Mate Wm. Whelpley in charge of the wheel, with orders to beach the steamer, while the captain took command of the ship's boats. The flames prevented the launching of one, but the second was soon in the water, and a load of passengers hurried ashore. Two or three trips were made, aided by boats from the shore, and meantime the vessel was pointing, bow on, for the beach, where she was grounded, but Whelpley did not get her there without a DISPLAY OF HEROISM.

The flames had reached the wheel house, and it looked as if he would have to leave his post, but he stuck to it until the steamer's nose was on the shore. The vessel was then all amidships and the flames were eating their way fore and aft. The boats were plying from the after part to the shore, and men and women alike had to clamber from the upper deck over the rail to the boats. Many were saved in this way.

Grouped forward were a number of passengers who could not get off the vessel until she grounded. Here Mate Whelpley's work told again. He stood at the rail and helped the passengers over, passing them to another man on the rail of the lowerdeck, who in turn lowered them to the rocks. Several were injured by falling on the rocks. When all were ashore Whelpley slid down a post to the beach, but in doing so the brave fellow had one of his hands badly burned. Captain Day, who was directing the rescue work aft, was the last man to leave the vessel.

Miss Moorell, the waitress, had become frightened and jumped overboard.

PENNED IN BY FIRE.

Fred Downey, the deck hand who lost his life, had become penned in the flames, as he reached the deck rail. He was driven down towards the paddle box, and a boat put out to rescue him. Those who saw him say he was badly burned, and that his sufferings made him miscalculate the jump to the boat for he struck the water and sank.

The English lad, Stephen Hood Rowan, was in care of his aunt, Miss Rowan, of St. John, and was on a pleasure trip. He climbed over the rail to reach a boat, but either fell or jumped boldly for he, too, was drowned. He had come out here from Manchester, where his parents reside, for a visit, and also to go to school.

Robert Friers, the kitchen boy, had a remarkable escape. He was asleep below when the fire broke out, and everybody forgot him. He was aroused by the crackling of the fire, and rushed out, to find his way to the deck cut off by the flames. He returned to his room and got out of the window into the water and swam ashore.

The company valued the steamer at about $25,000, and carried $10,000 insurance.

Electric Cars Great Speed

Berlin, Sept. 22—An electric car ran at the rate of 106 4-5 miles an hour on the Zossen military road, which is said to be the highest speed ever attained. The engineers in charge of the experiments expect that 125 miles an hour will be reached.

Sistine Chapel in Danger.

The news that the roof of the Sistine Chapel is in danger suggests the possibility of a disaster compared with which the fall of the Campanile was trivial, says The Speaker. Here the Titan of the Renaissance spent thirteen years of his life, wrestling in its cooped spaces with the mechanical difficulties that impeded the execution of his gigantic imaginings. It is the monument of Michael Angelo's genius, and of the whole lavish spirit of his age. Here Pope Julius squandered the sin-offerings of Venetian conquerors and Florentine tyrants, and with the great brush that he had the wisdom to hire painted his way to the gratitude of the human race, while the obscure monk in Germany undermined his careless reign. It is the centre of a faith which had at last grown weak enough, in the splendid glow of tasteful indulgence, to make a real mythology. Here in the dome are present the very authentic records of the world, as though in Rome had been deposited the archives of the universe. The prophets and the sibyls in the dome seem the buttresses of an authority that is here indisputable. The Creation and the Judgment expose the origins and explain the destinies of the regime that is centred in the Vatican. It was all a great world-empire which knew its beginning. The first donation to the proposed art gallery will require a lot of inspection if the British Museum authorities' information is correct. — London Chronicle.

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects.

The DRAINS, either by nightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. We invite all the afflicted to call and consult us confidentially and free of charge. Cures Guaranteed or no Pay. We treat and cure: Varicocele, Blood Diseases, Stricture, Gleet, Emissions, Urinary Drains, Spermatorrhoea, Unnatural Discharges, Kidney and Bladder Diseases.

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500.00, and to the five next nearest $100.00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the lists are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names, and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $4.00 per day while here, so nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA., PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

the secrecy with which the lawyer and his son supposed they had conducted their conferences.

The first intimation that lawyer Saybrook had of the mine that had been arranged to be sprung under the very citadel of his defences was afforded by the retirement of the widow Grewy from his house and service. She refused to give any explanations, and was firm against all promises and cajolements. The lawyer, in his desperation, went even so far as to lay his hand and fortune at her feet; but it was too late.

Thus aroused, lawyer Saybrook put himself on his mettle to meet the enemy's plans. But the more he examined into the matter, the deeper and more dangerous he found the plans that had been laid for his destruction. The defences he had imagined so impregnable had been undermined in a dozen places. Leb. Sackett had been none too cautious in some of his statements as to the nature of his engagement with the lawyer, and witnesses stood ready to come forward and unfold the plot to rid Rolff House of the protection of Carl Crum and old Margaret. Moreover, the tools the lawyer had used as witnesses of his irregular papers had been tampered with, he found, and were not to be relied upon in case they were brought under the cross-questioning of a sharp lawyer.

Look which way he would, lawyer Saybrook saw defeat and disgrace awaiting him, and the door of a felon's cell, to his fearful imagination, stood yawning to receive him. His confidence and shrewdness deserted him. He became demoralised and almost imbecile in spirit.

Ralph vainly sought to encourage him.

"No, no, Ralph," he said, as they were discussing the matter in the office, "I can see no gleam of hope in this matter. I tell you our case is completely riddled. There isn't a ghost of a show. Everything depended on there being no direct witnesses against us. Owing to my cursed recklessness and want of the most ordinary forethought, that infernal traitress not only has knowledge of all our plans, but has been the means of furnishing other clues against us. Everything has worked wrong. I put too much confidence in the bar shutting off Claude, and in his weakness of character. I never expected to see him show such vigorous fight. It's too bad—too bad! We are doomed to be beaten. I can see it. I dare not contemplate the consequences. Unless something more hopeful turns up—but, no, there can be no hope. It is idle for us to delude ourselves. Fate is against us. If it hadn't been for that devil-haunted house—Ralph, I am growing superstitious. Yes, yes—popular legend is right. None but a Rolff can ever inherit that property. Don't tell me—look how every plan we have set in motion has been foiled in some strange and mysterious manner. I have been too sceptical. Some occult power is leagued against us. We must give up the fight. We must save ourselves, if we can."

"But what are we to do?" demanded Ralph.

"I don't know yet, Ralph. I must think—I must think. We can run away, I suppose."

"What—and give up everything, without a single manly blow? I would rather do anythink than that. How do we know but that, by making a good fight, there is hope for us yet?"

"No, no, Ralph; my spirit is hopeful—too hopeful generally; but it is madness to deceive ourselves on this point. They can send me to prison. It's a criminal offence. Halstead is too sharp not to see the point he has got against me. He'll institute a criminal suit—see if he don't."

"And must we abandon everything—sacrifice all we have got—and go out in the world like beggars! Hang it! I'd rather shoot myself."

"So would I, Ralph. But we won't have to. You are not really concerned in this, and the responsibility cannot be made to lie against you. Matters can be arranged so that you will be all right. In fact, if I was to abscond and allow the suit already begun to go against me by default, I think that would be the end of the matter. All my property would be put in your hands and disposed of at your leisure, and we could make a new start in some other section. It's a hard choice, but I am not disposed to stand the chances of ending up my days in a penitentiary."

Disgusted and disappointed as Ralph was at the total collapse of the plans that had promised such brilliant fortune, he was unable to combat his father's fears successfully. At times the lawyer would show a temporary return of spirit, but it would be quickly succeeded by a new fit of depression. In fact, Anthony Saybrook was like many a keen rogue, bold to plot and execute so long as success smiled on him, but easily worried and frightened under misfortune. Convinced that the lawyer Claude had secured to press his suit was skillful and determined, and had hold of very dangerous testimony against him, he had no heart to await the issue, which he felt sure Claude was in a mood to push to the utmost extremity.

However, he made a show of carrying on a vigorous fight; boasted on the streets that he would win an easy victory; and apparently was prepared to contest every inch of ground in defending his character and holding on to the property he had so strangely acquired.

Finally the day arrived when the great suit of Rolff vs. Saybrook was to be opened. There was much public excitement over it, and the court-room was thronged. But, when the case was called there was no response from the defence. Inquiry was made, and it was found that Ralph Saybrook was at home; but he stated that his father had saddled his horse and ridden from town the previous night and had not returned. He did not know where he had gone or how soon he would return. For himself, he could only say that the management of the estate was entirely in his father's hands; he knew little or nothing of the matter; and he was not prepared to put in any answer till his father's return.

The case was postponed; but, as days passed by, and Anthony Saybrook did not reappear, it became evident that he had run away to escape the consequences of his crooked acts, and so judgment went against him by default.

Ralph Saybrook had not been sued jointly with his father, as suggested by Claude's lawyers, for the reason that the young man considered the father the instigator and manager of the whole scheme of fraud, and possessed too fine a sense of honor to allow it to be said of him that he desired to injure anybody out of mere spirit of jealousy. Having asserted his right to his patrimony, and secured a reversal of all the wrong attempted against him, he was not disposed to be revengeful. His hatred vanished, and, in its place, came a dull apathy and melancholy. He had succeeded—but to what purpose? He abased himself to make another appeal to farmer Bruyn; but only to be rudely rebuffed. The old man was of too obstinate a nature to yield easily in a matter where he had committed himself so strongly and Claude made the mistake of showing too great eagerness, and going to him before the disgust and disappointment at the failure of the schemes he had set such great store by had worn off. Farmer Bruyn did not lack in a certain coarse kind of conscientiousness. He had really distrusted and suspected Claude's character, and flattered himself that his efforts to control Rosa's future had been actuated by a fatherly regard for her welfare. Though surprised and almost stunned by the absconding of Anthony Saybrook, the flight of that individual and the consequent derangement of the plans he had cherished, he was too honest not to see that these events did not the least affect the opinion he had held of Claude. To change his attitude now was to convict himself of hasty and unreasonable judgment, and to lay himself open to the suspicion of being merely mercenary, and the bluff, wrong-headed old fellow was not in the least disposed to make such admissions, and, as has been stated, rebuffed Claude's approaches with even more than his former curtness.

Love-Making for Young Men.

While walking the other day from a remote vicinage of the town on the one side to an equally remote purlieu on the other I chanced to cross Easy street, a thoroughfare with which I have no longitudinal acquaintance. Just in the middle of the way there came, with a volcanic roar, out of a column of dust, an automobile. I was thrown fifty feet, and lodged in a locust-tree. With a surviving eye I caught, on the rear of the vehicle, as it tore away, the large silver initials, "P. Q."

Perhaps I have exaggerated the incident somewhat; but something happened.

Anyhow, I know this Peter Quick. Twenty years ago we were well acquainted. 'Twas the time when I was making love to Musette. A rather good job of love-making it was, too, I suspect. Nevertheless, I used up my own allowance, and most of my brother's, and the not large sum I earned, and the rather neat amount that I could borrow. Musette married a man named—named Hunks, I think, or something of the sort.

Peter Quick, also, was making love at the time, and as fervently as I. Not since the joyous Ionian sea gave forth the goddess of love has there been a more ardent wooer than P. Q. I thought then not much of the object of his affections, however. I marveled at his choice. Little did I suspect that she was the greatest heiress that the world can show. Peter Quick was making love to Fraulein Hard Work.

Peter Quick wooed Hard Work—successfully. No man named Hunks (or something like this) got her away from him. Early and late he made love to her. He sent her, so to say, flowers; and fashioned, as it were, sonnets to her eyebrow. He dreamed of her at night, and thought of her on Sundays and holidays. We never could get him to talk of much else. When I contrived my rather celebrated mixture of Virginia and Latakia, and offered Peter some of it, he looked at me abstractedly and said that I knew he didn't smoke. Miss Work, I suspect, objected to smoking. Musette had a pretty knack at rolling a cigarette for me when I called. I suppose she rolled them just as fetchingly for Hunks—or whatever his name was. We all had our fling at P. Q. for his absurd devotion to his queer sweetheart. He took it good-naturedly—and grew more devoted. As he became more and more taken up with her, we saw less and less of him. None of us cared much; we were so unable to sympathize with his infatuation. Finally, I lost sight of him entirely, though I've heard that he has kept up his courtship without abatement. I have not seen him for fifteen years, except for the dissolving view I had just as I lodged in the tree.

It's rather odd, now that I come to think of it, that none of us ever suspected what a vast heiress the damosel Hard Work was, and always has been—and is. Peter must have known it. Perhaps the sly chap looked her up in Bradstreet's. It would be no bad place to find it out—especially if you study the names of those with the highest ratings. She is, too, I know now, the best companion a man ever had. 'Tis impossible long to be unhappy in her company. I cannot learn that association with her ever harmed any man. P. Q. is an excellent fellow. It isn't his fault that we have drifted apart—we're just happened to live in different parts of the town, that's all. He is worth, they say, some trifle of five or six millions, more or less. I suppose when his shoes outwear their primal soles that he doesn't give the matter much thought. Turns them over to his gardener, likely. He doesn't know my friend Leonardo. But I observe by the published catalogue of his picture gallery that he has one or two canvases by the original Leonardo. I have a couple of leathers by the present representative of the family.

If the young man who reads this cares to call at the hospital during visiting hours, I will say several things to him on the subject of making love to Hard Work. Such as: 'Tis the best of love making. And the time to begin it is in the brave days when you are twenty-one or younger. Remember, she is the greatest heiress, and the best of companions. —Hayden Carruth in "Cosmopolitan."

Anecdotal.

Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, is an admirer of Charles Lamb, and has had access to many private papers that illuminate Lamb's character well. "In one of his unpublished letters," Dr. Wilson said the other day, "Lamb speaks of getting his publisher drunk. 'This was a case,' he says, 'of putting my wine cellar in my bookseller.'"

It is related that once, when "Punch" printed a cartoon representing an imaginary conversation between James McNeil Whistler and Oscar Wilde, Wilde wired Whistler: "Ridiculous; when you and I are together we never talk about anything except ourselves." "You forget," replied Whistler in a return telegram, "when you and I are together we never talk about anything except me."

The following story is credited to a New Orleans lawyer, who was asked to address the boys of a business school. He commenced:—"My young friends, as I approached the entrance to this room I noticed on the panel of the door a word eminently appropriate to an institution of this kind. It expresses the one thing most useful to the average man when he steps into the arena of life. It was——" "Pull," shouted the boys, in a roar of laughter, and the lawyer felt that he had taken his text from the wrong side of the door.

Of Miss "Bee" Drew, John Drew's daughter, it is said that one day in her childhood she asked her father how often a certain paper, "The Daily ——," appeared. "The paper is called the 'Daily,' isn't it?" Mr. Drew asked. "Yes," said the young girl. "Then mustn't it of necessity appear every day?" "I don't quite see that," said Miss Drew. "It is plain enough. Why don't you see it?" her father asked. "Because," she answered, "if 'The Daily ——' must appear every day, then 'The Century' must appear every century."

One day recently, says the Rochester "Post-Express," a certain justice of the Supreme Court of that district invited a friend of his, a lawyer, to go sailing with him. The wind was brisk at the start, and it soon freshened, and their little craft began to toss and roll in a manner that caused the lawyer much inward uneasiness. The judge, reading his friend's plight in his contortions, laid a kind hand on his shoulder, and said: "My dear fellow, can I do anything for you?" "Yes, your honor," replied the lawyer, "I wish you would overrule this motion."

Once, when the late Bishop of Canterbury, who was an almost fanatical advocate of the temperance movement, was Bishop of Exeter, he travelled some distance into the country to attend an agricultural function. On his return, his rest was disturbed by a newsboy shouting, "Remarkable statement by the Bishop of Exeter!" To gratify his curiosity, he despatched a servant to purchase the paper. This was found to contain his morning's address, but over his remark—jocosely made, of course—"I have never been drunk in my life," the sub-editor had placed the bold cross head, "Remarkable Statement by the Bishop of Exeter!"

On one occasion when Mr. John M Dunlop, now a prominent official of a large banking institution in Montreal, was crossing the Atlantic, a noted punster was exhibiting his skill in the smoker by making puns from the names of his fellow-passengers. A discussion arose, and the punster declared his ability to squeeze a pun from the name of anyone on the ship. "Wait a bit," exclaimed Dunlop, "I'll wager you the smokes that you can't work it on my name." Quick as a flash came the response: "Oh! that's easy; just 'lop' off the last three letters and it's 'dun.'" Dunlop bought for the crowd.

A Living Encyclopedia.

Lyulph Stanley was an Englishman of whom Lowell said that he "knew three times as many facts as any young man whatever had any business to know."

He had but one rival in that line: Palgrave, who compiled the "Golden Treasury." Much interest sprang up among their friends when the two went off on a trip together.

"It's an even chance which will return alive," said one man, solemnly. When they did come back, Palgrave was pale, emaciated, silent; but Stanley seemed unmoved, and more all-knowing than ever.

One night Buckle, the author of "The History of Civilization," was laying down the law on every subject, with a magnificent pomposity that made the table quake. At last he put forth some statement about the burning of a witch, and set the date a century out of the way. Stanley, who was present, had borne some preceding inaccuracies very well, with only a slight shaking of the head and a reddening of the face.

Suddenly his self-control gave way, and he leaped to his feet. He extended his hand, and piped forth in a vigorous treble:—

"I beg your pardon, but the last witch was burned at such-and-such a place, in such-and-such a year, under such-and-such circumstances. And her name was so-and-so, and you will find all about it in a book to which I can easily refer you, and which you evidently don't know."

Torrents of imprisoned knowledge were thereupon poured on Buckle's head, until the historian of civilization sat wrathful, extinguished, mute. But a little later he had his revenge. Some one mentioned a new dictionary as a good one.

"It is," said Buckle, with solemnity, "It is one of the few dictionaries I have read through with pleasure."

The intimation that he had read any dictionary through for pleasure so astonished the guests that they forgot his past discomfiture in new awe.

Feminine Figures.

"No," said the woman in the case, "I cannot marry you; the disparity in our ages is an insurmountable barrier." "But," answered the man who would a hubby be, "you admit to having celebrated twenty-two birthday anniversaries, and I am only ten years your senior." "True," said the fair one; "but think of the difference twenty years hence; you will be fifty-two and I will be twenty-seven." And, being a wise man, he said never a word, but let it go at that.—Chicago "Daily News."

But for [illegible] and lingerie women would have little temptation to be vain—and man little temptation.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 29th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 412 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough, 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.25.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 450 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,200 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 750,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividend whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission.

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $8 to $54.80 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file of investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 22—There was a rather mixed feeling in evidence on the stock exchange today. However, on the lower prices there was a fair amount of buying but this business was generally attributed to a number of shorts who seemed to be afraid that the market was becoming oversold. The news was without fresh feature. There was a most favorable interpretation given to the money market but banks generally reported considerable firmness. There was some withdrawal of selling pressure against the steel stocks, but conservative interests were rather cautious about taking hold of these issues at the moment, inasmuch as there were reports of a substantial falling off in some branches of the industrials. Outside stocks were dull and steady while bonds were dull and irregular.

Continued excellent crop weather is reported over the corn belt. Traders are still bent on playing the market for quick turns. The disposition to buy Atchison and Pacifics and Coalers on slight recessions, but to close on spurts of moderate proportions was in evidence. The high-priced railroad shares that yield 6 per cent on the investment are not in special favor even among the bull traders. Expert interest in T.C.I. with steels is simply a case of giving a dog a bad name. Buy steel common and you will make money at this level and hang on any activity. Sugar common may be sold for quick profits. Buy A.C.P. around 44, reselling on quick rallies.

American stocks in London steady and featureless, about parity. 41 roads first week Sept. gross average inc. 10.08 per cent. Crop reports continue a factor and there is every prospect of good weather conditions. Expected U.S. mills will start up October 1st. Atch. and St. P. in demand in the loan crowd. 'Frisco officials report crops demand and cars badly wanted.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—There was a rather steady feeling in the wheat market Tuesday but neither factor made very much headway. The country offerings were fair and the statistics were without special features, inasmuch as the principal changes were usually about as expected. The country movement reflects a considerable accumulation of wheat in the west.

The corn market was rather nervous. The bull element in the pit did very little today, but on the other hand the bears were not aggressive. Country offerings were quite liberal, and the general movement reflected an increase in stocks. The late mkt. was dull and rather sluggish the market for oats was dull and narrow the trade being largely professional. The country offerings however, were more liberal. Provisions were slow and quite sluggish, with a moderate cash demand.

Took a Long Time.

When George Ade went from the literary field of Lafayette, Indiana, says The Reader, to tread the primrose path of dalliance with all sorts of things on the staff of The Chicago Record, he met a native lady writer of that town of Pierian Springs and Olympian heights. She wasn't as young as she used to be, but she was quite as pretty as she had ever been, and her devotion to Mr. Ade as a present help in every time of trouble—her troubles—was pathetic. He was a good thing at first, voluntarily, because he wanted to help struggling genius, but the lady was so persistent that she became a nuisance, and Mr. Ade, in his efforts to break away, at times became actually rude.

One day he went cheerfully to his desk, for he had not seen her in a long long time, and the hope that she had gone to a better world above made him resigned, if not really and truly happy. But it was not to be. He found her waiting for him. She greeted him effusively, and he didn't reciprocate, but he had to be polite, and ask her where she had been all this time.

"Why, don't you know?" she said. "I had a fever for three weeks, and it has taken me six weeks to get on my feet."

"Six weeks!" exclaimed Mr. Ade in surprise.

"Yes, indeed; six whole weeks."

"Well," he responded, as if thoroughly convinced. "I have always heard that Chicago women had large feet, but I didn't suppose they were quite so large as that."

A Remarkable Strike

Chicago, Sept. 22—A special from Cleveland says that the big fleet of the U.S. Steel Corporation, which has been tied up by the strike of the Masters' and Pilots' Association, will be sent into winter quarters as fast as the boats arrive at the laying-up ports. This is the outcome of one of the most remarkable strikes in the history of the great lakes in which all sorts of charges of conspiracy and graft have been made.

It is expected that a large portion of the fleet will be tied up by the first of next week, thereby throwing out of employment 2,500 men directly and a vast army employed in the mines and steel mills.

TO CROSS THE OCEAN

An Attempt to Cross Atlantic in Airship to be Made

French Geographer and Aeronaut Preparing for Flight From Canary Islands.

Paris, Sept. 21.—An attempt to cross the Atlantic Ocean in an airship is about to be made by Elisee Reclus, a noted French geographer, and Louis Capazza, the inventor of the parachute balloon and an aeronaut who distinguished himself a few years ago by making a daring trip over the Mediterranean Sea from France to Corsica.

Lemattre, the secretary of the Aero Club of France, gives the following facts about the projected balloon voyage, which will be made for the purpose of meterological investigation.

The start will be made from the Canary Islands about the middle of next May. An enormous balloon is being built for the trip, four times larger than the largest ever made. It will have a capacity of about 46,000 cubic feet, and will be spherical in shape, and will be inflated with hydrogen gas.

CABIN IN A BASKET.

The balloon will have two baskets. The upper one will be furnished like a cabin for sleeping. The lower one will contain the necessary registers and scientific instruments. The principal accessory will be a nonsinkable boat equipped with a 60 horse power motor and fuel for twenty days' run.

It is calculated that the probabilities are that the balloon may land at one of three points—near the mouth of the Amazon River, near the Island of Trinidad, or in Yucatan, Mexico.

From the Island of Palma, in the Canaries, the distance to Para, Brazil, is 2,600 miles, to Trinidad 3,100 and to Yucatan, crossing the Caribbea Sea, 4,900. The highest average speed of the wind is reckoned at 50 miles an hour and the lowest 30. Making only the slowest speed over the greatest distance, the time required will be six days and 19 hours. Going at the highest speed the shortest distance, the time required will be two days and four hours.

The balloon will be provided with means of changing its course north or south, and may choose a landing at any point on the north coast of South America.

PLACE OF REFUGE.

In case of accident the balloonist can take refuge in the non-sinkable boat, taking sufficient food for six weeks. They have no fear of incurring the fate of Andre, for the region they seek is more quiet, the winds are more certain, and the balloon is adequate.

The scheme is being taken up with great enthusiasm by the Aero Club of France, and is exciting much interest in balloon circles all over Europe. James Gordon Bennet is credited with contributing $10,000 to it.

A Courtship Under Difficulties.

Mr. Healy and His Hat.

To the surprise of his fellow-members, Mr. Healy has appeared in the House of Commons in a new silk hat. He has told a correspondent of The Leinster Leader the history of the old hat, with which M.P.'s have grown familiar.

"After the fight in the House of Commons in 1893," he said, "the Mayor and corporation of Alexandria, Louisiana, cabled to me that, reading that my hat was broken in the melee, they had voted me a new hat and hat-case out of the public funds, and requested me to cable the size of my head. They then sent me a new hat, which I undertook, in acknowledging the gift, to wear to the utmost limits.

"The result is that I have been wearing a shabby hat, and I have been so joked about it that, after ten years' wear, with many a pang at parting with an old friend, I decided to discard the gift."

brought in on Monday the 20th of July one of the biggest gushers in Sour Lake. It is situated in the Wirt-Davis tract and has been producing oil continuously since it came in, the Spindletop Power Company taking the entire output from the well. Besides owning this gusher the Company owns two other valuable pieces of Oil Land at Sour Lake, and also owns property in Beaumont, Texas where there are two wells. The Company also owns a 12th. interest in 12 acres of Oil Land near Saratoga, with which goes other valuable options.

On the 20th. of August a 5 per cent. dividend will be paid and it is expected that another dividend will be paid the same time in September.

All who purchase the stock prior to September 15th. will participate in the September dividend. The price of the stock is 20 cents per share. No orders accepted for less than 50 shares.

DIVIDENDS!

INVEST IN A MINE THAT IS ALREADY ESTABLISHED AND PRODUCING.

The Dona Louisa Copper and Gold Mining Company Paid its Third Quarterly Dividend on July 15th, 1903

NEXT DIVIDEND WILL BE PAID OCTOBER 15, 1903.

SAFETY AND PROFIT. By investing in the Stock of the DONA LOUISA COPPER AND GOLD MINING COMPANY at the present stage of development, the SAFETY of your capital is absolutely assured, and your PROFITS begin the instant you become a stockholder.

Buy into a mine that is already a producer and where the stock is yet within the reach of your means. A few months hence this stock will be [illegible] per cent higher.

AN OPPORTUNITY like this seldom comes before the public—the "insiders" generally reserve it for themselves, but the Dona Louisa began business as a Co-operative Company and no matter how valuable their stock may become, the voice of the smallest stock holder will always be respected on a par with the largest.

LOOK INTO this investment at once as there will be but a limited number of shares sold at the present low price. For particulars and prices, address

BRONCHITIS CURED

For fifteen years Mr. John Pearson of Melvern Square suffered from Bronchitis and throat irritation. Doctors failed to relieve but Catarrhozone cured quickly

The remarkable recovery of Mr. Pearson, who for years was principal of Melvern Square High School, is convincing evidence of the exceptional curative powers possessed by Catarrhozone.

"For fifteen years," writes Mr. Pearson, "I constantly suffered from Bronchitis and Throat Irritation. Until quite recently I was able to keep up my teaching, but my bronchial trouble became so annoying that I was forced to resign.

"For months I doctored with different physicians and was not benefited. My trouble grew more severe and extended to the lungs, and I feared I would end in decline.

"Providentially I was advised to use Catarrhozone, and I believe it really saved my life. Its immediate effect was to relieve the throat trouble sufficiently to give me perfect ease in speaking. Within one short week all symptoms of bronchitis had disappeared. I can fervently recommend Catarrhozone. I know it has no equal as a sure and speedy cure for throat trouble and bronchitis."

Every air cell and air passage, all parts of the breathing organs are reached and breathed by the antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone. It soothes and heals the inflamed mucous surfaces, stops the cough, clears the nose and throat, and drives every symptom of bronchitis right out of the system.

To purify the blood of all poisons, and to build up the system, Ferrozone Tablets, which are included in every Catarrhozone outfit, are very highly recommended. This local and constitutional treatment in Bronchitis, Catarrh, and Consumption cannot be equalled.

Catarrhozone is endorsed by physicians and ministers and thousands it has cured. Two months' treatment costs $1. Small size, 25 cts. Sold by all Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS

At the Police Court

Yesterday morning James Crouter, Sidney Crouter, Roland Butcher, W. Brough and Llewelan Crouter appeared before Police Magistrate Dumble, charged with creating a disturbance on Water street.

A Case of Drunk

A man was found lying on Aylmer street yesterday, with a wound on his temple, and apparently dead. It was subsequently found that he was dead drunk. A carter was procured and the man conveyed home.

Interment This Morning

The funeral of the late Edward Phelan, will take place from his late residence, corner of Simcoe and Stewart streets, at 10 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery for interment.

A Little Mixed

At the examination of one of the junior forms in the Central School a pupil was asked: What are the three chief occupations of Ontario, and how are they carried on: One pupil wrote as follows: "Apples, potatoes and celery. They are carried on wagons!"

Bread in Hamilton

In Hamilton the price of bread has been advanced from 5 to 6 cents per 4-pound loaf, and there is a big kick in consequence. The Times says: "More of the staff of life came up from Toronto to-day. Some of the large restaurant and hotel-keepers are combining to import all their bread from that city." Peterborough hotel-men cannot be blamed for doing the same."

Annual Meeting

George street Young Men's Guild met last night and discussed the work for the coming season. The following officers were elected:

A Painful Accident

Yesterday morning Mr. R. A. Tighe, who lives near Warsaw, and who is employed at the Dickson Company's mill suffered a very painful accident. While at work he accidentally had his foot caught in the saw with the result that a portion of the left heel was taken off. Dr. Caldwell was summoned and dressed the wound, the injured man being subsequently taken to the Nicholls Hospital. The injury was a very painful one, but the bone was uninjured and Mr. Tighe will likely be about again shortly.

May Be Protested

Yesterday morning while loading his corn-cob, the genial proprietor of the Snowden House innocently remarked to a guest—

"I notice by The Times that Sir Thomas Lipton is to protest the yacht races."

"What for?" asked a friend.

"Why, he claims the Americans put something in the water which prevented the Shamrock's winning."

"How absurd! What could it possibly have been?"

"Why, the Reliance, of course."

And then the guest paid a man to put something in the glasses.

Strawberries Up West

For days past London, Ontario, has been supplied with strawberries in plenty by the growers at Springbank. Yesterday, says the Free Press, a couple of crates were brought in, and the large red-ripe, luscious berries were "a sight to see." Most years in mild autumn, stragglers of both the strawberry and raspberry crops are found and exhibited as curiosities, but a new crop of either kind in abundance for the market is exceedingly rare. This season is can be accounted for by the absence of killing frosts and the in-setting of semi-tropical weather in the second week of September. The suggestion is that more might be made of the berry crops, and the season very much extended by care and cultivation with that end in view.

GOING TO PETERBORO'

Mr. Lindman, of Montreal, will be at the Oriental Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday next, prepared to relieve sufferers with uncontrollable ruptures. Consultation free. Read the following testimonial:

Montreal, July 2, 1903.

John Hamilton, Carpenter and Builder, 249 St. Martin street.

Mr Lindman: "I have used your truss for six months, and I think it is the best truss on the market, as I tried several before I got yours. I was examined by a doctor and he said I was cured of rupture. I have left your truss off for several days and I think that I am completely cured, and I would recommend your truss to anyone that is obliged to wear one, as yours has given me great satisfaction.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

Newsy Paragraphs Picked Up by Reporters on Their Round

—There is some talk of a waiters' union being formed in town.

—A meeting of the Girls' Guild of St. Luke's church was held last night at the residence of Miss Calcutt, Ashburnham.

—The steamers Majestic and Alert will discontinue their daily trips over the Stony Lake route after Monday, September 21st.

—After September 30th the steamer Esturian will discontinue her double trips between Bobcaygeon and Lindsay. After that date making only one trip daily.

At the annual meeting of the Womens Christian Temperance Union held in the Y.M.C.A, it was decided to disband the union owing to lack of interest and from other causes.

—Mr. P. Simons' fine St. Bernard dog recently savagely attacked Rev. Dr. Torrance, and it was decided to destroy it. The dog was a handsome one, but became dangerously savage of late.

—Deer are reported as being very plentiful up north this season, and the woods are said to be fairly alive with partridges, which indicates good prospects for sport for the man behind the gun.

—The Times will give a last year's almanac to the person who will give the correct answer to the question: "Why does the Council not vote a bonus in the regular way to the Street Railway, and not do it through the Light and Power Company?"

—Besides finishing up the harvest, which has been in progress several weeks, farmers have been busy, at fall ploughing, and sowing wheat, and rye. Some ploughing was done more than a month ago, and a large acreage of land has been prepared for seed.

—On Monday last a daughter of Mr. Staples, who resides on the Densmore farm, who was digging potatoes, found an old spade guinea bearing date 1776. The coin was issued during the reign of George the III., and had the appearance of just coming from the mint. Mr. Staples brought the coin to town and showed it to a number of people. One gentleman offered him $25 for the coin, but he refused to sell at that price.

PERSONAL MENTION

Movements of the People—What They are Doing and Saying.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Fowler have returned from a two weeks' vacation in Midland and the Georgian Bay District.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Comstock, of St. Catharines, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Comstock, Water street, for a few days.

—Mr. Harry L. Cooke, of Colorado Springs, Colorado, who has been in Buffalo attending as a delegate, the 77th biennial session of the High Court, A.O.F., spent a few days in Peterborough visiting his uncle, Mr. W. Cooke.

—Mrs. Oscar O'Shea has recovered sufficiently from her illness occasioned by typhoid fever, to be removed from St. Joseph's Hospital, where she has been for four weeks, to the home of Mr. and Mrs. O'Shea, at the Commercial House.

—Port Hope Guide, in referring to the services in the Methodist church in that town one Sunday evening, says: Mr. Geo. K. Martin, of Peterborough, sang in a strong tenor voice, "The Light of the World," which was much appreciated by the congregation.

WEDDED AT ST. JOHN'S

Nuptials of Mr. Albert G. J. Roberts of Toronto and Miss Margaret A. Pratt of Town

Yesterday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock, St. John's church was the scene of a most charming wedding, when Miss Margaret A. Pratt, daughter of Mrs. Helen A. Pratt, 271 Simcoe street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Albert G. J. Roberts, of Toronto, son of Mr. W. H. Roberts, 196 Stewart street, town.

The Harvest Festival decorations still remained in the church, and in addition to these the altar was prettily decorated with bouquets of flowers and a handsome floral bell.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Robert A. Pratt, of Brantford, and was prettily attired in white striped silk organdie over white taffeta trimmed with bebe ribbon and a chiffon fichu and bridal veil and orange blossoms. Miss Helen M. Pratt, of Toronto, who was bridesmaid, wore pink mousselaine de soie over pink taffeta, with a black picture hat.

The ushers were: Messrs. W. G. Howden, A. H. Scobell, Joe Legg and Jack Cox. The following guests from out of town were present: Miss Chandler, of Norwood; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Cox, Toronto; Miss L. Cochrane, Millbrook, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Fee, Omemee; Mr. Geo Gardiner, Barrie; and Mrs. and Mrs. W. Roberts, of Cleveland, Ohio.

A dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, which were supplied by friends in Bowmanville.

The happy young couple left on the 5.10 C.P.R. train for their future home in Toronto. Mrs. Roberts will be at home to her friends at 623 Gerrard street east, after October 1st. The bride's going away gown was of blue broadcloth with silk velvet trimmings and hat to match. A handsome gold watch and chain was the groom's present to the bride, and to the bridesmaid an opal ring, and a gold-mounted umbrella to the best man.

The many friends in town of Mr. and Mrs. Roberts wish them many years of wedded bliss and happiness.

DIED FROM BLOOD POISONING

Result of the Inquest on the Death of Mrs H J Miller

The adjourned inquest into the circumstances attending the death of Mrs. H. J. Miller, of Otonabee, which took place on Saturday last, was concluded yesterday before Dr. Gray, coroner. County Crown Attorney Wood was present in the interests of the Crown.

The witnesses examined were Herbert J. Miller, husband of the deceased; Mrs. Miller, mother-in-law of deceased; Mrs. Metheral, sister of deceased; Mrs. Dickson, another sister; Elizabeth Perry, a young girl in the employ of Mrs. Dickson; Dr. Harrison, and Dr. Shaw and Dr. McWilliams, the two later presenting their report of the post mortem examination made by them.

The taking of the evidence occupied the greater portion of the day, none being admitted but the Jury, the press representatives and the officers of the court. The following verdict was rendered:

"We the jury empannelled to consider of Mrs. Miller's death and accordingly have come to the consider the evidence in regard to the clusion: First—that the cause of her death was due to blood poisoning, brought on by miscarriage of which she was very anxious to have brought about by medical assistance, but according to the evidence she failed to procure such assistance."

THE PRICE OF BREAD

A Good Deal of Dissatisfaction Over the Raise

Since the announcement in The Times yesterday, the price of bread has been advanced to 12 cents per four pound loaf. There is a good deal of dissatisfaction over this increase, as it is felt that Peterborough bakers should charge no more than the the price charged in other places.

The following is the prices in a few of the cities and towns of Canada:

Lindsay, 10c. per 4 lb. loaf.
Port Hope, 10c.
Belleville, 10c.
Cobourg, 10c.
Montreal, 10c.
Ottawa, 10c.
Halifax, 10c.
Winnipeg, 10c.
Toronto, 9c.
Peterborough, 12c.

Thus it will be seen that Peterborough prices are the highest in the above list.

We understand that several hotel men propose to import their bread from Toronto. It can be brought to Peterborough for 10c. per loaf.

ENDED HIS LIFE

Walter Young of Toronto Found Dead in His Bed

Yesterday a telegram was received by Mrs. Walter Young, who was visiting her parents in Peterborough, that her husband, who resides in Toronto, had been found dead in bed, having committed suicide by taking a dose of laudanum.

The deceased was engaged by the Toronto Street Railway as conductor, and was well known here. No reason can be assigned for the rash act. Mrs. Young at once left for Toronto, where an inquest is being held.

WHAT'S THE USE

To Keep a "Coffee Complexion

A lady says: Postum has helped my complexion so much that my friends say I am growing young again. My complexion used to be coffee colored, muddy and yellow but now it is clear and rosy as when I was a girl. I was induced to try Postum by a friend who had suffered just as I had suffered from terrible indigestion, palpitation of the heart and sinking spells.

"After I had used Postum a week I was so much better that I was afraid it would not last. But now two years have passed and I am a well woman. I owe it all to leaving off coffee and drinking Postum in its place.

"I had drank coffee all my life. I suspected that it was the cause of my trouble, but it was not until I actually quit coffee and started to try Postum that I became certain; then all my troubles ceased and I am now well and strong again." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek Mich.

There's a reason.

"I am well now and enjoying better health than ever before in my whole life."

That is the statement of a woman who had never been well until she was made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There are a great many other women in like case. They have always been sufferers from disease. They have never known the joy of perfect health.

For all such women Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription holds out the prospect of perfect and permanent health, by the cure of the womanly diseases which weaken women. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"It gives me pleasure to let you know of the great benefit received from Dr. Pierce's medicines and the advice which you so kindly sent," writes Mrs. Bertie Parker, of Bonham, Fannin Co., Texas. "I took your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and followed your advice regarding the 'Lotion Tablets,' and am cured. I had been treated by different doctors and spent one hundred dollars for treatment and medicine, but received very little relief. I have only spent seventeen dollars and fifty cents for your medicine and it has cured me in three or four months of ulceration and falling of uterus. I suffered severe misery in my back, also irregular periods. Had bearing-down in lower portion of body and great pain all through my body. Pain in uterus was very severe. Had smothering spells, breath was very short all the time, had pain in stomach, pain in my thighs, pain in breast, also between my shoulders. Bowels constipated. I am well now and enjoying better health than ever before in my whole life. Am happy to tell you that I was cured by your good advice and good medicines, the 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Pleasant Pellets' and 'Lotion Tablets.' These medicines cured me and will cure others also."

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss, therefore accept no substitute.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels.

OUR GREAT FARE

Programme for Today—The Formal Opening

The formal opening of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will take place this afternoon, when the Hon. A. G. Blair will deliver an address and formally open the fair.

THE OPERA HOUSE QUESTION

There Will be No Theatrical Performances This Winter

The closing of the Opera House by Mr. Bradburn will be deplored by all theatre-goers. Already a number of companies who endeavored to book here have not been able to do so, much to their disappointment, for Peterborough has always been regarded as a good show town.

The offer of Mr. Small, of Toronto, made through The Times a couple of months ago, to build a first class opera house, should, we think, have been accepted. He proposed to erect a theatre to cost $30,000, provided he was given a free site and exemption from taxes.

An opera house can not be made to pay unless it has connection with the syndicate who handle all good shows coming into Canada. This Mr. Small only can give us, so that unless we can interest that gentleman, we fear that there is little hope of getting what we desire for some time to come.

Anarchy Is to Rule If Austria and Russia Fail to Intervene in the Dispute

London, Sept. 24—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Sofia telegraphs: —"One of the revolutionary chiefs has informed me that the revolutionists are massing thousands of men at various points on the frontier and their laboratories are working incessantly to replenish their stock of bombs and explosives. They do not count much on war between Turkey and Bulgaria, but on the day they hear that the meeting between the czar and Emperor Francis Joseph, has not had the desired result for Macedonia the world will witness the beginning of massacres, burnings and destruction compared with which, the Turkish atrocities will seem child's play.

"The banner of revolution, my informant says, will be unfurled in all in all the border districts. Every city and village, whether the inhabitants are friends or foes, will be destroyed and such a state of anarchy will be caused that the Turks will step out voluntarily and leave the country to the Macedonian survivors. We have selected the frontier district for these final operations so that Europe may hear the despairing cries of the dying nation, which the Turks would stifle."

Turkey Begins Macedonian Reform.

Constantinople, Sept. 24—In an audience with M. Zinovieff, the Russian ambassador, Friday, the sultan expressed his regret at the excesses committed by the Turkish troops in the vilayets of Monastir and Adrianople. He said that orders had been sent to the authorities concerned to prevent their repetition and he gave the Russian ambassador to understand that the guilty persons would be punished.

The German ambassador, Baron von Biberstein, also had an audience with the sultan who showed himself most optimistic. The latter declared that the insurrection was drawing to a close. In fact, it had already been suppressed in some districts, and the porte, therefore, would immediately issue proclamations announcing the resumption of the application of the reform scheme.

After the granting of these audiences an extraordinary conference of ministers was held at the Yildiz Kiosk and the deliberations were continued Saturday. It is understood that the council drew up fresh instructions to the valis in the sense of his majesty's declaration.

Official despatches from the vali of Salonica, Monastir and Adrianople report numerous encounters with insurgents, which resulted in favor of the Turks.

Bulgaria Explains its Note.

Sofia, Sept. 24—Apprehension having apparently been caused by a misunderstanding of the precise meaning of Bulgaria's last note to the powers, explanations have been given to diplomatic agents to the effect that the memorandum was not intended as an ultimatum, but rather a an appeal for the intervention of the powers before that intervention should be too late. The Bulgarian ministry it was stated, was determined to maintain its attitude of neutrality up to the last moment, but it felt the impossibility of standing by indefinitely while the Turks exterminated the Bulgarians in Macedonia.

The government's position is rendered increasingly difficult by the attitude of the Macedonians in Bulgaria who, vigorously backed by the revolutionary committees, are persistently endeavoring to force the government's hand and provoke hostility with Turkey.

A special despatch from the monastery of Rila, Bulgaria, says the condition of the Turkish garrison of Melnik, sixty-five miles northeast of Salonica is believed to be extremely critical. It is besieged by bands of insurgents under the leadership of Yankoff, Stoyanoff, Darvingtoff, and Zografoff, all of whom were formerly Bulgarian officers. The insurgents number 1,500, while the garrison is believed to consist of only one battalion.

The Turks have withdrawn nearly all their forces from the districts of Dagsoumaja and Razlog to send them to the relief of Melnik. In consequence unusual tranquility prevails throughout the district of Razlog, where the authorities, lacking the support of the troops, have ceased their policy of persecution and the beys are even furnishing bands with food. The Turkish population is described as being in a state of great consternation.

Insurgents Kill Many Turks.

The united bands of Monassieff and Michailof have had an encounter with the troops near Demir-Kapu, sixty-two miles northwest of Salonica. Many Turks were killed, including two officers.

A company of Turkish soldiers and bashi-bazouks recently found the hiding place of 100 families of refugees from the villages of Dupeni and Echla, near Resen. They captured the party, violated the women and committed other atrocities.

PREMIER SHARES CHAMBERLAIN VIEW

Says Great Britain Will Create Tartff Against Uncle Sam

SIR WILFRED NOT SORRY

American Statesmen Are Responsible for Commercial Conflict That Exists To-Day

Newark, N.J., Sept. 24—A staff correspondent of the Newark Sunday News sends the following interview with Sir Wilfrid Laurier from Ottawa:

"There is no doubt that a tariff will be established by Great Britain against the United States, and I am not sorry; I will welcome it." It was with these words that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier of Canada, answered the question put to him by the correspondent of the Sunday News, who had come here to interview the foremost statesman of the Dominion. There was a flash of defiance in his eye as the Premier added: "The time is not far distant when we can furnish Great Britain nearly all the cereals and the meat and the animal products she needs. There will undoubtedly be reciprocity between the Dominion and the other British colonies.

"Annexation sentiment in Canada? There is not the least bit of it. Why should there be? The United States has done nothing to cause such a feeling in our breasts—rather the reverse of it. Canadians are standing on their manhood. And yet," continued the Premier, "Canada and the United States present to the world such an object lesson in peaceful relations as have never before existed between two countries, probably. For some 3,000 miles their territories abut yet there are neither fortifications nor lake navy between them.

COMMERCIAL STRIFE.

"This is political. Commercially we are at strife. And yet I believe that a great majority of the citizens of the United States will agree, with me when I say that your statesmen are responsible for the commercial conflict that exists between the two countries—that they have been exceedingly short-sighted and that their policy has been small.

"The United States, because of her methods, has forced Canada to establish flouring mills, harvester machine works, and to begin the installation of meat packing houses. Many American citizens are bringing their capital over here and building factories—capital which a more thoughtful line of action would have kept at home. This state of affairs has caused considerable alarm in England, but I tell them that I welcome all such Americans to Canada; they make splendid citizens; they are enterprising and progressive.

"Canada, man for man," continued Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "is the best customer the United States has among the world, buying more goods, from your country, per capita, than does England, your next best customer.

AMERICAN DISCRIMINATION.

"In attempting to protect her coal interests, especially," added the Premier, "the United States has discriminated against her own people in the New England States, and on the Pacific slope. The people in Ontario and other central Canadian provinces have been and are suffering along with the Americans. Our coal is all on either side of the Atlantic or the Pacific coast; there is no coal in Canada in the long stretch between Nova Scotia and British Columbia. In the United States, New England, and the Pacific Coast States they have no coal, although it is distributed pretty well across the Union, except at the extreme east, and the Far West. Your coal is in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Illinois, Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming. Ontario and other Canadian provinces cannot use coal from Nova Scotia because of the prohibitive transportation rates over the long haul. Not a ton goes into Ontario that is not from the United States.

"Free coal into both countries, as between themselves, would give the people of New England and your Pacific States cheap coal. It would also make it cheaper to our people in Ontario.

"Nature has equally distributed the precious mineral on this continent, taking it as a whole, but the tariff makers have made it a hardship for the people in certain geographical positions, in both the United States and Canada to get this necessity.

"Take fruit as another example," he continued. "Naturally the United States grows much fruit that our climate will not produce. Your fruit begins to ripen early in June, and Canada would be a large customer were it not for the large tariff we are forced to place upon certain kinds of fruit, because you have placed a tariff on our apples and the few other kinds of fruit that we grow.

"The result is shown in the fact that last year 49,511 citizens of the United States moved into Canada to make their homes, while only 1,023 went from Canada to the United States. This includes those who went from Newfoundland. It is only during the past two years that the tide of emmigration between the two countries has changed, so that now it is so strongly in our favor."

BRITISH ARMY REFORMS

The Times Says There Are Lessons to be Learned

London, Sept. 24—The Times which has been publishing appreciative articles describing the thorough-going many-sided educational training given to United States Cadets at West Point, says, editorially, that the British Army reformers will find in the articles much food for thought. The Americans have been too shrewd to allow room for the idea, sometimes advanced by idle young officers in Britain, that they are inadequately paid. This is shown by the pay granted the cadets during the residence at the West Point Academy, as well as by the pay after they are commissioned. The Times says it does not follow that we ought to blindly follow the American system, but the lesson we can derive from America, should by no means be neglected, though the differences between West Point, Sandhurst and Woolwich are too great to be overbridged in a single generation.

COLE YOUNGER IS ACCUSED

Bandit Gets Into Trouble With Manager of Wild West Show

Nevada, Mo., Sept. 24—A charge of embezzlement of $6,400 has been made against Cole Younger, the bandit, by the management of a wild west show with which Frank James and Younger have been associated since shortly after Younger's pardon from the Minnesota penitentiary where he was serving a life sentence. James and Younger previously had brought action for damages against the management because, as they allege, the show proprietor failed to equip the aggregation according to contract and refused to drive away the gambling element that followed the show. Both James and Younger assert there is nothing in the embezzlement charge, which, they say, is retaliatory.

HURRAH FOR IRELAND

Big Time as Gael Demonstration in Columbus, O

Columbus, O., Sept. 24—The Emmet centennial celebration held here was participated in by Irish Americans from all sections of Ohio. It is estimated that 25,000 excursionists were brought into the city, including a large delegation from Fort Wayne, Ind. There was a parade early in the afternoon. About 3,000 were in line. Following the parade there was a mass meeting at the Columbus auditorium, at which James P. Madigan, of Cleveland presided. Addresses were delivered, in which England was denounced, and a resolution passed, giving Ireland her freedom.

DUTIES ON MEAT AND DAIRY PRODUCE

As Well as Wheat Are Included in Mr. Chamberlain's Plan

THE GREAT MOVEMENT

The Plan Proposed by the Colonial Secretary Has Been Anthoritatively Announced

London, Sept. 24—Anglo-Canadians warmly applaud Mr. Chamberlain's proposals as now outlined authoritatively. The fact that they include a 5 per cent. duty on foreign meat, and dairy products, as well as a two shilling duty on cereals, is accepted as a powerful inducement to Quebec, Ontario and the Maritime Provinces, as well as to Australasia.

A GIVE AND TAKE POLICY.

When asked what the colonies would be asked to reciprocate in byway of tariff reductions, Mr. Chamberlain replies: "You understand our position. We now ask the British electorate to give us a mandate for negotiations with the colonies. We can then tell the extent to which the British the British preference might go, and actual negotiations will be a matter for an inter-Imperial conference on a give and take basis. If the Colonies are unable to give a fair preference equivalent to the British manufacturers, then the British preference is naturally reduced. We are business people here, and in Canada and in Australasia. "A fair give and take arrangement is easy enough."

REPLY TO RADICALS.

Of course, the Radical papers are indignant at what the Daily News calls "a policy of frank cupidity, a scheme to get a monopoly of the British market for the Colonies at the cost of the British consumer."

Mr. Chamberlain replies: "Nothing of the kind. We will simply readjust the food taxes already paid, and put on wheat, meat and dairy produce, what is now borne by sugar, tea, etc., so that the Empire may become self-supporting."

BETTER THAN EVER

Manitoba's Crop More Valuable Than That of Last Year

Winnipeg, Sept. 24—In face of the fact that the total wheat yield in the Canadian West this year will fall short of last year, J. Obed Smith, immigration commissioner, after weighing the information received from various agents and other sources at the disposal of the Department, has wired the chief officials at Ottawa that the cash value of the yield of 1903 will exceed that of the bumper year previous. Any loss in quantity and value, Mr. Smith considers, will be more than made up by enhanced cash value to the grain. Mr. Smith also reports that the loss to crops from the recent storm will not exceed ten per cent. of the quantity in Manitoba, although discoloration will pull down the grade a point or two, while in the territories, the damage may amount to 20 per cent., but not more.

COST THIRTY MILLION

Oil King to Erect several Office Building in Cleveland

Cleveland, Sept. 24—It is stated that John D. Rockfeller has decided to erect no less than 15 large office buildings and business blocks in the downtown district of Cleveland at a agregation more than $30,000,000. Mr. Rockfeller recently secured possession of the Weddell house, one of the oldest and largest hotels in the city. The hotel building is now being demolished and a 16-story office structure will be erected on the site at a cost of over $1,000,000. It is further stated that Mr. Rockfeller has acquired a number of other sites for the erection of similar buildings. Mr. Rockfeller, or his agents, will neither confirm nor deny the report.

CANADIAN FAST LINE

British Government Commission May be Directed to Aid

London, Sept. 24—It is understood that the British Government has the Canadian fast mail line as well as the Cunard service in mind in appointing the Special Commission to investigate the suitability of steam turbines for trans-Atlantic use. The system has yielded such remarkable results in trans-channel work both as regards non-vibration and cost that there are great expectations of its usefulness on the Atlantic.

Boers to Settle in Mexico

Monterey, Mexico, Sept 24—General W. D. Synman, one of the leaders of the boer army during the recent war, has moved his entire family to the new colony he purchased near Ortix station, and on the Mexican Central, and announces that fifty families are on the way from South Africa to join him.

BULGARIANS AND TURKS NOW IN DEADLY COMBAT

Believed That War Has Begun Between the Two Eastern Powers

London, Sept. 22—The correspondent of the London Times at Sofia says: A communication which has reached me directly from the insurgent headquarters, states that fighting began on the 16th with a Turkish attack on the village of Perin, where the revolutionaries possess considerable depots. The insurgent bands, under Stoyanoff, Doncho and Dervingoff, maintained the fight until reinforced by other bands under Tsontcheff, Yankoff and Sandanski, the captor of Miss Stone. The Turkish Turkish forces numbering between 500 and 1,000 men was, it is stated, completely annihilated and the colonel commanding taken prisoner. Another conflict occurred on Sunday, at Kochani, at the foot of the Ogogamska mountains near the frontier. Two professors of the Sofia high school have left for Britain for the purpose of obtaining subscriptions for the relief of the refugees.

POWERS FOR THE SULTAN.

The Times correspondent at Paris refers sarcastically to the touching harmony of the three imperial powers in regard to the wisdom of allowing the Sultan to deal unmolested with Macedonian uprisings. Their principal injunction to him is to deal with it as promptly and efficaciously as possible. If the Sultan is showing a little hesitation in complying, perhaps, it is due to the suspicion that the advice is not quite disinterested, but it may be taken for granted that all the powers are agreed upon one point, namely, that armed rebellion in any form must be ruthlessly repressed.

Vienna, Sept 24—Count von Buelow has been telling the Neues Weiner and the Tagblatt that Germany willingly leaves Austria and Russia to play the leading part in the Balkans and will support all proposals on which Austria and Russia are agreed. But it is dangerous to go too fast in the east and better not make the reform scheme too ambitious. It is suggested that this means that attempts to improve the reform program might interfere with Germany's excellent position in Turkey and might hamper the Sultan's freedom of action about which Germany is so anxious. When Count von Buelow says that Germany will support any proposals upon which Austria and Russia agree he might be thought to mean that Germany will see that Austria and Russia do not agree to any measures upon which Germany will be unable to support Turkey.

THINK WAR IS NOW ON.

London, Sept. 24 — A despatch from Guitchevo, on the Turco-Bulgarian frontier, to the Daily Mail, reports that anxiety prevails in that district because of a skirmish between Turkish and Bulgarian troops on the mountain range which forms the border zone on Saturday. The general impression is that war is only a question of a few days. The despatch adds that Turkey is massing forty thousand troops in and around Palanka, ten miles from the Bulgarian frontier, against which force the Bulgarians have only 4,000 men.

USED DYNAMITE.

Sofia, Sept. 24—It is reported here that five hundred Turks have been killed with dynamite while fighting against a body of insurgents in the Kresna defile.

ATTACK ON CANADA

London News Says Attorney-General Finlay Was Discourteous

London, Sept. 22—A recent editorial in the News, attacking the Attorney-General for what is called his discourteous tone towards the United States in the argument on the Alaska dispute, is the only unfriendly reference to the Canadian case that has appeared in the British press. The News accusation was entirely unfounded, while the attack on Canada was most scurrilous. The News is no longer the organ of any political party, but simply a private enterprise, so no importance is attached to its utterances here.

GIVE THE WIDOW $1,000,000

Titled Americans Prevent Will Contest to Avoid Airing Family Woes

New York, Sept. 24—Dreading the publicity that a contest of the will of the late David Bradley Lee would cause, the sisters of the millionaire, Countess Von Waldersee and Baroness De Wachter Lauterbach, have given the widow nearly $1,000,000. Mrs Lee, whose existence was unknown to Lee's closest friends until after his death, sailed for Europe on the Graf Waldersee Saturday, but before she sailed papers were signed and an agreement was reached, which will prevent a contest of the will.

PETERBOROUGH'S BIG INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION

The Fair Formally Opened Yesterday By Hon. Andrew Blair

THE LARGEST ATTENDANCE ON RECORD

The Fair a Huge Success---There Was a Splendid Exhibition of Sheep

The superb weather which prevailed yesterday has much to do with the success of the Exhibition. Long before the hour for the formal opening large crowds of people were on the grounds, and by the time the Hon. Mr. Blair and party arrived, an immense crowd had assembled. On the platform were: Mr. J. Hughes-Charles, President; Hon. A. G. Blair, Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mayor Roger, Aldermen Corkery, Rush, Shortly, and Finney, Messrs. C. B. McAllister, L. M. Hayes, G. W. Fitzgerald, Robert Fair, J. H. Burnham, I. M. Hunter, and Denis Maloney.

The President, Mr. Hughes-Charles, made a brief speech of welcome, and introduced the Hon. A. G. Blair, late Minister of Railways and Canals, who delivered a splendid address. He congratulated the directors and the people on the success of the exhibition which was demonstrated by the large attendance. Mr. Blair, in eloquent terms, referred to Canada and its marvellous growth during the past few years.

Mayor Roger and Hon. J. R. Stratton followed in happy style, congratulating the directors on the success which attended their efforts.

The fair grounds presented a very busy scene. There must have been 5000 people on the grounds in the afternoon. The stock exhibits were the best ever shown in Peterborough. The reason for this is the increase of 300 per cent. in the prize list in some departments. The showing in agricultural horses is particularly good. Sheep and swine and poultry constitute a creditable exhibit. The judging of the cattle and horses was accomplished on Tuesday afternoon and yesterday morning, the officials being those appointed by the Government. This fact that an entry fee is charged for all live stock and poultry does not seem to have militated against the quantity of entries, and has made for an improvement of quality. The judges state that the horses and cattle are the best they have seen at any of the small fairs this year. Mr. D. C. Trew of Lindsay is judging the poultry, and states that there are some very fine birds in the coops, some of them having taken prizes at Ottawa and Toronto.

The management of this, the first Industrial, have every reason to feel well pleased with the result. There is not a super-abundance, but everything shown is particularly good.

During the afternoon a programme of music was rendered by the 57th Band. The grounds were patrolled during the day by a band of C.M.R. veterans.

THE INSIDE EXHIBIT.

The main building contained much of interest.

The art department is in itself well worth a trip to the grounds. Mr. R. M. Roy, as usual, has a splendid exhibit. His work is of such a high character that admiring crowds haunted this portion of the building. A dream of a picture is the three bridesmaids, which attracted much attention. A group photo of the Y.M.C.A. athletes was also much admired.

Artists of Toronto and other places compete in drawings and paintings and some of these are of a very high order, including landscape, figure and portrait painting, pencil and crayons, and pen and ink drawings.

A collection of souvenir post cards is among the special exhibits in the department, and makes a very interesting volume.

THE GRAINS.

The exhibit of grains is very good. One exhibit of oats went 34 pounds to the bushel, and in fact all grains shown were above the average.

ROOTS AND VEGETABLES.

There was a superb array of extraordinary vegetables—especially in potatoes. Also a good display of sugar beets, and also cabbage, turnips, etc.

There are three exhibits of cheese, not the best showing for so important a dairy district, some homemade bread, honey, eggs and canned fruit, but these departments are by no means as large as they should be.

PLYMOUTH BINDER TWINE.

One of the attractions on the west side of the building was the splendid display of Plymouth Binder Twine. Here was a pile of this fine twine ten feet high. This twine has taken diploma at Ottawa, and has a very high standing amongst the farmers of the whole country. The local representative is Mr. W. H. Meldrum, who is selling agent of this district. The quality of the fibre is very fine and even, and many critics pronounced the exhibit the best they had ever seen. Every bale of this splendid twine is fully guaranteed.

Further comments on the exhibits will be held over till to-morrow.

MR. CLERGUE IS SANGUINE

That the Works at the Soo Will Soon Be Re Opened

Toronto, September 23.—Mr. F. H. Clergue arrived this morning and is at the King Edward. Upon being asked by a reporter for an interview regarding the difficulties of the Consolidated Lake Superior Companies at Sault Ste. Marie, he made the following statement:

"The financial difficulties of the works at Sault Ste. Marie have certainly reached a crisis. Mr. Shields accepted the Presidency with the most positive assurances from financial interests in the company of the most reliable character that funds would be provided on the 1st July for the taking up of the Speyer loan and for providing 2 1-2 million dollars working capital. The unexpected continuance of money pressure in New York made it impossible for the fulfillment of those promises made in the utmost good faith. The attempts made to secure funds by other means have so far failed, and only within the last few days, when this result became apparent, has it been necessary for me to give personal attention to the financial requirements of the company. The Speyer syndicate are not adverse to the shareholders' interests, and will be entirely satisfied and, I believe, gratified if the property can still be saved for those whose capital has created it. I am sure that the Speyer syndicate will afford every indulgence consistent with due protection to their rights and interests as large creditors.

CANADIANS CAN HELP.

"For the immediate present the company is more likely to be embarrassed by pressure from Canadian creditors, who regard their claims as unsecured. These creditors can afford the greatest assistance in the present emergency by a little delay in pressing for immediate settlement, while not all imperilling their rights, since the Speyer securities will certainly be held subject to the liabilities on current Canadian debts, which, on the whole, do not probably amount to one and a half million dollars. That amount is the smallest practicable current amount in so large an undertaking. The works represent an expenditure of $35,000,000, and this amount of expenditure has been made in the establishment of modern mills of the latest and most economical type, supplied with all necessary raw materials of the highest grade, and procurable at a cost below any competitors. No money has been wasted, no bonuses have been paid, no works abandoned or rebuilt, nor have any other mistakes, either of conception, design, or execution, been discovered by any article capable of judging of the merits of these varied industries. Not three-tenths of the capital expenditure has yet come into productive form in operating works, although the entire plant is now completed and ready to start up to its full capacity. Yet the small fraction of the plant now in operation has earned in gross in the last four months over $1,300,000, and in net over $300,000.

INVESTMENTS JUSTIFIED.

"This is at the rate of $1,800,000 net per annum, with less than one-third of our invested capital productive, and with our various nickel and steel works only now come into operation, having an earning capacity from orders practically in hand of two and one-half millions annually in addition. These facts are evident to any capable investigator. That under these circumstances our company have not been able to provide for the Speyer loan must seem unaccountable, but such is the condition of late. When the certainty of this situation became apparent to me recently I invited an examination of our assets and resources by certain Canadian and British interests familiar with such industries and well able to take up and prosecute our undertakings on any scale which might seem economically successful. These examinations have confirmed all of the expectations of our shareholders in making their original investments, and the directors of our company will solicit a little further indulgence from the Speyer syndicate with a reasonable certainty that it will grant the brief respite which only now seems necessary for the complete financial rehabilitation.

MAY SAVE ENTIRE INVESTMENT.

"Of course at Sault Ste. Marie there is a feeling of great apprehension lest the works should prove an economic failure. This is an impossible outcome, and, although I am confident that the present shareholders will be saved their entire investment, yet should they be obliged to suffer some loss the continued operating of the plant at Sault Ste. Marie to the substantial profit of the operators is quite as certain as the continued existence of the waterfalls at that point. The friendly consideration and indulgence of the Canadian creditors for a few days will be of the greatest possible assistance in securing the financial relief now in sight. It is my opinion that a statement of this specific character to the stockholders and the public should have been made long ago, but our directors have pursued the course which seemed certain to procure the relief desired, and only the distressful and extraordinary financial conditions have prevented the realization of their plans.

NO DISSENSION.

"There will certainly be no dissension between the shareholders or directors among themselves in the arrangements now proposed, and the

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, SEPTEMBER 23 1903

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND FREE LABOR

Abraham Lincoln's emancipation proclamation liberated the black slaves of the United States. There is another form of slavery now in that country which excludes from the right to labor all who do not belong to some labor union.

President Roosevelt has taken the ground that no man in government employ shall be deprived of the right to labor for the support of himself and family on account of his not belonging to some labor union. The open shop and free labor, he says, shall be the rule in all the industrial departments of the government.

His message to the labor unions, to nonunion labor and to all people of the country is not less important than Lincoln's proclamation against slave labor. The rules of employment under the government will be a precedent for all rules of employment in corporate and private industries. A great example is contagious. Commanding precedents have the force of law.

According to President Roosevelt, the government will not authorize nor sanction any sort of discrimination against any competent citizen who claims the right to work for wages in any public employment. The President's [illegible] to institute [illegible] resulting to [illegible] labor unions [illegible] an "organized labor" crusade against him to defeat his election in 1904. "Organized labor does not control votes enough in the United States seriously to affect any election where the voting forces of law and order are opposed by the forces of strike violence.

If, contrary to expectation, Mr. Roosevelt should back down in the face of "organized labor" menaces, some other man will be found who will take up the flag representing the cause of open shop, free labor and law and order and whoever carries that flag will lead his party to victory at the polls.

EYES ON BRITAIN

That closer alliance with the colonies for which Mr. Chamberlain has labored is a matter of tremendous import. It involves many considerations and many apparently conflicting interests. It has been well said that revolutions never go backward, and it is likely to prove true in this case. Some change is coming of moment to the empire. Just what it will be no man is wise enough to foretell, but it is certain that for the next few months the eyes of the civilized world will be on Great Britain.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Reports of King Peter's death appear to be exaggerated, but it is safe to assert that his Servian majesty jumps three feet high when anybody strikes a parlor match in his vicinity.

As long as the Turk continues to order arms and munitions of war from the great Christian powers—and pays for them—we may set down as entirely without foundation any reports of European intervention in the Macedonian iniquity.

DOURO.

—The death took place on Sunday Sept. 13th, at the residence of her brother, Mr. Henry Ingram, of Douro, of Lottie E. Ingram, at the age of 27 years. Deceased had been ill for the past six months. While in health she was an active worker in the Epworth League of the Methodist church and a member of the church choir, and her death will be greatly regretted by all who knew her.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon to the Lakefield cemetery and was largely attended.

Great Strike in Berlin

Berlin, Sept. 22—Ten thousand metal workers have gone on strike. The manufacturers will hold meetings this week to decide whether they shall close their works entirely.

WITHDREW THE MEASURE

Important Clause in Boundary Dispute Withdrawn by U. S.

London, Sept. 21.—Towards the close of Friday's proceedings at the sittings of the Alaska boundary tribunal Judge John M. Dickenson, on behalf of the United States, withdrew their claim that the boundary should be measured from the head of tide water. The term, he said, was intended to be synonymous with heads of inlets.

On Monday Attorney-General Sir Robert Finlay resumed his argument, quoting from reports of Mendenhall to the United States surveyors to show that he contemplated a line measured at right angles to the general trend of the coast, which might cut the longer inlets, and proved by reference to the United States maps of the survey of 1894 and 1895 that these instructions were carried out, and that these surveys were carried only to a point ten leagues from the mouth of Taku Inlet and other points. This is very important, as these surveys were conducted under the treaty of 1892. To acquire the information necessary for the delimitation of the boundary, he showed that in their case the United States counsel are sometimes constrained to adopt the British view of the line. Thus they speak of a shore line in several terms, meaning the general line of the continent. Sir Robert discussed the meaning of the words "cote" and "ocean coast." He said that it was not necessarily the shore when St. Paul spoke of "the coasts of Tyre and Sidon." He did not refer to the line where the water meets the land, but to those territories of Tyre and Sidon. He argued that anyone asking to draw a line along the south coast of England would neglect the small harbors and bays.

DON'T WANT A FAVOR

Would a Preference for Canadian Wheat Result in Secession?

London, Sept. 23.—A cablegram from Canada states that a proposal to give preferential treatment to Canadian wheat alone was condemned in the strongest manner by Canadian supporters of Chamberlain [illegible] such a case [illegible], and in a [illegible] there would probably be [illegible] movement, or one for water reciprocity with the United States.

Mr. Chamberlain's secretary, replying to a correspondent, said that Chamberlain did not think there was the slightest foundation for the statement, but it would be much better to ask the opinion of distinguished representative Canadians like Sir Charles Tupper, now present in England.

The Telegraph, in an editorial on Canada's preferential tariff in favor of Britain, says it is only a generation since the deplorable era when John Bright declared in the House of Commons that the separation of Canada from the Empire was best for her and best for us, and when the Radicals' school complained of the expense of our North American establishments.

Premier Seddon, of New Zealand, writing to Mr. Chamberlain, said: "Do not be discouraged, or obtain reform ever outside great sacrifice."

Womanly Troubles

SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED TO UNDERMINE HEALTH AND BEAUTY, BUT SHOULD BE TREATED AT ONCE BY FERROZONE

It is impossible to go into details on this subject, but the experience of many a poor woman who is crippled for life, just because she didn't use a good remedy in time, should be a warning to others.

When the first stages of womanhood appear in a young girl, a great deal depends upon getting her over this critical stage, so that in years to come she will not develop green sickness or consumption.

As soon as she complains of flushed face, headache, bearing down feelings, give her at once a course of Ferrozone treatment which will carry her past the crisis.

In the adult woman if any irregularities occur, Ferrozone will be found a remedy of remarkable potency and power.

Ferrozone is the ideal regulator for the monthly period and causes all organs of the body to perform their work properly, and at just the expected time.

It purifies the blood, tones up the nerves and vital energies. The stomach is strengthened, and digestive and assimilative processes are improved by the good work of Ferrozone. It regulates the bowels, cures constipation, and piles, and replaces disease and decay by health and strength.

There is nothing better for the complexion than Ferrozone. It removes the dark circles from under the eyes, removes and cures all manner of skin eruptions, gives brightness and brilliancy to the eyes, a rosy tint to the cheeks, whitens the teeth and develops a well rounded plump and handsome form.

Ferrozone is the ladies' favorite, and should find a place in every household. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet, convenient and pleasant to take. Price per box 50c. or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by all druggists, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

ARE URGING THE CRISIS

Nationalists Willing to Sell Their Support

Mr Chamberlain May Win the Workmen by Establishment of a Minister of Labor

London, Sept. 22.—Premier Balfour's private secretary stated last night that the reported Cabinet appointments had not yet been made. Apparently Lord Milner is still considering the offer of the Colonial Secretaryship. The fact that a special messenger left London on Sunday bearing a message from the King to Lord Milner has strengthened the belief that the latter is destined to enter the Cabinet.

It is stated positively that the Duke of Devonshire has definitely decided to support Premier Balfour's retaliation policy.

The question of the support of the Nationalist party for the new fiscal policy of retaliation is said to be the subject of negotiations between the Government and the Irish leaders. It is reported that Chief Irish Secretary Wyndham is offering a concession in the shape of a Roman Catholic college at Dublin, while the Nationalists, on the other hand, are demanding a measure of local self-government as the price of their support. Whether or not these statements are well founded, it appears clear that the Nationalists intend to use the Cabinet crisis as a lever.

Wm. O'Brien, M.P., speaking at Cork last night, declared unequivocally that both of the English parties were broken, and the solid Irish party would meet whichever came out on top. The future aim of the Irish party, he said, was "Ireland as a nation," and they intended to adopt a position of independence and hold their hands until it was discovered from whom the best terms could be obtained. The means which secured the abolition of landlordism, declared the Irish leader, could easily, on the same lines, achieve Home Rule.

MINISTER OF LABOR.

The Daily Chronicle asserts that Mr. Chamberlain, in addition to offering a large reduction of duties on certain commodities to balance the imposition of taxes on others, will try to get the support of the workingmen by courting the support of labor unionists by advocating the establishment of a Ministry of Labor, which will work in connection with the Foreign Office and the Board of Trade. It will be the duty of the Minister of Labor to ascertain the conditions under which goods are produced in foreign countries. If they come from places where "sweating" or low wages or long hours prevail, they will be subjected to higher duty.

Rolff House

By G. H BENEDICT.

A Story of Love and Adventure.

CHAPTER XXXI.

The events detailed in the past chapters had occupied the fall months, and winter had again arrived.

For awhile, Claude found occupation enough to keep himself from total despondency. He had much to do to straighten his affairs, but under the advice and with the assistance of lawyer Halstead, he was enabled to meet obligations falling due by issuing new mortgages and disposing of outlying portions of the estate.

Claude went through with all this business wearily and mechanically. His health had been restored in a measure; and, feeling himself once more master of Rolff House, his pride and spirit returned, subdued only by the experiences he had passed through. The career of study and travel he had marked out for himself had come to a sudden end; he could not interest himself in the business and pleasures of the little place; and his ardent spirit fretted and soured under the ill-fortune that seemed to baulk his chief desire. There was but one object that now absorbed his hopes and ambition—and that object was sweet, patient faithful Rose Bruyn. The young man's short experience as a student of art abroad, and the knowledge that he was shut out for the time from all hope of carrying out his ambitious projects, had dulled the edge of his enthusiasm for travel and study, and it was natural, at his years, that, foiled in every other outlet to his abundant energy and spirit, he should surrender himself completely to the beguiling passion of love.

He could dream only of Rose Bruyn. He caught a furtive glimpse of her occasionally, and saw she was growing fairer, though paler than of yore, and with a mein of settled sadness that cut him to the heart. How willingly could he now resign every other thought of ambition or happiness to throw himself at her feet!

Claude could not resist once more communicating with her. He wrote her a long, passionate letter, bewailing the fate that separated them, declaring his unchanging love, and vowing that he would be faithful forever, and would wait while life lasted for Fortune to smile on their happiness and crown their union. He wished her to give him a like pledge, for he had plans in view that might take him from the place for years; indeed, he might never return; but, whatever fate overtook, he wished to carry with him the assurance that she could be his, and only his, while life lasted.

This letter he entrusted to old Carl to deliver and bring him an answer and in the course of two or three days the old fellow handed him the following brief reply from Rose:

My Dearest Claude: It was not wrong for you to write to me; nor can I think it wrong for me to reply this once without [illegible] my mother's knowledge [illegible] I think she would give her consent most readily. My heart bleeds for you, and my life is very, very sad; but my duty is plain. It is very good and noble of you to be so considerate, after all the illtreatment you have suffered. Do not despond. Do not be unhappy. Do not do wrong to yourself by being misanthropic. These clouds will yet depart. We shall yet be happy. I shall love you always, and be faithful till death; and should you wait for me, your reward will not be denied, if I live till the day that makes me free to be the mistress of my own heart. You speak of going away. I cannot control or advise you; but remember how unhappy I shall be not to see you even at a distance occasionally; and do not do anything reckless. Believe me, ever fondly and faithfully, your own

Rose.

These sweet words came like a blessing and a prophecy of hope to the young man. But he was resolved on not staying longer than he could help in the little village. He felt that the only thing that could enable him to bear the sorrow and disappointment wringing his heart was excitement and action. His country was in the throes of a terrible war; disaster had fallen upon her arms; the call for help from all patriotic sons resounded through the land. Claude was naturally of a generous nature in which the spirit of patriotism would find easy root. He felt that his country needed his services, and his restless, eager nature, fretting under disappointed hope, was ready to face any danger or bear any privation that would supply stimulus to his moping spirits. He put himself in communication with the military authorities of the State, and, having the opportunity to take a position as orderly, in which he surmised he could render efficient service, he resolved to accept it, and give his services to his country.

With this resolve he made hurried preparations to settle his business affairs. He determined to install old Carl and Margaret in the great house again; made careful arrangements for the disposition of his property, if he should never return; and, on the approach of the New Year, was ready to join the army at its winter headquarters.

But he recollected his promise to be at the old vault on New Year's day, and so delayed his departure for a few days.

The first day of the New Year soon arrived, and Claude proceeded to the old house to observe whether the expected sign had appeared on the door of the old vault. He had not entered the old mansion before since his departure for Europe.

It was with a beating heart, and many recollections crowding on him, that he again traversed the old hall, and procuring a light, proceeded down to the old cellar.

Entering it, he was quickly at the door of the old vault. Here the traces of Leb. Sackett's abortive attempt to break into it attracted his attention for a moment. Then, casting his eye scrutinizingly over the door, he noticed in each of the four corners a small white cross, plainly painted on the dark stone.

It was the sign his aunt had told him to await. At last, the time had arrived when the secret of the old vault was to be removed. The prohibition had ended. He recalled to mind the mysterious roll his aunt had given him, and resolved to proceed at once to learn its contents.

CHAPTER XXXII.

Returning to his room at the tenant house occupied by Carl Crum, Claude opened his trunk and took out the roll of manuscript left him by his aunt, which, in his eagerness to carefully preserve, he had kept with him in all wanderings.

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500 00, and to the five next nearest $100 00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the lists are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $5.00 per day while here, so no thing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,

FRANKFORD, PHILA., PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty Numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000

PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

——If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT——

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co. OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 600 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own millsite at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 200,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the [illegible] Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sergeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from [illegible] to $64.25 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 23—Operations in the stock market today were rather mixed and quotations at times fluctuated irregularly. The news was contrasting in that while some features were construed as bearish others were bullish and the general money market was viewed more satisfactorily in that it was figured that with the movement of currency to some parts of the country at its maximum, and with the banks here showing a gain through the sub-treasury for the week, the forthcoming bank statement should show the banks to be in a very strong position. There were favorable railroad reports at hand and the several trade journals were unanimous in reporting the liklihood for an active fall trade. The outside market was steady and dull, while bonds were irregularly heavy. The U.S. steel fives took a new low record.

Chicago, Sept. 23—There was considerable activity in the wheat pit today and the bears were finally in control; the country movement of what was more liberal and the primary movement reflected good accumulation and the clearances were unchanged. The increase in the world's visible supply was about as expected. There was considerable corn for sale for the account of outsiders. The crop news attracts considerable attention, in that another cold wave was reported to be forming in the extreme northwest; the country offerings continued liberal, however, and there was a fair cash demand. The export business, however, was rather slow. The market for oats was steady; movement small, but there was a fair demand.

U. S. Yards, Chicago—Hogs, 2,400; held overs, 3,571, steady; lights 535 and 610. mixed, 570 and 640; roughs 555 and 570, cattle strong, 1700; sheep 28000 slow.

A SPLENDID INVESTMENT

The Sterling Oil Company's Offer to Investors

We call the attention of investors to the splendid proposition of the Sterling Oil Company, of Waco, Texas, which appears elsewhere in today's issue. The Company is splendidly officered and well managed. Its property is situated in the Wirt-Davis Tract, and has been producing oil continuously since it came in.

Besides owning this splendid gusher, the Company also owns two other valuable oil properties at Sour Lake, besides property in Beaumont, Texas, where there are two oil wells.

The Times is just in receipt of the following from the Company, which tells its own story:

ANNOUNCEMENT OF SEPTEMBER DIVIDEND OF THE STERLING OIL COMPANY

The Board of Directors of the Sterling Oil Company hereby declare a dividend of 5 per cent. to be paid on October 15th. The payment of this September dividend is deferred to October on account of the fact that the Company receives its payment for oil upon that date.

All stock issued up to and including the 10th of October will participate in this dividend.

JURY WENT ON STRIKE

Wanted to Take a Ride, Were Refused and Then Got Angry

Montreal, Sept. 22.—E. Parisi, the Italian on trial here on a charge of the murder of a fellow-countryman was acquitted yesterday, the jury, after proceeding in a manner unprecedented here, bringing in a verdict of not guilty.

Before the twelve men were locked up on Saturday to consider the evidence the judge announced that he would receive the verdict on Monday. On Saturday the foreman of the jury told the officials that a decision had been reached, but did not say what was its nature. He asked, however, that they jury be allowed to take a trolley ride, claiming that they were in need of fresh air. The request was not granted, the excuse being that the rule provided for no such outing. The jurors then argued that as they had finished their duties they were entitled to a change of air. The officials were, nevertheless, obdurate, so some of the jurors took offence and decided to disagree.

When the court resumed yesterday the foreman reported accordingly, reciting the circumstances, and then the judge expressed his indignation at such a proceeding. There was a time, he said, when juries were locked up for days without either food or food. He sent them back. Twice again they reported no agreement. A third time, however, was more satisfactory, the accused being found "not guilty."

Sir James Watson

This eminent English physician is one of the greatest authorities on diseases of the respiratory organs

In a recent address Sir James Watson stated that the commonest of all disorders is Catarrh and that not one person in ten thousand passes the winter without an attack of some sort.

Sir James advises local treatment very strongly, and says it is all nonsense trying to treat Catarrhal diseases by stomach medicines, atomizers, douches and snuffs.

Local treatment is applied most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which is inhaled into the nose, throat and lungs, and drives the disease completely out of the system.

Catarrhozone is a natural, commonsense treatment; it clears the air passages, makes breathing easy, and relieves at once. Physicians prescribe Catarrhozone with gratifying results, and pronounce it a specific for Catarrh in any part of the system.

Mr. Thos. Cox, one of the most prominent citizens of Minden, Ont., says: "I want to recommend Catarrhozone. It is a nice, clean cure for Catarrh. Cured me perfectly, and is well deserving of a trial from everyone at all affected by Catarrh or throat trouble."

Mr. G. F. Fadden, of Royan, Que., writes: "In my opinion Catarrhozone is the only cure for Catarrh. I had the disease in its worst form, but only got relief from Catarrhozone. It cured me quickly and permanently, and I have no fear of the Catarrh ever returning.

The foregoing brief extracts, like thousands of others that the proprietors of Catarrhozone have received, prove that the proper remedy to use is Catarrhozone. It is quite different from the ordinary Catarrh preparation, and is warranted to prove entirely satisfactory. If it fails your money will be refunded, so if not benefited you won't be out of pocket.

All druggists sell Catarrhozone. Complete outfit, hard rubber inhaler, liquid for recharging, etc., costs $1.00; trial size, 25 cents. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston Ont.

The Price of Bread

The price of bread in Peterborough appears to be higher than in most places. In Ottawa the bakers have raised the price from 10c. to 11c. per four pound loaf. We think the Peterborough bakers are making a mistake not to do the same, instead of putting it at 12c. Peterborough would be a good town for a large bakers just now.

Hunting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting Deer, Moose, Reindeer, Cariboo, etc., in the "Highlands of Ontario," and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

Gilmour Memorial Festival

The harvest home services in connection with the Gilmour Memorial church, will be held on Sunday and Monday, September 27th and 28th. Services will be conducted by Rev. A. H. Brace, when special thank-offerings will be taken at each service. A tea and entertainment will be held on Monday at which addresses will be given by clergymen and others. A musical and literary entertainment will be provided. Tea will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock on Monday.

A Splendid Display

An illuminated display at Cressman's on Tuesday evening and last night attracted much attention. The front portion of the dry goods department has been converted into a perfect bower of beauty set with beautiful creations of the milliners' art, and a magnificent display of silk laces, and everything pleasing to the eyes of the ladies. The store was brilliantly lighted, and throughout the evening large numbers of people gathered about the entrance in admiration of the display.

Busy Time on Midland Division

The fall grain trade on the Midland division of the G.T.R. has commenced, and business is brisk at present. During the last few days a great many extra freight trains have been despatched to and from Midland, and every available man has been called into service. Last Sunday ten double-header trains, each comprising thirty cars, passed through from Midland bound for Portland, Maine, and other eastern points. A couple of huge freight boats arrived last week at Midland harbor, which is accountable for the rush.

THE GUARDS' CONCERT

AN IMMENSE AUDIENCE

The Spacious Rink Filled to Overflowing—Many Could Not Get Seats

Last night's Coldstream Guards Band concert attracted an audience that for numbers and enthusiasm has never before been equalled at a musical entertainment in Peterborough.

The band carried the vast audience with them from the start—took them captive with their sweet strains. Bandmaster Rogan gave the audience everything from Rossini to ragtime. He began with the grand old masters, showing what he could do with the solid refreshment of the classics. Then he passed easily to the pretty kickshaws of the moderns, and condescended even to coon songs, to meet the popular taste. The songs which have delighted British hearts all over the world thronged his mind and broke thence into musical expression. Following the mood of the leader, and putting his own thrill into every demi-semi-quaver, that great organ-voiced band gave out Rule Britannia, the beautiful familiar themes of sentiment and courage which find an echo in every loyal bosom. Rogan's name is in itself a token of that blessed union which is the hope of Imperial statesmanship—John, which is English, Mackenzie, which is Scotch, Rogan, which is Irish—the three races which are to pull together forever and make the British Empire as staunch as the everlasting hills.

Such was bandmaster Rogan, in his uniform of scarlet and gold, as he made ready to deliver his final charge and make the victory complete. The band stood up as British regimental bands all over the world stand up, to play God Save the King. They played it through and the thunder of the drums and the silver defiance of the trumpets was sublime!

The singing of Miss Kathleen Howard was also a treat, her sweet voice thrilling the audience as she answered to repeated recalls.

GOING TO PETERBORO'

Mr. Lindman, of Montreal, will be at the Oriental Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday next, prepared to relieve sufferers with uncontrollable ruptures. Consultation free. Read the following testimonial:

Montreal, July 2, 1903.

John Hamilton, Carpenter and Builder, 249 St. Martin street.

Mr Lindman: I have used your truss for six months, and I think it is the best truss on the market, as I tried several before I got yours. I was examined by a doctor and he said I was cured of rupture. I have left your truss off for several days and I think that I am completely cured, and I would recommend your truss to anyone that is obliged to wear one, as yours has given me great satisfaction.

The chairman stated that he had heard that some of the salesmen were selling off the Board. He hoped if such were the case, that it would not be repeated, as it would do injury to the Board.

Mr. Whitton opened the bidding at 11 1-4, which Mr. Cook raised to 11 3-8. Mr. Whitton raised to 12, and Mr. Wrighton called 12 1-8. At this price he took Buckhorn, Beaufort, Central Smith, East Emily, Fraserville, Indian River, Myrtle, Peterborough, Warsaw, Keene, Missing Link, Mount Pleasant, and Otonabee Union.

At 12 1-16 Mr. Wrighton called Lang, Shearer, Westwood and Trewern.

At 12c. Mr. Wrighton took Cavanville and Fleetwood.

Mr. Rollins at 11 7-8c. called Apsley, South Burleigh, Stony Lake, North Smith, Cedardale, Warminster, Young's Point, Maple Leaf, Pine Grove and North Dummer. Cedardale and Pine Grove refused.

Mr. Kerr bid 11c., which Mr. Whitton raised to 11 5-16. He called Villiers, Melrose Abbey and Percy, but the first two refused.

Mr. Kerr at 11 7-8c. took Daisy D.

The Board adjourned for two weeks.

CORDAGE COMPANY'S PLANS

Intend Making Additions to Their Present Buildings

The Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Co. have found it necessary to increase their building accommodation. The present premises comprise about two acres and the factory and office buildings occupy fully three-fourths of this. Tenders are now being asked for the construction of two large additions and one separate building, called a picking house. The dimensions of the latter will be 75x25 feet, it is to be situated to the west of the railway track, which now bounds the premises on the west, and is to be one of the most solid type, being entirely fireproof. An addition to the store-house will be 80x50 feet, the dimensions of the present structure being 200x50—a large building, but hardly sufficient for the requirements of this big concern. The preparation room, which is to have an addition of 73x70, is now 73x122 feet. The new elevation will be on the north-east of the lot, and it will be seen that the addition means a considerable financial outlay, calling for the employment of a large number of men, and most indicative of progressiveness in one of the town's most important industries. Plans and specifications for the new buildings may be seen at the office of Mr. Blackwell, architect, Water street.

The Canadian Pacific Railway

On the Preference Stock, two per cent.

On the Common Stock, three per cent.

Warrants for the Common Stock dividend will be mailed on or about 1st October, to shareholders of record at the closing of the books in Montreal, New York and London respectively.

The Preference Stock dividend will be paid on Thursday, 1st October, to shareholders of record at the closing of the books at the Company's London Office, No. 1 Queen Victoria street, London, E.C.

The Common Stock Transfer Books will close in Montreal, New York and London, at three p.m., on Tuesday, 1st September. All books will be reopened on Thursday, 8th October.

JUMPING UP

Is a great deal harder than jumping down. And yet people who have been for years running-down in health expect to jump back at once. It takes years generally to make a man a confirmed dyspeptic, and he cannot expect to be cured in a few days.

There is no quicker means of cure for dyspepsia or other forms of stomach trouble than by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

"I was taken sick two years ago," writes Rev. W. H. Patterson, of White Cloud, Ala., "with what the doctors thought was gastric trouble, indigestion or nervous dyspepsia, also constipation and inactive liver. I was in a dreadful condition. Tried several different doctors with but little result. I had gotten so feeble that I was almost past traveling about; had got down to 114 pounds. I went and bought six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and got the 'Pellets' and began following directions. When I had taken about five bottles I felt very much better and was greatly improved, and weighed one hundred and thirty-eight pounds. I will say that Dr. Pierce's medicines are a God-send to poor suffering humanity, and I advise any and all chronic sufferers to give them a fair trial and they will be satisfied."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

opposition offered by a portion of the shareholders to projects already formulated will be entirely removed under the new arrangement proposed, while the sympathetic co-operation of the Speyer syndicate, I feel sure, we can depend upon. It was extremely unfortunate that it became necessary to close down the works at Sault Ste. Marie, which have been earning more than $150,000 net per month, and they will be re-opened immediately that the new program is adopted.

"Mr. Shields has expressed his willingness to continue in the management of the property, if the new funds are provided; and there is now every hope that this model industrial undertaking, in which the Canadians have in the past reposed so much confidence and admiration, will justify their highest expectation."

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE AT SOFIA TO SETTLE THE EASTERN QUESTION

The Question of Peace or War Now Said to be Hanging in the Balance

The Great Powers of Europe Reply to Bulgaria's Appeal

Sofia, Sept. 25—For this time being the efforts of the Macedonian revolutionists are directed chiefly to clearing certain parts of the disturbed Vilayets of women and children. These non-combatants are escorted across the frontier of Montenegro, Bosnia, Servia, Bulgaria and Greece in parties numbering from three to fifty. The object of this move is first to place the women and children beyond the reach of the Turks, second, to convert the revolutionary male population of Macedonia into an unhampered fighting force. The refugees are received into the homes of relatives and friends.

It is reported from the Bulgarian frontier that the Ottoman troops have succeeded in scattering some of these fleeing people, killing many and arresting others who are consigned to a worse fate. However, the refugees are usually accompanied by insurgent officers and contrive to run the gauntlet of the Turkish sentinels. All indications point to a winter campaign, the removal of the women and children being the prelude to renewed operations, which are likely often to take the form of comprehensive reprisals. While convinced that the trend of European opinion and policy is favorable to their cause, the revolutionists do not look for immediate help from that source, but are concentrating all their wits and resources toward the prosecution of the war. They are receiving financial aid from Salonika, Monastir and Adrianople, Bulgarians, Servians, Armenians, Jews and even Greeks. They are also getting money from Rome, Paris and London and a little from Berlin.

Supplies of rifles, ammunition, and preserved foods are ceaselessly smuggled into Macedonia. This is a comparatively easy operation, since the adjoining population is anxious to help the Christians. These stores are deposited in cellars, in the hollow space of altars, in farm buildings, and in mountain caves. The priests, animated by the crusade spirit of their ancestors, are directing the whole of their powerful religious influence to the maintenance of the insurrection.

REPLIES OF THE POWERS.

Sofia, Sept. 25—Great Britain and Italy have not as yet replied to the Bulgarian circular. France's answer is somewhat guarded, but is couched in sympathetic terms. The tenor of the replies from Austria and Russia is only such as might be expected. The two "most interested" powers have their own interests to consider, and must now lose their prestige in the face of their generally admitted failure. The Bulgarians have accordingly been informed that if war breaks out it will be localized, the status quo afterwards maintained and the reform scheme carried out. It is further declared that Turkey has the unquestionable right to mass her troops on the frontier and that Bulgaria's representations regarding the Turkish military preparations cannot be entertained. Count Lamsdorff, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, singularly observes that in Count von Buelow's opinion Turkey has the right to send her troops into the vassal principality for the purpose of preserving order. This is an interesting disclosure. Coupled with the gentle recommendation to observe caution, Count Goluchowski, the Austria-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, expresses the opinion that the slaughter of thousands of Macedonian peasants is not an occurrence of such moment as to warrant complaints regarding the extermination of the Bulgarian race in Macedonia. Germany declares her complete adhesion to the policy of Russia and Austria.

The Bulgarian Government is confronted with the growing increase in warlike spirit among the people.

There are about 12,000 Macedonian refugees in the Burgars district, and all are absolutely famishing.

A PUZZLING ASPECT.

London, Sept. 25—The Balkan situation presents a somewhat puzzling aspect. Turkey is showing signs of yielding to the Bulgarian demands, and it is evident that negotiations are in progress to avert war. According to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Constantinople, these councils concern two propositions—either to make arrangements satisfactory to the Macedonians, or obtain from the great powers promises of neutrality if it is found impossible to avoid a war.

Apparently, both Turkey and Bulgaria are anxious to repudiate having taken the initiative in the negotiations. The Sofia correspondent of the Daily Telegraph asserts that the overtures came from Turkey.

The assertion is made in another Sofia telegram that the Sultan will issue an irade on Thursday, granting a demand for a mixed commission, but this statement has not been confirmed.

PEACE OR WAR?

Sofia, Sept. 25—Within forty-eight hours the question of peace or war will probably be settled. Premier Petroff had an interview yesterdday with Ali Faruh Bey, at which the whole Macedonian question was discussed. As a result a much better feeling prevails, and confident hopes are expressed that a satisfactory adjustment will be reached. This view is strengthened by a report from Constantinople that the Council of Ministers is within measurable distance of an agreement on the chief points at issue.

The Premier complained to the Turkish diplomatic agent of the situation created by the arrival at Burgas of thousands of destitute and starving refugees from Lozengrad. After a discussion an understanding was practically reached that Turkey should guarantee the protection of the refugees and take steps to reinstate them in their homes.

The War Ministry has taken steps to strengthen the Bulgarian frontier forces, and it is reported that troops will occupy all the commanding positions, thus making it almost impossible for the bands to cross the frontier. Some regiments of the second and third divisions have been ordered to the Adrianople frontier, where the Turks have massed strong bodies of troops.

CONDITIONS PROPOSED.

The following is the position of the Turko-Bulgarian negotiations: The Porte recently manifested a disposition to consider proposals for a direct understanding, and Bulgaria advanced the following conditions:

First.—The Porte to grant a general amnesty and stop the prosecution of the Bulgarians in Macedonia.

Second—A mixed commission to be formed, the Bulgarian members of which should be nominated by the Bulgarian exarch, and never be in a minority on the commission to elaborate administrative reforms, arrange for an extension of local administrative autonomy, ensure the safety of the highways and the equality of Christians and Mussulmans before the courts, reform the taxation and gendarmerie and provide for personal security of Bulgarians. After the accomplishment of this the commission, which would probably sit at Salonica, would become the council of the Inspector-General, and would depute one of its Bulgarian members to report to the Sultan on the progress of affairs.

Bulgaria also asked that the burned villages be rebuilt with Government assistance, the refugees repatriated, a special ordinance issued providing for the organization and administration of the Bulgarian schools and churches.

These proposals seem to have been accepted in part, but nothing definite has yet been given out.

BADLY INJURED

Man Drawn Into Revolving Drums and Held There

St. Mary's, Sept. 24.—At the Horseshoe stone quarry one of the workmen, William Thompson, aged 20, (who was caught in the elevator belt, and was quickly drawn in between the revolving drums that elevate the buckets which carry stone to the quarry for shipping. His body was drawn into the very narrow space, injuring him in a horrible manner. The resistance of the body stopped the machinery from working, and it was almost a miracle that the unfortunate man was not killed instantly.

A belt one and a half inches thick and twenty inches wide had to be cut as well as several iron bolts. After fifteen minutes' hard work the injured man was reached, and set free from his precarious position. Drs. Smith and Hoban found that his left arm was horribly lacerated, being almost torn from his body. He is also internally injured.

The accident had such an effect upon the men, who number some 70 or 80, that they quit work for the day. It is likely the wounded man will not survive his injuries. His home is near

SOUTH AMERICAN WAR

Bonilla's Troops to Invade Neighbor's Soil in Row Over Americans

New Orleans, La., Sept. 24—A boundary dispute has arisen between Honduras and Nicaragua, and today's Central American steamer Breakwater, brings authentic reports that an invasion of Nicaragua by Honduran troops is imminent, if it has not already taken place.

Recently James Deitrich, of Pittsburg, heading a big 6,000,000 company of Pennsylvania capitalists, secured rich concessions on the Wenks river, which separates Honduras from Nicaragua. The concessions call for almost every sort of development and run almost across the republic from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The grant reaches a considerable distance from the river and this is the disputed territory. President Deitrich has erected terminal facilities at the mouth of the river, and is developing the whole country. A handsome revenue is coming in.

President Bonilla of Honduras, recently sent a commission, headed by General Ordonez, to Cape Gracias, to demand certain rights from the collector of customs. If the demand was not granted president Bonilla threatened instant war.

President Zelaya of Nicaragua was notified and he hurried troops from Bluefields to the scene. Cape Gracias is in a state of fright.

The United States will become involved should war break out, as the rights and concessions of American citizens are at stake.

PETERBOROUGH FAIR A GREAT SUCCESS

Last Day of Big Industrial Exhibition

A BIG CROWD ON GROUNDS

The Exhibits the Best Ever Seen in Peterboronogh---Speeding in the Ring

Yesterday the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition scored another success, the day being fine and the crowd large. Of course there were not so many present as on the previous day, but this was not expected. The gate receipts will probably be in the neighborhood of $1500, which is a very good showing, considering all the circumstances. The great success scored by the Coldstream Band did much to brighten the fair and swell the receipts.

THE RACES.

The races on Wednesday were witnessed by a large crowd, and were very interesting.

The first race was the one-half mile farmers' trot. In this there were four entries and the result was a rather easy win for Maude Keswick who won in straight heats. The summary was:

Maude Keswick, G. Fitzgerald...1 1 1
Nellie May, W. J. Taylor 2 2 2
Nellie Wilks, J. H. Fowler 3 3 3
Moonlight Queen, Jas. Fife 4 4 4
Time, 1.17, 1.24, 1.26.

In the one-mile race for stallions there were three entries. The second heat was the closest of the race and in it the two leading horses exchanged places on several occasions, Hal Forest finally winning out by a length. Mr. Clancy's horse, a sixteen-year-old trotter, made a remarkable showing, going the distance in 2.28 flat, which is most creditable time for a horse of that age. The summary was:

Hal Forest, J. M. Martin, Stouffville..........................1 1 1
Black Mack, J. Elmhirst, Otonabee.....................2 2 2
Time, 2.30, 2.34, 2.21 1-2.

The best race of the day was undoubtedly the 1 1-2 mile hurdle race over six hurdles. There were three entries. Sarack took the lead at the start, but at the first hurdle Tholan forged ahead with Cheatham second. On the final quarter, with but one more hurdle to jump, Tholan was leading Cheatham by about ten lengths. The latter gradually closed the gap between them and both horses cleared the last hurdle together. Cheatham won amid great excitement, by about a neck, with Sarack two lengths behind. Tholan cleared the hurdles in pretty style while Sarack lost ground after every jump though she was very fast on the flat going. The summary:

Cheatham, P. Clunan, Peterborough.......................1
Tholan, Murray, Hamilton 2
Sarack, R. A. Wilson, Hamilton...3
Time, 2.56.

The tug of war between the Quakers and the force teams proved very interesting, and was won by the latter.

GOUGH BROS' DISPLAY.

The splendid exhibit of Gough Bros', the great clothing firm, was as usual very elaborate, and was much admired. Here was displayed the samples of the magnificent goods kept by this progressive firm in up-to-date clothing. All the various styles of the season were presented including men's round and square cut coats, light fall overcoats, heavy winter ulsters, and boys' suits and reefers.

The exhibit was most comprehensive and Messrs. Tully and Merrell, the popular managers of Gough Bros., are to be congratulated on their successful arrangement of advanced styles in the ready-made clothing trade. The popularity of this year's exhibit has exceeded all former years, and much appreciation has been shown by the many thousands who visited the exhibition. Messrs. Gough Bros. are indeed the wide awake clothing men

MR. CRESSMAN'S EXHIBIT.

One of the attractions of the fair was the splendid display of Mr. A. W. Cressman, which was under the charge of Mr. Oles. The exhibit filled a section of the main building, and consisted of a fine assortment of ladies' ready made suits, cloaks, jackets and men's clothing. The whole was tastefully arranged, and attracted considerable attention. Mr. Cressman's "Climax Clothing," is known far and near as superior in make and quality, and has only to be worn to be appreciated.

A PRETTY WEDDING

Mr. J. F. Pullybank of Lakefield Weds Miss G. G. Hicks of Town

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday night, at seven o'clock, at the Park street Baptist church, when Mr. Joshua F. Pullybank, of Lakefield, was united in marriage to Miss Georgina Gertrude Hicks, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. Brace.

The bride was attired in a dress of very fine crepe de chene with a white silk yoke trimmed with white silk medallions and ribbon, and carried a bouquet. The bridesmaid wore a tucked white muslin, and carried a large bouquet. A sumptuous wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents at the conclusion of the ceremony. Mr and Mrs. Pullybank will reside in Peterborough.

WANTS PIECE OF GOTHAM

A Canadian Sues for a Portion of New York City

New York, Sept. 25—Mrs. W. J. Walker, Gatineau Point, may be the owner of part of New York, formerly New Harlem. And if a legal action started in New York is successful, she will get her share of land, which is now estimated to be worth four billion dollars.

It is one of the most curious legal fights ever heard of for a long time. It will be an attempt by the heirs of the original settlers of the old town of New Harlem to recover the land originally granted to them in 1661 and 1668 by the King of England, but which, as New York began to expand, was gradually swallowed up in the growth, until now it is a part of that great metropolis.

Among the names of the twenty-three original grantees of the land from the King of England, is the name of one Jan Delemater. This woman was the grandmother of the wife of W. J. Walker, Gatineau Point, so Mrs. Walker is one of the heirs, in whose interests Mr. Toler is working, confident of succeeding in recovering the original land, now valued at about four billion dollars.

The first step will be to call a town meeting, which will be practically a meeting of the heirs.

CANADA COMES FIRST

Canada is the Place to Invest British Capital

Montreal, Sept. 25—Mr. Henry Durler of Luton, who represents the great straw hat making industry of Britain, said that one of the chief benefits which would result from the tour was that Britishers who have sons were firmly convinced now that Canada is the place for those sons to come to invest capital.

"Nearly every man who has a business of consequence has scarcely room in that business for more than one son. The others he must locate. The question arises: Where are they to be suitably situated? England is now in a congested state. Since the tour, however, the answer has been given that Canada is the country for them. A father can say to his son here is £5,000 or £10,000, take this and invest it in what way you please in Canada. If you succeed I shall give you more and will back up your interests.

"Now, no other colony offers quite such splendid promises. The Dominion is characterized by law and order, and by thrift, and a young man with a little capital cannot help but succeed in a country where there is every opportunity as there is here."

NO PAY, MONDAY FOR THE SOO MEN

But Miners and Lumbermen Are Getting New Jobs

PAY CHECKS BEING CASHED

By Brokers and Merchants---Idea Closing Was Done for Effect

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 24—The jig is up here as far as pay-day Monday is concerned. That is the general opinion all over town, and the attitude of the Consolidated officials still in town confirms this.

The Minnie M. is due today with 200 Scandinavian miners from the Helen and Grace mines. She left Michipicoten yesterday, just before the big storm broke, and there is some anxiety regarding her, for the storm was terrific. Tonight an extra car will be sent up to the timber depots on the Algoma Central to bring the first contingent of the wood-cutters. The officials are arranging to bring the men in parties of a hundred or so, to avoid trouble, and will arrange to have labor agents for various lumber camps, railroads, and mines meet them and give instant employment.

"I anticipate no trouble with these men, now that there is plenty of work in sight," said Mr. Coyne today. "The company has always given them good food and quarters and wages, and has never defaulted before. They will be snapped up as soon as we get them in here. It is going to be pretty hard on us when we do start again. We will have difficulty in getting together new forces for timber limits and railroad work."

Miners are arriving here and securing employment at Rat Portage, and other arrivals are being picked up so quickly that the influx is hardly noticeable. Men who are leaving town are selling their pay checks at a discount of 25 per cent. There chants are in some cases accepting them for bills and further credit at the same discount.

The feeling is growing here that the sudden closing was done for effect. Special pains were taken to spread the story of the cessation over the continent without delay, and to many the fine Italian hand of a coterie of directors and shareholders who want absolute control is apparent. Now that the stock has been beaten down they are said to be gathering up enough to command the situation.

THE LABOR WAR

Non Unionist Killed by Unionist's Assault

Indianopis, Ind., Sept. 25 —Wm. H. Colins, an employe of the Parry Mfg. Company, and a non-union man, was badly assaulted on the street last night by a man supposed to be a union hod-carrier. Collins refused, it is said, to discuss the respective merits of unionism and non-unionism with his assailant. The latter struck Collins a vicious blow on the head. The blow and fall caused concussion of the brain, from which Collins died today.

ATTORNEY FINLAY HAS NOW CLOSED HIS CASE

Canada's Side of the Alaska Dispute in the Hands of Tribunal

American Occupation of Disputed Territory Was Admittedly a Burlesque

London, Sept. 23—The question of the reliability of maps made subsequent to the treaty of 1825 was dealt with by Attorney-General Sir Robert Finlay at the meeting of the Arbitration Tribunal in the Alaska boundary dispute, late yesterday afternoon. Canada's advocate argued that no weight should be attached to them for the reason that the region in question was at that time but imperfectly known. It had never been surveyed, the map makers had no personal knowledge of the district, and either copied from one another, or differed materially among themselves. They ignored cardinal provisions of the treaty. He then proceeded to discuss the alleged acts of occupation by Russia or the United States, qualifying his remarks by the statement that the title to this territory could not be derived by an act of possession, no matter how long it had been maintained, but it depended solely upon the interpretation of a treaty made 80 years ago.

When the tribunal resumed its hearing this morning the attorney for Great Britain handed in a map showing the general outline of the coast, according to the British contention.

He then discussed the affair of the Dryad. Considering the position of the Hudson's Bay Company, he claimed that they had merely the exclusive right of trade under the lease, and that the Government were not responsible for their actions, though he considered it probable that they knew of the lease from the Russians, considering the acts of possession of the Russians in the early days, he held that they were slight and unimportant, as also were those of the United States up to 1897 or 1898. He quoted from the reports of the Governor of Alaska to show how nominal was the United States administration. One, given as late as 1898, reported that the civil government of Alaska was little if any better than a burlesque, both in form and in substance.

RIGHT OF OCCUPATION.

Regarding the establishment of Dyea and Skagway, he acknowledged that they had been founded in unclaimed territory, such an occupation might be important, but he argued that their significance in this case depended altogether upon whether these acts had taken place with the knowledge and acquiescence of Great Britain. The attorney traversed the United States contention that this was so, and showed by references to correspondence that as long ago as 1872 Canada pressed for a demarcation of this boundary, and in 1875 General Cameron, in 1887 Mr. G. M. Dawson, and in 1888 Sir John Macdonald, distinctly claimed, on behalf of Canada, the heads of the inlets, and particularly the head of Lynn Canal, and that long before there was any settlement at Dyea or Skagway the United States Government was perfectly aware of Great Britain's claim to that locality, and had published it in their official documents.

ARGUMENT CLOSED.

The attorney then proceeded to recapitulate his various points, and concluded as follows: "I am deeply sensible of the importance of this case, that the eyes of the people of Canada are fixed upon this tribunal, and I know, too, that many interests may be deeply affected by the decision of the commissioners. I trust that the Canadian interests will not suffer from any imperfection in my presentation of the case, and I commit the question into the hands of the tribunal, with full confidence in the wisdom of their judgment."

The president expressed, on behalf of the tribunal, their cordial appreciation of the care, ability and unfailing courtesy with which Sir Robert Finlay had presented the case for Great Britain. His argument, he said, could not fail to be of assistance to them.

Ex-Secretary of War Root, Senator Lodge, Senator Turner and Judge J. M. Dickinson all personally complimented the Attorney-General on his erudite presentation of the British case.

AMERICAN OPENS FIRE.

Mr. Watson then proceeded to open the case for the United States. He began by stating that in 1867 Russia offered to sell Alaska to the United States, and to show her title in various ways, by discovery, by occupation, by the general consent of nations and finally by the treaty with Great Britain. Russia assumed that the line went round the heads of all the bays and inlets, and the maps of the period confirmed this view, notably the Russian map of 1826, made when recollections of the negotiations of 1825 must necessarily have been fresh. Senator Sumner in the Senate minutely investigated this title, and, satisfying himself of its authenticity, he purchased the property. The President formally announced the fact, yet neither Great Britain nor Canada raised any objection or questioned Russia's title.

Mr. Aylesworth here remarked that in 1867 Canada had no concern in question nor any right to interpose any objections, as her territory did not extend to the Pacific until 1871.

CANADA ADMITTED.

Mr. Watson quoted Dennis' survey of General Canada, a report made in 1874, which agreed to drawing the line across certain rivers which empty into the head of Lynn Canal, and argued that Canada thereby admitted and acknowledged the United States' claim to the heads of the inlets. He wished to make a correction in yesterday's report, as given by his learned friend Attorney-General Sir Robt. Finlay. He did not say that it might occasionally be better to depart from King's line and have recourse to the alternative provision of the fourth article of the Treaty of 1825. What is said was that while King's line, as a whole, most nearly interpreted the treaty, and was put forward as Great Britain's claim, he did not claim infallibility for it, and that perhaps it might be found at particular places and as a rare exception and expedient to select other peaks than those King had chosen.

WANTED TO KILL HIS OWN BROTHER

VICTIM WAS TWICE WOUNDED

The Bullets However Entered His Arm and His Wounds Are Not Serious

Montreal, Sept. 25—According to the story told by Camille Desormeaux after he was arrested last night he fully intended to kill his brother Af-after he was arrested last night he fired three shots at the latter with a thirty-two calibre revolver. Two of the shots took effect in the left arm, but the third missed. The wounded man will soon recover, although his injuries are painful.

Camille Desormeaux keeps a plumbing shop at 1071 Cadieux street, and up to a short time ago, his brother was his partner in the business. They dissolved the partnership, however, since when there has been a bad feeling between them, Camille urging that Alfred owed him money.

Last night, about 7.30 o'clock, Alfred went from his home, 958 Mount Royal avenue, to the shop. While standing in front of it his brother came up and pointed a revolver at him. Without a word of warning, he fired a shot from the revolver and this was followed by two more shots in rapid succession.

The first shot entered Alfred's left arm, near the shoulder, and the second entered the same arm a little lower down; the third shattered the glass of the store window, but did not hit Desormeaux.

With little evidence of the serious condition he was in, the wounded man walked to No. 12 Police Station, on St. Lawrence street, and told Lieut. Trempe what had happened. The officer sent a constable with him to the Notre Dame Hospital, where he was treated. The lower bullet was extracted with little trouble, but the other one has not yet been found.

Two constables were sent to the plumbing shop, and there, quite unconcernedly, sat Camille Desormeaux discussing the shooting and declaring that he was sorry that he had not killed his brother. He claimed that the latter had done him out of $200, and that, for this reason, he said he felt justified in killing him. At the police station he again stated that it had been his intention to kill.

When brought before Judge Lafontaine, the would-be Cain had nothing to say. He heard the charge read to him with indifference, and was then remanded until the 30th for enquete.

The victim is doing well and unless complications set in he will be all right in a week or two.

ADMIRAL DRURY A CANADIAN

New Second Lord of the Sea in Britain Is Expert

London, Sept. 25—Rear Admiral Sir Charles Drury, who recently took the place of Admiral Sir John Fisher, as second lord of the admiralty, is a Canadian. He has already had experience of departmental work, having been a member of the ordnance committee in 1893. As a gunnery expert he stands high, and there is no doubt that the excellent work he did at Devonport marked him out for future promotion. Sir Charles, who was commander in chief of the East Indian station when he received his appointment has since his return been paying visits to the principal home ports with a view to qualifying himself for his duties as second sea lord.

Lady Drury is a daughter of Mr. Whitehead of torpedo fame, and an aunt of Princess Bismarck.

KING CHRISTIAN OF DENMARK

In November, King Christian IX, of Denmark will have reigned thirty years, and preparation are already being made for the proper celebration of this noteworthy event. The occasion is indeed noteworthy, since King Christian has the distinction of being the oldest of the European sovereigns. In April, he celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday.

The life of the Danish king has been remarkably fortunate. In his case the Shakespearean dictum would seem to be disproved, that uneasy lies the head that wears the crown. King Christian has not only been happy in his own life, but he has the satisfaction of having one of the largest and most distinguished families of children in all Europe. He is father of the king of Greece, father-in-law of the king of England, the grandfather of the czar of Russia. A few months before his accession to the throne, his eldest daughter, Alexandra, was married to the Prince of Wales. The same year his second son, Wilhelm, was elected king of the Hellenes under the title of George I, and three years later, his second daughter, Marie Dagmar, was married to the Russian heir apparent, who succeeded to the throne as Alexander III, of Russia. In 1881, King Christian's third daughter, Thyra, became the wife of the Duke of Cumberland, cousin of Queen Victoria, and his youngest child, Prince Waldemar, married Princess Marie D'Orleans.

King Christian not only has distinguished children, but grandchildren also. Prince Karl, the second son of the Crown Prince of Denmark, is the husband of Princess Maud, daughter of King Edward of England. Another grandchild, Princess Ingeborg, is the wife of Prince Charles, third son of the king of Sweden. Prince Constantine, heir-apparent to the Grecian throne, another grandson, is the husband of Emperor William's sister.

It is thus seen that, in addition to his grandson on the Russian throne, King Christian may expect to see grandchildren on the thrones of England and Greece. And yet this Danish king seemed destined by birth to be only one of the obscure members of the innumerable obscure families of Europe. He was the fourth son of a petty duke, Wilhelm of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glucksburg. There was not even the prospect that he would succeed to his father's dukedom, but the prospect of the death of the King of Denmark without an heir led to the appointment of Christian as heir-apparent to the throne. He assumed the crown in November, 1863.

Despite his honors, King Christian is one of the most unpretentious of European monarchs. He cares nothing for display, and lives in the simplest manner. Mr. Jacob Riis has told in "The Making of an American," of his visit to King Christian upon the occasion of his last visit to Denmark. The king greeted the "American" warmly, and upon his departure, accompanied him half way down the hall and there stood and waved a farewell to his departing guest. Mr. Riis says it was not until he saw the startled look of the attendants, that he realized court courtesy would require him to bow backwards from the royal presence. Not only did Mr. Riis forget, in the friendliness of the meeting, but he is sure the old king forgot also.

THE AGE LIMIT

Thirty-five has been fixed by the Erie Railway Company as the highest age limit of men who are to be employed in the business of that company. Men older than 35 are not eligible to begin work in the service. There may be sound reasons why a railroad corporation should fix the age limit, and why age limits should be fixed in the civil or military services. The provision of pensions for the superannuated is responsible for this. Sixty-five is usually the age fixed for retirement, and it is reasoned that a man should give at least thirty years of service on the average before he accepts a pension. But the question of a man's fitness in general being thus raised has brought out some opinions from leading business men in New York that are probably based on correct observation and wide experience. A large number being interviewed by a newspaper, they were agreed in saying that a man was just beginning to get ripe at thirty-five and that he ought to be valuable until he is long past fifty. Under the modern system of education is a man is to mature at thirty-five it would be necessary for him to attain perfection within eight or ten years, because it is impossible for him to take up a profession or acquire a technical training, after leaving college, until he is at least twenty-seven or twenty-eight years of age.

"A careful canvass of the ranks of the business men of the country," remarks the Cleveland Leader "would probably demonstrate that the vast majority of them came to the fullest measure of their success after they had passed their fortieth year. There are hundreds of thousands of old men in business life and the professions today who cannot be crowded aside by the youngsters, no matter how strenuous the latter may be. Many of the young men who are now coming to the front will be in the fight long after their hair has turned to silver."

EMPLOYERS GET TOGETHER

Plans for Large Central Organization of Building Trades

New York, Sept. 24—Plans are in preparation for the formation of one large central organization of the building trades employers of Manhattan, Brooklyn and Bronx, which, if successful, will greatly strengthen their position in controversies with the men. It has been suggested that the Brooklyn employers should individually join the organizations in Manhattan of their respective trades as a preliminary to the formation of a central association. This resolution will be before the Brooklyn league at its next meeting and a report of the action taken will be submitted to the Manhattan association.

High Handed Military Men

Berlin, Sept. 22—After having been under arrest for a fortnight, Herr Rehbein, a reporter on the Socialistic newspaper Vorwaerts, has been released without a trial. The explanation of Herr Rehbein's arrest is that a soldier had informed him about certain cases of maltreatment of men in the service. Instead of publishing the story Rehbein informed the military authorities, but because he refused to give the name of his informant was arrested. The indignation over his arrest is widespread, and is voiced particularly by the newspapers of the middle class, which complain that the Government by its blunders is constantly recruiting the forces of the Socialists.

Creeps Like a Serpent

Catarrh is an insidious disease, scarcely noticeable at first, but horribly relentless if not checked

No disease makes such inroads into weak constitutions as Catarrh. It spreads from the place of beginning to the lungs, bronchial tubes, stomach, intestines, and before long all the organs of the body are affected.

A splendid remedy, attended with remarkable success in curing Catarrh has lately come prominently to the front. Its name is Catarrhozone, and no case is recorded where it failed to quickly relieve and cure.

The strong points about Catarrhozone are that it is both a local and constitutional treatment. It not only affords quick relief to the local symptoms, but also purifies the blood of all Catarrhal poisons, builds up and strengthens the system.

Catarrhozone Inhaler supplies an abundance of medicated air which is breathed in at the mouth, and after passing through every air cell and air passage of the breathing organs, is slowly exhaled through the nostrils.

This penetrating, volatile antiseptic at once kills the germs that cause Catarrh and prevents the disease from spreading when once established. It is so healing and soothing that the inflamed membranes and sore spots are restored to normal and healthy condition in a few days.

Catarrhozone cleanses the nose and throat and keeps them entirely free of mucous discharge. It prevents dropping in the throat, cures headache and makes breathing easy and the breath pure and sweet.

To build up and invigorate the system, a blood purifier and tonic called Ferrozone should be taken after each meal. In conjunction with Catarrhozone it is a valuable aid in establishing such a healthy condition of the body that Catarrh cannot exist.

$1.00. Trial size, 25 cts. Sold by Other remedies have been known to give relief, but to permanently eradicate every trace of Catarrh you must use Catarrhozone. It is a common-sense, convenient, clean method of cure that is endorsed by the profession and all intelligent pharmacists.

You are sure to be benefited quickly and positively cured by Catarrhozone.

FORM AN ANTISTRIKE UNION

Brassworkers Perfect Organization on a New Basis

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 24—A labor union, the fundamental principles of which are opposition to all strikes and in favor of settling disputes with employers by arbitration, has been finally organized. The organization is to be known as the Independent Association of Brassworkers. Delegates representing the brass workers in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland and other cities met the local craftsmen in a conference, which resulted in the formation of the union. A declaration of principles was drafted and submitted to a committee that will report at the next meeting to be held in Chicago Thanksgiving day. In the declaration the members are pledged not to inaugurate a strike and all will be required to take the oath of allegiance to the United States. The new union will be independent of other labor organizations.

Rolff House

By G. H BENEDICT.

A Story of Love and Adventure.

He then drew a chair up to a table standing near the window, and, sitting down, placed the roll on the table before him and examined it narrowly. It was sealed heavily. The superscription read: "To my dear nephew, Claude Rolff: To be opened only according to promise."

Claude had often studied these words before, and longed for the time that would make him master of the secrets of the roll communicated to him under such mysterious circumstances. At last he could conscientiously and properly gratify his curiosity. He broke the seals, and spread the sheets of paper out on the table before him. The paper was heavy foolscap, and a glance showed him that the writing was in the cramped, peculiar hand he knew well to be his aunt's.

He at once became absorbed in the contents of the manuscript. It read as follows:

My Dear Claude: At my death you will be left alone in the world—the only surviving representative of your blood and race. Both in the old world and the new, every one that could claim near kin to you will have passed away. To the end that you may know your birth and lineage (of which you have been purposely kept in partial ignorance); that strange matters, which common report has greatly exaggerated and misrepresented, may be correctly reported to you; and that my action toward you, my dear child, under which I have often observed you were restive, may be justified in your eyes—I write these lines.

It is over sixty years ago, that there was living in the picturesque old city of Haarlem, in our mother country of North Holland, an aged and reputable burgher, one Rolff Van Buysen, who, with his good wife, his handsome son named from himself, and a single daughter (the writer of these lines), lived as happily as it is given mortals to live. He had been an only son; had passed an industrious youth; had married rather late in life; and at this period was wealthy, honored with important trusts in his native city, and was noted for his public spirit, his philanthrophy and his patronage of the arts and sciences. His son Rolff grew to manhood; but, being of a restive, wayward disposition, was not inclined to settle down into the practice of some useful art or profession as his father desired him to. On the contrary, his only wish seemed to be to spend his father's substance in extravagance and riotous living. Great was the grief of the tender and excellent father over the waywardness of his son, and he sought by all means to restore him to obedience and a proper life. But his efforts were of no avail. The son grew wilder and more reckless, and finally threw off all semblance of respect for his father's authority and wishes. And so it came to pass that the good father, though of the kindest and tenderest nature, became fully persuaded of his duty to compel the obedience and respect to his wishes of his son, and assumed toward him a stern demeanor, though, in truth, his heart was wounded and bled sorely for him. But Rolff only grew more ungovernable, and finally became involved in a difficulty that rendered him amenable to the law. It was a reckless, boyish freak, committed against the property of a high official of the city, and his father's influence was no longer available to save him from arrest and trial. Bitter and stern was the rebuke that Rolff's father administered to him; but the law officers were on his track, and he fled from his home in the night, and many weary years passed, and he was not again heard from by his aged and sorrowing parents. The blow, indeed, was too heavy for their declining years, and it was not long before the tender mother had gone to her final rest and her faithful husband, with the last prop of his life taken away, did not linger long behind her.

So it was, my dear Claude, that I was left alone in the world, not knowing that I had a single relative of near kin left, for on both my father's and mother's side all had passed away save a few distant and to me unknown kindred; and, though I hoped my brother was still alive, it seemed idle to do so.

After my fathers affairs were settled, I still had left a comfortable fortune, and lived a quiet and lonely life in my native city, indulging in few pleasures, and cherishing the one hope that I would yet hear from my brother. At length, to my great joy, there came a letter from him. In it he stated that he had settled in the New World; had grown rich, and married, and was then living in a fine mansion; but his wife had died, leaving him with two small children, and he had no proper person to take charge of them, or of his household. So he entreated me to come to him—saying that he had heard of our parents' deaths, and believed me still to be unmarried. He said he would make me the entire mistress of his household and guardian of his children, and that I should have complete disposal of all that he possessed. The tone of the letter indicated great grief and despondency, and my heart was touched. After careful consideration, I decided to go to my brother. Arranging all my affairs, and getting all needful information from further correspondence with him, I set sail for the New World.

In due time I arrived at my brother's house. I found him living in almost princely style; but afflicted with incurable grief and melancholy. His infant daughter had died ere I arrived. His mind seemed affected at losing his wife and child; and, in paroxysms of sorrow and self-abasement, he would curse himself, and cry out that the vengeance of Heaven was visited on him for his crimes. Naught I could do would comfort him. He was completely changed—broken, penitent and despondent. He confessed to me strange stories of evil deeds he had done—how, after coming to this country, he had joined a privateer, and amassed wealth, but in his warlike adventures had participated in crimes the memory of which was burned upon his conscience, and could not be forgotten. I was compelled to take complete charge of his affairs; and he freely gave me the power and right so to do. I had brought with me my own little fortune, and, alarmed and horrified at the stories he told of the manner in which he had procured his wealth, I determined to use none of it, but to make my own money available for the maintenance of the household.

Meantime, my brother grew more and more melancholy. To divert his mind, I talked to him of plans to expiate his evil life. I urged him to use a portion of his wealth in charity and good

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, later excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. R. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 14, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. $2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $300.00, and to the five next nearest $100.00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the lists are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $5.00 per day while here, as nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA., PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty Numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jer the mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD—— $80,000,000 ——GOLD

—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines [illegible], situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 650 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 200,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at [illegible] cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order, payable to the order of

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
155 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns [illegible] acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising [illegible] claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $[illegible] to $[illegible] per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file of investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 24—An extreme mental [illegible] now pervades stock market circles. For the most part however, the disposition to prefer cash for securities is the dominate motive. There was in the first place a new low record for consols, which was not expected, as based on belief that the Bank of England discount rate would be found, this morning to have been advanced. The sentimal influences of consols is strong—much stronger in this country than a mere track watcher appreciates. There followed here a few fresh outbreaks of liquidation; apparently one or more Pittsburg or Philadelphia houses, hurt more or less by the great decline in U. S. steel, thought it best to let go a line of Baltimore & Ohio, such liquidation is practically forced. It is the echo of the great decline of a whole year, which has brought financial loss to fully 99 persons out of 100, has exhausted ready money and weakened credits; so long as it continues, professional Wall street is bound to be bearish. Almost every room trader is trying to dislodge long stock. There are few, however, willing to go short of much stock for their own account in the attempt.

Chicago, Sept. 24—While some interests in the wheat pit were firm in their view yesterday, there was considerable selling during the day, and prices sought a lower level. The export business was fair, though much smaller than on occasions of late. The seabourd last night confirmed 20 loads wheat sold, and the cash business here and in the North-West was fair. The feeling in the wheat pit generally is mixed at the moment and the professional interests are figured to be in control. In fact they are realizing the market and are taking profits at every turn possible, and consequently it is probable that there will be nothing but a sensitive and feverish market for some days to come. Corn showed the effects of profit taking selling by pit interests, and this morning there is some talk that the bull element is gradually selling its corn However, some of the recognized bull interests strongly deny connection with any movement. There were 15 loads of corn confirmed at the seaboard last night and the local cash sales were less generous than for some days past.

STRIKE IN FLOUR MILLS

All Minneapolis Industries Will Be Shut Down To-Day

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 24—Certainty of a general strike in the Minneapolis flour mills to-morrow was established today, when the millers issued a statement severely criticizing the labor leaders for making unjust and unreasonable demands, and expressing the determination of the millers to close their mills rather than grant an eight-hour day and a ten hour wage scale, demanded by the employes. The formal refusal of the millers to accede to the demands of their men and the formal declaration of John M. Finley, president and organizer of the International Union of Flour and Cereal Mill Employes, that his union will strike, leave little doubt that all the flour mills in Minneapolis will be shut down to-morrow.

PUPILS ARE IMMORAL

Women Want Purity Taught in the Public Schools

Milwaukee, Wis, Sept. 24—Mrs. W J. Allen, head of the Purity League, in an address to the W.C.T.U today pleaded for a course of morality in the public schools. She thought cigarette pictures had much to do with spreading immorality among the children. Mrs. Martha A. Bauman said that to her knowledge immorality of the most shocking character was prevalent in the public schools. She cited an instance where a 12-year old girl had been subject to gross indecencies.

It was agreed that a direct appeal should be made to the school boards to have the young taught scientifically the truths which they were now left to learn in a way that was debasing.

Negro Lynchers

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 24—Information reached here this morning from Laraza, Arkansas, that negroes last night overpowered the sheriff at that place, took out a negro named Hellem, and hanged him to a water tank, where his body was left hanging until this morning. Hellem was charged with criminally assaulting two little negro girls, aged 5 and 10.

Constipation

Causes Headache, Abdominal, Pains, Piles and in Severe Cases Insanity and Apoplexy

It is a common mistake to conclude that Constipation is not a dangerous condition. Although at first it is only accompanied by slight inconvenience and pain, yet if not corrected, it will inevitably lead to very dire results.

Great care should be used in selecting a remedy for constipation because if a violent purgative is employed, it is sure to set up pain, irritation and congestion, and result finally in piles.

The experience of those who have tested all the cures for constipation, seems to prove that Ferrozone is the [illegible] treatment. It makes the bowels so well ordered that natural and unassisted action is established. Nothing can equal the immediate sense of comfort it produces, and pains in the head, and stomach, and in the intestines, disappear almost at once.

Ferrozone is very mild and certain in its action, and never causes inconvenience or distress. Ferrozone can be taken safely as long as required and in no way interferes with business or pleasure, and nothing may be feared from its use, however prolonged it may be.

For Constipation, Piles and Sick Headache, Ferrozone stands unrivalled. The driver of the City Express Company, who suffered from piles, says: — "Constant sitting on the wagon seat, produced a rectal irritation, which combined with constipated condition of the bowels, brought on a severe attack of piles. I used without benefit, different ointments, and other remedies; but got quick relief and most satisfactory results from Ferrozone. I can recommend Ferrozone to all who suffer from piles.

Ferrozone always cures, and can be purchased at any reliable drug store or 50cts. a box or three boxes for $1.25. Sent to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Coldstream Band received a check for $1066 for their concert here. The total receipts were $1,244, of which the musicians got 75 per cent., and the Industrial Exhibition association 25 per cent. The band could have been secured for $600, but the Association did not care to take any chances of a guarantee.

Hunting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting Deer, Moose, Reindeer, Caribou, etc., in the "Highlands of Ontario," and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

Forgot Their Instruments

The Coldstream Band came down on Wednesday from Lindsay by special train. When they arrived it was found that their instruments had been left behind, and there was nothing for it but to order a second special to bring the instruments. We remember once of hearing a story of a fishing party who drove to a well known bass pool on the Otonabee river, and found on their arrival that they had forgotten to bring their fishing tackle. In this case a pack of cards was substituted.

THE PRICE OF BREAD

Considerable Variation Found in Many Different Places

The price of bread is twelve cents in Peterborough, while in Toronto it is eight cents per four pound loaf, wholesale. There is something wrong here. Either the Toronto bakers charge too little, or Peterborough bakers are getting more than they are entitled to.

In Lindsay, Cobourg, Belleville, Kingston, Winnipeg, the price is 10 cents retail, while in Ottawa and several other places it is 11 cents. Just why Peterborough bakers should jump the price from 10 to 12 cents per loaf is not clear to us.

SENT TO THE MERCER

Two Peterborough Girls in Trouble in Toronto

Edith and Helen Pogue Were Sent to the Mercer for six Months

Edith and Helen Pogue, aged 19 and 16 respectively, were sent to the Mercer Reformatory on Tuesday by Colonel Denison at the Toronto Police Court, to serve six months for defrauding people out of money. The story of their operations is interesting. As they stood in the Police Court dock both girls cried as if their hearts would break. Both were [illegible] taken for a pair of school girls. Their home is in Peterborough.

Several well-known people swore that the girls came to their homes with a tale of woe so well concocted that they had not the slightest suspicion that things were otherwise than they said.

Mary Cotter, a domestic employed at a residence in Queen's Park, stated that the two sisters came to the back door of the house one night recently and told her they were looking for a Dr. Willis, whom they had met at Burlington, where they had been spending the summer. They added that they had just come off the boat, and had lost a purse containing $23, which was all the money they had, together with some other valuables. Out of pity for their plight, Miss Cotter gave the girls $5.

They also went to the residence of Mr. Palmer on St. George street, where they repeated the same story. J. C. Palmer, jun., saw them, and they told him they were looking for a Mrs. Willis. They said they had met her on the Hamilton golf links. Mr. Palmer could not find the name in the telephone directory. They then told him about losing their money, and when he offered to give them some to go to a hotel they were quite willing to accept it.

"They wanted to go to the Queen's," said Mr. Palmer, "but I told them they had better go to the King Edward, and I gave them $10. I saw them to a street car, and as the conductor couldn't change the bank note, I gave them another quarter for car tickets."

H. R. O'Hara of Bernard avenue also received a call from the sisters. He gave them $5, with which to go to a hotel, after he had heard their story of misfortune.

They called at the residence on Lowther avenue of John Drynan of W. A. Murray & Co. While Mr. Drynan was talking to the girls some one came in and said they were impostors, so they went away, empty-handed.

Detective-Sergeant Reburn contributed some evidence. He said that the younger girl was named Helen Pogue, and that last fall she went to W. A. Murray & Co.'s store, and, saying she was a daughter of Lady Kirkpatrick, ordered a lot of goods, which she had sent to the Queen's Hotel. She was arrested, but was let off on suspended sentence.

Mrs. Pogue of Peterborough was a witness of her daughters' degradation in the Police Court. She unhesitatingly acknowledged that their right name was Pogue. She told, between sobs, of how she tried to make her girls do right, but they were wayward and she had lost control of them.

Colonel Denison, in sentencing the young culprits to six months in the Mercer Reformatory, said that it was one of the cruelest and most miserable frauds that had ever come to his notice. Acts of this kind would have the effect, he said, of closing the purses of the philanthropic to really deserving people.

PERSONAL MENTION

Movements of the People—What They are Doing and Saying.

—Miss Barnett, of Renfrew, is the guest of Mrs. McAllister.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. Hopkins, of Port Hope, are visiting friends in town.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. Comstock went to Colborne yesterday for a few days' visit.

—Mrs. John McRoberts and daughter, Miss Jennie, Warkworth, are guests of Mrs. Weston Fallis.

—Miss Florence Mason, who has been visiting friends in town for a few days, left for her home in Bowmanville yesterday.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brooks, Round Lake, are the guests of their cousin, Mrs. P. B. Doupe, Antrim street. Mr. Brooks took his first dinner in Peterborough on Wednesday in fifty years, and naturally sees a great change in the town.

—Globe: Lieut.-Col. H. Greenwood of Peterborough, will return to Canada this week with his two little sons; his wife, who was a daughter of Sir Henri de Lotbiniere of Quebec, died about two months ago in South Africa of pneumonia. Mrs. Greenwood was greatly admired and loved by her many friends, and during her residence in Peterborough was an earnest and energetic member of the Woman's Auxiliary in St. John's church.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

Newsy Paragraphs Picked Up by Reporters on Their Round

—At the police court yesterday a drunk was fined $2.

—The Thanksgiving turkey is beginning to feel his neck.

—The summer youth bethinks himself of wearing a vest again.

PRESTON ELECTRIC RAILWAY

A Twenty Years' Franchise and Company to Clear Snow

The Town Council cannot be congratulated on its deal with the Peterborough Street Railway Company when we compare the terms with those recently obtained by the little town of Preston. The following are the main conditions:

The company must begin work and spend on it $5,000 before Jan. 1st, 1904, and must complete it before July 1st, 1904.

The company's cars are to be operated by electricity.

When the cars are turning from one corner to another they shall not be driven faster than a horse's walk.

The company must keep the streets clear of snow.

No cars shall be allowed to stop on a crossing, except to avoid collision—not to block a street crossing.

In the evening the cars are to carry signal lamps.

The company may carry baggage and parcels and also freight.

They shall run cars for passenger service between Berlin and Preston at least every two hours. The first cars to leave Berlin and Preston at 6.30 a.m.

The single fare is not to be more than 15c and return not over 25c.

The company is given power to put down and maintain the necessary poles for 20 years.

They have not the power to sell electricity for light, heat or power in Berlin.

All the real and personal property of the company and the income derived, shall be exempt from taxation excepting school taxes, for ten years.

A SHAME

To Poison Children

"I have made coffee during the 17 years I have kept house on an average of at least once a day until we gave it up altogether. My husband was often forced to leave off drinking it for several weeks at a time owing to severe pains in his heart, which he declared were caused by coffee."

So says a lady of S. Atkinson, Me. "I had a bad stomach trouble, my appetite was poor, and what food I ate did not digest and I had no strength.

"I also had bad nervous trouble, and suffered much from headaches and a feeling of suffocation and faintness. We have four children and all were very fond of coffee and drank it every morning, seldom eating much breakfast. They were pale and often complained of feeling faint and dizzy and one daughter had indigestion badly. My husband's father who lives with us was badly bloated, and sometimes said 'I believe coffee hurts me.' But after trying for a few days to get along without it the habit of a lifetime proved too strong and he would call for a cup of coffee.

"Last spring we began reading about the wonderful cures by Postum Food Coffee and became interested and decided to try it. So we stopped coffee and began using Postum. In a surprisingly short time we all noticed a very decided change in health all round. The children's appetites improved, and after using Postum a short time they began to eat hearty breakfasts every morning. Elizabeth's dyspepsia is all gone and she says she can eat anything now and it does not hurt her. They no longer complain of feeling faint and dizzy and all are growing plump and rosy.

"I have gained eight pounds myself although doing more work than I have been able to do for years. My appetite is good, food digests, nerves are stronger, and I have none of the other troubles. It is simply wonderful.

"My husband has no more trouble with his heart and Father-in-law does not bloat and can breathe much more easily.

"We had made the change from coffee to Postum without telling Father-in-law, but one morning after we had used Postum a short time he sipped his coffee and said 'How much better this is, how did you happen to get such good coffee?' and he was greatly surprised when told it was not coffee, but the Food drink, Postum. He declares that it has done him great good and he has not been so well for years although he is now 79 years of age. A lot of my other relatives have had almost the same experience all of them having found out that it pays to give up Postum if you want to be healthy and happy." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"I lost courage and thought I would never regain my health."

"Three years of delicate health trying doctors' prescriptions and patent medicines without benefit might well sap the courage of any woman. And yet Mrs. Bryant proved that the question of the cure of womanly disease is only a question of using the right remedy. A few doses of 'Favorite Prescription' restored her courage and revived her hope, because she could see "a decided change from the first." Three

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures irregularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

Mrs. Sarah Bryant, President of Memphis Social Science Club, residing at 271 Atkinson Ave., Memphis, Tenn., writes: "I suffered with delicate health for three years, trying doctors' prescriptions and patent medicines until I lost courage and thought I would never regain my health; but a few doses of your 'Favorite Prescription' made me change my mind. Could see a decided change from the first, so I kept on taking it for three months faithfully and am now in perfect health."

MARRIED IN TORONTO

Nuptials of Miss Francis H. Agar and Mr. D. W. Somerville

The following, from The Toronto Mail and Empire, will be read with interest by many in Peterborough:

Miss Frances H. Agar, only daughter of the late Rev. John Agar, was married yesterday at high noon to Mr. David W. Somerville, of Orono, at the residence of Rev. E. Middleton, of Davenport, uncle of the bride. The ceremony took place under a beautiful floral arch, and the bride, who was attired in a handsome navy blue going-away gown, looked very bright and happy. After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Somerville left by the 1.15 train for their Chicago home, amid the warmest good wishes of their many friends. The bride has been for several years organist of the Baptist church, Peterborough, and has a wide circle of friends in that town, as well as in Toronto.

HOSTILITY TO THE EMPLOYERS IS KEY NOTE OF LABOR CONGRESS

Brockville Meeting Dominated by an Attitude of Antagonism to All That is Favored by the Employers and Manufacturers' Association

Secret Sessions Proposed in Order to Develop New Plans of Campaign Against Organized Capital

Brockville, Sept. 26.—Labor was never in a more militant mood in Canada than it is today, if the members of the Trades Union Congress fairly represent the sentiments of the vast body of organized workingmen. The 130 delegates representing, they say, 200,000 toilers distributed across the continent, form an earnest and intelligent body of men, who display a determination to take advantage of the present prosperous condition of all trades, to close up their ranks in preparation for the day of trial, which they know must come some time. Although publicly they deny that there is a scarcity of labor in Canada, and resolutions are presented declaring the representations of the Manufacturers' Association to be inaccurate, in private conversation, admission is made that there are more situations than men to fill them, and that is a state of affairs that they would like to see continue. Mr. John G. Tobin aptly voiced the feeling of the delegates when he said he was glad to hear that there was a scarcity of men, for it was usually the reverse, there was a scarcity of situations. Now is the time to organize, he said, and the statement of Vice-President Mack that in the city of Montreal alone, 7,000 men had been organized in one month is evidence that the unions are imbued with the knowledge that this is their opportunity.

The feeling against the Manufacturers' and Employers' Associations is very strong. The efforts to import laborers is resented by the men, who declare that gross misrepresentations are made in Britain as to the condition of the labor market here. What seems to be an ill-advised action is the introduction of a resolution directing the executive officers to publish in Great Britain the fact of the "Soo" collapse, as a reply to the statement of the Manufacturers' Association that there is a demand for 11,000 laborers in Canada.

The Soo shut-down is not normal, and cannot be said to indicate in any degree the condition of the labor market here, so that the publication of the fact in rebuttal of the statement by the manufacturers is a misrepresentation of the actual conditions.

That resolution has not yet been reported by the committee. That it should be presented is an evidence of the feeling that prevails.

The Injunction Issue.

Another phase of this question is touched by the resolution calling upon the secretary of the Congress to issue a circular to the labor organizations of Canada requesting that they open communications with unions of their respective crafts in Great Britain and other European countries, where possible, with a view to their having definite and true knowledge of the conditions of their crafts in Canada, for the purpose of minimizing the effect resulting from gross misrepresentation that has been and may be disseminated through the various agencies of the employers' associations.

Nor is that all the Congress has to say on the question of immigration. The present policy of the Dominion Government is denounced in the most emphatic manner for the following reasons: 1st. It taxes the wage earners to supply funds to assist immigrants in order to flood the labor market with the cheapest possible labor from the poorest countries in the world. It thus subjects the wage-earners not merely to the fiercest competition of free trade but renders that competition still more intense by the assistance given to aid immigrants to slaughter the labor market. 2nd. While this assistance to immigration compels the laborer to sell his labor at the lowest price in competition by a tariff often exceeding fifty per cent. Thus labor is compelled to sell cheap and buy dear, while the employers are enabled to buy cheap and sell dear. In this respect the law is cruelly and wickedly unjust. Therefore the Executive is urged to do all in their power to secure the abolition of assistance to immigration.

It is protection from competition the Congress desires, just as the manufacturers get protection by means of the tariff.

Influential delegates are working for secret sessions to discuss the measures that the unions should take to meet the attacks of the employers' association. The explanation this is given out is that the delegates have not authority to determine the policy to be pursued in this matter without the consent of the local unions, and that any new departure will necessarily have to be approved of by a referendum of the local bodies.

It is generally understood, however, that there are other questions that will come up in secret sessions, of which no hint is given in the list of resolutions. The recent injunction applied for by the Gurney Company is a sore point with the delegates. They want to consider at length how such cases should be met, and in the debate there is likely to be some warm remarks touching the troubles of the moulders at Gurney's and the Canada Foundry Company.

In this connection the President's suggestion of a defence fund will be considered. It is apparent to the members of the Congress that they will have to fight in the courts, and the funds of the body are limited. Consequently a plan must be devised for raising the necessary funds, and as the money can only be obtained from the members of the local unions, they must be consulted before legislation can be passed.

COLLEGE MEN

Quite Universally Use Grape-Nuts

A lady of Tabor, La., who has six strapping big boys says: "They range from 7 to 19 years and we are living at a college town for the purpose of educating them.

"I have a great work before me as you can see and I regard your food Grape-Nuts a very valuable assistant for without healthy bodies I know it is impossible to build up strong, healthy brains.

"My boys all think they owe much to the food Grape-Nuts and on 'field day' or in the football season the athletic ones declare Grape-Nuts is a great strengthener and muscle maker. I have no doubt they are right, but it interests me more to know positively that Grape-Nuts makes general good health and restores the wasted brain and nerve matter and keeps my boys normal and strong.

"As for myself I have been troubled since childhood with severe sick headaches which all came from a disordered stomach. There was always trouble about digesting my food and this resulted in violent attacks of headache about once every two weeks. These were so severe that I would be unable to raise my head for 24 hours, then Nature would readjust herself by rest and an entire lack of food. Then I began to use Grape-Nuts for breakfast and the stomach trouble began to fade away. All of the symptoms have gradually changed for the better and the very few headaches I have had since using Grape-Nuts have been very light and have not interfered with my regular work, while I am fleshier and stronger than ever before. I take great pleasure in telling my friends what this splendid food has done for us not only in the case of my own worn-out system, but in keeping up the health of my strapping young giants.

"I must speak of a tribute paid Grape-Nuts at our District Convention of the Woman's Relief Corps. Two hundred intelligent women were at this meeting and the Department President in her address spoke of the wonderful merits of Grape-Nuts to produce brain power." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

CASKET FELL ON ROADWAY

Strange Occurrence at the Funeral of a Remarkable Woman

Hamilton, Sept. 26.—The funeral of Mrs. Gauld, of Ancaster, who was ninety years of age, took place yesterday, interment being in the Scotch Block Cemetery. When the hearse was going up the Beckett Mountain drive, the door flew open and the casket slid out and dropped with a crash on the roadway. Mrs. Gauld enjoyed the unique experience of having been married to the same man three times, first in Scotland, then in Canada, and afterwards on their return to Scotland. It was a runaway match, and the third marriage in Scotland was to please Mrs. Gauld's parents, who had become reconciled in the meantime. Mrs. Gauld's husband died about forty years ago.

A VERY PLEASANT EVENING

Spent at Y. M. C. A. Rooms—Mr. Robinson's Address

Mr. E. M. Robinson, Y.M.C.A. secretary of the international committee of New York, addressed a large number of men at the Y.M.C.A. last night.

Mr. Robinson is chiefly interested in boy's work, and has been visiting the principal Young Men's Christian Associations in Canada lately. He delivered a very eloquent and interesting address, and showed several charts verifying his statement that he was thoroughly posted on the nature and characteristics of boys.

A social evening has been arranged for Tuesday next, Sept. 29, open to all young men. A first class time is expected.

Ven. Archdeacon Madden and Rev. G. H. Bondfield

A British delegation composed of the Ven. Archdeacon Madden and Rev. G. H. Bondfield is touring Canada in the interests of the centenary of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

The executive of the local society has arranged to have the annual meeting of the Peterborough Bible Society on Tuesday, October 6th, so as to give everybody an opportunity of hearing the Rev. G. H. Bondfield, who is spoken of as a capital speaker. These men have been greeted with full houses wherever they have been. Keep the date open, October 6th, in St. Paul's church. This is for the general public. No admission fee.

OUR GREAT FOREST WEALTH

Englishmen Astonished at Timber Wealth of Canada

Montreal, Sept. 15.—Mr. Ward Nayle who represents the Timber Trade Federation of the United Kingdom, made particular mention of the timber trade of British Columbia. The large timber which could be obtained there was of great value, and he thought that the tour did the delegates good, inasmuch as it showed them what wealth lay in the timber of the Pacific province.

He had purchased a good deal of it himself, he said, and, although the freight in connection with the shipping of it was heavy, yet the value of the timber more than made up for that. The large timber of British Columbia would be closely watched by Britishers, he said.

MINNEAPOLIS STRIKE

Big Flour Mills Close Down for Indefinite Period

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 26.—All the Minneapolis flour mills were closed indefinitely at midnight, all the men quitting work except a few, who remained a few minutes to allow the rolls to run clean. There was no violence or disorder of any sort. Most of the mills had notices posted that the time of all men who quit work would be ready this morning, and that all men who do not report for work can consider themselves discharged. The flour loaders, who made the demands that caused the strike, were not included in the eight-hour agreement made a year ago.

IRISH OUTLOOK IS MOST HOPEFUL

Sir John Nutting Speaks on Present Day Conditions in Ireland

LAND ACT IS MOST POPULAR

Irishmen of All Creeds Are Now Discussing Topics From Non Political Standpoint

Montreal, Sept. 26.—Sir John G. Nutting, of St. Helen's, county Dublin, Ireland, is a visitor in the city, and is making his headquarters at the Windsor Hotel.

"The outlook in Ireland," says Sir John "is most hopeful. A wonderful change has come over the whole spirit of the country. We are becoming keenly practical, and the study of our economic and industrial problems has largely taken the place of political discussions.

"I am, I suppose, what you would call a moderate Unionist. But I deny no other man's right to his own political views. I don't think that Ireland will ever be a country without politics. Irishmen are politicians by instinct. But I do think that in the past politics has possessed us to the exclusion of even more important considerations, and I heartily rejoice that it is now possible for a big meeting of Irishmen of all political and religious creeds to sit down and discuss for hours questions of industry, transport, etc., from a purely Irish, but always purely non-political point of view.

"A lot of circumstances have combined to bring about this state of affairs. First, the Land act; next the growing appreciation of the need and of industrial development; also, of course, the King's visit. That was, in every way, a splendid success. King Edward found peace in Ireland, but he also brought it with him. His tact and good nature were astonishing. He went everywhere and saw everybody, and whenever and wherever he spoke he said just the right thing. The Nationalists gave him an excellent reception, just because he made it quite plain to them that in so doing they were compromising their political convictions.

OFFICIALS ARE POPULAR.

"Lord Dudley and Mr. Wyndham have secured a popularity in Ireland that none of their predecessors ever dared to hope for. They believe that Ireland should be developed along Irish lines. New sympathy has produced a warm response from Ireland, and has done wonders already in the way of destroying historic animosities.

"I think that the new Land Act contains all the elements of a lasting peace, but I am not going to prophesy that this peace will come in sight in my own time. This act implies a certain amount of sacrifice by individual landlords and tenants in the public interest, and the question is whether they are all prepared to make it. If they are not, we may find both sides forming combinations against one another, and that will mean new agitation, and probably yet another Land Act. But I know that Irishmen of all classes are heartily sick of this fatal domestic warfare, and I have good hope that their common sense will avert a recurrence of it.

"The new act starts in an atmosphere of good will. All the sensible people on both sides want to make the best of it, and if the new Estate Commissioners do their work simply and quickly, few landlords will be found to refuse any reasonable offers from their tenants."

BIRMINGHAM GOES WITH CHAMBERLAIN

CANADA STANDS UNITED

Sir Charles Tupper Confirms Mr. Fielding's Statement of Policy on Preference

London, Sept. 26.—The correspondent was advised by Mr. Chamberlain to apply to Sir Charles Tupper for information re an article in the Economist. Sir Charles Tupper, replying, said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Mr. Fielding, offering, in the conference of 1902, to increase the preference voiced the sentiment of all Canada. Sir Charles Tupper believes Mr. Chamberlain's policy is not only the best but the only means of promoting the unity of the Empire.

FAVOR THE PREFERENCE.

By a majority of 40 to 9 yesterday, the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce supported the proposal to impose moderate duties on products, exclusive of raw material and manufactures of foreign countries, so long as the colonies would grant such preference as would adequately compensate the mother country. The Chamber also approved the principal of colonial governments being secured freedom to enter fiscal relations with the Imperial Government without detriment to their fiscal relations with foreign powers.

BENEFITTED BY PREFERENCE.

The Scotch woollen manufacturers are almost unanimous in the opinion that Canada's preference has increased and will likely further increase their trade with the Dominion.

CANADA CAN BEAT WORLD.

Sir William Holland, writing to a correspondent says the potentialities of Canada especially for wheat growing are so enormous that he is fully convinced that Canada will be able to beat the world in the home markets without the aid of any preference.

GRAND TRUNK STOCK.

The Financial Times says in regard to the price of the issue of the G.T.R. guaranteed stock, that it is obvious it must be a point or two under par in order to secure successful flotation.

NEW ENGLAND EMBARGO

The Board of Agriculture has withdrawn the prohibition on the landing of animals other than swine from the Eastern States.

TO BE INVITED TO BOSTON

Mr. Borden, Minister of Militia will be invited to the banquet of the Honourable Artillery Company at Boston.

CAPTAIN LUKE AT FAULT

At West Hartlepool yesterday the Board of Trade Enquiry found that the stranding of the steamer Holmes near Point Rich, Newfoundland, on July 31, was caused by the fault of Captain Luke. His certificate has been suspended for three months.

New German Fleets

Berlin, Sept. 26.—The first of the two home fleets contemplated by the German Navy law has just been constituted on a permanent active basis. Only one of the two squadrons of which it is composed is as yet complete, but ultimately it will consist of seventeen battleships, four large and twelve small cruisers and forty torpedo boats.

SAVED THE BABY GIRL—A London mother, grateful for the preservation of her baby's life, writes thus—"My baby girl was very sick during the summer, and the doctor said it was almost impossible to save her. Diarrhoea had reduced her very much and for days she lay in her cot helpless and weak. I fortunately read about your Lactated Food, and determined to try one can for the baby. Two or three days after feeding it to baby, I noticed an improvement. She gained strength and slept naturally. The food agreed with her stomach, and she seemed to like it. For a month Lactated Food was the only nourishment I gave baby. To-day, I am happy to say that my child is bright, strong and in good health. I wish I could talk to every mother in Canada who has a sick infant; I would certainly advise the use of Lactated Food."

THE SULTAN'S PROMISES WILL NOT BE TAKEN

Bulgarians Refuse to Believe the Ottoman Government's Promises

THE POSITION NOW BECOMES INTOLERABLE

A Battle in Progress Between Turks and Bulgarians---The Situation Desperate

Sofia, Sept. 26.—Though the Sultan's promises concessions are received with a certain gratification by the Bulgarian Government, Turkey must give an immediate definite pledge of her pacific intentions if the overtures are to be taken into serious consideration. The proposals which would have been welcomed in June, when Natchovitch went on his mission to Constantinople, are now regarded with suspicion and misgiving. Turkey will be expected to immediately stop the carnage and devastation in Macedonia and arrest her military preparations. It is doubted whether the Turkish proposals are bona fide or merely a time-gaining expedient. It is known that the Turks are not prepared for a winter campaign, and time would enable them to complete their preparations to crush the insurgents and not leave their lines of communication exposed in case of an invasion of Bulgarians. The Government at Sofia, therefore, proceeds cautiously and does not swallow too hastily the Ottoman verbal proposals.

The events of the next two days are awaited with great anxiety. A largely attended meeting of Macedonian sympathizers at Rustchuk, Bulgaria, adopted resolutions appealing to the Bulgarian Government to declare war on Turkey.

In revolutionary circles war is believed to be imminent unless Turkey stops massacring the Christians, of which there are no signs at present. The president of the Macedonian organization says the insurgent committee attach no importance to the reported negotiations between Turkey and Bulgaria. The Porte, he said, only entered into the conference in order to gain time to finish the extermination of what it regards as the dangerous elements in Macedonia, have the troops at Monastir to move against Bulgaria, and bring more soldiers from Asia. While the Sultan's Government is discussing proposed propositions for reform in Macedonia, the troops continue to massacre the Christians and devastate the country. The president of the Macedonian organization concluded by declaring that the insurgents would be satisfied with nothing short of intervention by the powers.

BATTLE IN PROGRESS.

Constantinople, Sept. 24.—The battle of Kresna Pass, according to the latest advices received here, is still in progress. The insurgents are steady, holding strong positions, and their casualties are light, only a score being killed or wounded, while the Turks up to the present have lost five officers and 320 men killed or wounded.

Part of the British Mediterranean squadron has arrived at Suda Bay, Island of Crete, and is held in readiness, in case of developments in the Balkan situation.

AS VIEWED IN PARIS.

Paris, Sept. 24.—The French Foreign Office doubt the sincerity of the Porte's reply to the Bulgarian note, believing it is merely a manoeuvre to impress the powers with the idea that Turkey is doing her utmost to effect a settlement before going to war. A similar impression seems to prevail at Sofia, since Bulgaria, in answering, requires Turkey to cease mobilization, stop the massacres and withdraw her troops from near the frontier before she will consider the proposals.

Brussels, Sept. 24.—King Leopold has signed a decree appointing four Belgian officers to reorganize the Macedonian gendarmerie.

RUSSIA TO STAY IN MANCHURIA

There Is No Longer Any Doubt About Her Intentions

New York, Sept. 26.—The Post wants to know if it is possible that the Americans really think that Russia has lavished such enormous material and moral forces in Manchuria merely to turn that country into an international bazaar? Is it possible, it adds, that the public writers of North America suppose for a moment that Russian officers, who have crossed Manchuria right and left under the fire of the Khunguses; that Russian engineers, who have poured forth their blood in the building of the railroad and have defended its works with their own breasts from the fanatic hordes of Boxers; that Russian soldiers and Cossacks, who performed marvels of Russian bravery during the late operation of war, modestly known as the "troubles of 1891-92"—that such men have borne the hardships and toils of war and fallen on the field of fight only to give satisfaction to foreign trading firms?

St. Petersburg papers reprint this utterance and remark that Russia will colonize rather than conquer Manchuria, as she has Siberia. This means that the government will send out annually picked men with their families on what is known as "the Cossack basis"; in other words, to be colonists or soldiers as need requires. In peace time they will make the natives toil in their fields; in war time they will obey orders. They pay no taxes and there land is a gift from the State, which also sells them arms and ammunition at nominal prices. In case of need they will be hastily provided with officers, and thus legitimatized as belligerents.

AN ENTERPRISING COMPANY

The Matthews Co., of Town, Exhibited Largely at This Exhibition in London

A correspondent from London, Eng., to the Montreal Star, says:

"A suggestive comment on the recent Canadian criticisms of Canadian butter sold in England is supplied by the remarkable Canadian exhibits at the International Grocers' Exhibition now in progress at the Agricultural Hall. Owing to the neatness of the Canadian patent butter boxes and the attractiveness of their canned goods labels, Canadian goods for the first time are largely used for ornamentation on nearly every stand in the hall. Thus the exhibition seems most all Canadian. Matthew & Davis are the leading exhibitors.

"The whole is a private enterprise, showing that the general trade in Canada is at last alive to the splendid openings here. Seeing there are 120,000 British grocer's shops, every one of which will be influenced by this display, the results will be of highest importance to Canada. Cape Colony buyers are much in favor of buying Canadian produce."

The Matthews referred to above is the Geo. F. Matthews Co., Ltd., of town.

Y. W. C. A. Notes

—The anniversary services of the Y.W.C.A. will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4.15. Miss A. C. Macdonald, B.A. will speak, and Miss Carolyn Hall will sing.

—On Tuesday evening, Sept. 29th, the formal opening and Educational Rally will be held. A good program and social evening will be provided, and Miss Macdonald, Traveling Secretary for the Dominion Council, will speak. All young women and those interested in the association work are very cordially asked to be present at both meetings.

—Miss Edith Moodie, physical directress, will return to Peterborough Tuesday, and is prepared to arrange for classes on and after September 29th. Miss Moodie has been continuing her studies along the line of medical gymnastics, paying special attention to the important branches, and has of late been teaching in the Children's Hospital, Boston. Classes will be held morning, afternoon and evening.

Miss I. Fisher has been appointed assistant secretary, and either she or the general secretary will be found in the rooms during the office hours: 9.30—12.30; 1.30—6; 7.30—9.30. The secretaries will be very glad to welcome to the rooms all young women and friends of the work.

—There will be a meeting of the Board on Monday afternoon at 3.30, which will be preceded by a Bible reading given by Miss Macdonald at 3 p.m.

HAVE YOU CHRONIC AILMENT?

Recognized as the oldest established and most reliable specialist.

In the course of his practice as specialist in the treatment of chronic ailments, Dr. Goldberg has evolved a system of his own, which is a positive cure. His method differs widely from the old fashioned system as taught in colleges, and yet is along the strictest scientific principles, with this exception, that where the old methods took months and sometimes years to bring about a cure, his latest method does it in a few weeks and cures are thorough, permanent and reliable. The curing of chronic diseases has been his specialty for years.

He will cure you quicker than any other specialist in the world. There are thousands in this broad land today who are healthy and happy, who once suffered as you perhaps now suffer, and who owe their present well-being to Dr. Goldberg's Latest Method Treatment. If you are sick it is only natural for you to want to be well. Before you decide definitely on the doctor to intrust your case call or write to Dr. Goldberg and find out all about his Latest Method of curing chronic diseases without pain and permanently. It will cost you nothing to learn the particulars and it will in no way put you under obligations to him.

If it is inconvenient for you to call in person write the doctor and he will explain his method to you just the same, free. Do not delay; promptness is certainty.

Each Time You Call You See Dr. Goldberg Personally or each time you write it receives his personal attention, and remember he is the only specialist who allows the patient to pay when cured. You need pay nothing until a complete cure has been made.

PETERBOROUGH, SEPTEMBER 26 1903

EXPORT THE FLOUR!

Manitoba and the North-west are coming to realize the impolicy of exporting wheat, rather than flour. Canadian flour and Canadian mills, says the Brandon Times, are famous the world over, and a ready market is found for North-west flour which has come to be regarded by the consumers of wheat bread as the standard of excellence. This enviable reputation has been earned partly by the methods of manufacture but more by the character of the wheat itself. The wheat excels in the quantity of gluten it contains, and therefore is best suited for bread making purposes. While Canadian flour is wanted in the European market, the next best thing and very much cheaper by reason of a lower freight rate is Canadian wheat, which can be mixed with other wheat, and so a double advantage gained by foreign millers. Thus the exportation of Canadian wheat is stimulated and the exportation of Canadian flour is restrained by the discrimination of freight against the manufactured product. Wheat may or may not afford freight to our transportation companies dealing with the old country, but in regard to our flour there is a steady demand in Europe because of the standard of excellence accredited to our product. It has a trade mark value in addition to an intrinsic value. Canadian wheat entering a British mill will lose its identity and the consumer has no trade mark value. Hence it is that Canadian railways should assist the milling industry by giving at least as favorable a freight rate to flour as is enjoyed by wheat and receive in return a permanent traffic which does not vary according to the price of foreign grains.

Transportation companies today base their charges on big loads and long hauls, and such wonderful facilities do they provide that the major portion of the crop grown in our inland country is transported in short space of time before lake navigation closes and at a nominal cost to the markets of Europe, there to compete with the grain grown much nearer to hand.

Wheat is exported in bulk and flour for export is carried in strong bags. Science and mechanism has been applied to the trans-shipment of wheat from the elevator to the ship and from the ship to the elevator again on the other side of the ocean. All the devices are modern and efficient and secure the cheapest and quickest handling of the grain. Flour on the other hand is loaded and unloaded by men with trucks which run up and down gang planks. The transportation companies assert that is is the ease with which wheat is handled that determines the discrimination in freight against flour and in favor of wheat.

It is strange that the transportation companies have not applied themselves to the problem of handling flour with the same determination they have shown in assailing the question of moving wheat. The actual revenue from carrying a carload of flour and a car load of wheat at the same rate should be the same in each case, and it does seem possible to improve the method and reduce the cost of loading and unloading flour.

Civilization follows fast upon the heels of manufactories. If the Canadian North-west is to attain the highest development it must manufacture the raw material it produces. The grinding of wheat means the employment of men, and the manufacture of flour is accompanied by the purchase of many articles—mill machinery, coal, jute, cotton bags, barrels, oil, twine. This means work for thousands of men outside the mills and a very large and profitable trade for the transportation companies—a traffic which is destroyed by the exportation of the raw material.

All that is said about a low freight rate on wheat being a benefit to the farmer applies with equal force to the freight levied on flour. The milling of our wheat before export is of great importance to the farmer from another standpoint. The creamery is dependent on the flour mill, and the trade returns of Canada show that the value of butter and cheese exported last year from this country exceed the value of flour and wheat exported by several million of dollars. When wheat is exported a great deal of feed for stock is exported with it to the detriment of the stock and butter industry and incidentally occasioning the loss of manure, which is important for fertilizing the land.

One does not need much wit to conjecture that if the Ontario government was to take up the Clergue enterprises at the Soo, the Ontario government would have on its hands one of the whitest elephants that ever came into any government's possession.

THE BRITISH CABINET

Lord Kitchener May Return and Receive the War Secretaryship

London, Sept. 25—Premier Balfour is apparently meeting with considerable difficulty in the task of reconstructing his Cabinet. It is stated that Mr. Wyndham has been offered the choice of several portfolios but has decided to remain as Chief Secretary for Ireland. Rumors are renewed that Lord Kitchener is to be given the War Secretaryship.

They Want Reciprocity

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 25 — Campbell Shaw, chairman of the National Committee on Reciprocity with Canada, has addressed an open letter to Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, in which he urges early action in regard to reciprocity with Canada. He says that if the matter is deferred until after 1904, Canadian markets may be lost to American manufacturers.

Billious Dyspepsia

A DREADFUL COMPLAINT ACCOMPANIED BY HEADACHE, SICKNESS OF THE STOMACH, VOMITING THAT CAN BE PERMANENTLY AND QUICKLY CURED BY FERROZONE

Some persons have attacks of Bilious Dyspepsia very frequently, and feel as if they were about to die.

The whole system seems to collapse. The tongue becomes coated, the face a sallow paller, and a bitter taste is always noticeable in the mouth. At times the bowels are very constipated, but occasional acute diarrhoea is caused by the accumulation of bile in the system.

It is highly dangerous to allow such a condition to imperil your life. It must be cured and the simplest and surest remedy is Ferrozone. It digests every particle of food eaten, and prevents the waste products from clogging up the system.

Ferrozone restores all deranged organs to a healthy, vigorous condition. It keeps the bowels well regulated, makes the kidneys eliminate all poisons from the blood, and supplies the necessary elements to build up and strengthen the entire body.

Mr. Louis Meelam, one of Peterborough's most enterprising and well known business men, during the past three years was an unceasing sufferer from Bilious Dyspepsia. He was cured permanently by Ferrozone and is so anxious that all others may profit by his experience that he gives the following testimonial.

"About three years ago," says Mr. Meelam, "I had the Grippe which left me in a very run down condition that finally developed into Dyspepsia. I was unable to eat but a few things and had a craving for acid. I gave up treating with the doctors because they did not help me, and on the advice of a friend used Ferrozone. It not only cured me of Dyspepsia and Biliousness, but has built up my strength to what it was before I had the Grippe. I can recommend Ferrozone as an ideal restorative."

Ferrozone is capable of digesting all classes of food, and contains in a highly concentrated form the elements necessary for strengthening and reconstructing, and nourishing the stomach and other digestive organs. It is a builder of blood, muscle and fat, and makes sickly, weak, disheartened people strong and well. Ferrozone gives you force, energy, vim and spirit and cures every time. Sold by all druggists. Price 50c. per box or three boxes for $1.25. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

TO SUE MR. PRESTON

Canadian Government Holds Him Security for Lost Profit

London, Sept. 24.—Mr. W. T. R. Preston, Emigration Commissioner for Canada, on his return to his official duties here, finds himself the defendant in an action for £1,000 sterling brought against him by the Canadian Employment Bureau, a concern which has its headquarters in the same building as that in which the Canadian emigration offices are located. The origin of the suit is interesting.

Recently there was a strike among the coal miners at Fernie, B.C., and the coal company asked Mr. Preston to get for them in England and Wales skilled men to take the places of the striking miners. Mr. Preston placed the matter in the hands of the Canadian Employment Bureau, which forthwith proceeded to engage a number of men, advancing their passage money and railway fares to enable them to reach Fernie. Many of those men threw up good positions in order to proceed to British Columbia. A large number had reached Liverpool ready to embark for Canada when the coal company at Fernie cabled that the strike was over and asking that the men be not sent forward.

The Canadian Employment Bureau looks for a return of the money advanced and compensation for the work it has done, and has therefore entered suit as stated against Mr. Preston. It is for this reason that his projected trip across Canada with the British Parliamentary party was so suddenly brought to an end.

Mr. Preston, acting as he did as a servant of the Government of Canada, will naturally expect them to assume the responsibility for his actions.

Killed By a Bull

St. Thomas, Sept. 24.—Peter Hemmingway of Corinth was killed by a bull yesterday. While he was attending to some duties in the barn the animal suddenly turned on him, and, although dehorned, it trampled and bruised him. It was only through the heroic efforts of the hired man with a pitchfork that the animal was finally driven from the barn. Mr. Hemmingway lived only a few minutes after being rescued.

KIDNEY-WORT TABLETS

Are Free From Alcohol and Other Injurious Ingredients

THEY POSITIVELY CURE

If you have just discovered the first symptoms of deadly kidney disease, we warn you to shun all liquid kidney preparations for the good reason that they are largely composed of alcohol. Such medicines are poisons to the kidneys and urinary organs and hasten death.

When you are convinced that the symptoms you experience pertain to kidney disease, make immediate use of Dr. Pettingill's Kidney-Wort Tablets; they will free you from danger and suffering. They bring relief and cure when physicians fail. Price 50 cents a bottle or six bottles for $2.50. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

VARICOCELE NERVOUS DEBILITY CURED.

No Names Used Without Written Consent.

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, later excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 14, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommend him from the bottom of my heart."

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500.00, and to the five next nearest $100.00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the lists are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your numbers will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such people an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our Bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $5.00 per day while here, so nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company
FRANKFORD, PHILA., PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty Numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

PUPILS ARE IMMORAL

Women Want Purity Taught in the Public Schools

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24—Mrs. W. J. Allen, ... of the Purity League, in an address to the W.C.T.U today pleaded for a course of morality in the public schools. She thought cigarette pictures had much to do with spreading immorality among the children. Mrs. Martha A. Bauman said that to her knowledge immorality of the most shocking character was prevalent in the public schools. She cited an instance where a 12-year old girl had been subject to gross indecencies.

It was agreed that a direct appeal should be made to the school boards to have the young taught scientifically the truths which they were now left to learn in a way that was debasing.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 29th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 15 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 413 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $500 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

works. The idea seemed to please him, and he soon became filled with plans to travel, seek out the miseries of the unfortunate and to relieve them. In pursuance of this plan, he charged me with the care and education of his son, placed all his property and fortune in my hands subject only to my promise to supply him with such funds as he should ask from time to time; and so he quietly left his home and went I knew not where.

In the cellar of his great house, my brother had built a strong stone vault, and in this was deposited the money and valuables he had not used in buying or improving his property. Of this he gave me the key, telling me to use what I would. But I resolved to touch not a penny, save only to supply his demands, and moreover, to place therein all the profits that accrued from my management of the place—paying only the expenses, and using my own money entirely for every luxury or necessity of my household. After a length of time, my brother returned secretly, supplied himself again with money and left. This he did at various times, never staying over a single night at his home, and saying nothing of his plans or purposes.

There came a period of years in which I did not hear from him. His son had grown to manhood, married, and you were born, my dear Claude, and named by me. My brother returned once again, and looked upon your infant face. He had grown old and feeble, and told me that he had at last found peace in religion, having joined a society of brothers, in a French monastery, where his life was devoted to works of charity and to penitence. He examined carefully into his affairs, and arranged that, in case of his death, a certain portion of his fortune should go into the hands of the brethren of his society. Though I had been reared in the strictest Protestant faith, I could not condemn the life in which my brother found hope and peace, and I agreed to all his wishes.

He went away again; and years passed on. Your father and mother died, my dear Claude, and I was left as your only guardian.

One dark night, at a late hour, as I was sitting in my room, there came a knocking at the door of the house. Old Carl answered the summons, and ushered in a tall, venerable stranger, who desired to see me. At the first glance of his face, I surmised that he came to tell me the fate of my brother. "My brother is dead?" I said to him in an inquiring tone. "Yes," he replied, with a grave, sorrowful mien, "your brother, and our brother, is at rest."

I knew then that this stranger was a brother of the religious society which my brother had joined. I invited him to a seat, and asked him to give me all particulars. He told me of my brother's final hours, and declared that he had died at peace, having for years been one of the most faithful, sacrificing and devout members of his order. He had left, he said, a written testament, with directions that it be brought and delivered to me. He handed me the paper. Opening and reading it, I found it to be in my brother's handwriting, and that it contained his last wishes in regard to his affairs. He gave a short narrative of his long travels and adventures, in which he had particularly sought to trace up the proper heirs to some valuable jewels which he had acquired under circumstances that had always troubled his conscience, and which, consequently, he had never allowed himself to dispose of. In this he was successful, a coat of arms furnishing the clue; and the jewels were restored. His other wealth had come through prize money, but as he said, sometimes acquired in deeds of actual piracy, and he determined, for the full relief of his conscience, to devote a sum to charity equal to the full amount of what he considered he had acquired by violent and unlawful means. The sum fixed on, he wandered far and wide, bestowing charity wherever he had opportunity. In his travels he became acquainted with a Jesuit missionary. An intimacy was formed, and, through the influence of his new-found friend, his thoughts were turned in the direction of religion. He at last determined to join the society to which his friend belonged, and make use of its organization to dispense his charitable sums. He had continued to draw as largely on the contents of the old vault as he thought he could do without crippling the resources he had designed for me; but death was drawing near, and still the sum he had fixed on as cancelling all his ill-gotten gains, was not made good. So, trembling on the brink of the grave, he abjured me to allow a certain sum each year for a certain number of years to the use of the brethren of a certain monastery in France, that it might be applied by them to the charities to which he wished it devoted. He knew, he said, that I would grant this request, and he could die in peace. And with a blessing for me and his little grandchild, the paper came to an end.

I then had a long conversation with the strange visitor in regard to my brother's last wishes. He impressed me as being a devout and good man whom I could trust. I informed him of the course I had pursued in regard to my brother's property, and that I never touched and knew not the amount of his treasure in the old vault. I told him, that, as the companion and friend of my brother, and knowing his wishes, I would give him a key to the vault, leaving him to supply himself with such money as he desired to take. In answer, he said he could honestly take only so much for each year, and would take no more. We finally arranged that he should have a key to the vault, coming when he chose, entering the house by a secret entrance and taking such money as he desired from the vault. So he quietly came and went yearly. I desired that he should enjoy the hospitalities of my house on his visits, but he would not, and asked only that a dark basement room, that connected with the cellar containing the vault, be furnished with a desk, pallet and chair, candles, and a little food, so that he might occupy it when he came, to the disturbance of nobody.

At last, dear Claude, as I felt myself growing feebler with age, I sought to make such arrangements as would leave my property unencumbered by any conditions in your hands. I waited till the stranger priest came again, and besought him to take at once all that he deemed proper to fulfill my brother's dying wishes. He declined, as he said that it was only allowable according to my brother's wishes to take so much each year. I spoke of the probabilities of sudden death overtaking me at my advanced age, and the chance that it would place obstacles in the way of the payment of the annual tribute according to my brother's wishes. He then said he would go and consult with the superior officers of his society on the subject. On inquiry, I found that the amount remaining to be paid was equal to the sum of five annual payments. So, to provide against all contingencies, and to avoid any legal and formal disposition of the matter (which I shrank from, as it would only add to popular gossip about matters incapable of public explanation), I arranged with him to leave the old vault protected against intrusion for five years after my death, should it occur ere he came again. This would allow of my brother's last wishes being fully carried out. At the same time, if he agreed with the brethren of his society to take the full amount of the money at one visit, he was to place a visible and lasting mark, in the shape of a small white cross, in each corner of the old vault, as a sign that his visits were ended, and that the arrangements to gratify my brother's last wishes were fully completed.

How to Wear the "Mitten."

What course a man should pursue when his offer of marriage has been rejected entirely depends upon circumstances. In the first place if he is perfectly certain that she is the one and only woman in the world for him, he must weigh her rejection very carefully, and find out for himself whether or not her "No" may not mean "Yes" after all. Many rejected suitors, forgetting that a woman's negative is only an affirmative under another name, have taken their answer as final and departed, vowing perpetual celibacy or seeking for some other young lady to propose to.

On the other hand, a man may entirely spoil any future chances of success which he might have had by trying his fate again on the supposition that she did not mean what she said. If he had given her time she might have realized what she was throwing so lightly away, and have eventually reconsidered her decision.

Some men fail to grasp the sense of rejection at all, and by sheer persistency they win in the long run. There is good reason to doubt whether this class of man will be the happiest after marriage. It is not love that has induced the acceptance, but only the desire to be free from an annoyance that had become wearisome.

It used to be the fashion for a man to blow his brains out when his proposal met with a rejection, but that went out with powder and patches. The modern lover, as a rule, walks away, and ends by marrying someone else, forgetting all about his first love.

Perhaps this may be the better plan, for if his proposal has been made in the heat of the moment a calm reflection which comes with rejection shows him how much more miserable he would have been in the future if her "No" had been "Yes" instead.

But a man who is really in love will do well to propose once more after a rejection. A woman very often does not realize the value of love till she has lost it. And if she sees that the man she has rejected seems able to exist without her she may fall in love with him from sheer perversity.

There are plenty of ideal marriages to be seen on all sides which have begun with "No" and ended with "Yes." And both the husband and wife will not fail to tell you that they are very glad it all ended as it did.

But this was only in cases where the man was perfectly certain that she was the one woman in the whole world for him, and that without her life would not have been worth living; and that he ignored her "No" because he was so certain of this.

If he was not sure of this he had better have taken her "No" as final, and rejoiced all the days of his life that she said it.

FIGHT WITH A DEVIL FISH

Campers Have a Thrilling Experience off Vancouver Island

Tacoma, Wash. Sept. 25—Off Vancouver Island yesterday a monster devil fish attacked a boat load of campers who were compelled to fight for their lives. About a mile from the shore John Dickson saw the devil fish, which he proceeded to spear, striking it between the eyes. The devil fish darted upwards and quickly threw its tentacles over the gunwale and endeavored to strike the occupants of the boat with its third tentacle.

As the boat pulled for the shore it passed over a bed of kelp, which gave the octopus an opportunity to overturn the boat unless its occupants could quickly escape and reach shore. Reaching shallow water, three men jumped out and with spears clubbed the octopus until it withdrew. The devil fish was hauled up and found to measure sixteen feet from tip to tip and weighed 200 pounds.

Negro Lynchers

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 24—Information reached here this morning from Luxora, Arkansas, that negroes last night overpowered the sheriff at that place, took out a negro named Hellem, and hanged him to a water tank, where his body was left hanging until this morning. Hellem was charged with criminally assaulting two little negro girls, aged 5 and 10.

ANOTHER ROCK SLIDE

Rocks Fell on Opposite Side of the Mountain From Frank

Passing Train Drew Back with All Speed when Noise of Falling Rock was Heard

Nelson, B.C., Sept. 24.—Passengers who came through on the Crow's Nest line yesterday state that the roar of the landslide near Frank, when the train drew near was appalling. For a time it was thought that the slide was in the course of the original one, and the train was backed as rapidly as possible. Later it was found that the slide was on the opposite side of the mountain from Frank, but the noise was so deafening that no chances were taken, and a wait of over an hour ensued four miles east of the town. Two despatches received yesterday from Frank state that no slide occurred at that town, but gave no particular indication what had happened on the other side of the mountain.

THE SECRETARY LEAPED BEFORE HE LOOKED

Member Accuses Mr Chamberlain of Formulating Scheme in the Dark

London, Sept. 24.—Alexander W. Black, Liberal member of Parliament for Banffshire, made public last night an interesting series of letters which passed between himself and Mr. Chamberlain, in which Mr. Black maintains that the former Colonial Secretary launched his fiscal scheme while ignorant of Canada's attitude.

In the first letter, dated September 7, Mr. Black points out that Mr. Chamberlain, replying to a question from the writer in the House of Commons, July 22, stated that the Canadian Government had had no direct correspondence with Germany concerning the tariff arrangements, and that the Canadian Government could only communicate with Germany through his Majesty's Government. The subsequent publication of the tariff correspondence showed that official correspondence had passed between the Canadian Premier and Mr. Bopp, German Consul at Montreal, in which the Canadian policy toward Germany was clearly defined. Mr. Black asked the Colonial Secretary to reconcile his reply with the facts shown in the correspondence.

KEEP HIM INFORMED.

Replying, Mr. Chamberlain said he was unaware of the correspondence, as the Canadian Government had not kept him informed of any unofficial negotiations they might conduct, and that he had caused a communication to be addressed to the Dominion Government requesting them in future to keep him informed on any unofficial negotiations into which they might enter.

Mr. Black, replying to this letter, pointed out that Mr. Chamberlain makes the damaging admission that he announced his preferential tariff scheme without having knowledge of the correspondence which showed that Canada intended to negotiate directly with Germany, and was prepared to give Germany the same preferential treatment as the Mother Country. Mr. Black said that Mr. Chamberlain must see that the reciprocity part of his fiscal scheme cannot stand without the colonies surrendering their fiscal independence.

Mr. Chamberlain replied that the present correspondence was revelant to the fiscal controversy. He had not heard of any intention of Canada to deal with the situation by direct tariff negotiations, nor had he any information whatever to confirm the unauthorised inference drawn from the correspondence referred to that Canada would be willing under any circumstances to give Germany the same treatment as the Mother Country.

The Standard to-day says the ignorance of the Colonial Office as to the relations between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Herr Bopp is far from satisfactory.

STRIKE IN FLOUR MILLS

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 24—Certainty of a general strike in the Minneapolis flour mills to-morrow was established today, when the millers issued a statement severely criticizing the labor leaders for making unjust and unreasonable demands, and expressing the determination of the millers to close their mills rather than grant an eight-hour day and a ten hour wage scale, demanded by the employes. The formal refusal of the millers to accede to the demands of these men and the formal declaration of John M. Finley, president and organizer of the International Union of Flour and Cereal Mill Employes, that his union will strike, leave little doubt that all the flour mills in Minneapolis will be shut down to-morrow.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000,
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, ... $1.00

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to-day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD——$80,000,000——GOLD

—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 600 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work, and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 750,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 25 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is the unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp milling which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $8 to $64.00 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 25—There was a good demand for stock throughout the list today and shorts are believed to have covered on an extensive scale; however, it is figured that there is still a big short interest in some portion of the list. The news generally was given a more favorable reception. The London market was steadier and the private cables were more hopeful. The foreign orders generally went to the buying side, and it was stated that certain longs were manipulating the market through London. The monetary situation was favorably interpreted and there were more favorable comments regarding the probable showing of the bank statement to-morrow. At the latter prices many tired longs were inclined to take profits, but long stocks coming out were fairly well taken. The steel stocks made new low records but the general action of the stocks indicated that certain interests were depressing the prices in order to uncover stop loss orders. The crop news was much better and matters were reported to be shaping to increase the likelihood for gold imports from Europe. The late market was nervous in consequence of the conflicting advices current with regard to certain industrials. The steel stocks were closely watched and their weakness at times served to show the chances for improvement in the general market.

The stock market developed a great deal of weakness yesterday in some of the inactive specialties. New low records were made and this development added to the business of many outside holders. It is rather difficult to explain the present state of the market. All theories to account for the peculiar state of the speculation have been disproven and the market continues to move in sluggish fashion despite the prevalency of many favorable factors. The action of the treasury department such as was announced Wednesday would in ordinary times be the basis for a big bull movement. Railroad earnings such as are being reported at the present time would in other days be the source of a good upward movement in price; favorable business reports and good crop outlook would under circumstances different from those prevalent now be the object of a great deal of bullish comment. Shrewd traders are scalping the market and in their peculiar way they have been able to make several very satisfactory turns during the past few days.

Chicago, Sept. 25—Heavy selling pressure was noted in the grain markets yesterday and weakness prevails throughout the session. The feeling this morning in wheat is rather uncertain and there is some rooom for further liquidation. The short interest, however, has been increased and is now of liberal proportions, but in view of the declining tendency of late the bears seem to have advantage of the pit at the moment. The cash trade seems less active and since a number of the mills have shut down indefinitely there is some talk of curtailed consumption. Talk of this kind just at the moment is rather far fetched. The crop situation is more favorable and the export movement is less extensive than was promised early in the week.

KING AS CABINET-MAKER

His Majesty Demands a Government Competent to Deal with Scandal

London, Sept. 24.—The King is exercising his prerogatives to an extent unheard of in the Victorian era. His Majesty is said to oppose the formation of a new Cabinet until thoroughly satisfied with its personnel. Premier Balfour's continued presence at Balmoral lends color to this impression.

In such a degree is King Edward holding his power of veto in reserve that now he is almost regarded by the inner circles as more the Cabinet maker than Mr. Balfour himself. With his usual tact, the King has expressed his genuine desire, amounting almost to a command, that steps be taken to remedy the scandals in the army administration revealed by the report of the South African War Commission, and insisting that the new Cabinet shall be one adapted to deal with the question.

REVOLUTION IN RUSSIA

Peasants in Kieff Province Imbibing New Ideas

London, Sept. 25—A Russian correspondent of The Times says an official report states that secret agitators in Kieff province have caused disturbances among the peasantry, who have become insubordinate, struck work, and committed incendiarism, burning houses and buildings, and in some cases forests and live stock. Some Saratoff Government peasants who had been found with revolutionary literature in their possession, were tried for arson and acquitted, and were detained in prison illegally. A vigorous revolutionary agitation is being carried on among the Tula peasants, who discuss the new doctrine and form revolutionary groups.

Feet and Nose Betray The Character.

The human character betrays itself on every hand and every foot, and even on the human nose, if the observer only knows where to look and how to apply his observations.

Phrenology and palmistry are well known, but the art of pedomancy is the latest means of ascertaining the true character of the individual.

Domestic comfort is denoted by having "the second toe humped above the rest, at the same time escaping a corn." On the other hand, or foot, small feet cramped by small shoes mark their owner as possessing "vanity and great courage." A short, thick, stubby foot with rather large ankle shows "not so much executive ability as dogged perseverance."

Beware of the man whose ankles turn in; "he is generally mean and selfish," and "women who stand on one foot are full of ideas and originality." This ducklike attitude is certainly unusual. People who cross the feet or stand on one side of the foot are irritable, eccentric, talented and uncertain. An addendum is the declaration that mentality is marked on the heel. A network of small lines denotes great versatility and skill in art and literature, while a smooth surface of heel is a sure sign of a placid, non-working brain.

The long second toe means a masterful mind and is a clear indication that the owner of the long second toe is the ruler of the domestic household. Short, stubby toes indicate two things: First, that the owner went shoeless when young, and, secondly, a great firmness of character.

A high instep shows a nervous person, easily excited and as easily tired. A low flat instep marks the man who gathers together the money and holds it.

Widespread feet indicate in a man a disposition to stop and consider before he acts, while a swinging foot that looks as if it was about to hook into its mate shows irresolution and lack of determination.

In a woman a long, narrow foot always shows high breeding, and a small foot does not always appear desirable, as the exceedingly small ones mean a weak and submissive character.

Nosography is more. It hails from Austria, where much research has been devoted to the study of noses as an indication of character. A small nose indicates lack of moral vigor, a flat nose lowness of intellect, a pug nose indolency, a drooping nose dullness, while the Roman beak proclaims strength of will, and the Grecian proboscis goes with a refined character.

These are merely the rudiments of nosography; there are subtler signs, such as a thin bridge (shrewdness), two lateral prominences (literary skill), wrinkles on either side (wealth), and large nostrils (courage). It is disconcerting that a man's character should be thus writ in his nose that all who join the Nosographological Institute may read. Can a man conceal his nose? When a bulbous-nosed individual sees a fellow-passenger in the street car eyeing his prominent purpled organ, it is useless to attribute it to indigestion; the nose spells, as plainly as if it spoke, "Black List," to the observant stranger.

Finger-nails are also signs. Broad finger-nails denote timidity and gentleness; ambition and pugnacity are told by narrow nails. A short-nailed woman "will criticize her friends and foes, but she will also criticise herself with the same severity. The best dramatic and literary critics possess this nail." Ingrowing nails denote luxurious tastes. This illuminating clew to character should be written in every man's hat as a spur to economy. Before leaving the hands the manner of their clasping must be set forth. A frivolous woman interlocks her hands with the first finger between her left thumb and first finger. People who place two fingers of one hand between the thumb and fingers of the other are deceitful and not to be trusted.

The greatest difficulty which professors of the science of teeth reading have to encounter is the increasing resort to the dentist for artificial molars. Otherwise long and narrow teeth may be believed to denote vanity and projecting teeth avarice. When teeth overlap inconstancy is to be expected, and small white molars bespeak a treacherous nature.—Chicago "Tribune."

The Ten Greatest Men.

A German newspaper has recently propounded to its readers the question, Who are the ten greatest men alive today? An examination of the replies received makes interesting reading. Five hundred and two readers voted for Tolstoi; the German historian Mommsen was a close second with 496; Marconi followed with 445; Ibsen received 425; Edison, 388; Nansen, 270; Roentgen, 264; Menzel, the German painter, 248; Koch, the bacteriologist, 228; while the Kaiser ignominiously brought up the rear with only 202. It is well to note that of these ten candidates six are German; such insignificant personages as Herbert Spencer, George Meredith and Thomas Hardy were not even mentioned. Among those who received over 100 votes were Chamberlain, the Russian novelist Gorky, Hauptmann, the dramatist, and Max Klinger, the German artist.

There are Others.

Mifkins—You have used the word "donkey" several times in the last ten minutes. Am I to understand that you mean anything of a personal nature?

Bifkins—Certainly not. There are lots of donkeys in the world besides you.—Chicago "News."

Some Family History.

She had fifteen million dollars,
Placed in bonds, and shares, and rents;
He had fifteen million dollars,
So they merged their sentiments.
Now they've raised a son, who's valued
At exactly thirty cents.
—Chicago "Tribune."

Miss Nexdor—This is a pretty time of night for that Dasher girl to be playing the piano. Miss Also—Oh, she's no respecter of time. You can tell that from the way she's playing.—Baltimore "American."

Ethel—I saw sister sitting on your lap last night and told mother. Young Man—What in the world did you do that for? Ethel—She told me to let her know when there was any good news.—"Life."

Statistics show that only one man out of every 1,000,000,000 dies from overwork, yet every man feels sure he is going to be it.—Atlanta "Journal."

—Have a look at the very latest in wrist and hand bags, also an endless variety of handsome purses. Money saved by buying at Times Bookstore, Market Block.

A Dangerous Disease

Owing to its tendency to spread to all parts of the system, Catarrh should be checked in its incipient stages

Catarrh commences generally with a slight cold, and because slight, it is often neglected. But the seed that has been sown brings forth a dangerous harvest,—perhaps it is the harvest of consumption, which is the harvest of death.

Better spend a few moments each day inhaling Catarrhozone, an aromatic, antiseptic remedy that is breathed in through the mouth, and, after permeating all the respiratory organs, is slowly exhaled through the nostrils.

The immediate effect of Catarrhozone is magical—so prompt and efficient. Relief is instantaneous, throat and nose cleared in a few moments by the penetrating vapor from the Inhaler. Ferrozone, taken in conjunction with Catarrhozone, purifies the blood, cleanses it of all poisons, and builds up the system so that Catarrh cannot exist.

You are sure to receive lasting benefit from Catarrhozone if bothered by Catarrh in any part of the system. It is highly recommended for Bronchitis, Asthma, and Lung Trouble, and used for Coughs and Colds in the head it has no equal.

Remember that Catarrhozone is both a local and constitutional treatment, and is warranted under all circumstances to give satisfaction. Money refunded if it fails.

Norwood Fall Show

The annual exhibition of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society will take place in Norwood on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 13th and 14th. The show this year promises to be better than ever.

Wanted

For two in family, two or three furnished rooms for light house keeping. Willing to pay well for accommodation. Location between Hunter street and Canadian General Electric Works. Leave address at this office.

Lady's Coat Lost

Lost on Wednesday on the way to the fair grounds, a lady's black cloth coat trimmed with applique, Russian style. The coat was picked up by a man who is known, and who is requested to kindly leave it at the Police Station.

The Price of Bread

Hastings Star: "One of our local bakers is selling bread at nine cents per loaf." In Peterborough the bread is 25 per cent. dearer. There must be enormous profits in bread, or the bakers in all other places are merely working for the good of their health.

A Big Bass

Hastings Star: Mr. Henry Johnson of this village claims the honor of having caught the largest bass ever been taken in the waters of the Trent River. While fishing on the 4th inst. at the foot of Rice Lake he made the lucky catch. The fish measured 22 inches in length, 16 1-2 inches in circumference and weighed six pounds and two ounces.

Hunting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting Deer, Moose, Reindeer, Caribou, etc., in the "Highlands of Ontario," and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

The 57th Band to Norwood

The Register says: The Rink Company have made arrangements with the 57th Regiment Band of Peterborough to give a grand concert in the palace rink on the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 14th (second day of fair). This band, which is one of the best in the province, is under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon through whose efforts the organization has attained such widespread fame. This, we doubt, will be the musical treat of the season.

Electrically Lighted

Havelock Standard: "Work on the Havelock Electric Light and Power Company's plant, at Burnt Dam, commenced on Monday, and now a gang of men under the supervision of Manager Wm. Mathison, is busily engaged in erecting a flume 240 feet in length and 7 feet in diameter. This large 250 h.p. water wheel will be placed in position in the course of two weeks as will also a 150 k.w. dynamo. Mr. Mathison assures us that the plant will be completed and running by the middle of October."

The Late Mrs. Garlick

On Wednesday night the demise of Mrs. George Garlick, of South Monaghan occurred. Deceased had been in good health on Wednesday evening. She was found dead in bed in the morning. Heart failure caused her demise. The late Mrs. Garlick was born in England, and has lived in Canada for the last forty-five years of her life. Her husband predeceased her by over seven years, and seven children are left to mourn her demise; they are: Mrs. William Douglas, Warsaw; Mrs. Jas. Hesford, North Monaghan; Mrs. Lapworth; Mrs. L. Garlick, Germantown, Philadelphia; Mrs. F. Barrett, Rochester; Mrs. Robson, Gananoque, and Mr. Geo. Garlick, North Monaghan. Two sisters and one brother of the deceased are living in the Old Country, while one brother, Mr. John Clemens, Warsaw, and one sister, Mrs. [illegible], of Dummer, also survive her. The funeral will take place from her late place of residence, lot 12, concession 12, North Monaghan, tomorrow afternoon, and proceed to Warsaw cemetery.

The House Famine

The house famine in Peterborough is worse than ever. But for the present scarcity of houses for rent, the town's population would grow much more rapidly, for strangers are coming into town and bothering real estate men for residences every day, but always with the same result,—"Nothing doing." It is practically impossible to rent a house in town now, and landlords have in several cases taken advantage of the situation to raise rates. The town shows every evidence of growth, and with the increase of manufacturing industries, and the corresponding increase in the number of men employed here, comes also the necessity of more houses in town for mechanics and workingmen generally. A large number of houses have been built this summer, and quite a few are in the course of construction, but the majority of them are large houses, which rent at about $20, a price too high for the average workingman. What is needed now is for some capitalist to build a large number of houses to rent at from $10 to $15, and they will hardly be built before they will be filled with eager tenants.

A PRETTY STORY

A Traveler Who Never Forgets His Babies at Home

There are men who would think several times before spending money for the purpose of getting a chance to say good night to the little ones at home. Mr. Charles Matthews, a traveller, who resides in Toronto, is not one of these, however, and if he is in a country that has telephone connection with Toronto, he never fails to say good night to his youngsters.

"Do you know," Mr. Matthews said to The Times yesterday, "if I did not say good night to the babies I think that they would organize a searching party and start to look for me. It makes no difference where I am, I always talk with them at night if I am within long distance telephone range of them.

"Of course it usually costs but twenty-five or fifty cents, but a short time ago I was in Montreal and it costs me a few cents short of $3 to speak to them. And," he concluded, "it was worth the money."

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

Newsy Paragraphs Picked Up by Reporters on Their Round

—The municipal elections will soon be looming up.

—Quite a number went up yesterday to the Lindsay fair.

—So far this season nobody has been shot for a bear or deer.

—The price of coal still remains at $7.50, with a prospect of being $8 when the good cold weather sets in.

—At the police court yesterday morning, Alfred Cooney was charged with non support of his family and refusal to work. He was remanded for a week.

—Pastor McKinnon, of the Gilmour Memorial, changes pulpits with the Rev. A. H. Brace, of the Park street Baptist church, tomorrow, at both morning and evening services.

—The pastor's bible class of the Park street Baptist church were entertained by the Misses Booth on Thursday. A most enjoyable evening was spent by the young people.

—Hastings Star: Sixty-one tickets were sold at the G.T.R. station here on Wednesday morning for Peterborough. A number from here also went by C.P.R. The Coldstream Guards' Band which played in Peterborough last night was the attraction.

—A cow belonging to Mr. F. F. Armstrong, of Douro, met death in a very unusual manner one day last week. The cow was found dead with the hoof of one of its hind legs securely fastened to one of its horns. It is likely that the flies were troubling the animal and in trying to knock them off, its hoof became fastened in the above manner and it was unable to unfasten it. The cow must have struggled hard to release itself from its dangerous position, as its neck was broken when found.

PERSONAL MENTION

Movements of the People—What They are Doing and Saying

—Mrs. W. F. Trude, of Lakefield, is visiting friends in town.

—Mr. E. J. Toker has returned from a three weeks' holiday.

—Mrs. M. B. Wilbur, of Buffalo, N.Y., is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. Coughlin, Gilmor street.

—The Rev. Canon Sweeney, Rector of St. Philip's church, Toronto, is the guest of Rev. E. A. Langfeldt.

—Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Osborne, of Cannington, were visiting Mrs. Robt. Wright, of Albert street, during the fair.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brooks, of Round Lake, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoon, Edinburgh street.

—The Rev. R. C. Tibb, B.A., of Knox College, Toronto, was in town yesterday making arrangements for the proposed visit of the British delegation to the annual meeting of the local branch Bible Society, Tuesday, October 6th, in St. Paul's church.

—A wedding occurred in Belleville Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Jas. Gailey, William street, when her daughter, Miss Florence Maud, was married to the Rev. S. C. Moore, B.A., B.D., of Canton, Ont. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. M. Pope, of Rednersville.

ECHOES OF THE FAIR

Bros., two; Wm. McKnight, two, L. F. Staples, two.

No Cotswolds were shown.

Berkshires—R. Vance & Son were the only exhibitors. They had three boars and two sows of varying ages.

Tamworths—Boar one year and over, W. H. Staples, F. O. Sargent; boar six months and under twelve, F. O. Sargent, also two boars and two sows of varying ages, C. H. Curtis, and W. H. Staples, one year sows, F. O. Sargeant, C. H. Curtis, W. H. Staples, exhibited sows of under six months.

Yorkshires—Boar, one year and over, Richard Honey; boar six months and under twelve, Richard Honey; under six months, C. H. Curtis, Richard Honey; sow one year and over, Richard Honey; six months and under twelve, C. H. Curtis; under six months, Richard Honey, two; Wm. Stewart, best pen of four bacon hogs, Wm. Stewart.

POULTRY.

The exhibitors in poultry who were not numerous but who cooped a very fine show of birds were, W. Stewart & Son; Harold Wallis, Hugh Wallis, F. O. Sarge, C. H. Curtis, Gordon Cumming, R. Tivey, Charlie Dean, Wm Howland, Jas. Bapsie, James E. Fowler, and John Howland.

THE BEST STOVE CO. EXHIBIT.

A fall fair should show fall and winter things, and in line with this thought is the exhibit of stoves and ranges made by the Best Stove Company of Peterborough. The exhibit is a very fine one indeed and shows most effectively the excellent class of manufacture and the extent of stock. It would seem to settle most decidedly that vexed question as to what range or stove to buy, for there is the practical demonstration going on, showing the capacity and baking qualities of the ranges. The test made is a pretty thorough one and should be satisfactory as it was convincing. All details of the operation of baking were explained, the regulation of the heat, of the dampers, the grates, etc., and the resultant edibles were appetizing and inviting.

The "Happy Thought" range is a household word all over Canada. No stove for culinary purposes is more in general use. It is made in a variety of sizes and fittings and adapted for households of a limited number or for the important home or boarding house. These ranges are made by the William Buck Company of Brantford, makers of the celebrated "Radiant Home" heaters, whose genial warmth radiates for all. Those who have the "Radiant Home" in their households may rest assured that the "Happy Thought" ranges reproduce the admirable qualities that have made the "Radiant Home" so generally esteemed. Included in recent improvements added to these ranges are the following: The transparent oven door, by means of which the cooking process can be watched without opening the door; the hot water reservoirs; the water fronts, etc. A recently patented corrugated oven is another strong feature which has many advantages, such as precluding all danger of warping or cracking of the oven plates and affording additional radiating surface. The company gave away hundreds of useful fans during the fair, advertising their goods, on the backs of which was the practical injunction: "Start married life with a 'Happy Thought' range, and everything will go smoothly."

THE RACES.

The first event on Thursday afternoon was a one mile bicycle race in which there were two entries, H. Young and Akey. The latter won out quite handily.

There were two entries in the open pace or trot which was a very interesting event. It looked as though Sphinx B. would win the third heat, but after gaining a fine lead the horse broke, and lost too much ground to recover, although the finish was very close. The summary:

Hal Forest, Forsythe, Stouffville	111
Sphinx B., G. Powell, Peterboro	222

Time—2.17 3-4, 2.17, 2.20.

The 3-4 mile running race provided two close heats, the second heat being especially exciting for first place. The local horse was distanced in this heat. The summary:

Tholan	1 1
Sarach	2 2
Cleatham	3 3

Time—1.22 1-4, 1.24.

The one half mile special race which replaced the one mile running race on the card, there were three races and a fine struggle for first place resulted between Red Pat and Rob Roy. In the two first heats Rob Roy won by about a length. In the third the two horses were neck and neck at the quarter, when Red Pat broke badly and was passed by Black Boy, who finished second. The summary was:

Rob Roy, Forsythe, Stouffville	111
Red Pat, G. Powell, Peterboro	223
Black Boy, J. Brooks, Peterboro	332

Time—1.12, 1.09, 1.08.

The two mile bicycle race was a tame affair, Young winning out by about seventy-five yards after a fine burst of speed on the last quarter. Ackey was the other entry.

The 200 yards men's foot race resulted in a fairly easy victory for Belland, with Layborn second, and Crowley third. The time was nineteen seconds, but the course was short.

The starter was Jas. Noble, of Toronto, while Fred Peak, of Campbellford, J. Munroe and Patterson, of town, were timekeepers.

The boys under fifteen years 200 yard race was won by W. Elliott, with G. Houston second. Time 24 seconds.

There was two entries in the 100 yards race for girls under fifteen years which was won by I. Spillsbury with O. Kenneally second. Time 18 seconds.

The last event on the card was the Schneider Cup contest, best two in three heats, 100 yards each. Belland won in straight heats quite easily, with Layborn second and Crowley third.

ONE LUNG

May be gone and yet the remaining lung will be amply sufficient to sustain a vigorous vitality. As a general thing few people make more use of both lungs than is equivalent to a healthy use of one lung.

These facts are all in the favor of the man or woman with weak lungs, even when disease has a strong grip on them.

Many a person living in health to-day has the lungs marked by the healed scars of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes weak lungs strong. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding lungs and other conditions, which, if neglected or unskilfully treated, find a fatal termination in consumption.

"I had been troubled with lung disease and pleurisy for a number of years and the trouble had almost become chronic," writes A. S. Ham, of Howe, Ia. "Had several kinds of medicine from different physicians without much benefit. At last wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce and got his advice, and began using his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have used twenty-five bottles. When I commenced taking it I had no appetite, my system was completely run-down, had no ambition to do anything. Now I feel better than I did before I got sick. Have a good appetite and am able to do my work. I sincerely recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to all who are afflicted as I was."

Those who suffer from chronic diseases are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

SUFFERED 25 YEARS

Congressman Botkin, of Winfield, Kan.

In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, Congressman Botkin says:

"My Dear Doctor—It gives me pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of your medicines—Peruna and Manalin. I have been afflicted more or less for a quarter of a century with catarrh of the stomach and constipation. A residence in Washington has increased these troubles. A few bottles of your medicine have given me almost complete relief, and I am sure that a continuation of them will effect a permanent cure."—J. D. Botkin.

Mr. L. F. Verdery, a prominent real estate agent, of Augusta, Ga., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from catarrhal dyspepsia. I tried many physicians, visited a good many springs, but I believe Peruna has done more for me than all of the above put together. I feel like a new person."—L. F. Verdery.

The most common form of summer catarrh is catarrh of the stomach. This is generally known as dyspepsia. Peruna cures these cases like magic.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

VOL 31 NO. 225 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO MONDAY SEPTEMBER 28 1903. PRICE TWO CENTS

THE ONTARIO WILL SEE THAT THE SOO WORKMEN ARE PAID

The Subsidy of Six Hundred Thousand Acres of Land to the Algoma Central Railway Will Be Held

The Company Will Resist Efforts of Speyer to Secure Possession

Toronto, Sept. 26.—The Ontario Government has taken action in the Soo matter to protect the unpaid workmen. Last night Premier Ross handed out the following statement:

"The Ontario Government has received, through Mr. C. N. Smith, of Sault Ste. Marie, a memorial from the workingmen engaged in the various works in the Lake Superior Consolidated Company, asking such protection as the Government could afford in the event of their wages not being forthcoming on the 28th inst.

"It has been the practice of the Ontario Government, where railway subsidies have been granted, to withhold such subsidies until the workingmen, and all others who supplied the material for the construction of the railway, were paid. This rule was enforced last year in connection with the Canada Central Railway, and some years previously in connection with a short railway running through the County of Prescott.

"In the Algoma Central Act an appropriation of 7,400 acres per mile has been made for the construction of the railway, but the final disposition of the land grant was dependent upon the carrying out by the syndicate of various other works, such as the erection of smelters, pulp works, and shipping facilities between Sault Ste. Marie and the chief ports on Lake Huron. About 80 miles of the Algoma Central Railway have been completed, and the syndicate therefore would be entitled to about 600,000 acres of land, providing the conditions of the land grant were fulfilled.

"Following out the policy of the Government with regard to other appropriations, the decision has been arrived at that the land grant should be withheld until the wages due and payable to the workingmen in all the enterprises associated with the railway are paid. Instructions have been issued by the Government to communicate with the Workingmen's Committee at the Sault to this effect."

SITUATION AT THE SOO

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 26.—The town is still quiet, despite the arrival of 300 men from the woods, the first contingent of the company's men in the pulp, veneer, and charcoal log camps up the Algoma Central. These men arrived last night. The company immediately provided them with coffee and bread and shelter in the railway sheds. The men grumbled a lot at their inability to secure their money, but Mayor Plummer called a mass meeting of the unemployed in Barnes Hall, where he told them that they must look the matter fairly in the face and that they would not be paid for a month or more. He advised them to leave their checks with some one for collection and to accept outside employment. He offered bread and breakfast for any man in straitened circumstances. About 150 men accepted the Mayor's offer and were distributed throughout the boarding-house district.

SAVING THE SITUATION.

That there would be trouble but for the fact that work is plentiful at good wages is admitted by municipal and company officials. This saves the scene from becoming one of riot and possibly bloodshed, for there is no doubt about it that the men from the woods and mines are of the temperament easily aroused to extreme measures. The miners who arrived Thursday have nearly all left town with labor agents, and today the labor agents of lumber camps are busy sorting over the men who came in yesterday.

A number of miners, chiefly Scandinavians, cashed checks for back pay at the Imperial Bank yesterday, and some two thousand dollars were paid out. These orders have been saved up by the men for nest eggs, and they went back as far as March and April. Of course no checks for the current months were honored.

The Grace gold mine's final clean up was brought down yesterday. It represented about ten days' run of the mill, and the brick was valued at $2,000.

At the time of the company's suspension various contracts, amounting to $300,000, were canceled, and nothing has gone out since, except that yesterday a large quantity of wood alcohol was shipped to fill a British Government order. There are said to be about 100 car loads of pulp stored away ready to ship, but although urgently required it has not been allowed to go out.

Strictly cash is now the rule for all business transactions by the merchants at the Sault.

MR. BICKNELL ARRIVES.

The most important step in connection with the affairs of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company since the closing down of the works was taken yesterday afternoon, when Mr. James Bicknell, of Toronto, of the law firm of Laidlaw, Kappele & Bicknell, the Canadian solicitors for Speyer & Co., the New York bankers, who hold the five million dollar mortgage against the company's properties, arrived. Today it is expected that Mr. Bicknell will formally demand possession of the properties on behalf of Speyer & Co.

In the event of the property falling into the hands of Speyer & Co., the question of operating all or some of the big plants will be considered, but nothing definite as to what may or may not be done can be gleaned until the arrival of Mr. Frackenthal, the receiver appointed on behalf of Speyer & Co., probably next Friday. But the first matter to be settled, whether by Speyer & Co. or the Consolidated directors, is the payment of the wages due the men. In any event, the whole matter is likely to be disposed of within a week or ten days.

Possession of the property will not be given to Speyer & Co.'s bailiffs without a fight if the order of Mr. Coyne, issued yesterday, is carried out. He told the superintendents of the various buildings to keep all the doors locked and guarded, and if a Speyer bailiff demanded admittance to refuse him entrance and maintain his post until he was overpowered and put out of the building.

FURNESS IN IT !

The latest capitalists whom rumor has added to the list of those who are to back Mr. F. H. Clergue in his efforts to refinance the Soo Company is Sir Christopher Furness, the great English ironmaster and shipbuilder, and head of the firm of Furness, Witting & Co. Several months before the Speyer loan was arranged Sir Christopher invested $2,000,000 in the Soo properties, and it is said that his representatives will be on hand to bid for the property when it is put up by Speyer & Co.

CZAR ATTENDS WEDDING

Reception at Darmstadt, Germany, Was Very Simple

Berlin, Sept. 28.—The czar and czarina arrived at Darmstadt Saturday. Their reception was most simple. A choir of sixty Russian singers for the wedding of Prince Andrew of Greece and Princess Alice of Battenburg has arrived at Darmstadt.

A DARK OUTLOOK

War Between Capital and Labor Becoming Hotter

Malone, Sept. 28.—It has just been learned by officers searching for murderer Dexter that on the night previous to that of the tragedy, the house belonging to Wm. Rockfeller, located near his summer cottage at Bay Pond and occupied by his superintendent, and several patrolmen or police, who guard his preserves, was fired at and one was struck by a bullet from a rifle. The guards formerly slept in cottages located in different parts of the park, but several of these were burned last spring by forest fires and since that time nearly all the guards sleep in a large house occupied by the superintendent. It is not believed that the shooting was an attempt on Rockefeller's life as all the natives thereabout know that Rockefeller never sleeps in that part of the house, but rather as a warning to some of the guards. At the same time it shows the present temper of some of the natives and their feelings towards the owners of immense parks, who rigorously exclude all persons from the lands.

COLONIAL OPINION COUNTS FOR LITTLE

Almost Ignored in Britain's Fiscal Discussion

STRATHCONA RETURNS

High Commissioner Declares Canadians Admire Mr. Chamberlains Chivalry

London, Sept. 26.—The Saturday Review, referring to the colonial messages to Mr. Chamberlain, says that it is not altogether a happy sign that the weight of opinion has been almost wholly disregarded in English discussions of the situation. The same journal says Mr. Black, M.P., in his correspondence regarding the German-Canadian negotiations, talks grandly of the better knowledge of the position of Canada which he brought to Mr. Chamberlain's notice, an impertinence which would have justified Mr. Chamberlain in not answering.

THE C. P. R.'S ADVANTAGES.

London, Sept. 26.—A letter to The Statist says that with all the advantages which the Canadian Pacific enjoys, it should be able to carry Canadian produce to this country at lower freight rates than any competitive route can afford, and secure to the farmers of Canada an exceptional advantage in the British market.

"CANADA'S COMING CRASH."

London, Sept. 26.—The Investors' Review, referring to the failure of the Soo enterprises, says that some of Canada's industries have been reared on such slender foundations that an early collapse seems inevitable.

The Investors' Review has always been notable for its hostility to Canada, and everything Canadian, and has never missed an opportunity of decrying our advantages and endeavoring to prevent our progress.

A DENIAL FROM PETER BALL.

London, Sept. 26.—Mr. Peter Ball, the Canadian Government agent at Birmingham, contradicts in The Birmingham Daily Post, every statement made by Mr. Burgess, of Port Carling, Muskoka, in his letter of yesterday, in which it was stated that in Canada "thousands of people are only getting a living and working harder than men in England."

AUSTRALIA'S FLAG FOR WARSHIPS.

London, Sept. 26.—The Federal Ministry are urging the Admiralty authorities to adopt the Commonwealth flag for the new Australian squadron.

DREAMED THE PRESTON SUIT

Emigration Agent Denies Being Sued for Expenses of Emigrants

London, Sept. 25.—Mr. W. T. R. Preston, superintendent of the Canadian Government Emigration Agency in London, England, is cabling Sir Wilfrid Laurier, denying that there is any truth in the report which was cabled to Canada that he had been sued by an employment bureau for the expenses of miners who were migrating to Canada intending to take the place of the strikers at the coal mines in British Columbia. Mr. Preston says that upon receipt of labor troubles in British Columbia he merely warned the miners against emigrating to that particular district. The correspondent of a Sheffield newspaper says he was much struck with the fairness of mind and the desire to be helpful to emigrants on the part of the agents of the Canadian Government, the Hudson's Bay Company, and the Canadian Pacific, but the private land agents were on the make.

THE VESSELMEN'S STRIKE

Commerce of Great Lakes Threatened with a Tie-Up

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 27.—Developments in the trouble which threatens to bring the commerce of the Great Lakes to a stop, give no indication of an early settlement. The men on the United States Steel Corporation fleet left their boats on the plea that they were sick. Captain Moore, of the Masters and Pilots Association says there will be no opposition to any assistance being offered that corporation by independent vessel owners. The independent vessel men state that if they cannot two the vessels of the steel corporation that they will tie up their own craft.

Captain Moore, of the Association, made the statement last night that the present trouble arose from the violation of a verbal agreement made by the Lake Carriers Association, 28th March last, that none other than members of the association would be employed by its members.

WON'T HEAR BEGG

British Columbia Unofficial Representative Cannot Talk to Commission

London, Sept. 26.—Mr. David T. Watson of Pittsburg, of counsel for the American side, continued at this morning's session of the Alaskan Boundary Commission his analyzation of the treaty of 1825.

Alexander Begg, the unofficial representative of British Columbia, asked the commission to-day to give an answer to his application to be heard, which will be denied. He denounced the action of Great Britain in running a line through Portland Channel instead of North up Clarence Strait, to the 56th degree the effect of which was to leave a large stretch of territory indisputably in American possession.

TREASURE SHIP FOUND

Sunken Vessel Found Off the Florida Coast

Jacksonville, Sept. 28—Rumors of the finding of a treasure-ship off Miami were confirmed today, when Captain Jennings and three of the crew of the wrecking steamer Oreo filed in the United States court here a claim for the cargo of a sunken ship.

With the assistance of a chart in his possession Captain Jennings has been searching for this vessel from time to time for many years. It was supposed to have gone ashore in 1835 loaded with ore from the Mexican mines. It was found in five feet of water near Miami. Its cargo, which has only been partly examined, was found to consist of silver ore.

IMPERIALIST JINGOISM

President Roosevelt Accused of Inciting a Civil War

Berlin, Sept. 26.—According to the Hamburgischer Correspondent, the organ of the Bismarckian party, an American lately arrived in Germany to make preliminary arrangements for a filibustering expedition to Hayti and San Domingo, with the object of provoking a civil war that would give a pretext for armed interference on the part of the United States. The article alleges that the project is in full accord with the Imperialistic jingoism of President Roosevelt, who is accused of directly inspiring it, as a means of popularizing his Presidential candidacy.

MAY UPSET THE AUSTRIAN THRONE

Moove on Foot to Separate the Kingdom

Another War Cloud That May Cauee Trouble

London, Sept. 28—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Berlin telegraphs the sensational statement that there is a possibility of a Kossuthist revolution in Hungary. He says that as a result of the German Emperor's visit to Vienna, Germany has promised to assist Austria with troops should Austria be faced with the necessity of using armed force in Macedonia and simultaneously suppressing a revolution in Hungary.

That the latter is not impossible, continues the correspondent, may be gathered from the fact that General Von Beck, chief of the Austrian staff, submitted a plan of mobilization to Emperor William last week. The idea of placing Prince Eitel Frederick, the second son of the German Emperor, on the Hungarian throne receives no support in Germany.

Storm in Hungarian Diet.

Buda-Pesth, Sept. 28—The session of the diet today was marked by stormy scenes which became so boisterous as to necessitate its suspension. Barabas, a member of the Kossuth party went so far as to say his party no longer believed the statements of Emperor Francis Joseph.

Charges made against Premier Hedervary of complicity in the Szapary bribery scandal started the disturbance and then Frank Kossuth handed in an address to the Emperor, complaining against his majesty's recent army order and the interpretation given to the constitution in yesterday's rescript. When Count Hedervary rose to reply the uproar was so great that he was unable to make his voice heard. The deputies left their seats and crowded upon the floor of the house and the sitting had to be suspended.

"Don't Believe the King."

On the resumption of business Count Hedervary was speaking when he was suddenly interrupted by Barabas, who shouted: "We don't believe the King." Thereupon all the deputies, irrespective of party, arose with shouts of "Rogue!" "Traitor!" "Out with him!"

Barabas tried to apologize, but his colleagues refused to permit it, and a vote of censure on him was carried. The house finally adjourned until the new cabinet is [illegible].

REBELS KILL MANY TURKS IN A FIERCE ENGAGEMENT IN BALKANS

MAY BE CHARLIE ROSS

William Van Hodge Unaware of His Parentage

Washington, Sept. 28—Claude J. Ness, of this city has a letter from William Van Hodge of Galveston, Tex. stating that he has been told by one who knew the Ross family that he looks very much like that family, and Mr. Van Hodge thinks he may be the missing Charlie Ross. He was placed in an orphan asylum in 1874, the year the Ross child disappeared.

Mr. Van Hodge states that he was placed in the asylum in a mysterious manner, and despite diligent inquiry, could never ascertain the names of his relatives nor where he came from. He was told that his name was William Van Hodge, but that was all. He is a well-to-do business man, is married and has a family.

DIVIDING THE SPOIL

Powers Agree That France May Form a Protectorate on Morocco

London, Sept. 28.—The reported intention of France to establish a protectorate over Morocco is re-asserted today. The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail claims that he is able to confirm the story on unimpeachable authority. A strip of land along the coast will be declared neutral, thus avoiding the possibility of any international complications over fortified ports.

The powers have arranged that France is to have a free hand in Morocco; Italy to have Tripoli; the British protectorate over Egypt is to be recognized and strengthened; Spain will receive some concessions from France, while Germany will get commercial privileges and an open door.

Battle in Which 7,000 Turks Are Worsted by a Force of Not More Than Six Hundred Insurgents

15 YEARS FOR RICHARDSON

Slayer of Edmund Matthews Sentenced to the Penitentiary

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 26—Oliver Richardson, who killed Edmund Matthews, a colored farmer, in Colchester South, on July 10 last, was this morning sentenced to 15 years in Kingston penitentiary for manslaughter, by Sir John Boyd. The crime for which Richardson was tried was the result of a three year family feud between the Richardsons and Matthews, who occupied adjoining farms, and who had repeated trouble over the matter of a line fence. On the day in question a colt of Matthews' got into Richardson's wheat field, and both families engaged in a rough-and-tumble fight. Richardson pulled a gun and shot the colored man

VOLCANO EMITS HOT ASHES

Soufriere is Still Active and Shows Greater Violence

Kingstown, St. Vincent, B.W.I., Sept 26—The volcano Soufriere has remained moderately active during the past two months, steam rising continuously from the crater, and this week puffs of dark smoke have been emitted, the heaviest of which, yesterday, was accompanied by a fall of hot ashes.

The Porte Looses 300 More Men at Kreslin Pass

Sofia, Sept. 28 — According to a telegram received today from Kostendil, forty-three miles from Sofia 600 Turks were killed in a fight at Kotchana, Sept 18. The Turkish force numbered 7,000. After the fight the troops, enraged at their losses, pillaged and burned a number of Bulgarian villages.

According to unconfirmed reports the insurgents have captured the town of Melnik, sixty five miles from Salonica.

Turkish soldiers recently took 50 women from the burned village of Klisurati and all attempts to recover them have been unavailing, the soldiers refusing to obey their officers.

Bulgaria Ready for War.

Preparations for the mobilization of the Bulgarian army have been carried out with completeness and a declaration of war against Turkey would find the Bulgarians sufficiently prepared with equipment and supplies. General Nicolaieff will probably be the commander in chief in the event of hostilities.

The diplomatic agents of Russia and Austria have informed the Bulgarian government that their governments, in agreement with the other powers, are resolved not to depart from the published program of reforms in Macedonia and that Bulgaria must not count on any support for any other purpose. The agents announced that the same declarations would be made at Constantinople.

Sultan Orders Reforms Effected.

The imperial Ottoman commissioner has informed the Bulgarian government that the Sultan has promulgated an irade sanctioning the program of reform which is to be carried out by a mixed commission and that he had deputed Hilmi Pasha to superintend the execution of the programme with orders to suspend the persecution of the Bulgarians.

When the Turkish agent communicated the Sultan's irade to Premier Petroff the latter is reported to have answered that so long as Turkey did not withdraw her troops from the frontier and did not fulfill her promises Bulgaria was justified in believing that Turkey was talking merely for talking's sake.

Battle in Pass Against Turks.

Constantinople, Sept. 28—The battle of Kresna pass, according to the latest advices, is still in progress. The insurgents are successfully holding strong positions, and their casualties are slight, only a score being killed or wounded, while the Turks, up to the present, have lost five officers and 320 men killed or wounded.

Salonica, Sept. 26—A mine has been discovered at Veles, twenty-seven miles from Uskub, leading from a Bulgarian shop to a point under the mosque. Several arrests have been made.

TWO POWERS WARNED.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 28—The Russian government has issued an official note saying it has notified Turkey and Bulgaria that the attitude of the powers in regard to the Austro Russian reform scheme for Macedonia is unchanged and that neither Bulgaria nor Turkey can expect support from any quarter in the event of open or secret resistance to that scheme. This, it is hoped, will prevent war and end the Macedonian revolt, inasmuch as both powers are told to join in checking rebels.

The government, after pointing out that the suggested reforms were at the outset attended with good results continues: "These, however, did not satisfy the Macedonian committee which have sprung up in the Slav states. The probability which had become apparent that the Christian population would calm down under the influence of reforms deprived these committees of all favorable grounds for the realization of their revolutionary plans.

"While proclaiming that their object was the protection of their coreligionists against Turkish oppression, the committee in reality seek to attain their selfish aim of modifying the administrative system in the province so as to convert it into a Bulgarian Macedonia, to the detriment of the rights and privileges of the other Christian peoples whose interest is equally dear to orthodox Russia.

"Unhappily, in spite of the precautions of the Sofia government, the Macedonian agitation spreads considerably in Bulgaria itself, finding support among those who mistakenly reckoned that the outbreak thus caused would compel Russia to alter her programme and proclaim herself the champion of the unrealizable plans of the leaders of the revolution. This fatal conception against which Russia gave incessant warnings has brought upon the Christians in the Turkish vilayets grevious oppression, which will end only when the incursion of insurgents from Bulgaria and the revolutionary activity of the committees cease. Not until then can the immediate application of reforms needed by the population and by which they will be protected from Turkish atrocities will be insisted upon."

BRITISH POLICY IN THE NEAR EAST

Balfour Says His Government Will Not Be Drawn In

The Powers Backing Russia and Austria for a Solution

London, Sept. 26.—Premier Balfour, in a lengthy letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Davidson, discusses the Macedonian situation. The letter is a reply to the archbishop's action in drawing attention to the growing uneasiness among the Churchmen at the apparent apathy of the powers, "while unspeakable atrocities are perpetrated in Macedonia."

Mr. Balfour says he is in entire sympathy with the feelings of horror and indignation, and fully understands the desire to give expression in public meeting to the sentiment of reprobation which recent events have justified.

Mr. Balfour then proceeds to analyze the situation. He says:

"We have not now to deal with a simple case of misgovernment or oppression by Turkish officials, but with a problem complicated by the fact that the Christian population of Macedonia is rent in fragments by differences of race aggravated by differences of religion, and in addition to the ills inflicted by corrupt and incapable administration, and by an ill-paid and undisciplined soldiery, and by a detestable system of taxation, we have to reckon with all the ills which, in a population imbued with Western ideas of humanity, rival nationalities and sects do not scruple to inflict on one another."

CONCERT OF EUROPE.

Mr. Balfour adds:

"The instrument whereby the situation may be dealt with is the concert of Europe. But this, even were they all in harmony, is necessarily slow, and may be ineffective if the problem is complex.

"It was a matter of congratulation when Russia and Austria, acting with the authority of Europe, proposed to press the scheme of reforms, which, while lacking in theoretical perfection, came within the circuit of practical politics, and would, if more earnestly pressed by the Porte and more frankly accepted by the Macedonian population, have spared the world the horrors it has since witnessed. Neither of these conditions was fulfilled.

"The Porte, as usual, was dilatory and failed to see that a policy of humanity was a policy of wisdom. The revolutionists have deliberately done their best to drive the Turk to excesses, and furnish him an excuse for deferring the execution of reforms, meeting horrors with horrors and brutality with brutality, for the deliberate purpose of driving the Turkish crimes against the innocent, and thus play upon the sympathies of the world.

"Such methods as these are no more morally tolerable than the misgovernment which is their excuse."

BRITAIN'S POLICY.

Coming to the question of the attitude of Great Britain, Mr. Balfour points out that Russia, Austria and Turkey cannot be indifferent to a territorial redistribution in the peninsula, while Greece, Bulgaria, Servia and Roumania are all interested in the fate of the province whose Christian population is made up from all nationalities. These external complications are doubled by internal ones because of religious differences, the Mohammedans fearing Christian rule, while the Exarchists and Christians persecute the Patriarchists. The Greeks, who are Patriarchists, would sooner find protection under the rule of the Sultan than be left to fight the matter out with the Bulgarians, who are Exarchists.

"It is a problem such as this that one has to deal with," says Mr. Balfour, "and I cannot but believe that the best hope of dealing with it lies in the continued co-operation of Russia, and Austria, strengthened with the support and aided by the advice of the other signatories of the Treaty of Berlin."

"Great Britain has not been precluded by the policy outlined from offering suggestions," continued Mr. Balfour, "which has already been done, and she will continue to do so. But it would be folly to forget that there are occasions when two powers are stronger than three."

"These principles," concludes Mr. Balfour, "direct the policy of the British Government in the near East."

BRODRICK INDIA SECRETARY

Attempt Being Made to Induce Lord Milner to Accept Colonial Secretaryship

London, Sept. 26.—Further pressure is being brought to bear on Lord Milner, urging him to reconsider his determination not to accept the Colonial Secretaryship, but if the forecast of his friends is correct he will not accept. Mr. Brodrick has accepted the Secretaryship for India, and in the event of Lord Milner yielding to the pressure, the Duke of Marlborough, who is now Under-Secretary for the Colonies, will become Under-Secretary for India, precedent ordaining that both the Secretary and Under-Secretary shall not sit in the same House.

TO BRIDGE ST. LAWRENCE

Railroad Will Cross Father of Waters at Brockville

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 28. — The long fight of the creditors of the Brockville, Westport and Sault Ste. Marie Railroad has ended, and the title of the New York [illegible] Act, [illegible] the Brockville, Westport and North-Western Railway Company, to operate a road from the Thousand Islands to the Upper Lakes, with a bridge over the St. St. Lawrence River, at Brockville. Construction and labor creditors of the old company, whose claims amount to about $200,000, will receive 25 per cent. of their original claims when the unearned subsidy is revoted and earned by the new company.

CAPTURED CONVENTION

Parks Takes the Chair and His Faction Rule the Day

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 28. — When the usual time for the convention of the afternoon session of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers had arrived President Buchanan failed to put in an appearance. He had, it developed later, purposely remained in his room, because of the row in the morning. Although the convention had been adjourned by President Burhman without hour, Second Vice-President Warden was now placed in the chair by the Parks crowd, and called the gathering to order. Immediately a vote was taken on a motion [illegible] the vote [illegible] Dan [illegible] Murphy was unseated by a vote of [illegible] to 18.

Rolff House

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Story of Love and Adventure.

If these lines ever come to your eyes, my dear Claude, I will have been long at rest in my grave, and you will have been duly informed of my plans to carry out the arrangements herein described. These revelations will explain to you why such strange instructions as will have been given you have seemed necessary. But with the opening of this paper, all mystery and all limitation to your rights in your inheritance will have departed. You will be left, my dear boy, I trust, with ample wealth. Though I have never touched or counted my brother's stores, I know that great wealth still remains in the old vault. All will be yours. You need have no hesitation in using it, for no responsibility can descend to you through three generations. Moreover, long years of sorrow and penitence, and the restoration in deeds of charity of much more than the original sum, can well have lifted the guilt from the treasures of Rolff House.

And now, my dear Claude, you can understand why a cloud has always rested over Rolff House and its inmates, and which has shadowed your young life. You can understand much that has no doubt always seemed mysterious to you in my actions and your surroundings. With a sense of darkness and horror always on my mind, and settled grief at my heart, my life and actions have not been what in youth I dreamed they could ever be. I can well believe that I have grown crabbed and peculiar, and often I have deemed that perhaps my reason has been warped. I can be no proper guide and instructor for guileless, aspiring youth. It will be well when the hand of death takes me away.

But you will live, my dear, dear boy, to be a wise and good man. You will use the wealth left you to do good deeds. You will continue, perhaps, the line of our family, not under the cloud of guilt, but in the light of innocence and happiness. God's blessing be on you and with you through life.

RACHEL VAN BUYSEN.

After finishing the reading of the manuscript, Claude leaned back in his chair and gave himself up to reflection. A light had been thrown on the mystery that had rested over Rolff House. He could not doubt that his aunt's statement was a true explanation of all that had seemed strange to him in the surroundings of his youthful days. It was such an explanation as accounted to his mind for his aunt's peculiarities of character and what had often seemed to him her inexplicable ways. Between the lines of the constrained, plainly-written narrative, he could read the tragic history of her life, with its one sombre, unbroken cloud of sorrow and sacrifice; and his heart melted at the thought of the ungenerous judgment with which he had always viewed her eccentric, apparently parsimonious ways.

A whirl of thoughts crowded on his mind. What did the old vault contain? Would it yield up him a princely fortune? If so, what use could it be to him now, that he was thwarted in the chief object of his happiness? Should he change his plans, and give up his idea of serving his country to revel in wealth and pleasure? Amid these conflicting emotions, he sat and reflected some time, and then made up his mind to go down and consult old Carl Crum in regard to his aunt's statement and the best course to be pursued.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Claude did not find that old Carl appeared much astonished when he communicated to him the strange facts he had derived from his aunt's written statement, or even after he had been allowed to read the paper. In fact, in such a perfectly matter of fact way did he take the matter, that Claude was inclined to believe that he had had previous knowledge, and had been entrusted by his aunt with greater confidence than he had ever suspected.

"Well, well," he said, "I am glad this thing has ended up so speedily. I never quite liked having that old priest in the house with his hands in those money chests, and particularly since the old lady died; but of course it was no business of mine. No doubt all has turned out for the best. It's my opinion that you ought to examine the old vault at once, ascertain what treasure is left in it, and take proper measures for its security. If it wasn't for the reputation the old house has for furnishing quarters for a select assortment of the most dangerous possible kind of ghosts, I would have been more concerned than I have been all these months for the safety of the valuables in the house. But now it's our own fault if everything is not made safe."

Claude was as anxious as possible to examine the old vault, and proceeded in company with old Carl at once to the house. They made their way to the cellar, and Claude produced the key that his aunt had left in his charge, and the outer door was opened after some difficulty. Within was another door, of iron, with a key in the heavy lock, attached to which was a folded piece of paper. Claude detached it, opened it and read it. It ran thus:

The last sum due on account of the bequest of brother Maximus (otherwise known as Rolff Van Buysen) to the order of which he was a member, having been taken, according to due arrangement, by me, I hereby make note of the fact. And herewith I make a statement of the amounts I have taken, and the times at which they were taken, in order that it may appear that the trust confided in me has not been abused, and that the wishes of our deceased brother have been strictly fulfilled. And I aver that I have taken no more than was justly due, and that all has been applied in works of charity as brother Maximus himself planned and desired. I leave my blessing on this house. I will pray always, and my brethren with me, that peace, prosperity and the blessing of Heaven may abide ever within these walls. I sign myself,

JUSTINUS.

"Faith, a magnanimous epistle," said old Carl. "Tis not every one who would have been so discreet, considering the opportunity he had. I must confess that the old man seems to have had a full share of honesty and piety, and it is well he did."

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $250.00, and to the five next nearest $100 00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the lists are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your numbers will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children under three years of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $2 00 per day while here, so nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA, PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty Numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000

PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD——$80,000,000——GOLD

—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 100 to 400 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of [illegible] feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large profits have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale [illegible] shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at [illegible] cents per share, reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission.

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns [illegible] acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising [illegible] claims. The [illegible] is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, [illegible] horse power boiler, steam [illegible] and everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills, which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from [illegible] to [illegible] per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means [illegible] that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the [illegible] investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 26— There was a story that the U.S. Steel Conversion syndicate had taken over 60,000 steel preferred and 20,000 common at private sale. This story is officially denied this morning and insiders say that the conversion plan is working out satisfactorily and that the members are not being unduly worried by the fluctuation in the stock market which in a large measure represents manipulation by strong interests. In this connection there is a strong report that Keene is a bear and is heavily short of many leading stocks and that the general money market situation is no better than at the beginning of the week, that the banks in order to save themselves a lot of inconvenience will have to husband their resources quite carefully during the next few weeks. The concensus of opinion is that the stock market will move nervously for some days to come.

The general market situation is still mixed and undecided; the money market situation is the subject of much conflicting argument at the moment and the bank statement to day will probably have considerable effect on sentiment. The liquidation in certain parts of the stock market it is figured, out to result in some contraction in loan accounts, while in the matter of deposits there should be but little change; on the other hand there are those who claim that the banks have called loans quite heavily this week.

Chicago, Sept. 26 —There was a firmer ruling for wheat yesterday due to a better export demand and a promise for less pressure from professional circles. On the lower prices yesterday shorts are believed to have covered freely and the short interest at the moment is not believed to be very large. The exports for the week figure at less than $4,000,000 and this is rather a disappointing tone. The chances, however are for larger clearances in the near future. There was some demand for corn at the lower prices yesterday and while there was some betterment, the prices ruling offerings were quite substantial on the advances. The receipts of corn continue quite liberal; the crop news is quite satisfactory now and it is figured that the proportion of the crop subject to unfavorable climatic conditions is now very small. However the weather map will have quite a lot to do with the price for some days to come.

The weather map shows a little unsettled weather in the northwest; light rains but nothing important.

Liverpool—Close—Wheat quiet, 1-4 and 3-8 higher. Corn, dull, 5-8 higher

A Good Thing Gone Wrong.

Once upon a time a man who lived in the city by choice all the year around sent his family away for the entire summer. And as he came home in the cool of the evening and sat down in a comfortable armchair, while the soft wind blew the draperies around, and he put on his pajamas and lighted a fragrant cigar and ordered his evening meal sent up, he said joyfully to himself:

"Life with me from this time on is indeed one long, sweet cinch. I can smoke all over the house, take a bath every hour, live without curtains and have things my own way. All I want is the companionship of a few congenial spirits."

The next day he went around and told everybody what a grand spot he had, with a bursting sideboard full of real old stuff, and he urged the boys, with tears in his eyes, to make it their home and drop in every evening and feel that they were always welcome.

And all the city boys he knew took him at his word, and night after night they made merry at his expense. Not only this, but they took his money away from him, told him stories that he had heard many times before, and made his life so miserable that in four weeks' time he sent the following telegram to his wife:

"Come at once. Bring all the dogs and children."

No Blondes Desired.

"It's too bad," said she, thoughtfully, "you have brown eyes and I have brown eyes, you're dark-haired and I'm dark-haired, we both have round chins and we both have dark complexions—I must say that the outlook for our children is a terribly monotonous one."

"Never mind," he said, hastily; "let them be monotonous. I'd rather have them so."—Ex.

Circumstances alter cases:—"The boys are throwing stones at a poor peddler." "Outrageous." "That's what I think." "Whose boys are they?" "Yours." "Oh, well, boys will be boys. Let the children play."—Chicago Post."

Editor—You wish a position as proofreader? Applicant—Yes, sir. "Do you understand the requirements of that responsible position?" "Perfectly, sir. Whenever you make any mistakes in the paper, just blame 'em on me, and I'll never say a word."—New York "Weekly."

THE STERLING OIL CO.

brought in on Monday the 20th of July one of the biggest gushers in Sour Lake. It is situated in the Wirt-Davis tract and has been producing oil continuously since it came in, the Spindletop Power Company taking the entire output from the well. Besides owning this gusher the Company owns two other valuable pieces of Oil Land at Sour Lake, where they have just let a contract for drilling a second well in the gusher district. The Company has acquired a twelfth interest in 87 acres of land near Saratoga and a well will soon be drilled on this land, the indications are that fine gushers will be developed in this territory. The Company also owns property in Beaumont, Texas where there are two wells.

All who purchase the stock prior to September 15th will participate in the September dividend. The price of the stock is 20 cents per share. No orders accepted for less than 50 shares.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. [illegible] Mitchell, formerly with [illegible] Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which [illegible] to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

Should Keep Away

A correspondent to one of the local district papers says that wolves are very numerous in the back country, and are within an hour's run by rail of Lindsay. This great family journal would rise to remark that their instinct will tell them to avoid getting inside the town limits, where competition in their line is entirely too fierce.

Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

A Permanent Orchestra

The Times is requested to state that a meeting will be held in the music room of the Albany Club at 8 o'clock this evening, for the purpose of organizing a permanent orchestra in town, under the direction of Mr. R. Gliddon. An invitation is extended to all interested to attend. Peterborough has a number of excellent musicians, and under Mr. Gliddon's leadership there is no reason why an orchestra could not be organized to be a credit to the town.

Choir Entertained

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Routley delightfully entertained the members of the Murray street church choir on Friday evening at their handsome home on Stewart street. The evening was spent in games and music, all present thoroughly enjoying themselves. Mr. and Mrs. Routley have always evidenced a deep interest in the choir, and the entertainment provided last night was but another evidence of that interest. Before dispersing a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. and Mrs. Routley for their hospitality.

An Electric Light Case

The adjourned hearing of the motion on behalf of the town of Midland to enforce the agreement between the town and the Electric Light Company was heard by Chief Justice Falconbridge this morning. The contention of the town is that the defendants are bound by an award of the arbitrators placing the value of the Electric Light Company's plant at about $9,000. The defendants claim that the arbitrator named by Midland was disqualified from acting, as such, owing to his relations with the town. They also contend that their plant is worth at least $20,000, and refuse to make the transfer to the town.

A Serious Accident

On Friday last, Mr. Wm. Millar, of Douro, met with a serious and very painful accident, by which he barely escaped losing the sight of both of his eyes. It appears that Mr. Millar went out with his shot gun to kill a hawk which had been taking his chickens, but when he arrived on the scene the bird had flown away. He threw open the breach of the gun to extract the cartridge, which exploded as he did so, throwing the whole charge of powder into his face, burning and puncturing it in a shocking manner. Medical aid was immediately sent for, and his wounds carefully dressed, and it is hoped that Mr. Millar will retain the use of both of his eyes. He is resting as well as could be expected.

ELECTED OFFICERS

Annual Meeting of the Murray Street Church Mission Band

At the annual meeting of the Murray street Mission Band, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. G. K. Martin (re-elected.)

Vice-President—Mrs. Bastow (re-elected.)

2nd Vice-President—Miss Croly (re-elected.)

Treasurer—Miss Ella Cochrane (re-elected.)

Secretary—Miss Ada Bradshaw (re-elected.)

Organist—Miss Viva Hunter (re-elected.)

Committee—Misses Bessie Elcome, Minnie Ellis, Luther Cross and Wilbert Yelland.

There are 93 names on the membership roll, and the Band is in a flourishing condition.

A very interesting program was given, and a collection for missions was taken up.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION

Semi-Annual Meeting is to be Held This Evening

The semi-annual meeting of the Peterborough Rifle Association will be held in the Court House this evening, at half-past seven, for the purpose of making final arrangements for the association's rifle matches, which are to be held in the near future. It is hoped that all members of the association and any persons who wish to join the association or who take any interest in rifle shooting, will attend this meeting.

THE CASE SETTLED

The Action Against Hon. Mr. Stratton Settled Saturday

The suit of Kearns vs. Stratton, which was to have come up for trial today at the High Court of Justice, was settled on Saturday out of court. The action was for $15,000 damages brought by J. W. Kearns, Sault Ste. Marie, against Mr. Ireland, Inspector of Muskoka, and Hon. J. R. Stratton, for certain alleged defamatory statements made during the election campaign. The defendant pleaded justification.

LABOR IN POLITICS

The Prospects Are That There Will Be Some Exciting Doings

Brockville, Sept. 26.—The slogan of the Dominion Trades Congress, in session here, has been "Independent Political Action," and so unanimous has that sentiment been that there seems to be no mistaking the fact that organized labor is about to prepare for a concerted action on the political field. There were many resolutions introduced urging the necessity for labor going into politics, and the action of the Trades Councils of Berlin and Waterloo in calling a convention to consider the advisability of placing a labor candidate in North Waterloo was strongly endorsed. One prominent factor which inspired enthusiasm along this line was the apparent helplessness of labor men when placed in the position of having to fight their battles in the courts. It was pointed out by many of the delegates that if organized labor decided to fight its battles in the courts there would be a constant drain upon the treasuries of the local organizations affiliated with the congress, and it was thought that this money could be better spent in promoting independent political action, so that by the election of purely labor men there would be the possibility of securing legislation to protect labor's interests. There was an expressed doubt as to the possibility of the organized workers being able to receive justice at the hands of the judiciary, and it was openly charged that the judiciary was not friendly to the organized labor movement, and where the interests of capital and labor were involved there would be little doubt but what the employes would receive the greatest consideration.

Secretary Draper displayed the greatest enthusiasm in dealing with this question on independent political action, and maintained that labor could receive more by electing labor candidates to Parliament than could be secured by fighting its battles in the law courts. He emphasized the valuable services rendered the cause of labor by the election of Mr. A. W. Puttee and Ralph Smith to the Dominion Parliament, and urged all the trades unionists in industrial centers to nominate candidates for both the Federal and Provincial Legislatures.

It is altogether probable that as a result of the deliberations of this congress this year, there will be a strong movement started along the lines suggested.

Millionaire Thomas Breslin Takes a Young Wife

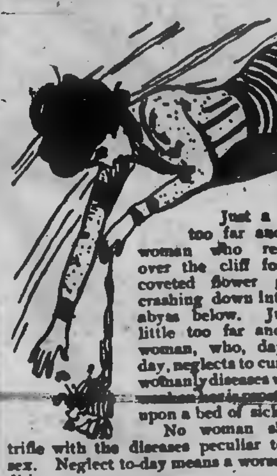
Troy, Sept. 26—Thomas Breslin, millionaire, and former part owner of the Gilsey house, New York city, returned to his home at Waterford yesterday, and introduced Miss Helen Watson of Bennington, Vt., as his bride. The groom is 60 years old and for several months been a trained nurse in the Samaritan hospital in this city, was formerly employed in Mr. Breslin's knitting mill at Waterford. The romance is creating an unprecedented stir in local society circles, the Breslin family being among the most prominent in the vicinity.

5,000 MEN LAID OFF

General Electric Company Finds It Has Too Many Goods

Lynn, Mass., Sept. 26—Because of over-production and the decrease of sales the General Electric Company is to reduce its working force by about 5,000 men. Within the last five weeks 1,500 men have been laid off at the plant here.

Schenectady, N.Y., Sept. 26—An official of the local plant of the General Electric Company said today that the company was laying off some of its men on account of some decrease in the sales of smaller electrical equipment. About 1,000 have been laid off here.



Just a little too far and the woman who reaches over the cliff for the coveted flower goes crashing down into the abyss below. Just a little too far and the woman, who, day by day, neglects to cure the womanly diseases which weaken her is prostrated upon a bed of sickness. No woman should trifle with the diseases peculiar to her sex. Neglect to-day means a worse condition to-morrow.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a safe and reliable remedy for the cure of diseases peculiarly womanly. It establishes regularity, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"My wife, Mrs. Mary Estes, has been taking your medicine and received great benefit from it," writes Mr. Geo. Wm. Estes, of Springgrove, Va. "Was troubled with female weakness, heavy, bearing-down pains, severe pains in back and head, and a tired, worn-out feeling all the time. Tried all the remedies we could hear of, but they did no good. Finally we wrote to you and my wife commenced taking 'Favorite Prescription.' Took ten bottles, and is in better health than before in a long time. We shall always recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to all who are thus afflicted."

Dispute Delays Mails

London, Sept. 26.—Last Saturday hundreds of small bags arrived by the steamer Etruria, but were left behind at Liverpool, the last portion only arriving in London on Monday night. CANADA'S CASE IS IN VERY GOOD HANDS

Mr. C. Robinson, K.C., of Toronto, Begins Argument

BEFORE THE ALASKAN TRIBUNAL THIS MORNING

Mr. Watson Has Concluded His Presentation of the United States Case

London, Sept. 28.—With the third week of the sitting of the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal, which commenced this morning, Mr. D. T. Watson, of Pittsburg, resumed his argument on behalf of the United States, in support of the contention that the treaty of 1825 contemplated mountains along the entire line or in default of mountains a ten-league line throughout. He held that the word "partout" in the alternative provision of Article 4 applies to the whole line, and not merely to parts of it, such as the horseshoe line of Great Britain require. The Hudson Bay map submitted before the House of Commons in 1857 showed a ten-league line throughout. Lord Salisbury in 1891 evidently contemplated that the mountains might fail entirely. Mr. Watson contended on behalf of the United States that there was no mountains suitable, and that, therefore, the mountain line must be discarded for the ten-league line, which should run round the heads of inlets and be everywhere ten leagues from the sea.

Mr. Aylesworth asked: Supposing no mountains existed, and the whole country was an extensive plain, did the United States consider that the ten marine league line should be applied?

Mr. Watson—Yes.

The President—Do you contend that at no part of this line are there mountains corresponding to the treaty?

Mr. Watson—At no point. Continuing, he discussed the meaning of the word "ocean" in the said treaty. The Lynn Canal was a limit of the ocean, just as a man's leg was part of the man. To be logical, the British should say the ocean lay altogether outside the islands, yet they called Stephen's passage, which was more narrow and intricate than the Lynn Canal, the ocean, and deny the application of the term to the latter inlet. Alluding to the argument based on Lieven's fear lest the mountains should descend to the water's edge, he cited the Allegheny mountains, between Pittsburg and New York, which show an almost imperceptible declivity for more than 30 miles.

Mr. Watson, in conclusion expressed his sense of the unfailing courtesy which he had received from the tribunal, and the President thanked him for his powerful argument, to which they had carefully listened.

A COMPARISON OF METHODS.

The legal fraternity has been afforded the past two weeks an opportunity to compare their forensic methods with the American methods. Attorney-General Finlay's style possessed culture and dignified incisiveness. Mr. Watson's style was vigorous, but lacked dignity, being rather of a free and easy style. He has a habit of pausing, as if waiting to see if the Commissioners had caught on to his point.

MR. ROBINSON REPLIES.

Mr. Christopher Robinson, K.C., of Toronto, who next addressed the Court for Great Britain, said that the case had been dealt with fully and exhaustively by Sir Robert Finlay, and he had been asked by one entitled to express Canadian public feeling and sentiment to say that it had been presented also most satisfactorily in every aspect from a Canadian point of view. This was also his opinion. It would not, therefore, be necessary for him to go minutely into the question of the negotiations and the details of the maps. The question, it seemed to him, was what does the treaty mean? What is the meaning of articles 3 and 4, and any other articles which may assist in the construction of these? The negotiators made a treaty about a country of which they knew nothing, no more of mountains bordering the Alaska coast than of the mountains of the moon. Vancouver knew, too, only what he could see from ships in the foggiest coast country in the world. The mountains on his maps were purely conventional signs, and were understood as that. We must, therefore, assume that negotiators mean only such mountains as are ordinarily met with in a mountainous country.

Mr. Robinson argued that in any event the word range did not necessarily imply continuity. He instanced the military expression, "chain of posts," which did not mean posts connected with chains. He argued that inlets broke mountains nor more than did rivers. Supposing a range beginning at Labrador and extending down to the Eastern States, would the fact of its crossing the St. Lawrence be held to destroy its character as a range? He referred to the terms "coast" and "ocean" in the treaty, which he contended were used interchangeably, and asked would any one seriously urge that the head of the Lynn Canal was the ocean? He argued that article 7 of the treaty of 1825, provided for reciprocal privileges in the waters and bays and inlets, must be held to refer to the latter, as Russia could not have recognized England's claim south of 54.40 over territories when she had acknowledged United States sovereignty over the same territory by treaty the year before.

Referring to the southern boundary, Mr. Robinson said that there could be no question of commencement, now what channel was the Portland channel. He said that Vancouver's works were the only authority known to the negotiators and it was impossible they should not have referred to them. He argued generally against much weight being given to the negotiations. When we find the Russians standing out for certain things, and do not find them in the treaty, the inference is plain that they did not get them.

Separation of Dominion Coal and Dominion Steel Mutually Beneficial

Differences of Opinion Among the Directors Have Not Produced Ill-Feeling

Montreal, Sept. 28.—"The Dominion Coal Company is now free from the only two menacing contracts it had when I accepted the presidency of the company," was the remark made to a reporter by Mr. James Ross after the meeting yesterday afternoon, at which the shareholders had ratified the action of the directors. "These two contracts," he continued, "were with the Dominion Steel Company and the New England Gas and Coke Company. They were made by the old management, and, while they were unquestionably in good faith when they made them, the clause by which they were allowed to demand from the coal company as much coal as they might desire, for any purpose whatever, was most unfair.

"It must be remembered that by the lease it was understood that even should the steel company fail to live up to its obligations, the forfeiture of the lease did not mean that the old contract for coal would be broken. It was in order to secure the breaking of this contract that in making the present arrangement the coal company directors considered it advisable to allow the steel company to have its coal supply for the first five years at slightly below the cost of production. This small loss is more than offset by the advantages in having such a contract broken.

"The contracts the company now have with the New England Gas and Coke Company and the Dominion Steel Company take one-fifth of the entire output of the company. The coal company will now, however, be able to increase its output rapidly, and the proportion taken for these contracts will be greatly reduced.

ENTIRELY NEW BASIS.

"There is one thing that I would like the holders of coal stock to know, and that is that the company now takes over its business as though the lease had never existed. When the lease was made, acting in the interests of the coal company, I insisted that this should be one of the conditions of the lease, so that if the steel company were unable to live up to its obligations the coal company would not in any way be affected.

"I may state that all the water has not yet been removed from No. 1 Dominion. We decided that in order to keep as many of our contracts as possible it would be better to leave the water in the lower levels and work the upper seams.

"The great advantage that will accrue to the coal company through the breaking of the lease does not mean that there has been any disadvantage to the steel company. The latter are, in my opinion, only surrendering something from which they could not secure much profit, but which the coal company will be able to use to advantage.

"Although there have been some difference of opinion between the varied interests during the past six weeks, I may state that there is not any ill-feeling."

A BRIGHT HORIZON.

Montreal, Sept. 28.—"There is not any reason now why the Dominion Steel Company should not become one of the strongest companies in Canada," was the opinion expressed by Mr. Frederic Nicholls, one of the members of the special committee of management of the steel company. "Moreover, he added, "I am convinced that in the present instance the directors have hit on the one only plan by which it would have been possible to prevent the shareholders from losing every cent of their investment. The lease I consider was a mistake, and now in its stead the company has an arrangement that places it in a stronger position than ever before. The steel company will do a great deal better alone."

IRISH ARE BETRAYED

Colonel Blake Declares Clan na Gael Leaders False to Their Following

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 29—Colonel J. Y. F. Blake, commander of the Irish brigade in South Africa during the Boer war, today charged that certain leaders of the Clan-na-Gael in the United States had a secret understanding with the British Government. They are, he asserts, traitors to the Irish cause and have been since the inception of the war. "The member of the clan have been deluded and betrayed," he said, "and are rapidly finding it out and quitting the organization. I boldly charge that certain leaders had an understanding with Joseph Chamberlain when he visited the United States on the eve of the war. These men have squandered over $1,000,000 Irish funds for which they have made no accounting."

PRISONER SENT BY EXPRESS

Employe of Company Shipped From Nebraska to Lynn, Mass.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 29—The distinction of being the first prisoner ever sent by express, and half way across the continent at that, undoubtedly belongs to Floyd T. Ferris, who arrived here today by American Express from Columbus, Neb. en route to Lynn, where he was wanted for the larceny of $250 from the company which transported him. Ferris was willing to return, so word was sent east that it would not be necessary to send an officer after him. He was accordingly entered upon the regular way bill as "One man," consigned to "Police, Lynn," at "owner's risk." He was placed in the express car with the messenger as guard.

SUGGESTION FOR CANADA

Would Let British Travelers Enter Samples Duty Free

London, Sept. 28—At a meeting of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce a letter from the Kidderminster Chamber of Commerce was read, calling attention to the duties levied by Canada on travelers' samples. As far as carpets were concerned, a traveler usually brought his samples home with him and in such cases the Kidderminster Chamber suggested that the duties be accepted on deposit only.

MOST IMPORTANT CROP

The Sugar Beet Harvest is Now on in Earnest

CROP THAT PAYS WELL

Larger Acreage, More Widely Distributed, Means Bountiful Returns

The fact that the Peterborough Sugar Company's factory will not be ready to handle this season's beets will not affect those who grow the beets in the least. There is a splendid market for the beet, of which there are not sufficient grown to keep the factories running.

The fine weather of the past few weeks has had a most favorable effect on the sugar beet crop of Ontario, which is becoming one of great importance in many communities. The beets are just now ripening and pulling will begin about a week from today. The prospects are that there will be an exceptionally good crop, fully fifty per cent. larger than last year and of a better quality. The roots have had much more attention this season, the land was better prepared for the cultivation, and the farmers have not been so much crowded with other work. There has been a great change in the acreage taken by the individual farmer. Last year some people had so large an acreage that they could not handle the crop, but it is now much more widely distributed and has been taken by the farmers in small lots, not more than they could attend to with the help they had on hand, without being under the necessity of hiring extra men.

Returns Should be Profitable.

There are now in the vicinity of the Berlin factory about 4,000 acres under cultivation with sugar beets, and a conservative estimate of the yield places it at from 50,000 to 60,000 tons, which will bring to the grower an average price of $4.50 per ton. Some plots will run as high as 18 tons to the acre, and very few will go below 12.

The greater portion of the crop will be purchased on the percentage basis. The Ontario Sugar Company at Berlin will pay $4 for beets containing 12 per cent. of sugar and 33 1-3 cents for each additional per cent. The farmer will realize from $60 to $80 per acre which is probably a higher average than he can obtain from any other crop, root or cereal.

The Berlin Factory Output.

Mr. James Fowler, secretary of the Ontario Sugar Company, operating the mill at Berlin, gave a Toronto World man some interesting information on the beet question, and showed a sample of their first product, which certainly looked and tasted as good as any granulated sugar on the market. The Berlin factory has had some changes made since last season and it will now cut about 700 tons of beets daily, which will represent an output of about 400 barrels of sugar.

How the Sugar is Extracted.

The beets, when brought in from the fields are unloaded into a flume and carried along to a hoist. By the action of the water, all foreign matter and dirt is removed, and the roots are then raised to the top of the factory, where they are placed on an automatic weighing machine. As soon as the fixed weight is reached, the load drops into a slicer where the beets are shredded. The sugar is found in cells or corpuscles, and is washed out by diffusion batteries, the beets not being crushed, as much impure matter would thereby be brought into the sugar. The process of purification and transformation into the crystallized granules is carried out altogether by automatic machinery and takes a period of about 18 hours. From the time the roots drop into the weighing machine until the white particles run through the hoppers into the barrels which are at once headed and rolled away for shipment, the hand of man is required only to keep the wheels going round.

There is Nothing Wasted.

The pulp after the sugar has been washed out is taken away by the farmers for stock-feeding purposes. Last year the Berlin factory sold every pound of the refuse, it having been fully equal to mangolds or other roots for feeding purposes. The one great drawback to the use of it is the disagreeable odor it imparts, and the company operating the factory at Dresden has spent about $45,000 in erecting a patent drier with the intention of putting the pulp on the market as a cattle food.

Western Ontario Well Covered.

There are factories in Ontario at Berlin, Wallaceburg, Dresden and Wiarton. At the second town, there will probably be about 25,000 tons. They will ship beets to these points from many distant points such as Peterborough and Welland. The financial success of this business is doubtful as freight rates will cut deeply into the profits. The crop, however, is looking well all over the province, and the prospects for a good price for sugar make the outlook very favorable for the factories. The whole output is disposed of in Ontario and as a home industry is deserving of the greatest encouragement from the business men of the province.

FROM SOUTH AMERICA

How Journalists Put Hunt for Each Other in the South

The Times is in receipt of a paper from Buenos Ayres, sent by Mr. Wm. Gilman, a former resident of Peterborough. The Herald is a 32-page publication in tabloid form, filled with a great variety of reading matter from foreign news to local market quotations, all set on a dead typographical arrangement, without display or variety in arrangement. The price of the paper is 20 cents an issue or $10 a year and it ought to have a tremendous circulation to support it, for it carries less than two pages of advertising and that wholly on its covers. That the paper is no experiment, however, is shown by the fact that it is about 20 years old. The Herald prints this little incident as showing that the newspaper business in South America has its diversions quite as exciting as those (which mark the life of the journalist in North America:

At Tres Arroyos Editor Enrique G. Bertolozza, of the "Voz del Pueblo" went out with his gun and spied Editor Dolores C. Gomez, of "El Pueblo" who was taking his gun out for an airing, too. Not seeing any stray subscribers in arrears to plug, they began to plug each other. Bertolazzo received two bullets in the chest, and Gomez one in the head, and one in the chest and was killed. The other editor is likely to die, too.

A DESERTER ARRESTED

He Appeared at the Police Court and Was Remanded

On Saturday evening Frank Tamblyn, for whom the police have been on the lookout for about a year and a half, gave himself up to the local police. Tamblyn, it will be remembered, deserted from the military school, Toronto, a year ago last spring, but no trace of him could be found. He was remanded yesterday morning at the police court until an officer comes from Toronto to take charge of him.

THREE DROWNED, SIX ARE MISSING

A Drowning Accident on the Bow River

Rev. Mr. McLaughlin and Five Children Overdue on Lake Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Sept. 28.—A triple drowning accident occurred Saturday at the Bow River, Blackfoot Indian reserve, near Gleichen, N.W.T. Sergt. Brooks of the North-West Mounted Police; A. Beaupre, and Joseph Dunbury, all of Gleichen, were attempting to cross the river, when horses, wagon, and all three men went down and were lost.

All were married.

Sergt. Brooks has been twenty years with the force. He was a member of the contingent which represented the police at the Coronation, and originally came from England. Beaupre was an interpreter attached to the police force.

Rev. Mr. McLaughlin, who left Beren River, Lake Winnipeg, in a sailboat, with five Indian children, for Brandon Indian Industrial School some few days ago, is missing, and fears are entertained that the party have been lost. Rev. Mr. Simmons has left Selkirk with a tug to skirt the shores of the lake to find traces of the missing ones.

LYNCHED BY A MOB

Negro Meets Swift Punishment for Assaulting White Girl

Thomasville, Ga., Sept. 29—A negro was lynched yesterday afternoon 5 miles north of Whigham, a town in Decatur county twenty miles west of here. The negro is alleged to have assaulted a small white girl.

Up to a late hour tonight it was impossible to get particulars.

Must Move Quickly

London, Dec. 26.—The Foreign Office announces that Sir N. O'Conor, the British Ambassador at Constantinople has been instructed to notify the Porte that neither Turkey nor Bulgaria must expect the support of Great Britain in resisting either openly or secretly the execution of the reforms already promulgated; that these reforms are, in the opinion of his Majesty's Government, the minimum of what is required, that steps taken to effect them, even when every allowance is made for the difficulties of the situation, have been lamentably inadequate, and that far more prompt and more effective measures are required than have hitherto been adopted by the Turkish authorities.

A SERIOUS RIOT TOOK PLACE AT THE SAULT

Mob Smashed the Windows of the Company's Office

THE MILITIA HAD TO BE CALLED OUT

Policeman Seriously Injured and All Car Traffic Has Been Stopped

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 28.—The failure of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company to pay its men, as promised today, resulted about noon in a serious disturbance at the company's office.

The workmen had gathered there in anticipation of the order coming at any moment to pay their claims, and there was a large amount of loud talk and considerable hustling.

Policeman Littlewood of the company's force interfered in a quarrel between two Frenchmen, and others in the crowd turned on him.

With a baton grabbed from him the policeman was pounded on his head very badly, and he is now in the General Hospital.

As soon as the trouble began, all the doors of the offices were locked, but the men became angry and smashed the windows by throwing stones.

Nearly all the windows in the lower story of the office building were broken.

A telephone message was sent from the office for the fire department to disperse the crowd.

Police Magistrate Quibell was called, read the Riot Act, and ordered the men to disperse. When they did not do that quickly, the hose was turned on the crowd by the firemen.

The crowd soon dispersed, and although there are many about the streets, the town is now comparatively quiet. The action of the mob resulted in tieing up the car system on this side of the river, and also the ferries.

Mayor Plummer has ordered all the bar-rooms in town to be closed immediately.

The "Soo" Company of the 97th Regiment was ordered out this afternoon.

INDIGNANT TRAVELLER

Asks The Times to Register a Vigorous Kick

Yesterday a well known citizen who had been out of town for a few days, said to The Times: "About the first thing one notices when he enters a railway carriage is that every person aboard is taking up all the room possible. If a woman enters and the car is crowded she has very little chance of getting a seat. The well kept business man seldom offers her the seat which he is occupying. It is generally the hard working fellow who has put in good ten hours at his trade that offers her a place to ride more comfortably. If the car was a ball room and the women were guests, half the men present would be trying to find them chairs. I wish The Times would enter a vigorous protest against this kind of thing."

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

Opened Yesterday Afternoon Before Hon. Mr. Justice Ferguson

The Fall Assizes of the High Court of Justice opened yesterday afternoon before Hon. Mr. Justice Ferguson. The members of the bar present were: Messrs. Hugh O'Leary, K.C., of Lindsay, Crown prosecutor, R. M. Dennistoun, D. O'Connell, R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney; E. B. Edwards, K.C., and F. D. Kerr. The following Grand Jury were empannelled: Wm. Thompson, Peterborough, agent; Stewart Brown, Douro, farmer; H. G. Hicks, Norwood, merchant; W. J. Dean, Dummer, farmer; W. J. Elliott, Dummer farmer; W. H. Johnston, Belmont, farmer; W. Preston, Smith, farmer; W. W. Graham, Lakefield, merchant; Thomas Kelly, Peterborough, clerk; James Rose, Otonabee, farmer; John Vansickle, Havelock, gentleman; Wm. White, Peterborough, woodworker.

There are two criminal cases on the docket, one being that in which a man named Wynn is charged with stealing a horse and the other, is that in which a young lad named Miller is charged with stealing a pair of boots.

His lordship addressed the grand jury pointing out their duties in regard to the criminal cases, and also with reference to their inspection of buildings in receipt of public money.

The civil case Kearns vs. Stratton has been amicably settled between the parties. The two criminal cases constituted the only business before the court.

In the non-jury case, Revell vs. Swanston, judgment was given for the plaintiff without costs. This was an action to recover possession of certain lands in Ashburnham, the property of the Rev. Mark Burnham Estate, to which the defendant claimed title by length of possession. Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr & Stevenson, solicitors for the plaintiff; Daniel O'Connor, solicitor for the defendant.

SOCIAL EVENING

Spent by Young People of Murray Street Baptist Church

A very pleasant social evening was spent by the young people of Murray street Baptist church last night.

A very fine program of solos, readings and recitations was rendered by the young people, after which luncheon and coffee was served by the ladies, chief of which was pumpkin pie.

Coals Go to Newcastle

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 28.—The schooner J. V. Taylor cleared on Saturday with 300,000 feet of lumber for Dresden, Ont., for the Ludington Lumber Company. This is the first cargo of lumber ever shipped from Menominee to a Canadian port.

TRADE VIEWS SUPPRESSED

Balfour Did Not Publish Explanations of Mr. Ritchie and Lord Hamilton

London, Sept. 28.—No announcement has yet been made in regard to the reconstruction of the Cabinet. Lord Milner left Carlsbad on Saturday morning en route to London, where he arrived Sunday afternoon. The latest report is that he hesitates to accept the Colonial Secretaryship on the ground of bad health.

A persistent rumor was current last night that the Duke of Devonshire, President of the Council, had resigned, but this is denied. The Daily Mail asserts that he will good naturedly remain in the Cabinet at the urgent request of the King, who prefers not to have an immediate breaking up of the Ministry. The same authority adds that the Duke of Devonshire will remain in office on the express understanding that if the Government takes any action which seems to him to be subversive of free trade principles, he will resign. It is declared that Mr. Ritchie and Lord George Hamilton were kept in ignorance of the fact that the Duke had not resigned when they resigned. It is also said, that they wrote justificatory letters to Prime Minister Balfour, as Mr. Chamberlain did, but their letters were suppressed.

The Standard, a Ministerialist organ, says it hears that Mr. Brodrick will remain as Secretary of War.

Addressing a demonstration at Newcastle, County Down, on Saturday, John Redmond, the Irish leader, said that the Irish Land bill having been secured, the next session must be devoted to the laborers' question.

"The political situation today was a strange one," he continued, "and if Premier Balfour desired to retain office, the Irish party would hold the power of life and death in its hands, and would use that power without compunction to forward the interests of the Irish cause."

IAN HAMILTON IS HERE

British Lieutenant General Arrives in New York for a Tour

New York, Sept. 29—Lieutenant General Sir Ian Hamilton, who participated in the defence of Ladysmith arrived from Liverpool on the Lucania.

General Hamilton will remain in this country only three weeks and a portion of that time will be spent in Canada visiting various military posts. General Hamilton said: "I have only five weeks' leave of absence, so that I shall not be able to stay as long as I wish. I want to look over the great battlefield of your civil war — Gettysburg, Antietam, Chancellorsville, Fredericksburg and the rest."

General Hamilton came here on the invitation of General Corbin and other American officers whom he met at the German army manoeuvres, and he will be accompanied by some of them on his trip to the southern battlefields.

A GOOD MARKET

But Canadians Should Ship Direct and Save Commission

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—The Canadian commercial agent in Paris writes that "Canadian ham is in especially good demand in France, and chiefly in Paris." But at the prices now in force since the Customs duties were increased, shipments must be made direct, instead of through the United Kingdom. This would do away with the extra commission to the British representative.

The commercial agent also accentuates the opening that exists for Canadian apples and coal.

RECEIVER NAMED

Consolidated Lake Superior Company Placed in Hands of John Carruth

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 28.—John G. Carruth of Philadelphia, president of the International Title and Trust Co., was today appointed receiver for the Consolidated Lake Superior Company by Judge Platt in the United States District Court. His bond was placed at $10,000.

Judge Lynde Harrison, of this city, counsel for the company, said the company consented to the appointment of the receiver.

NEW HEIR TO THE THRONE OF RUSSIA

Russian Court Circles in Commotion Over it

The Czar Very Much Annoyed Over the Matter

St. Petersburg, Sept 27—A great commotion has been caused at the Russian court by the appearance of a new heir to the throne in opposition to the heir presumptive, Grand Duke Michael. It seems that in [illegible] the czar's brother, Grand Duke George, who was then 22 years of age, was secretly married to Princess Nakashidze, daughter of a Caucasian nobleman. The ceremony was legally performed in the presence of witnesses. The couple lived together until George's death in 1899. They had two sons and one daughter.

The Russian court remained in ignorance of this until recently. Grand Duke George's eldest son, Prince Cyril is now 9 years of age. He has found partisans who present strong claims that he is heir to the throne having prior rights. They say the marriage of Grand Duke George was not morganatic as the princess' rank was equal to that of George.

The Duke Constantine of Oldenburg who was a most intimate friend of Grand Duke George, has constituted himself Prince Cyril's champion. This has so incensed the czar that he has issued a decree declaring Constantine insane and appointing Duke Alexander guardian.

It will be difficult, however, to override Prince Cyril's rights, which may make endless trouble if Grand Duke Michael tries to succeed to the Crown.

The possessor of fourteen diplomas and certificates, who wants no money that he does not earn he ability to do as he says, Dr. S. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, vital weakness, varicocele, lost vigor, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and if you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interest of every man who suffers in this way, to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the fourteen diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Avenue, Room 185, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

Rolff House

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Story of Love and Adventure.

Claude put the papers in his pocket, and proceeded to open the inner vault door. Within this door, the vault was divided into a number of compartments each of which had its separate door, which was locked. To Claude's surprise, old Carl now produced a bunch of keys, which he said had been given into his possession but a few days before by the strange visitor, and which they found to fit the various locks of the inner vault. On opening the doors of these receptacles, they were found filled with bags of coin, and valuable papers of various kinds; and, although Claude was not able to make any estimate of the value of the contents of the old vault, he felt satisfied that it was considerable, and that his aunt's dying intimation that he would be left in the possession of wealth was realized.

But the young man did not hail his good fortune with the joy it once would have afforded him. He sought suggestions of old Carl as to what course to pursue for the security of his treasures, and followed his advice implicitly. The next few days were spent in installing old Carl and Margaret in Rolff House, and making all things as comfortable and safe as possible.

Then Claude, spite of all advice and remonstrances from his worthy old friend, bid a hasty adieu, and set out for the headquarters of the army.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

The treaty of Ghent in 1814 brought peace again to the country. On the disbanding of the army, Claude Rolff returned to his native village. He had passed unscathed through two campaigns, and rendered his country brave and faithful service.

Some important changes had taken place during his absence at the seat of war.

Old Carl still remained at his post at Rolff House, and was as faithful and vigorous as ever; but the aged Margaret had passed away. Her health had long been feeble, and she had never recovered from the shock that Leb. Sackett's deviltry had caused her, and she sank to rest at a good old age. By advice of Claude's lawyer, Mr. Halstead, a new housekeeper had been engaged in her place, being no less a personage than the widow Grewy. Whether the widow was entirely satisfied with this arrangement is not known; but she had somehow failed in her assault on the obdurate heart of the bachelor lawyer, and had accepted through his influence the comfortable place in question as perhaps the only available compromise.

Ralph Saybrook had remained some time in the old village after his father's flight. He seemed to enjoy the dignity of being left in the possession of the business and property of his parent, and, being undisturbed by any legal proceedings, was apparently in no hurry to dispose of the property, as he was being constantly urged to do by his father's letters. In truth, Anthony Saybrook, in his voluntary banishment, began to realize what it is to educate a child to cold-blooded villainy and selfishness. Ralph was not without hopes that he could yet win the hand of Rose Bruyn, and, with this object in view, he temporised with his father's orders to dispose of the property, urging various ingenious excuses, while he was in reality planning to appropriate his inheritance in a rather premature manner. But all of Ralph's hopes of gaining the hand of Rose Bruyn came to an end through a lingering sickness that struck down the old farmer. A severe rheumatic attack held him confined to his bed for months. Racked with pain, and broken in strength and spirit, the obdurate old man found his only comfort in the love and tenderness of his wife and daughter, and a gradual change came over him that convinced Ralph ere long that he was no more susceptible to his manipulations. Thus disappointed, Ralph in time disposed of his father's property, and went to join him in a Western State, and the quiet little village heard of them no more.

Claude had returned home in many respects a changed man. He had grown in knowledge of the world as well as in years, and his military experience had been well calculated to discipline his impulsive and ardent nature. In one thing he remained unchanged, and that was in his devotion to the fair object of his first love. All obstacles had for some time been removed from his path. Rose had obtained her father's consent to open correspondence with him ere he left the seat of war; and when he returned home the first doorway he had entered was that of old farmer Bruyn. Very tender and blissful was the meeting between the long-parted lovers. And when they went hand in hand to the chamber of the invalid old man, it was to kneel and receive his blessing. Claude could hardly realize this happy change; but Death is a potent peacemaker, and the hand of death was on the old farmer. He lived to see his daughter the happy bride of Claude Rolff, and the mistress of Rolff House, and then passed peacefully away.

Claude had the venerable mansion of his fathers restored, and settled down in it as a quiet country gentleman. Under the subduing influence of perfect domestic happiness, all his ambitious ideas of fame as an artist faded away, and he could dream of no happier existence than to be at the head of a well ordered household, dispensing hospitality and charity with a liberal hand. The blessing the stranger priest had invoked on Rolff House seemed to have descended to abide there. Gradually neatness and order and beauty were restored to the surroundings; light and cheerfulness replaced mystery and gloom; and the noble old mansion ere long lost its reputation as an abode of hobgoblins and evil spirits. The mirth and prattle of childhood's voice again were heard within its walls; and no happier family could have been found in all the land than that contained beneath the venerable roof of Rolff House. No fairer, wiser or more gracious matron than the wife of Claude Rolff ever ruled over a household with the rod of love. Age never came more gently to widowed dame than it did to Mrs. Bruyn, and no kinder or more indulgent grandmother ever shared the joys and sorrows of childhood. As for old Carl Crum, he always remained attached to the household, and was always a favorite with old and young—especially the latter. And he never was happier himself, or a greater hero in the eyes of wondering childhood than when he gathered a group of little ones around him of an evening and told anew the never old legends stored in his memory relating to the mystery of Rolff House.

THE END.

A THREATENING TRAMP

Lawless Peddler Near Hespeler Forced Women to Buy Goods.

Hespeler, Sept. 26.—A peddler called at the residence of Daniel Joggins, near Hespeler, yesterday, and finding Mrs. Joggins alone with her young daughter, threatened to blow out her brains if she did not purchase some cloth which he was offering for sale. The frightened woman bought goods to the extent of $2.50. The stranger then attempted to grab her purse, and, failing, quickly departed. The man wore a frock coat, grey trousers, and a light-colored felt hat, and carried a white canvas bag.

DO YOU FEEL SEEDY?

It You are Nervous, Depressed, Sleepless, and Suffer from Sick Stomach, Headache, Constipation and Indigestion, You need a Good Tonic like Ferrozone to Build Up the System.

Thousands are in this dreadful condition, only half alive, unable to stand the strain of work and worry. There is no sense or reason in trying to be comfortable with the idea that it will pass off, and that you are going to be better soon. Unless the system is cleansed of the impurities that poison the blood, you will never be well.

The best remedy is Ferrozone. It achieves marvellous results in chronic wasting diseases, nervous prostration, faulty nutrition, heart disease and stomach troubles.

Ferrozone promotes healthy digestion which results in all food being assimilated. Nutrition is vastly improved, the blood grows rich and red and gives stability to the entire system, the store of nerve energy and force increases daily by the use of Ferrozone. The process of waste is arrested, and in its place a rebuilding of the whole system takes place.

Diseased conditions cannot exist where Ferrozone is used. It attacks disease at its very foundation, and by keeping the body well nourished and supplied with strong blood and a powerful nervous organization prevents and keeps away all manner of sickness.

There is no blood builder, nerve tonic and strength producer that can equal Ferrozone, and few people are so well that could derive great benefit from its use. It is valuable in Nervous Dyspepsia, Anaemia, Weakness, Impure Blood, Bronchitis, Neuralgia and Rheumatism. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet and is both pleasant and convenient to use.

Ferrozone produces that high standard of health so much desired by everyone. It brings back the rosy tint to the pale cheeks of the Anaemic girls and women. It puts grace and elasticity into their movements, gives lustre and brightness to the eye, and symmetry and roundness to the form. It gives a man new strength and energy with which to pursue his daily toil, and can be relied upon at all times to benefit and give perfect satisfaction.

You can't invest half a dollar to better advantage than in a box of Ferrozone. Your druggist has it, or it will be mailed to your address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

ARE YOU A PRISONER?

THOUSANDS of men are prisoners of disease as securely as though they were confined behind the bars. Many have forged their own chains by the vices of early youth, exposure to contagious disease, or the excesses of manhood. They feel they are not the men they ought to be or used to be. The vim, vigor, and vitality of manhood are lacking. Are you nervous and despondent? tired in the morning? have you to force yourself through the day's work? have you little ambition and energy? are you irritable and excitable? eyes sunken, depressed and haggard looking? memory poor and brain fagged? have you weak back with dreams and losses at night? deposit in urine? weak sexually?—you have

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500.00, and to the five next nearest $100.00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the lists are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children under three years of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.10, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $5.10 per day while here, so nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA', PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty Numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000

PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD——$80,000,000——GOLD

—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk to a depth of 150 to 450 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large amounts have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale [illegible] shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at [illegible] cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order, payable to the order of

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $8 to $54.80 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. (This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 28—A further line of liquidation was noted in the stock market Monday. Heavy selling was noted in the general list and there and there new low records were made.

The bears worked to convert every feature of news into bear ammunition, and they succeeded quite well. The heavy selling of stocks was for the account of Phila. Pittsburg and the middle west. This selling was figured to be liquidation in consequence of the disposition of the banks to proceed more cautiously in the matter of extending credits. Efforts were made to bring about a reaction from the low points, but the effects of these efforts were not important and there was a feeling of uneasiness up to the close, the impression being that something of a very serious nature is hanging over the market. The clearing house sheets went through all right today, but there were rumors of a failure at the close. Outside stocks were weak and dull while the bonds were heavy with a small demand.

New York, Sept. 28—The weakness of the traction stocks Saturday was unexplained and there was a general disposition to attribute the traction in prices to manipulation. It was pointed out after the close that a strong manipulative element is at work on the market and under these circumstances there are those who look for other feverish movements in the general list. The stock market is being affected in groups. The steel and iron stocks showed the first signs of weakness and after they were sold to a standstill, the traction stocks were taken up; what the next group will be remains to be seen, but at the moment there is a lot of conflicting talk and many interests appear to be indulging in a lot of guess work. The bank statement Saturday was quite favorable in fact the averages on the whole were much better than expected, the loss of only $700,000 in case being considered remarkable in view of the fact that during the week the movement of currency to the south was at a maximum. Under the circumstances there is a disposition to give the monetary situation a more favorable interpretation, still the professional interests in the stock market are in a position to work the money market and they are paying but little attention to the changes. The big railroad reports are attracting but little attention. The Atchison has made a favorable showing for August, showing a net increase of $100,000. Other big systems are reported equally large net gains. There is a rumor that the price of steel has been cut, but it is difficult to secure any definite information in this connection, and there is a disposition to figure that the cut, if it has been made, is for the purpose of killing competition and not on account of any lack of buying. The general stock market situation is still considerably mixed and the chances are that there will be continued irregularity for some time to come.

Chicago, Sept. 28—There was considerable buying of wheat Saturday. A break of seven cents seemed to be considered enough for the present, and many shorts showed an inclination to get under cover. The trade was active and well distributed, but the general market at the moment is in a rather peculiar state and fluctuations are likely to be feverish. The export business, it is figured, must be extensive in the future in order to insure a firm market, inasmuch with weekly clearances of only 300,000 the bulls cannot hope to carry prices very far in an upward direction. The corn market is nervous, the crop situation is quite satisfactory all things considered, and there is every reason to look for a crop of over two billion bushels. There is a fair cash demand at the moment and receipts are heavy for this time of the year.

The Pope is Tired of Living at the Vatican

Rome, Sept. 28.—The attack of rheumatism from which the Pope is suffering is thought to have been caused by long daily walks in the damp gardens of the Vatican. In future His Holiness will drive. He dislikes the confinement, which he complains is telling on his health. The old Papal castle at Gandolfo is being restored. It is said that it is to be used as a country house by the Pope's sisters. This fact is deemed significant, in connection with the assertion of the Pope that he is tired of living in Vatican. The appointment of a Papal Secretary of State in November is regarded as assured.

Sultan and Europeans

Tangier, Sept. 28—The Sultan's decision to dismiss all his European employes is not based on political grounds only, but is also due to the fact that the responsible officials of Fez protested that the feeling against the employes was so strong that they could not be responsible for their safety. The news of the dismissal caused great satisfaction in the native circles.

THE STERLING OIL CO.

brought in on Monday the 20th of July one of the biggest gushers in Sour Lake. It is situated in the Wirt-Davis tract and has been producing oil continuously since it came in, the Spindletop Power Company taking the entire output from the well. Besides owning this gusher the Company owns two other valuable pieces of Oil Land at Sour Lake, where they have just let a contract for drilling a second well in the gusher district. The Company has acquired a twelfth interest in 87 acres of land near Saratoga and a well will soon be drilled on this land, the indications are that fine gushers will be developed in this territory. The Company also owns property in Beaumont, Texas where there are two wells.

All who purchase the stock prior to September 15th will participate in the September dividend. The price of the stock is 20 cents per share. No orders accepted for less than 50 shares.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for three hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

[illegible] of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

The Reason Why

Why is the Parker "Lucky Curve Pen" superior to all others? First, because it is the most cleanly pen made, on account of the "Lucky Curve." One of the second points of superiority in the Parker Pen is the Anti-Break Cap. Ask for the "Parker" and buy no other; it's the best on the market, and the only pen you get a guarantee with. For sale at Times Bookstore.

A Novel Crop

Flax growing on a wall is a novelty that can be seen in Mr. Wm. Collins' house, in North Monaghan, on the border of the town. He borrowed a wagon from a neighbor to haul sand for plastering in. The wagon had previously been used for hauling flax and a little of it remained in the bottom. After the walls were plastered the flax sprouted and grew and will have to be cut before the walls can be papered. At least this is the story that came to The Times from an esteemed subscriber.

A Cathedral Wedding

A wedding was celebrated at St. Peter's cathedral yesterday morning, when Miss Nellie, the eldest daughter of Mrs. Patrick McAuliffe, 704 Water street, was married to Mr. John King, of town. Rev. Dr. O'Brien officiated. The bridesmaid was Miss Mamie Garry, while Mr. John Handrehen assisted the groom. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. W. J. Garry. The happy young couple left on the 11.45 G.T.R. train for Toronto, Niagara, Buffalo, and Rochester, and upon their return will reside at 704 Water street.

"Laugh and Grow Fat"

Life is such a serious business with the average mortal that an opportunity for a hearty laugh is more than welcome to most people. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine," and so do the humorous features of that great metropolitan daily, the Chicago Record-Herald. The first thing that greets you on the first page of every issue is a humorous cartoon by Ralph Wilder, the well known artist, that frequently tells more at a glance than could be conveyed in a column of reading matter. Every issue contains also a humorous small story on the editorial page, and the "Alternating Currents" column written by S. E. Kiser, one of the most popular humorous writers in the country. In addition to all these the Sunday issue always contains a comic section, guaranteed to produce laughter.

Attained Its Majority

With the October number, The Canadian Magazine closes its twenty-first volume, thus attaining its majority. It has been published just ten and a half years, each half year making a large volume. No other Canadian periodical has had such a successful record, and it speaks well for the patriotism and culture of the people of Canada. The current number contains a splendid account of the famous battle of Lundy's Lane by Dr. Hannay, with illustrations; a magnificent article by Professor Milner dealing with the ancient and modern conceptions of Liberty; an illustrated resume of the Commercial Congress at Montreal by Ernest H. Cooper; a bit of romance from British Columbia history, entitled "Two Lost Towns," by M. S. Wade; an illustrated description of Threshing on the Prairie by W. H. Belford, and an illustrated article on the British Embassy at Washington by Waldon Fawcett. The Hon. Clifford Sifton is the celebrity of the month. There are stories and poems by Jean Blewett, Virna Sheard, Albert R. Carman, Hubert McBean Johnston and J. W. Fuller. The departments are as interesting as usual, completing what is undoubtedly an exceptionally fine number.

Outing for October

Outing for October is full of timely things for out-of-door men and women. October is a shooting month. H. S. Canfield's story of "Shooting Grouse in the Middle Northwest," an "Off-Day Among Quail" and "Helps to Duck Calling," are therefore all in the swing of out-door activities. To big game hunters J. H. Kidder's paper on "Hunting Sheep in Alaska" will make valuable as well as interesting reading because few have spent so much time in Alaskan game research as Mr. Kidder. So, too, Richard D. Ware's article on "Newfoundland Caribou" is of unusual quality because it offers important information of a locality very easy to hunt. The visit of English golf and tennis experts to this country and their sweeping victories give especial interest to such articles as "American Balls and British Golfers," by Horace Hutchinson, the veteran English expert, and an analysis of the reasons for the Dohertys' clean sweep of American and international tennis championships.

Anglers will go far to find an interesting a human story as "On the English Ships" by Leonidas Hubbard, Jr., who is now exploring Labrador for Outing. Of out-of-door fiction there is considerable variety by Henry W. Lanier, Tudor Jenks, E. C. McCants, Henry C. Rowland and R. V. Carr, some of it very amusing (and all worth reading, as is also Mrs. Herrick's story of the "Modern Child at Play" which carries handsome illustrations. Automobilists will do well to read T. P. Terry's description of Java roads, for here is a virgin and most attractive territory, also fine roads for tourists awheel as well as afoot. To paddle a canoe from Chicago to New York is a feat for pluck and makes an interesting story of adventure in October Outing. Dan Beard has helped many a novice to make a comfortable camp; this month he tells how to build camps on swamps or on water.

It pays a woman to be pretty sometimes. Being pretty saved a woman's life last week in Peterborough. She was playing whist at an evening party, and it was naturally supposed that she knew how to play or she wouldn't have sat into the game. She was so distractingly pretty that every man there wanted to be her partner. Her first remark was that she just loved whist.

"Let me see. Is this strict whist or just a little social game?" Then came the inevitable question: "What is trump?"

"Hearts."

"Oh, do you lead trumps?"

"Lead from your suit."

"But I haven't any. There isn't a long suit in my hand. Oh, is a king worth more than an ace in whist? How much do spades count? I've got the right bower; is it any good? How do you signal? By opening and closing your hand? Oh, what a goose —I forgot I was playing whist. Partner, please take that trick; I haven't any more trumps. Oh, I mustn't talk, you'll think I don't know how to play. What's that? Trumped my partner's ace? I always do. Why I've reneged again—I'm such a goose."

And every man present looked as if he really enjoyed it.

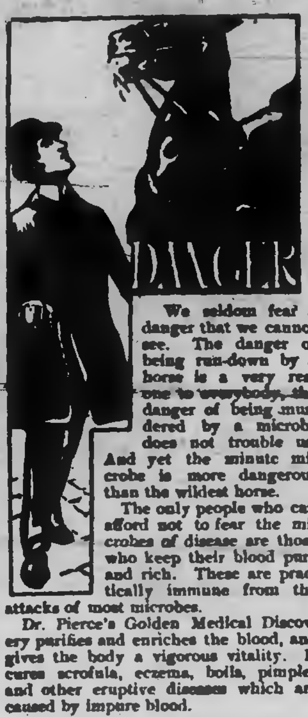
DOURO.

—The crops are looking fine throughout the township.

—Everybody in Douro reads The Times, and the paper is more sought after than any other publication.

—The municipal pot will soon begin to boil once more. It is said that a fierce battle will be waged this year, by aspirants to the seats at council board. It will, however, be difficult to get a better council than the present one. The ratepayers will probably conclude to let well enough alone.

A Sloperville lady took her false teeth out and laid them on the center table one night recently, when her husband, to play a joke on her, substituted a horse-shoe in the place of them. She wore the horseshoe all the forenoon, complaining that her "teeth didn't fit," and only discovered the change by the while gash the ten cent made when she bit a biscuit.



We seldom fear a danger that we cannot see. The danger of being run-down by a horse is a very real one to everybody, the danger of being murdered by a microbe does not trouble us. And yet the minute microbe is more dangerous than the wildest horse.

The only people who can afford not to fear the microbes of disease are those who keep their blood pure and rich. These are practically immune from the attacks of most microbes.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies and enriches the blood, and gives the body a vigorous vitality. It cures scrofula, eczema, boils, pimples and other eruptive diseases which are caused by impure blood.

"I had been troubled for about four years with eczema, or a skin disease, which at times was almost unbearable as it would itch so," writes Mr. John Larison, of 113 Powhattan St., Dallas, Texas. "I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; and after using five bottles found that I was entirely cured. Please accept many thanks."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the blood.

An Indignant Traveller

If women get any more rights than they have now they don't want to travel. When a man enters a railroad coach and finds every seat occupied or "taken" by the usual grips and wraps or parcels he either stands around in the car or on the platform until there is an adjusting of things and he can get a seat, or moseys along into the smoker and sits on the stove.

Not so with a woman. Not on your life. She will flop down into the first seat she comes to—regardless of grips, overcoat, umbrella or whatnot, that the rightful owner has left to retain his seat while he is doing business with the station agent or somebody else. It's dollars to buttons, too, that she will fire the poor man's belongings right and left into other seats while she is in the act of jumping his claim; and when he returns and stops opposite his seat she'll never bat an eye—but chew her gum and gaze as innocent as a suckling lamb upon the fleeting landscape.

The only thing left for the man to do is to gather up his grips, straighten the wrinkles out of his overcoat and go and ask the baggage man for a seat on a caddy of bananas.

This explains why an old traveler—when he gets a seat in a railroad car, —looks with perfect composure upon women standing up all around him. He thinks that if he lived a hundred years and travelled a million miles he couldn't make good.

SEVEN RIOTERS WERE ARESTED AT THE SOO

All Barrooms Have Been Ordered Closed by the Authorities

IT IS EXPECTED THAT THE TROUBLE IS OVER

But Still There Are Several Factors Which May Precipitate Further Trouble

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 29.—The feature of this morning's developments in the Canadian Soo was the arrest of seven men, the ringleaders of yesterday's riots. Two of the leaders are already in jail, the two Frenchmen who were wounded by the police having proved to be among the worst of the agitators. With the leaders behind the bars of the jail the authorities are hopeful that the worst of the situation has passed.

The saloons, some of which opened up early this morning, have all been closed again, and every effort seems to be made to prevent a repetition of yesterday's disorder.

There are two features that may portend further trouble. A big crowd of men were transferred by rail yesterday as far as Wilde, a station on the Algoma Central, where the train was halted because of the rioting which was going on in the Soo. The officials, naturally, not wishing to increase the number of men in town until the rioting had ceased. This action infuriated the men on the train, all of whom were woodmen who had, like those in town, been discharged without pay, and some of them started to walk down. About 60 of these men reached town during the night, and today they are the most disturbing element in the situation.

The rest of the men who were halted at Wilde are also reported to be walking into town, and the arrival is anticipated with a good deal of uneasiness. The chief agitator, who has been arrested, is known as Jack Dean.

Dean is a typical labor agitator. He has never been in the employ of the company and has not a cent coming to him. He was, nevertheless, the aggressive leader in all of the disturbances, haranguing the men whenever he could get an audience, urging the destruction of the works, the killing of the policemen and soldiers, and championing a reign of anarchy. Dean is likely to be up against a long time in the penitentiary for his activity yesterday, as the Canadian laws are strict and severe for such actions as he was guilty of.

One of the interesting incidents of yesterday's trouble has just come to light. Miss Wilhelmina Matthewson is the telephone operator at the office building of the company, which was the scene of rioting all day yesterday. Her desk and switchboard are located on the ground floor in one of the front offices, directly in front of a window, looking down upon the howling mob. Notwithstanding the fact that every window in the building was smashed, that the ground floor was at one time in possession of the mob, that they were driven back repeatedly with drawn revolvers and that a large number of shots were exchanged, that the window which she faced was one of the first stove in, that her switchboard was struck a number of times, Miss Matthewson sat through it all, and never missed a call all day long. This morning she is the heroine of the occasion.

The agitators arrested this morning are charged with an attempt to incite riot, the penalty for which in Canada is life imprisonment.

DESCRIBES RUINS AS APPALLING

An English Traveller Tells of Conditions Prevailing in Monastir

MANY VILLAGES BURNED

Bulgaria and Turkey are Both Preparing for the Possibility of War

London, Sept. 30—The Times' correspondent at Sofia says that an Englishman, who has just arrived from Monastir, describes the ruin and misery in that vilayet as appalling. In Orcharplete the whole district is a solitude. The revolutionary committee's statistics of Turkish destruction are corroborated by a document which was purloined from Hilmi Pasha's archives, and which has fallen into the hands of one of the consuls. This gives a total of villages destroyed in the vilayet as 93, compared with the 96 stated in the revolutionary memorandum to the Powers. It is a fact, however, that the Bulgarian underestimate rather than exaggerate. The memorandum gave a total of Christian villages entirely or partially destroyed at 111, but at least 100 were pillaged, and most of them burned.

In the Adrianople vilayet the Bulgarians said that four villages were burnt, but at least a dozen had been destroyed, and the number is now 40. The correspondent, in calling attention to the misery of the inhabitants, says that the missionaries and the Catholic Sisters of Mercy would gladly co-operate in the distribution of relief. The American missionaries have addressed a request to the British and American Governments to despatch a red cross contingent. They say that no time should be lost as the starving people are eating roots and grasses, the wounded are dying unattended and pestilence is threatened. They ask that pressure be applied to Constantinople for permission to distribute relief, as the Turks misappropriate the funds entrusted to them. The soldiers recently sold a cartload of provisions intended for the sufferers at Krusevo.

FRANCE FOR PEACE

Member of the Cabinet Addresses Congress at Rouen

Paris, Sept. 330—The feature of the closing session of the international peace conference which has been sitting at Rouen, was a speech yesterday afternoon by M. Trouillot, minister of commerce, who declared that France was proud to be at the head of the peace movement. He expressed the hope that the time was coming when the huge sums devoted to keeping up armies would be utilized for the benefit of humanity. The minister spoke again in the same strain at the banquet held last evening in honor of the congress.

MRS. DAVIS SINKING

Widow of President of Confederacy Near to Death

Buffalo, Sept. 30—It was announced by Dr. Charles P. Stockton, who has been attending Mrs. Jefferson Davis that she was no better last night. At noon yesterday there was a hopeful air about the household, but toward night the patient began to sink again and Dr. Stockton stated that it was unlikely that she would live through the night.

A telegram has been sent to Mrs. J.A. Hayes of Colorado Springs, a daughter of Mrs. Davis and half-sister of Winnie Davis, known as the "daughter of the confederacy," who died three years ago. It is expected that Mrs. Hayes will arrive in Buffalo some time today.

It has been Mrs. Davis' custom for years to spend her summer in Buffalo. She arrived at the Castle Inn Monday with a party of Southern friends. The Castle Inn is the hotel in which President Millard Fillmore died.

Mrs. Davis is suffering from an obstruction of the alimentary canal. Her condition is serious, but not necessarily fatal. No surgical operation is anticipated at this time.

DEFY UNION SLUGGERS

New York Builders Organize Force to Protect Their Men

New York, Sept. 30—There is one firm in New York that intends to continue its building operations in spite of Sam Parks, and that is the Remington Construction Company. It has a contract to build an eighteen-storey office building at Wall and Beaver streets, and is making elaborate preparations to procure men to do the work and to protect them while they are employed. The firm has already opened a recruiting office near the Battery, where it is enlisting the services of the most powerful longshoremen it can find and next week it will build a stockade around the building and turn it into a miniature fort.

NOT PULLING TOGETHER

Tension Exists Between Canadian and English Engineers

London, Sept. 28—The secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, referring to a cable published on Saturday that a difference of opinion had developed between the Canadian branches of the International Trade Union and his society, said he knew his society's men were at variance with the Canadian branches. More definite news was coming, but he did not think the tension was as great as indicated. Some fifty men had gone to Canada, and only a dozen had returned. The Canadian agent who was here six months ago did not get all the men he wanted.

LABOR PEOPLE IN POLITICS

North Waterloo Will Likely Have a Labor Candidate

Berlin, Ont., Sept 28—Organized labor held a mass meeting in their hall Saturday night to talk over the labor question politically respecting bringing out candidates for the House of Commons and the Legislature. There were present a few from Galt, Preston and Hespeler. The meeting was harmonious, and the general feeling was that a candidate should be brought out in the North, and the South were strongly urged to do likewise. A convention has been called for Thanksgiving Day at Berlin.

MUST BOW TO THE IRISH

John Redmond Says They Have Balfour in Their Power

London, Sept. 30—Addressing a demonstration at Newcastle, County Down, yesterday, John Redmond, the Irish leader, said that the Irish land bill having been secured, the next session must be devoted to the laborers' question. The political situation today was a strange one, he continued, and if Premier Balfour wished to retain office the Irish party would hold the power of life or death in its hands and would use that power without compunction to forward the interests of the Irish cause.

MAN SHOOTS WIFE DEAD

Long Family Trouble Terminate in Tragedy

After Committing Murder Farmer Confesses Deed and Says He Expects to Hang

Mankato, Minn., Sept. 30—Emil Grams, a farmer residing ten miles east of Mankato, shot and instantly killed his wife early yesterday morning. He admits the murder and says he expects to hang for it. He was placed in custody at Eagle Lake and then brought to this city.

Grams is about 50 and well-to-do. Both he and his wife had been married before and had children by previous consorts. Their own immediate family consists of four children. It is alleged that they have had trouble for years, and recently Mrs. Grams started another suit, her third, for a divorce and division of the property. Husband and wife had parted, and Mrs. Grams was making her home with a son by a former marriage, who lives in the vicinity.

The Grams were to come to Mankato yesterday to arrange a settlement. Early in the morning Grams arose and taking a shot gun went to the place where his wife was stopping and asked her to come upon the porch. She went outside, but told him she wanted nothing more to do with him. Grams then turned the shotgun upon her, and shot her at close range in the neck. She fell upon the porch and expired almost instantly.

Grams then returned to his own home and told his nephew what he had done. He loaded his gun and said he would shoot himself. The nephew persuaded him to give himself up and the two set out for Eagle Lake, where Grams was turned over to an officer, and later brought to this city.

Ordinarily he is not quarrelsome, but, under the influence of liquor, he had been accustomed to abuse his wife. He had been drinking before the murder. The neighbors regard the affair as a deliberate murder and are highly incensed. Mrs. Grams was greatly esteemed in this community.

BEST MARKETS ARE IN THE COLONIES

Chamberlain Writes Letters to a Manufacturer in Nottingham

SOURCE OF FOOD SUPPLY

The Colonial Secretary Points Out Favorable Conditions for An Imperial Preference

London, Sept. 30—Mr. Chamberlain, writing to a Nottingham manufacturer, says: "The colonies are the best friends and large customers for manufactured goods and the greatest potential source of food supply. They are ready to make profitable arrangements, while the foreigners are gradually closing every trade outlet.

FINLAY VERSUS WATSON.

The legal fraternity have been afforded during the past two weeks an opportunity to compare their foreign methods with those of the Americans. Attorney-General Finlay's style is one of cultured, dignified, incisiveness, while David T. Watson's style is vigorous, but lacks dignity, and is rather of a free and easy style. He has the habit of pausing as if waiting to see if the commissioners had caught on to his point.

WOUNDED IN DUEL

Marquis of Argudia Suffers in Encounter With Count Arcos

Paris, Sept. 30—A duel with swords has been fought in the grounds of a country club near Biarritz between Count Arcos of Clavijo and the marquis of Argudia. The latter was thrice wounded in the wrist and forearm.

Y. M. C. A. SOCIAL

Most Enjoyable Time Spent by Members of the Association

The entertainment tendered by the Social committee of the Y.M.C.A. last night to the new members was a most decided success, and was one of the best in the history of the association.

The forepart of the evening was spent in sociability, after which the following excellent program was rendered, with Mrs. Harding ably filling the position of chairman:

Instrumental solo	Mr. McCoy
Reading	Mr. Campbell
Solo	Mr. Joliffe
Phonograph selection	Mr. Maguire
Comic selection	Mr. F. H. Dobbin
Solo	Mr. W. Stocker

After this excellent program was rendered, coffee and refreshments were served in the parlor, and a good social time spent.

The delightful evening was brought to a close by the singing of hymns, and a prayer by the Rev. A. Wilson.

A SPLENDID PROPOSITION

Gold Recovery Company Enter Canadian Field

We call the attention of investors to the announcement of the above Company, which appears on our financial page in today's issue. The proposition is one that should be favorably received by Canadian capitalists and investors.

The Company is splendidly officered, and those who invest are assured of a square deal and good treatment.

The Company have secured as local representative Mr. W. J. Doughty, well known throughout this district, and this in itself will prove a great inducement to many to invest.

REDUCED PRICES FOR GAS

City Ownership Lowers the Price in the Town of Berlin

Berlin, Sept. 28—The town of Berlin, a few months ago, took over the gas and electric light and power plant, paying $100,000. It is in poor condition and not adequate to the requirements of the town. The Town Council on Saturday voted $70,000 to put the plant on a proper basis. Instead of steam coal gas engines will be installed, the second in Canada. Incandescent lights will be supplied at a cent a night per light, and the price of gas reduced to one dollar per thousand.

TORONTO SOLDIERS ARE CALLED OUT

To Help to Keep the Dismissed Men at the Soo Quiet

REGULARS LEFT JUST BEFORE DAWN

But the Volunteer Regiments Did Not Succeed in Getting Away Until About Noon

Toronto, Sept. 29—Two special train loads of troops were sent to meet the trouble at Sault Ste. Marie. The first train left Strachan avenue this morning, just before the gray dawn, pulling out shortly after 4 o'clock. It was composed of regulars from Stanley Barracks, comprising the infantry and mounted branches. It was a hurry order to leave, but, with the precision that marks the regulars, within two hours after it had been received 60 officers and men were standing in order waiting to entrain.

The train was a light one, made up of two Grand Trunk coaches and a palace horse car. The infantry were 27 strong, under Col. Buchan, D.O.C., Major Carpenter and Captain Leone. They were in fighting order, carrying rifles with bayonets, and plenty of ammunition for serious business. The Dragoons who composed the mounted corps were 30 strong, and carried carbine and side arms.

There was a small crowd to witness the departure. The hour was too early for more. The train had right of way, and left with orders to hurry through.

CALLED OUT TORONTO MEN.

Then came an order effecting the city regiment, for shortly before 2 this morning Col. Buchan, acting under the advice of the Adjutant-General at Ottawa, issued a call for 70 men and three officers each from the Highlanders, the Queen's Own, and the Royal Grenadiers, with 20 men and officers from the Army Medical Corps. This made a total of nearly 250 men.

OFF TO THE TRAIN.

The Kilties were the first to announce themselves in readiness, and at 10.30 Captain Campbell's stentorian voice invited the men to "fall in" and head stationwards.

They started, and hard on their heels came No. 4 Bearer Company, 20 strong. They entered the station by Simcoe street, and the small crowd following also tried to gain admittance, but the gates were closed and locked.

Half an hour later the Queen's Own Rifles, minus, however, their mess tins, swung into the station from York street and the east, and fifteen minutes further back came the red column of the Grenadiers. It was a pretty slim looking column, and the Grens' officers were sweating and complaining at the tardiness of their men.

Preparing for War

London, Sept. 30—While there is little fresh news from the Balkans, it appears from the despatches received here that both Turkey and Bulgaria are actively preparing for the possibility of war. The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Monastir comments on the successful disposition of the Turkish troops delivering a quick blow against either Servia or Bulgaria. There are ten thousand [illegible] in the vilayet of Kossovo seventy thousand men with three hundred guns ed forming a huge reserve. lonica, the last mentioned vilayet and 170,000 in Sathousand in Monastir at Adrianople vilayet; fifty

RUSSIA AFTER TRADE

She is Prepared to Take United States Advantages

San Francisco, Sept. 29.—The Earl of Lonsdale has arrived on the steamer Venture on his way home after making a tour of the world. He is accompanied by his wife, the Countess of Lonsdale, and a retinue of servants. During the past few months he has been travelling through the Orient and Australia, studying the social, political and industrial conditions.

In speaking of Australia, he says that the conditions there, resulting from the political situation, are both unsatisfactory and alarming.

Of English politics, the Earl said he had not been able to keep in as close touch with them as he would have liked. His observations in the Orient led him to believe that Russia was playing an interesting game in the far East. She may withdraw a battalion of troops, but as she does so she sends in a railroad battalion to take its place, and those battalions are there for work more serious than to take care of railroads. Russia is prepared to take all the trade now enjoyed by America. She will oust all Americans from the Yalu River for one thing, cutting into the lumber trade now being shipped from this coast by opening up the rich timber belt owned by Russian firms in the Yalu district.

The Earl and Countess will in about two weeks sail from New York for England.

Strong Influence at Work at Yildiz to Bring on the Impending Conflict

TURKEY'S IMMENSE ARMY NOW IN THE FIELD

It Now Numbers 250,000, Which Are Near Frontier---Germany Officials Fearful

Constantinople, Sept. 30—From a high military source a correspondent learns that the Turkish forces in Europe now number 350,000. The greater part of this force is stationed at short marches from the Bulgarian frontier and any day may witness a general advance. The Sultan continues to deprecate war, but his advisers, like the Turkish people, are clamourous for drastic measures, regardless of consequences.

His Majesty is reminded of the impossibility, without the greatest risk, of withdrawing a single battalion while the Bulgarians are in their present mood. He is also reminded that the maintenance of the existing army in the field involves financial difficulties that must shortly prove insupportable. Therefore, an immediate blow at the seat of the Macedonian revolution is urged.

GERMANY HOPELESS OF PEACE.

Berlin, Sept. 30—Speaking to a correspondent this morning a member of the Foreign Office whose views are entitled to especial weight on account of Turko-German intimacy said: "There is little confidence here that the negotiations between Turkey and Bulgaria will result in a peaceful solution. The demands of the insurgents for a notable Christian Governor are far in excess of the reform ideas of the powers.

"Even should the Sultan grant the extreme concessions asked, the Macedonians supported by the advocates of Pan-Slavism would embrace the first opportunity of revolting under a new banner."

NEED BAIT DEPOTS

Nova Scotia Fishermen Experienced Ruinous Season

Lunenburg, N.S., Sept. 29.—The Nova Scotia fisheries have been a failure this year. Both the deep sea and shore fishermen have had a ruinous season, the catches being smaller than in any season during the past 30 years. A number of vessels belonging to the Lunenburg banking fleet, which have been lying in harbors along the shore waiting in vain for bait, have returned home without getting a line. Others, after a three month's tug, have returned with 50 or 100 quintals, a mere bagatelle. Among the shore fishermen the Cape Shore fleet has abandoned fishing in disgust. "With one exception, they report from 200 to 400 quintals less than last year. In Lunenburg, which is the greatest fishing port in Canada, there is much disappointment over the poor results of the fishing season. One thing that the fishermen have learned is that they cannot trust to luck any more for bait, but will have to aid in the suggestion of the Government and establish bait depots.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 30—Emil Waltz who was wanted by the Detroit police in connection with the brutal murder of little Alphonse [illegible], whose terribly mutilated body was found Aug. 17 among some moulding flasks in the rear of the Michigan stove works, was arrested yesterday in Toledo and brought back to this city this evening. He was taken into the office of the superintendent of police and a severe "sweating process was begun.

DISASTER LOOMS AHEAD

Unprecedented Decline in Consols Demoralized the British Market

Colleges and Libraries Frightened at the Declines in Steel Trust Bonds

New York, Sept. 29.—The Daily Sun has the following cable from London, England, on the present stock depression:

The persistent decline in consols and the extreme depression of the Stock Exchange continue. It probably would be necessary to go back to the Baring crisis to find a parallel with the present state of the market demoralization. In many quarters the position is regarded as largely traceable to the needs of American financiers and speculators, and it is pointed out that borrowing both in the United States and England has been on an excessive scale.

The Daily Mail describes the feeling when the Stock Exchange closed yesterday as verging on consternation.

The Chronicle's financial article bears the head, "Disasters Looming Ahead," and the writer says that in many years' experience he is unable to recall a period so ominously symptomatic of the near approach of a credit breakdown. The indications preceding the Baring crisis were trivial compared with those now visible, and the depression must end in open insolvency on a gigantic scale.

There is certainly no business transacted on the Stock Exchange. Consols are dropping daily, the present price of consols being lower than in 1870, during the Franco-German war.

There is comment on the fact that British credit is below Canada's just now.

Others besides speculators are anxiously watching the depreciation in the value of Steel Trust stocks. College faculties and librarians, institutions endowed in England and Scotland by Carnegie, are watching the Steel Trust slump anxiously, because some of Carnegie's gifts to colleges and librarians in Great Britain took the form of Steel Trust bonds.

BIG BUTCHERS' STRIKE

Trouble in United States Will Have No Effect on Canada

DO NOT SUPPLY CANADA

Canada Market Depends on States for Only Part of Its Supply

Montreal, Sept. 30—The latest big strike in the United States is proposed by the butchers but fortunately Canada will not be affected by such an unpleasant state of affairs for the reason that the Canadians are not obliged to depend upon the United States for their meat.

It is said that every packing plant in the United States is threatened with a tie-up by a general strike of butchers and affiliated workmen throughout the country. The alternative is that the owners yield to the demands of the amalgamated meat cutters and butcher workmen of America.

With reference to this the manager of the Laing Packing and Provision Company said to-day that Canada would not suffer even in the event of a strike.

"Our men would not be drawn in for, as far as we know, there is no butchers' union of any importance.

"As far as the supply of meat is concerned, there is not likely to be any trouble, for we do not depend upon the packers of the United States. In fact, the only meat which comes into this country, is sent through here to be exported to the other side and I think that the people of this country need not worry if there is a strike."

CHRISTOPHER ROBINSON ILL

He Remained Seated in Addressing the Alaska Tribunal

London, Sept. 29.—When the Alaskan Boundary Commission resumed its session this morning Christopher Robinson, K.C., of Toronto, who suffered from severe indisposition yesterday, but who had benefited by the night's rest, resumed his speech in behalf of the Canadian claims, though, at the suggestion of Chief Justice Alverstone, counsel remained seated. Mr. Robinson dealt vigorously with the fallibility of the maps of the district under contention, claiming that the American deductions therefrom were therefore weak.

While arguing Canada's case yesterday afternoon Mr. Robinson nearly fainted, and stimulants had to be administered. He struggled on gallantly, however. His failing voice and growing pallor, however, prompted Lord Alverstone to adjourn the session earlier than usual. Mr. Robinson, who is 75 years of age, pluckily insisted that he was able to continue, but Lord Alverstone pleaded that he had an engagement of his own as a reason for cutting the sitting short. Stimulants again had to be administered.

PREFERENCE A BENEFIT

English Carpet Manufacturers Say That Reduction in Tariff Increased Trade

London, Sept. 29.—At a meeting of the Kidderminster Chamber of Commerce, held on Monday, at which replies were read from leading members of the chamber on the effect of tariffs and the carpet and yarn trades, to one question, 'Has the Canadian preference materially affected trade with the Dominion?' one member replied that he had derived very little benefit, as when the preference came into operation Canada had commenced seriously to manufacture carpets. Had there been no preference, however, the trade probably would have decreased. Four carpet manufacturers agreed that the trade had been benefited by Canada's preference. A yarn spinner replied that the weaving manufacturers in the British colonies were in their infancy, but the most advanced were in Canada. Canada's preference [illegible] a benefit to the [illegible]

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, SEPTEMBER 30 1903

TWO PRESIDENTS

Mr. Gompers, the President of the International Federation of Labor, has managed in some way to gain a reputation as a conservative in the United States, but it is noted that in most cases he appears on the side of the radicals.

In the dispute now in progress relative to unionism in the government printing office the issue is one over which conservative men, whether union or non-union can hardly disagree. The unions hold that American citizens who do not belong to labor societies must not be employed in that establishment. The laws of the United States make no discrimination whatever between members and nonmembers.

If the principle that only members of trades unions are eligible to employment in the government printing office be established it will not be long before citizens not thus organized will be excluded from other public employments. A professed and privileged class cannot exist in a true republic. In the case of many trades unions recruits are gained by intimidation and violence. If the government itself is to assist in this terrorism there will be a condition of affairs in many departments of the public service which it will not be pleasant to contemplate.

Mr. Gompers cannot withstand the president of the United States in the just enforcement of law and maintain the reputation for conservatism which he now enjoys. The president of the Federation of Labor is an important personage in the estimation and in the affairs of a large number of people, but he will not add to his renown as a [illegible] and patriotic man by undertaking to set himself above the president of the United States.

THE 'SOO TROUBLES

A Soo correspondent says that the tragical state of affairs in that unfortunate town has a side that under other circumstances would be a fit subject for the comic papers. Men having checks for hundreds of dollars are forced to beg a pipeful of tobacco and are eating at the expense of others and sleeping on the floors of a car barn. Capitalized at more than $100,000,000 and owning plants representing a cash expenditure of thirty millions, the company is actually unable to buy fodder for its horses. It is forced to the extreme of swapping things that do not eat to buy fodder for things that do eat. Wm. Coyne, assistant to President Shields, said he had been obliged to trade a cart for six tons of hay to keep the horses belonging to the company from starvation. "The animals" he said, "have been kept down to the least amount of fodder possible without endangering their health, but what we had is gone, and they had to be fed. I could find no person in the Soo willing to take a check or give credit and was forced to make some kind of a deal to get fodder."

It must surprise the people of Canada that in a town of twelve thousand inhabitants, large numbers of whom have prospered, or become wealthy, out of the operations of the great works organized by Mr. Clergue, no one was patriotic enough to lend some trifle of help in this emergency.

LEAN TIMES IN SIGHT

A labor crisis is approaching. It is indicated by the facts which some American statesmen have been collecting.

In Rochester there has been a remarkable shrinkage in building. During the season there has been an abandonment of projects which involved the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars. The reason is the difficulty between capital and labor, and the decision of capital to hold off until a better understanding has been reached.

In New York plans have been laid away of improvements which were valued at fifty millions of dollars.

In Chicago the clash between the forces has been a wicked one and the capitalists have united and agreed to defer contracts which meant an outlay of one hundred million dollars.

In the east the Pennsylvania railroad had resolved to expend $70,000,000 upon renewals and betterments, but the plans have been laid away until the labor situation becomes clearer and more satisfactory.

The head of the Machinists' International Union is said to have admitted that the labor market was in a very disturbed condition, that the friction between employers and employees had lately led to an hundred strikes, and nothing but conciliation would save the country from industrial depression.

The cotton mills of Canada and the United States have been injured by the cotton corner. The iron business is feeling the effect of over production, and on the one hand there has been threatened a [illegible] of stock, and on the other a suspension of operations and a consequent loss of work by thousands of men. Already the mills of one company have been closed and two thousand hands are without employment.

In the coal fields there has been an over-production of fuel, and on the verge of winter perhaps 20,000 men are going out without the means to take them over any extended period of idleness.

All this is significant. It points to the fact that the lean times may be in sight. They will come. Perhaps the intervals between them may be longer [illegible], but when they come they will be felt, and felt the more if the people have been improvident in the days of plenty.

Mr. R. R. Gamey continues to be a prominent figure at fall fairs. He evidently considers himself some pumpkins.

The Robber Escaped

London, Sept. 26.—When Mr. Albert Smith entered the door of his apartments over Tackaberry's harness store, on Richmond street, he espied a stranger rummaging in a drawer. Mr. Smith slipped out, locked the door, and hunted up a policeman. When he returned the door had been barricaded and had to be broken open. The intruder took to the roof, and after a lively chase slid down a water-pipe and got away.

You're a discouraged, weak, miserable wreck—old before your time. Instead of a place of happiness the world is full of strife, worry and distress.

You are sick and not aware of it. Just able to drag yourself around, but totally incapable of exertion or hard work.

Your stomach is crying out for assistance. Hadn't you better give it some Ferrozone?

Your nerves require a good bracing tonic, and the best thing for them is Ferrozone. Why don't you use this sovereign remedy? It is intended for cases just like yours.

Ferrozone is superior for the blood and nerves to any curative agent the world has ever known. Its recuperative powers are beyond description as a trial will demonstrate.

With the use of Ferrozone comes strength to overcome the difficulties and battles of life. Digestion and assimilation will improve, appetite steadily, and presto—before long you will be healthy, strong and well.

These blessings are all obtained by the regular use of Ferrozone, and has be purchased at any reliable drug store for 50c., or three boxes $1.25. Sent by mail to your address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

STILL IN THE RACE

Sir Thomas Lipton Does Not Favor Racing in British Waters

Chicago, Sept. 28.—"If I could find a designer I was certain could beat Herreshoff, I would build Shamrock IV., and challenge for the cup to-morrow. I am retaining Shamrock III., so you see I am in hopes of finding such such a designer. I intend to keep after the cup until I get it." These were the statements made by Sir Thomas Lipton in his apartments in the Auditorium annex last night, in the first interview he had given since coming to Chicago two weeks ago. "I want to repeat," he said, "I have have seen a suggestion that the only way to revive British art in cup racing would be to dangle the cup in front of our eyes by waiving the rules, and letting the challenged American yacht race in British waters. I want to say, that, while I personally appreciate the kindliness of the suggestion, we want to win the cup and win it fairly, accordingly to the present rules."

Sir Thomas showed no effects of his recent illness.

"LET'S BREAK OFF HERE"

Americans Complain of Cold Room in the Tribunal Sittings

London, Sept. 28.—Americans connected with the Alaska boundary tribunal, both commissioners and counsel, have suffered from the low temperature of the room where the sittings have been held and several have colds.

General Foster has been confined to his room for a few days with a cold caught in the tribunal, and now the commissioners and counsel sit bundled up in heavy overcoats, and still they shiver.

The complaints of the Americans have greatly disgusted the servitors of the Foreign Office, one of whom said: "These Americans say it's cold and the thermometer reads 67. What do they want—an oven."

Without the presence of Lord Alverstone the proceedings of the tribunal would indeed be dull. He never loses a chance to say something to lift the heavy gloom. He has instituted a new formula of adjournment. Instead of the conventional announcement of "This tribunal stands adjourned," he simply says, "Let's break off here."

PRINTERS STRIKE

Four Daily Newspapers of Vancouver May Be Tied Up

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 27.—It is expected that the four daily newspapers of Vancouver will be tied up on October 1, three days before the general election in the Province by a strike of the linotype operators, who decided at a meeting last night to go out on the date stated.

The men have asked for a new wage scale, and the publishers have replied that it is impossible to grant it, as the papers are now paying more than the revenues warrant. The employers are united in a publishers association, and will jointly resist the demand.

The Pope's Illness

Rome, Sept. 25—The attack of rheumatism from which the Pope is suffering, is thought to have been caused by long daily walks in the damp gardens of the Vatican. In future His Holiness will drive instead of walking. He dislikes the confinement which he complains is telling on his health. The old papal castle at Gandolfo is being restored. It is said that it is to be used as a country house by the Pope's sisters. This fact is deemed significant, in connection with the assertion of the Pope that he is tired of living in the Vatican. The appointment of a papal secretary of state in November is regarded as assured.

Poor Tobacco Harvest

Windsor, Sept. 28.—There will be a marked decrease in the amount of tobacco harvested in Essex County this fall," said Mayor Brault of Amherstburg today. "Last year we produced something over one million pounds, but this year, I think, between six and seven hundred thousand pounds will be a liberal estimate."

Many farmers who have had previous experience in raising tobacco are beginning to fear that a 50 per cent. crop will be about all they can expect. As a result of the shortage, growers are anticipating considerably higher prices, and the Essex-grown tobacco being greatly in demand by factories manufacturing chewing mixture, hopes are entertained that the increased prices paid by buyers will in a great measure compensate the farmers for the short crop.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500.00, and to the five next nearest $100.00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the lists are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $6.00 per day while here, so nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA, PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty Numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

THREE UNDOUBTED BARGAINS

A placer and two quartz claims;

Two partially developed quartz claims;

One-quarter section patented land adjoining above;

All located in the Susanville Mining District, Eastern Oregon. Will be sold together or separately. Total price, $9,000.

We consider this group of properties to be unusually promising as a heavy producing mine joins a portion of the land, and near-by placer grounds are showing up very rich.

Act quickly, if at all interested.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD——$80,000,000——GOLD
—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.
OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 600 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 250,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 25 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission.

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.
Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 104 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $[illegible] to $54.20 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 29—In consequence of the great depression in the stock market during the past few days, there are rumors in circulation to the effect that there is likely to be some announcements today of a rather serious nature. Just what the rumor appears to be is not clear to see at this time; for some days past there has been a lot of talk in circulation that a prominent financial situation was in difficulty and that it would have to go into temporary liquidation unless the market changes in the near future. The situation at the moment is about as badly mixed as at any time in months and under the circumstances it looks as if it will take some days for a recovery to set in.

New York, 29—There was a better demand for stocks Tuesday and the market displayed a better tendency. Shorts covered freely and the demand from this source was largely responsible for the rise in some securities. The London market was heavy but the declines abroad were relatively smaller than looked for. There was a heavy demand for stocks in the loan crowd indicating that the short interest is becoming unruly. The foreign news was more favorably regarded but throughout the day there was more or less uneasiness in evidence and the longs were not inclined to take profits. The professional element did the bulk of the business. The monetary situation was given a more favorable interpretation in consequence of the tendency of the banks to gain through sub-treasury operations. There were several good railroad statements at hand while the reports from traffic officials were quite optimistic. The dismissal of Southern Pacific controversy was taken to mean that the Rockfeller were in control of the transportation situation in the southwest and it was also figured that certain arrangements had been made to bring about an end to the Rockfeller-Gould Pennsylvania fight has so long been a menace to the financial district. The late market showed the effect of longs taking profits but generally the stocks coming out were well taken and there was a relative firm feeling to the close. Outside stocks were in better demand though bonds were rather irregular and heavy.

Chicago, Sept. 29—Hogs, 10,000, hold-overs 5,000, steady to strong. Light $5.80 and $6.40; mixed $5.55 and 6.35; heavy, $5.35 and $6.25; roughs $5.34 and $5.55.

Cattle, 12,000, slow.

Sheep, 20,000 slow; Kansas 6,000 steady. Omaha 5,000, steady.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 29th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 411 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $100 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

Drilled on British Soil

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 29.—For the first time since the fleur-de-lis of France was lowered at the taking of Louisburg, French troops landed yesterday on Cape Breton soil. Commandant Lemoyne of the French cruiser Jurien de la Graviere, now at Sydney, asked permission, through the French Consul, of the Dominion Department of Militia to drill his sailors in Victoria Park. The Deputy Minister of Militia wired that permission would be granted if the corporation of Sydney had no objection, and 600 of the crew of the Jurien were drilled yesterday.

THE STERLING OIL CO.

brought in on Monday the 20th of July one of the biggest gushers in Sour Lake It is situated in the Wirt-Davis tract and has been producing oil continuously since it came in, the Spindletop Power Company taking the entire output from the well. Besides owning this gusher the Company owns two other valuable pieces of Oil Land at Sour Lake, where they have just let a contract for drilling a second well in the gusher district. The Company has acquired a twelfth interest in 87 acres of land near Saratoga and a well will soon be drilled on this land, the indications are that fine gushers will be developed in this territory. The Company also owns property in Beaumont, Texas where there are two wells.

All who purchase the stock prior to September 15th, will participate in the September dividend. The price of the stock is 20 cents per share. No orders accepted for less than 50 shares.

COPETE MINING CO.
27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

Simply can't exist if Catarrhozone
Is inhaled 4 times daily.

Catarrhozone is the most pleasant and powerful destroyer of disease germs known to science. It is inhaled at the mouth, and in traversing the air passages of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs passes over not less than 1,000 square feet of mucous surface.

The penetrating, healing vapor of Catarrhozone goes wherever the air we breathe can go, and no matter how remote the disease may be it will quickly cure it.

The bacilli of Catarrh and Consumption are expelled from the system by one day's use of Catarrhozone. Ordinary coughs and cold in the head are cured in ten minutes. Most severe cases of Asthma, Bronchitis, and Lung Trouble are relieved in a few hours.

Catarrhal Deafness, Head Noises Ringing in the Ears, can be corrected in a short time and cured by the persistent use of Catarrhozone, which is guaranteed to prove satisfactory or your money refunded. Two months' treatment complete, with liquid for recharging and hard rubber inhaler, costs $1.00; trial size 25c. At druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

DEATH OF MR. BENNETT

Passed Away in Buffalo After a Long Illness.

The many friends of Mr. W. L. Bennett were shocked to hear of his death, which took place in Buffalo yesterday. Mr. Bennett had been ailing for over a year, with jaundice, and it was thought that he was getting better, when the end came. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him, and his death will be deeply regretted. He leaves a wife, who will have the sympathy of the community in her irreparable loss.

The remains arrived last night and were taken to the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. John Deacon, Ashburnham. Interment will take place tomorrow afternoon.

LAUNCHING A WARSHIP

A few days ago the new American warship "Maryland" was launched at Newport News, Va., which was attended by many of the leading national and state dignitaries. Amongst the guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Grassett, formerly of Peterborough, who now reside in Baltimore, Md. and who were guests of Governor Smith's party.

After the launching the guests re-embarked on the steamers Augusta and Tennessee and the Newport News for Old Point, where an elegant luncheon was served at the Hotel Chamberlain by the Newport News Shipping and Dry Dock Company. The spacious ballroom was lavishly decorated with the Maryland and National colors.

Mr. Grassett is the manager of the Baltimore branch of the New York Lubricating Oil Company, and has a large and steadily increasing business.

EVER GIVE

Your Thinker a Thought

Funny things happen in this world and now and then some of them make one an interested observer, for instance: several years ago a man pursued a systematic course of investigation to discover what kind of elements the body would take up from the vegetable kingdom out of which to make gray matter in the brain and nerve centres throughout the body; also how to prepare this food so that it would be easily digested and allow nature to make use of these elements. So far the proposition was all right. Question — How to bring all this about?

It took over two years work to solve the problem successfully. After it was solved the food was given to many people and the result watched carefully.

When all results were proven beyond doubt the food was put on the market under the name of Grape-Nuts. Then followed public announcement in the newspapers and magazines that such a food was in existence and that it would perform its intended work.

People all over the world realised the need of such a food and began purchasing it liberally. It attracted so much attention that a long list of imitators sprang up all over the country. The boiled wheat, roasted it, stewed it, chopped it, mixed it with rye, malt, oats, and perhaps hay—we are not sure—gave it a fantastic name, and told the public it was a "Brain food."

Then, from the imitators, came the offering of spoons, knitting needles, chinaware, pictures, doll babies, and even pianos to induce people to gorge themselves with the various and sundry things.

Fortunately the most of these imitation foods are harmless and decently clean so that no real harm is done except that people who pay out money to secure food for a special service have a right to expect an equitable return for that money.

Investigation proves that in practically all cases where imitations are put upon the market, the men who place them are untrained and have no knowledge of the real scientific basis of food making. If they did have, they would produce original articles. The very fact that they make imitations is prima facie evidence that they have no professional ability to originate valuable articles themselves, but must get under the eaves of some originator.

Up to the present time no prepared food has appeared, to the knowledge of the writer, that is made upon the solid, fundamental, scientific basis of Grape-Nuts.

In this celebrated food the right parts of the wheat and barley are selected, they pass through various and sundry mechanical processes (absolutely no chemical treatment). In these processes the starchy elements are slowly transformed into a sugar now known as Post Sugar. In this form it is ready for immediate assimilation and transmission to the blood without taxing the digestive organs. By the blood, the elements which Nature uses for rebuilding the soft gray matter in the brain and nerve centres are carried to the respective parts and there made use of, while other elements known as carbohydrates are carried to the muscles and tissues and there deposited and held in readiness for use when energy and warmth are required. Remember that simply raising the arm requires the expenditure and giving off of warmth and energy. Now then we must have the elements that supply warmth and energy deposited in these tissues and muscles else we cannot release them and make use of them. These are the missions of Grape-Nuts, and the person who desires to make use of the proper rebuilder of brain and nerve centres, and keep them in first class working order, and also make use of a supply of warmth and energy, can absolutely rely upon securing this service if they feed regularly on Grape-Nuts.

These are incontrovertable facts demonstrated by actual use by hundreds of thousands of Anglo Saxons today.

There's a reason and a profound one for the use of Grape-Nuts. The food is already cooked at the factory and can be served instantly with rich cream. It is delicious and can be made into a great variety of toothsome dishes after the recipes found in the recipe book enclosed in each package.

Attention is also invited to another very small but "meaty" book in each package under the title "The Road to Wellville."

Grape-Nuts Food is made at the Pure Food Factory of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., and is sold all over the world.

THE RIFLE ASSOCIATION

Annual Matches to be Held at the Ranges Next Saturday

A meeting of the Peterborough Rifle Association took place in the County Clerk's office on Monday evening. The following members were present: Messrs. G. E. Whitten, W. H. Callahan, T. J. Ritchie, G. Fitzgerald, R. Brown, M. J. Duffus, R. E. Layfield, J. B. Pentland, C. Curtis, F. Bartlett, R. A. Wilson, J. Gibson, D. Cameron and R. P. Watt, secretary-treasurer. On motion of Mr. Curtis, seconded by Mr. Ritchie, Mr. Whitten presided.

Honorable President—Hon. J. R. Stratton.

President—Mr. E. B. Clegg.

Honorable Vice-President—Lieut.-Colonel Miller.

Vice-President—Mr. D. Cameron.

Secretary Treasurer—Mr. R. P. Watt

Range officers—Messrs. G. Fitzgerald, C. Curtis, T. J. Ritchie, W. H. Moore, J. Gibson, R. E. Layfield, and F. Bartlett.

On motion of Mr. J. Gibson, seconded by Mr. R. E. Layfield, it was resolved that the regulations governing this year's matches be the same as last year.

On motion of Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Callahan, it was resolved to hold the matches this year on Tuesday, October 6th, commencing at 8.30 a.m.

Moved by Mr. J. Gibson, seconded by Mr. R. Brown, that Messrs. Layfield, Curtis and Fitzgerald be a committee to look after the interests of a Civilians' Association in the matter of receiving free ammunition and rifles from the Government.—Carried.

On motion, Messrs. Layfield, Bartlett and Curtis were appointed a committee to look into the matter of placing a telephone system at the ranges, the proportion of the cost to be paid by the association not to exceed $10.

Any person wishing to join the association may obtain tickets from the secretary or any member.

There has been a marked growth in the membership during the past couple of years and it is suggested that a "sharp-shooters' company" be formed therefrom in connection with the 57th.

"IMPOSSIBLE, for you to enjoy the happiness of motherhood," says the doctor. Sometimes he qualifies the statement, and says: "Impossible without an operation." Yet both these "impossibles" have been made possibles by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Many times the hindrances to motherhood are to be found in womanly diseases or weaknesses, which are perfectly and permanently cured by "Favorite Prescription." This great medicine for women cures irregularity and dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I wish to add my testimony to hundreds of others as to the value of Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Ida M. De Ford, of Latona, Hubbard Co., Minn. "Have doctored with a great many physicians—some specialists; have twice been in a hospital for treatment. My case has been regarded as a hopeless one, and they knew not what the trouble was. Heart was bad; stomach all out of order; tired out; severe pains in all parts of the body; sinking spells, and nearly every ailment a woman could have. I took many a bottle of 'patent medicines' without effect. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and ten months afterward I gave birth to a ten-pound boy. All physicians had stated as a fact that I never would bear a child. Both the baby and myself were strong, and I got along splendidly—thanks to your medicine."

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 large pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

FLIMSY ARGUMENT BY AN AMERICAN

Counsel For the United States Makes a Poor Impression on Alaska Tribunal

RIGHT HON. E. CARSON ADDRESSED THE COURT

President Alverstone Quoted Authorities Authorities Offsetting Hannis Taylor's Contentions

London, Sept. 30.—Upon the sitting of the Alaska Boundary tribunal this morning, Mr. Taylor, resuming his argument for the United States, said that Russia had three objects in making the treaty: first, to obtain a lisiere; second, that British citizens should obtain the same privileges of hunting and fishing as had been granted to the United States the previous year; third, that the southern line of the boundary should be the same as that agreed upon with the United States.

He dealt with the laws governing the interpretation of treaties, to which he denied that the common law rules can apply. The dominant purpose of negotiations, he held, should first be ascertained, and then the subordinate provisions should be interpreted harmoniously with it. Mr. Taylor took up the question proposed to the tribunal, and argued that no affirmative evidence had been produced to show that the negotiators of the treaty of 1825 had Vancouver's narrative before them, but he was willing to assume that they had quoted Vancouver as to the saying of Portland Channel an "arm of the sea," and Observatory Inlet "a branch." He argued therefore that Vancouver considered the whole estuary as Portland Canal. Thalweg's rule of taking the deepest channel must therefore be applied to the northern channel, claimed by Great Britain. It was narrow, rocky, tortuous and unused, but it showed that the British Admiralty did not consider it worth surveying.

Senator Lodge asked him where he got his authority for the statement that "canal" is a technical word on the north-west coast for fiords as distinct from channels.

Mr. Taylor promised to furnish authority for his statement.

Referring to the Lisiere, Mr. Taylor discussed the question of the coastline. He said there were two sorts of coastlines, one the natural physical coastline, where salt water touches land, and the other the political coastline, a creation of international law to provide a bulwark against a nation's enemies. Malgilad says the political coastline is the limit of salt water. The British case confuses the two, and their argument is consequently an unintelligible jargon. Mr. Taylor briefly discussed the barrier theory, and also the argument from acquiescence. Solicitor renew.

Right Hon. E. Carson next addressed the court for Great Britain. He began by assuming that the whole United States case was before the court. In any new matter which was presented, he claimed the right to reply. He said he had listened to the long disquisitions on international law, whose principles are much easier to state than to apply; now he proposed to say something about the poor little neglected treaty itself, and only when he found difficulties in its text would he refer to aught else, either precedent or subsequent thereto.

He took up the questions seriatim, and said that No. 1 was undisputed, but the agreement thereon involved the admission by the United States that for the purpose of starting the parallel, it must be discarded, and that the latitude was named for identification merely, proved from the negotiations that the negotiators must have had Vancouver's narrative before them, and in view of a practical admission to that effect, he characterized Mr. Taylor's statement that the narrative supported the United States contention as "rather strong."

BIG BUTCHERS' STRIKE

The Leading Pork Packing Houses Closed

CHICAGO IS HIT HARD

Where 30,000 Men Are Idle---A Very Critical Situation

Chicago, Oct. 1—After being in session for four hours behind closely guarded doors the butchers of the Chicago stock yards, representing 30,000 members of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America, voted last night to refuse the demand of the packers that the amount of work be increased for an increase in wages.

From Kansas City and Omaha, where meetings of the butchers were held to take action on the same proposition, the result was unanimously against the packers' demand, and because of this action the situation in the packing industry seems serious.

Voted For General Strike.

Sunday the Chicago Packing Trades Council voted for a general strike in the yards if the packers refuse the demand for a 5 per cent. increase of wages and the same sentiment prevails all over the country. Saturday the packers in conference with the officials of the union agreed to pay the men the increase in wages provided they would increase the amount of work.

The proposed schedule of work was presented to the officers of the union and telegrams were sent to all the packing points explaining the demand of the packers and asking that every local lodge vote on the proposition Monday night. The new schedule increased the work of the floormen from fifteen cattle to sixteen and a half cattle per hour and proportionately throughout the entire process of butchering.

At the meeting of the Chicago butchers which was held at Thirty-first and Halstead streets the union men declared that the increase in work demanded amounted to 10 per cent. After a long discussion the vote turning down the packers' proposition was announced.

Meeting Held in Secret.

The meeting was a most secret proceeding. Men guarded the doors and pickets stood guard for several blocks away while the voting was going on.

Fifty-three thousand butchers throughout the United States voted on the proposal, but the full returns will not be received until some time today.

Reports were received from Kansas City and Omaha at midnight, the majority of the butchers of the country thereby expressing disapproval of the packers' demand, as more than 40,000 members of the union are employed in Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha.

The executive officers of the union will hold another conference with the packers today or tomorrow and the ultimatum, it is declared, will be that the increase in wages must be granted unconditionally as far as increased work is concerned. A general strike is probable if the increase is denied.

NEW EMPIRE TO RISE IN EUROPE

Spain and Portugal Talk of a Political Union

WITH A EMPEROR

The Matter Believed to be Feasible and Probable

Lisbon, Oct. 1—Official papers, pamphlets and other literature widely distributed hint at the possibility of a Spanish-Portuguese empire under one head, the present king, Dom Carlos, offering himself for the post.

This scheme is to be carried out under the auspices of Great Britain, and it is hoped that no warlike complications may result.

Your correspondent mentioned the matter to a high official of Dom Carlos' court, and this gentleman had no hesitation whatever to put himself on record. He said: "The present king of Spain is not expected to live long; at any rate he will die without issue. The throne will then go to his sister, the Princess of the Asturias married to the son of Count Caserta, who was Don Carlos' chief of staff murdered ten thousand Spaniards. On account of the hatred the Spanish people bear the Casertas, they will never suffer the Princess of the Asturias to reign. Therefore two possibilities loom up: The republic or the choice of a new ruler. The Republican party is discredited in Spain and if it comes to choosing a new king, the ruler of Portugal has the best chance especially when supported by Great Britain.

"Spain is still fretting under the defeat in the late war with the United States. The loss of her colonies hurt her pride and her pocket as well. Union with Portugal would mean the acquisition of new colonies and a new era of glory and prosperity might be inaugurated under King Carlos. It should be remembered that the crown of Spain was offered to King Louis of Portugal before the Spaniards thought of Amadeus, afterwards dethroned. At that time Portugal was not ready to add to her responsibilities—she had no alliances either. Besides, King Louis had patriotic scruples. As a Portuguese he refused to be crowned in Madrid.

"If Dom Carlos assumes the crown of Spain, the two kingdoms will be consolidated into an empire and will become a great power. The king has no faith in a 'personal union' like that between Norway and Sweden. Neither does he believe in a war to gain a crown. He thinks the Spanish diadem will come to him as a matter of gradual evolution."

ARMENIANS ATTACK COSSACKS

Serious Rioting Attends Transfer of Church Property to Russia

Tiflis, Russian Trans-Caucasia, Oct. 1—The transfer of the property of the Armenian church at Shusha to the Russian authorities according to the imperial decree issued in June, has been attended by a conflict between Armenians and Cossacks. Excited Armenians made a demonstration in front of the residence of the governor and stoned a detachment of Cossacks who attempted to disperse them. Shots from the crowd and from persons on the balconies and roofs of houses in the neighborhood were answered by a volley from the Cossacks.

According to the official accounts two Cossacks and one rioter were killed, but the Armenians in the darkness carried off a number of wounded persons.

Similar rioting occurred on the part of Armenians recently near Elizabethpol and at Baku and Kars.

STRATHCONA WILL STAY

Report of Mr Fielding's Denial of Rumors Causes Satisfaction

London, Oct. 1—The greatest satisfaction is expressed at Mr. Fielding's official denial of the reports of Lord Strathcona's retirement. The high place Lord Strathcona holds in British esteem is evidenced by the prominence given to the denial in the evening papers. How vigorous he still is on Canada's behalf is also evidenced today by his speech extolling Canada before the Mayor and sheriffs of the City of London.

STORY OF POPE PIUS IX. AND THE WOMAN HE LOVED

Romance of the Papacy That Reads Like Fiction

LOVED AND LOST

Nothing More Truly Dramatic Has Fver Been Put on the Stage

Rome, Sept. 30—As in the case of all men suddenly or unexpectedly lifted to high positions, a number of stories are told of the new pope, but these must be taken with a grain of salt, for, as a rule, the secrets of the Vatican are well kept. Now and again however, something of the romance of the papacy really leaks out, though not through the cardinals. There was, for example, the strange case of Pope Pius IX, pretty well known a generation ago, but now almost forgotten. In his younger days when he was Count Mastai Ferrati and a layman, he met and fell in love with Miss Foster, daughter of the Irish Protestant bishop of Kilmore, who was living in Italy with her sister, Mme de Salis. Miss Foster favored the young count, but Mme. De Salis drove the lover away. Afterward she relented, the count returned and the wedding day was fixed. On the appointed day the bride and her friends were at the church, but no bridegroom appeared and Count Mastai Ferrati was never seen again. Years afterwards Miss Foster went to see Pope Pius IX and was astonished to recognise in the pontiff her old flame the count.

The most sensational novelist could not have invented a plot more fascinating than the real story of Pope Leo's predecessor. Mme. De Salis had made an unhappy marriage with an Italian, and her parents, fearing a similar fate for the younger daughter, made her promise to guard Miss Foster against a union with a foreigner, hence her interference to separate the lovers. It was only when her sister pined away that Mme. De Salis relented. The disappearance of the count has quite a flavor of Dumas about it. Unknown to his flame he was bound to the Jesuits, and his superiors in the order peremptorily sent him away on a mission to prevent his marriage with an Englishwoman and a Protestant. Letters were intercepted and he was led to believe that she had married another, so he took orders and rapidly rose to be bishop, then cardinal and eventually pope. Then in the height of his grandeur, he was brought for a moment face to face with the woman he had loved and lost. Nothing more dramatic has ever been staged.

A MOMENTOUS MEETING

Balfour Will Make a Declaration at Convention in Sheffield on October 1

London, Sept. 30.—It was authoritatively stated last night than an official announcement of the composition of the reconstructed Ministry need not be expected before the beginning of next week.

Meanwhile anticipation is fixed on the Prime Minister's forthcoming declaration to the annual conference of the National Union of Conservative and Constitutional Associations, to be held at Sheffield on October 1. Nearly 2,000 elected delegates and 130 members of Parliament will attend.

Lord Milner is still considering the offer of the Colonial portfolio.

Five thousand tickets were mailed yesterday for Mr. Chamberlain's meeting at Glasgow, October 6. Applications for upwards of 50,000 tickets were received.

MAY BREAK TRADITION

Cardinal of the Curia May Attend St. Louis Exposition

Rome, Oct. 1—Negotiations for the participation of the vatican in the St. Louis Exposition are proceeding satisfactorily. It is considered preferable that the holy see shall send as its representative an important cardinal of the curia. The chief difficulty is that the traditions and etiquette of the vatican are against sending cardinals, except ablegates, to foreign countries, and that they are never sent to expositions or fairs. The difficulty probably will be overcome by sending a cardinal to America in connection with church affairs and he will afterwards proceed to St. Louis, thus paying to the United States the papacy's highest tribute

SCIENCE CIRCLES THE GLOBE

Canadian Astronomer Fills Gap in Measurement of Longitude

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 1—A cable from Dr. Otto Klotz, the dominion astronomer, received at Vancouver, B.C., says he has succeeded in taking the longitude between Vancouver and Brisbane, thereby girdling the globe. The longitude between Greenwich westward to Vancouver had previously been taken and now Canada has completed the gap.

BOYS MUST DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Youngest Only 17 and the Eldest 26 Years

NO EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY

Killing of Uncle for Money Was Deliberately Planned

Albany, N.Y., Oct. 1—The last glimmer of hope for the three Van Wormer brothers disappeared today when Governor Odell refused to admit to audience Mrs. Van Wormer, stepmother of the three criminals sentenced to die in the electric chair by noon today for the murder of their uncle, Peter A. Hallenbeck, who as the only person above earth who has had a good word for the three boys, called at the executive chambers to make a final appeal for clemency.

Governor Odell returned the answer that he had fully considered the case, that he could see no reason for pardon or even for a commutation of the sentence, and that the death penalty must be carried out and that consequently an interview would be painful to both as well as profitless. Mrs. Van Wormer accepted the decision as final and left the city, returning to her home in Kinderhook this afternoon. The condemned prisoners, the eldest of whom is 26 and the youngest 17 years of age, bear the ordeal of suspense with the same coolness they showed during trial and are a mystery to the alienists and criminologists who have made them a study.

Began as Mischievious Boys.

In few cases of criminals have the steps through which they passed been as clearly marked as in the case of the Van Wormer boys, Willis, Burton and Fred. They come of good stock, their father being a steamboat engineer and their mother a very religious country woman. The boys were left motherless when the eldest was only ten years old, and, though their stepmother was also their mother's sister, gave the boys every care and attention, they paid little heed to her, and their father, owing to the nature of his duties, was seldom at home.

As boys they were known as the most mischevious lads in the school at Greendale, N.Y., and revealed their future career only in their delight in torturing animals and persecuting smaller boys. As they grew older, the torture of animals became a passion for them and all the domestic animals in the neighborhood felt their cruel ingenuity. The neighbors rose against this, but no one had any authority over the boys and they stood together so closely that any neighbor who punished one was sure a few nights later to find that he had been made the victim of some malevolent trick. Growing older they refused to work and took to stealing chickens, turkeys and all kinds of poultry as a regular means of food.

Plan to Murder Uncle.

After the death of their father, the boys moved to Kinderhook, where, having to rent a house as well as secure living expenses, greater exertion than ever was needed in the poultry business. Mounted on fast horses, they scoured the Greendale district as before and sent off daily alarming consignments of poultry. Finally they decided it would be easier to steal money outright rather than poultry, and planned to murder their old uncle, Peter Hallenbeck, who besides being one of the richest men in the district, was known to have a distrust of banks and carry large sums of money about his person and in the house. Thus, they argued, at one stroke they could secure money and revenge for the foreclosure of a mortgage which their uncle had held on their former house.

They waited until Christmas eve, when there was an entertainment at the Greendale church at which it was expected all the Hallenbeck family would go except himself and his old bedridden mother. Then the three boys taking with them an accomplice, Harry Bruce, who had overheard part of their plans and had to be silenced by being promised part of the spoil, drove in a buggy to Hallenbeck's house. The old man opened the door himself and the instant he appeared the Van Wormers shot him in the face shattering his jaw. The old man staggered and groped his way to where his shotgun lay loaded, but before he could reach it fell pierced with nine bullets. Mrs. Hallenbeck, the boys' aunt, hearing the shots, ran screaming to the attic.

Try to Prove Alibi.

Fearing discovery from the shooting and the woman's screams, the murderers did not hesitate longer than to snatch a bag of money from a secret cupboard, where the boys knew their uncle had placed it, and drove at full speed back to Kinderhook, where on their arrival they showed themselves in different parts of the town, establishing an alibi. In this they would have succeeded, as they gave the impression to many friends that they had been with them all the evening, but two things proved their guilt.

The first was a confession by Harry Bruce, who, fearing that he would be convicted, made a confession implicating the three Van Wormer boys, and also the fact that in running from the Hallenbeck house in such wise as to avoid being seen from the attic window by Mrs. Hallenbeck they crossed deep snow, leaving footprints which afterwards led largely to their conviction. The boots of the suspects were found to fit into the tracks, and this with the confession of Bruce, caused their conviction at the hands of a jury.

Warden George Deyo, of Clinton prison, who has the execution in personal charge, will not say, even if he has decided, in what order the brothers are to die. Much thought has been given to seeking a means of separating the three, so that none of them would know when either of his brothers was taken to the chair, but the arrangement of the prison makes this impossible.

CHECK ON WHEAT TRAFFIC

Millers Are Taking All the Grain in Sight Now

Montreal, Sept. 30.—"The inland steamship companies are not getting any grain cargoes at all from Fort William, simply because the millers are willing to pay a price for it that the exporters are not willing to pay for the present. The companies, contrary to expectations, are not getting cargoes at all."

The announcement was made to a newspaper representative today by Mr. Thos. Harling, general manager of the Ocean and Lake Navigation Company. This will mean that but a small proportion of this year's crop will come down the St. Lawrence route. Once the millers have got all the grain they want the prices will drop and the exporters get all they want. The difference to the steamship companies will be that they will carry the grain to Georgian Bay points for shipment from American ports rather than being able to carry it right through to Montreal.

250,000 RUSSIANS IN CHINA

Russian Soldiers Have as Ally Big Fleet of Warships

Tien-Tsin, Oct. 1—The military strength of Russia in the far east is now as follows—In Manchuria proper, 60,000 men of all arms including eighteen batteries of artillery; on the lines of communication between Port Arthur and the Amur province, 130,000 men; at Port Arthur and Talienwan, 50,000 men.

Thirty forts have been erected at Port Arthur and fifty others are under construction. All the peaks in this district are being fortified.

In addition to the land forces there are always forty war vessels at Port Arthur and forty others constantly under steam at Talienwan. Three battle-ships, two cruisers and four destroyers are expected to arrive in Chinese waters Oct. 15.

[illegible] for Whipping

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 1—Six months ago in public Mrs. Nellie Woodruff horsewhipped Birdie Laughlin, her husband's stenographer, alleging intimacy. Today Miss Laughlin secured judgment for $750 in the circuit court by agreement. The suit called for $2,500 damages.

A REIN OF TERROR IN THE BALKAN STATES

The American Warships Clear For Action Off Beyroot

CONFLICT MAY BE AVERTED AFTER ALL

Bulgarian Government Believes the Porte is Less Warlike Than He Was a Short Time Ago

London, Oct. 1—Late advices from the east state that a reign of terror exists in Bulgaria and Macedonia. The mobilization of Bulgarian troops continues while Turkey is also massing her soldiers on the frontier. The Porte has now 375,000 men in readiness to strike the blow which is likely to fall soon unless the great powers intervene. A reign of terror exists.

AMERICAN WARSHIPS ON HAND.

Beyroot, Syria, Oct. 1—As this despatch is mailed the situation at Beyroot remains unchanged, there being a great feeling of uncertainty.

The correspondent of the Associated Press called on board the United States cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco yesterday and found them armed camps. The bluejackets and marines were ready to land at a moment's notice, ammunition filled their belts and arms were stacked on deck. Rear Admiral Cotton informed the correspondent that he was prepared to give Americans and Europeans in general the fullest protection possible.

Fortunately the fanaticism of the people has not yet gone so far beyond bounds as to cause them to attack foreigners, but business is at a standstill, the streets are deserted and the shops are closed.

Guards to watch the American mission property here were furnished by the government last night. Had the governor refused Admiral Cotton stood prepared to land 500 men if necessary. The American ships played their searchlights on the city, illuminating not alone the property of the Syrian Protestant college, but also dark alleys and byways frequented as a rule by shady characters.

MORE HOPEFUL AT SOFIA.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 1—The situation here is much brighter and the war clouds appear to have lifted. The porte's assurance that the thirty-two battalions recently ordered to proceed from Monastir to Adrianople, will not be moved, has lessened the apprehensions of the Bulgarian government. Further satisfaction is derived from the fact that M. Natchovitch is going to Constantinople in the capacity of Bulgarian diplomatic agent. He conducted the negotiations with the porte last June and after their failure returned to Sofia.

The committee appointed for the purpose at the time of yesterday's demonstration of 15,000 Macedonians in this city yesterday afternoon, waited on Premier Petrof and asked him if the government intended doing anything to help the Macedonians. M. Petrof replied that the ministry was acting in what it conceived to be the best interests of Bulgaria and would continue the same policy.

The spokesman of the committee told the premier that his reply would not be satisfactory to the committee, and the committee thereupon withdrew.

The Dnevnik, commenting on the situation, says: "Although the Bulgarians remain quiet it is not a true indication of the national feelings, but it is owing to the approaching elections."

The paper adds that it will "not be long before everybody will try to force the government to take action."

Monastir, Macedonia, Sept. 30—via Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 1—It is estimated that 50,000 villagers of the vilayet of Monastir are now refugees in the mountains and mostly in a terribly destitute condition. They escaped from the 111 villages which have been wholly or partially burned by the Turks, which contained 10,292 houses, of which 9,689 were burned. At Malkortirnovo only 100 Bulgarian families remain out of 1,500. A body of 200 families fleeing toward Bulgaria from villages in the Losengrad district, were surrounded by Turkish troops in the Usumbadjak mountains and all of them are alleged to have been slaughtered.

TORONTO TROOPS BACK

Only 85 Regulars Will Remain at the Soo

The Situation is Much Brighter at the Soo Today

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 30.—At midnight last night 50 of the Royal Canadian Regiment and 34 of the R. C. Dragoons arrived in town, followed this morning by about 300 of the Queen's Own, Grenadiers, and Highlanders. There are now about as many soldiers as woodmen in town. However, some 500 more of the latter are expected in from Wilde today, and the militia will at once get to work to help the local authorities to get the woodmen out of town.

The story of rioting at Wilde, including the destruction of Algoma Central cars, were overdrawn. Tales reached town that four coaches of woodsmen had been cut adrift at Wilde, 24 miles from town, by the engineer. It was alleged that the men were left without food or blankets. There were indeed tents for eating and sleeping. When the woodsmen stepped off the train they saw drawn up some 400 soldiers. If they had any thought of making trouble before, they probably dropped it.

It has been charged that Mr. Coyne had tried to make the situation out to be worse than it is. It was alleged that he told a local reporter he did not want favorable reports to be sent out. This is denied by him. There does not seem to be any justification for making such a charge.

It is not true that Lawyer Bicknell made a second demand for the possession of the works. The town has resumed its normal aspect, excepting the presence of the militia. The street cars and ferries are again running. What is worrying the citizens more than anything is the inevitable bill for the military display.

At 1 o'clock all the militia with the exception of 85 regulars left town for Toronto.

HAVE YOU CHRONIC AILMENT?

Recognised as the oldest established and most reliable specialist.

In the course of his practice as specialist in the treatment of chronic ailments, Dr. Goldberg has evolved a system of his own, which is a positive cure. His method differs widely from the old fashioned system as taught in colleges, and yet is along the strictest scientific principles, with this exception, that where the old methods took months and sometimes years to bring about a cure, his latest method does it in a few weeks and cures are thorough, permanent and reliable. The curing of chronic diseases has been his specialty for years.

He will cure you quicker than any other specialist in the world. There are thousands in this broad land today who are healthy and happy, who once suffered as you perhaps now suffer, and who owe their present well-being to Dr. Goldberg's Latest Method Treatment. If you are sick it is only natural for you to want to be well. Before you decide definitely on the doctor to intrust your case call or write to Dr. Goldberg and find out all about his Latest Method of curing chronic diseases without pain and permanently. It will cost you nothing to learn the particulars and it will in no way put you under obligations to him. If it is inconvenient for you to call in person write the doctor and he will explain his method to you just the same, free. Do not delay; promptness is certainty.

Each Time You Call You See Dr. Goldberg Personally or each time you write it receives his personal attention, and remember he is the only specialist who allows the patient to pay when cured. You need pay nothing until a complete cure has been made.

PREVENTION OF TUBERCULOSIS

Some day, no doubt, science will discover a cure for tuberculosis, but it must be confessed that the investigations of experts up to this time added greatly to the fund of information upon which a search for the remedy must be based.

The experts tell us little that was not known before and when they do profess to discover new facts the discoveries are of small importance.

It makes no particular difference for instance, whether pulmonary tuberculosis can be inherited or not. Professor Von Behring, the German investigator, has just announced positively that it cannot be inherited. But if a predisposition to the disease—a constitutional inability to resist it—can be inherited the result is the same as if the disease were capable of hereditary transmission. The patient contracts the disease just the same as if he inherited it from his parents.

And that appears to be the truth with respect to much pulmonary tuberculosis. We often hear that a person is afraid of tuberculosis "because it runs in the family". Professor Von Behring would say that the disease does not run in the family, but that the members of the family are constitutionally unable to resist the attacks of the tuberculosis bacillus.

It is thus evident that the hope of people in whose family consumption "runs" is to avoid the infection. In other words, the ounce of prevention is worth more to them than a pound of cure, because they are particularly hard to cure. It is of the utmost importance that such people should exercise every precaution against infection, and this is really the only reliable prophylaxis that is thus far available.

Scientists like Professor Von Behring and Professor Kock may devise antitoxins and inoculating agents, but in the end there is no positive assurance of escaping tuberculosis, save by avoiding the infection. Public and private sanitation, antiseptic public vehicles and unceasing viligance —these are the vital factors in the fight against the great white plague. We have not found a cure. Our efforts must all be toward prevention.

A CHECK TO INDUSTRY

The New York Banker, Henry Clews, remarks that every day it is becoming more and more apparent that industry in the United States is being checked by high-priced raw materials and labor; for consumers cannot afford present high prices, and some form of readjustment will have to take place before the equilibrium between supply and demand is restored to normal. This is not an immediate contingency, but is one to be kept in sight; one to be anticipated, not with fear but with satisfaction as an approach to a more normal and substantial basis that we have been working under for the last two or three years. It is a mistake to think that high prices mean general prosperity. These benefit only the few, and sometimes mark the haste or indiscretions of those who should know better. The masses are benefitted most by moderate prices and by moderate and better distributed profits, which insure a wider distribution of profits and more steady employment for the larger number. It is a notorious fact that hundreds of millions of construction work is held up by high cost of iron and labor, and that moderate concessions in either would impart fresh life into a most important branch of business; the same being true of some other departments of industry.

A LOSS OF TRADE

The Buffalo people are deeply concerned about the grain trade. It has fallen away from that port, greatly to the loss of merchants, shippers, elevator and barge owners.

"Where there were 7,000 or 8,000 canal boats in the Erie canal a few years ago," says the Buffalo Times, "there are not much more than twelve per cent. of that number today, and when the canal boat has passed the day of its usefulness it is allowed to rot now. The canal man doesn't spend money to put it in shape again because the boats of the present type are out of date. If one were to make a trip along the Erie canal, between Buffalo and Albany he would find many canal boats lying in the water rotting. A person need go no further than Black Rock to find quite a number of boats that have been abandoned and allowed to sink."

Some people are of the opinion that the 1,000-ton barge canal which it is proposed to make in New York— an enlargement of the Erie—will restore the grain trade to the American route, but the Buffalo Times quotes the opinion of other people to the effect that what Buffalo has lost she cannot recover.

A NEW HEAT SUBSTANCE

A Wonderful Discovery Made in New Jersey

Montclair, N.J. Oct. 1—By accident a new substance possessing the property of great heat was discovered. It is so prolific in heat that when mixed with ashes and thrown upon live coals it kindles a tremendous energy.

Brillium, as the matter has been called, has been tried in the furnaces. It increased the heat to almost an unbearable degree. Utilized in small quantities in house furnaces, it has proved to be a great money saver.

The discovery of brillium was made by a Mont Clair man living on the side of the Orange mountains. He gathered some dirt to bank a fire, and soon afterwards was surprised to find a great heat emerging from the flue. Thinking the house was on fire, he rushed down stairs and saw flames shooting from the furnace. Harold H. Brown, engineering scientist and inventor, was consulted. He said that the dirt had the property of great heat energy. He said:

"After experimenting and exhausting every theory I discovered a substance possessed of great energy and heat-giving properties. Its transforms ash heaps into beds of fire. It is inexpensive and I believe it exists in great quantities so that it will be a marketable commodity."

In the factory where it has been adopted as fuel, cinders and peacoal refuse were mixed together. To that mixture was added brillium. When it was placed in the furnace masses of flames mounted to the boiler pipes and tremendous heat resulted.

Brillium will be particularly valuable for use on ocean steamships and locomotives. Its use will make a small quantity of coal necessary and much space and time will be saved in consequence.

Nervous Dyspepsia

A Disease very common to the American people, but now quickly remedied.

A SURE CURE.

In a case of Nervous Dyspepsia a doctor sees two things, first, that the digestion is deranged, and second that the nerves are in a starved, irritable condition.

If abreast of the times, and in touch with the latest discoveries the doctor is sure to advise Ferrozone, which is now universally prescribed in cases of acute Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Ferrozone is prepared specially for diseases of the stomach and bowels, and as a sure cure for Nervous Dyspepsia has proved itself a thousand times to be superior to all others.

Where Ferrozone is taken after each meal, it is impossible for Dyspepsia or Indigestion to exist. It digests the food before it has had time to ferment in the stomach, and by its regular use one is enabled to eat and drink anything at any time, without fear of bad results.

Ferrozone relieves that distressing headache, and burning feeling in the stomach peculiar to dyspepsia. It regulates the action of the bowels, kidneys and liver; strengthens the nerves and makes the sad looking dejected dyspeptic feel like a new man in twenty-four hours.

The general manager of a Toronto Manufacturing Company, who used Ferrozone with very marked results, says—"The strain of conducting a large business brought on a siege of Nervous Indigestion about a year ago, which I endeavored in vain to shake off. Doctors told me only a complete trip would cure me, but not being able to spare the time, I used Ferrozone instead. It perfectly restored my good health in a short time. I have confidence in the merits of Ferrozone, and am pleased to recommend it."

What Ferrozone can do for you can be best proven by giving it a trial. Every reliable druggist recommends and sells it, price 50c. a box, or three boxes for $1.25. Sent to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co. Kingston, Ont.

—Dr. Clarke's sure cure for eczema and all skin diseases has no equal. For sale three boxes for $1.00 at Ormond and Walsh's drug store.

CANADIAN TO TRIBUNAL

Mr. Christopher Robinson Addrees the Commissioners

It Was Not Great Britain's Business to Notify Chart-graphers of their Mistakes

London, Sept. 30.—When the commissioners appointed to hear the Alaskan boundary dispute resumed their sittings yesterday morning Mr. Christopher Robinson, of Toronto, in behalf of Canada, resumed his observations on the meaning of the treaty.

Discussing article 7, he said it meant reciprocal privileges in the Lisiere, which implied that Great Britain had jurisdiction over certain islands and waters there. It could not apply below latitude 54 degrees 40 minutes for Russia had not the right of trade previous to that year from the United States south of that latitude. It could not be supposed that she took the same privilege for the same coast from Great Britain. He compared the articles 1 and 7, and argued that "ocean" in the former article related only to the ocean proper, and that article 7 was supplementary to article 1, granting as regards the inlets what no one granted as regards the ocean, thus showing that "inlets" were considered something different from "ocean."

BARRIER TERRITORY.

Speaking of the barrier territory urged by the United States as incompatible with the claim that Great Britain possessed the heads of inlets, Mr. Robinson argued that all Russia stipulated for was a strip wide enough to keep Great Britain from coming down and competing with their posts. It was a case of "the shop over the way." He asked how the inlets broke the continuity of the lisiere any more than the rivers, the use of which was expressly granted to Great Britain. He quoted Mr. Justice Story to show that a river is an arm of the sea, anyway. If the negotiations show that the Russians wanted an absolutely unbroken lisiere the treaty shows they did not get it, and it is the treaty, not the negotiations that govern.

ACTS OF ADMISSION.

Referring to subsequent alleged acts of admission by England on the United States claim to the heads inlets, he ridiculed the testimony of the maps. Not only were the cartographers ignorant of the natural features they depicted, but no one in the world had ever seen them. Was it the business of the nations to notify cartographers all over the world of mistakes in their maps? In no case could the maps bind the nations unless explicit sanction was given. The maps of unsurveyed countries were valueless. When the United States first asked Great Britain for a map the latter in sending it distinctly disavowed any responsibility for its correctness. Coming to the question of occupation, he said that Russian occupation before 1867 was very slight, and only amounted to keeping the Indians in order, to which Great Britain had no objection. From the year 1867 to 1880 the United States acts were from the decks of their ships, for the Indians would not let them land. He ridiculed the United contention of their obtaining the allegiance of the natives, and said, "With a bottle of whiskey and a blanket you can obtain the allegiance of any Indian." As to Canada's responsibility prior to 1871, he said we had no concern with that country, and until the Canadian Pacific Railway was built we knew less of Alaska than of Egypt.

Mr. Robinson discussed the position of the Hudson Bay Company. He said they were merely licensed traders, and it was absurd to suppose that they could vary the territorial limits of the British Empire. Discussing the repeated statements of the United States, that they had no official knowledge of Great Britain's claims to the heads of the inlets till the year 1898, he showed that ten years before that time Sir Charles Tupper had handed them the Bayard maps and memos by George Dawson, distinctly showing the British claim. Bayard sent them to the President, who sent them to Congress, which published them for public information, the printing on the maps showing the conventional line projected by Canada.

A ROBINSON CRUSOE

Shipwrecked Sailor Left Three Wives and a Million Dollars

San Francisco, Sept. 29.—William C. Hartridge, who went to the Caroline Islands last May in the interests of Mrs. Catherine O'Keefe, widow of David O'Keefe, has arrived on the steamer Doric.

O'Keefe was known as the King of Yap. He left his wife and daughter in Savannah, Ga., in the early seventies, and was wrecked on this island. Being the first white man the natives had ever seen, they treated him with every possible reverence, and finally made him King. Over a year ago, after visiting Hong Kong on business, he started to return on one of his vessels, and that was the last ever heard of him. Although he had two wives in the Carolines, he always kept his wife and daughter in Savannah well supplied with money. Upon hearing of his death, Lawyer Hartridge was sent out to see how matters stood.

He found a will in Hong Kong, distributing an estate valued at $1,500,000 in property, all of which is productive. He has left quite a large amount to his daughter, Mrs. J. F. Butler, of Savannah. It is expected that the Savannah widow will claim about 50 per cent. of the estate.

EGBERT CHAMBERLAIN, Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.	NEW YORK

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trantwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trantwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000

PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

Purchase the Treasury Stock of

The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 650 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 250,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 25 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 660 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 33 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $6 to $54.80 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Sept. 30—There was a little better feeling evident in the stock exchange quarter today, although in some circles there was still a great deal of pessimistic argument with regard to the future. The shorts, while having covered on a free scale, were still figured to be nervous and there was a good demand for the leading issues in the loan crowd. The London market was steady but the arbitrage houses had few orders of consequence on either side of the account. The money situation was still regarded as rather uncertain, but generally there was an ample supply of funds at reasonable rates and the sub-treasury operations continued to justify the expectation for a fair bank statement at the end of the week. The favorable news continued as on previous days of late. There was a fair amount of outside buying and considerable scattered selling on the better levels, but a great many large stocks coming out were well taken. Some of the outside longs of recent creation were inclined to scalp out with small profits and in a few instances there were extensive offerings and lower prices prevailed. The market for outside stocks was steady in tone, though prices were a little irregular. Bonds were irregular with a moderate demand.

New York, Sept. 30—The stock market was more favorably inclined on Tuesday and some stocks displayed more recuperative power than for a long time past. Sentiment, in consequence is more cheerful at the moment and there are many who look for a continuancy of the buoyancy; shorts, however, did a great deal of the buying yesterday and the general short interest is figured to have been considerably reduced. However, there was heavy buying for the long account and many interests figured that the buying was for strong interests. There was a great deal of talk to the effect that the Rockfellers are now in absolute control of the south west railway situation, since they are believed to have acquired controlling interest in U. P. and Southern Pac. The Harriman-Kuhn-Loeb element is known to have bought great lines of these stocks of late and the opinion prevails that this buying has been largely for the account of the Rockfellers. The general speculative situation is still the subject of considerable conflicting gossip. There are many who figure that the depression is over, while on the other hand there are many who believe that stocks will break through the new low record made yesterday, inasmuch as the money market is far from staple at the moment.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 20th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 413 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure, It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.25.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $100 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value [illegible] Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to, all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

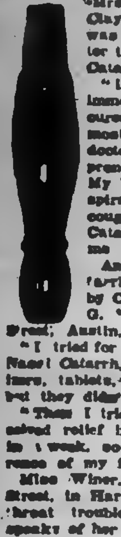
CATARRH

The Mother of Consumption

How this dread disease may be prevented and cured—the opinions of people who have been cured by

Catarrh is very often spoken of as the mother of consumption, because when neglected it extends from its place of beginning to the bronchial tubes then deeper and deeper, till finally the disease becomes consumption of the lungs.

The safest and best remedy for any form of Catarrh is Catarrhozone. It is inhaled to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the disease and drives it completely out of the system.



Mrs. Mary J. Whitney, of Clay Street, Topeka, Kansas, was cured of nasal catarrh, after twenty years' suffering by Catarrhozone. She says:—

"I owe to Catarrhozone an immense debt of gratitude. It cured me of Catarrh of the most disagreeable kind after doctors without number had pronounced my case incurable. My breath is pure and my respiration regular, and I do not cough any more since using Catarrhozone. It has cured me perfectly."

Another case of Chronic Catarrh that was cured quickly by Catarrhozone is that of Mr. G. A. Luce, of 1,900 Navasota Street, Austin, Texas. Mr. Luce says:

"I tried for four years to get rid of Nasal Catarrh, used salt douches, atomizers, tablets, stomach medicines, etc., but they didn't do me much good.

"Then I tried Catarrhozone, and received relief in a few hours. It cured in a week, so that I never had a recurrence of my former trouble."

Miss Winer, who resides on May Street, in Hartford, Conn., was cured of throat trouble by Catarrhozone, and speaks of her recovery in the following words.—

"Repeated colds finally resulted in a Catarrhal condition from which I suffered more or less every spring and fall. Catarrhozone was the only remedy that relieved and cured me. I recommend it."

No treatment is so good for Catarrhal affections and Bronchitis as Catarrhozone. Its success is quite unequalled in the history of medicine. It will cure you quickly and surely, and is well worth a trial. Two months' treatment guaranteed to cure, price $1.00; small size 25c Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy it to-day.

The horse which was stolen about a week ago from Mr. James Dewart, of Dummer, has been returned. It had been traded at Wooler, Ontario, and was recovered through the efforts of County Constable Cochrane. The thief has not yet been apprehended. The animal had a fine, bushy tail when taken and this had been changed to a short tail coach horse style, doubtless for the purpose of destroying its identity.

St. John's Girls' Guild

At a meeting of the Girls' Guild of St. John's church, the following officers were elected:

Hon. Pres.—Mrs. (Rev.) Davidson.
President—Miss Jane Layfield.
1st Vice-Pres.—Miss Maude Roberts.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Miss Amy McKee.
Secretary—Miss Annie Hetherington.
Treasurer—Miss B. Dawson.

The Guild are preparing for an "Old Timers" social to be held on Oct. 22nd.

The Late Mr. Thos. Ellis

The death of Mr. Thomas Ellis who passed away on Sunday last in Toronto, will come with a shock to his many friends in Peterborough, where he resided for some years. He was a member of the firm of Ellis & White, grocers, Mr. Ellis being succeeded about a year ago by Mr. Gillespie. Ill health compelled his retirement from active business, and he went to the North-West, where he seemed to improve. On his return to his home in Toronto he suffered a relapse, from which he failed to rally. He was a valued member of the Murray street Baptist church during his residence here, and was highly esteemed.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Laura E. Jackson and Mr Gordon Mann

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Wm. Jackson, 339 Sherbrooke street, when her second daughter, Miss Laura E., was united in marriage to Mr. Gordon Mann, of Bridgenorth. The Rev. Mr. Bastow, pastor of the Murray street Baptist church, tied the nuptial knot in the presence of a number of specially invited guests. Miss Ida, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Joseph Mann, brother of the groom, supported the groom. The bride was handsomely attired in a dress of white silk with trimmings of lace and ribbon and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid was gowned in white muslin and carried pink asters. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Herb. Jackson, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Mrs. Walter McGee, of Emily. The room in which the pleasing ceremony took place was prettily decorated with autumn leaves and cut flowers, and presented a delightful appearance.

Many beautiful presents testified to the popularity of the bride, among which was a handsome piano, a gift to the bride from her mother. After the ceremony those present, numbering about sixty-five, partook of a delightful wedding dejeuner.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann left on the 5.10 C.P.R. train for western points, and upon returning will reside in Bridgenorth. The Times extends its hearty congratulations.

WEDDING BELLS

Mr. C. L. Davis Weds Miss Lucy M. Sabin Tuesday Evening

A very interesting wedding took place on Tuesday evening at 46 Chamberlain street, when Miss Lucy May Sabin, third daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Sabin, was married to Mr. Edward Lawrence Davis, both of town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. L. Armitage, of All Saints'.

The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of pearl gray leptonnette trimmed with white silk applique, chiffon and ribbons, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Ada Sabin, who was bridesmaid, was similarly attired, and carried pink roses. Miss Rosy Williams, who was maid-of-honor, wore white silk trimmed with ribbons, and carried pink and white roses. Mr. Jas. Squires was groomsman.

A great number of handsome presents were received by this popular young couple. Among the gifts was a handsome silver sugar bowl and spoon from the Armature Department of the C.G.E., a fruit-dish from the Ladies Lamp Department of the C.G.E., and an English silver bread dish from Mr. G. M. Wilson, in whose department the groom is employed.

After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served to the guests, who numbered about forty.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis left on the nine o'clock G.T.R. train for points west. On their return they will reside at 46 Chamberlain street.

WEDDED AT ST. PETERS

Miss Rose Carveth Was the Bride and Mr. F. W. Hall the Groom

St. Peter's cathedral was the scene of a very pleasing event yesterday morning, when Miss Rose, eldest daughter of Mr. Henry Carveth, 220 Charlotte street, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred W. Hall, of Toronto. Rev. Dr. O'Brien tied the nuptial knot in the presence of a number of invited friends of the contracting parties. The bride was supported by Miss Fannie, her sister, while Mr. Frank Dwyer, of Toronto, performed a similar service for the groom. The bride looked charming in a travelling suit of blue broadcloth with a blue velvet hat. The bridesmaid was prettily attired in blue crepe de chene with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall left on the 11.45 Grand Trunk train for an extended trip, and will take up their residence in Toronto.

There were a large number of elegant and costly presents from the bride's many friends and well-wishers in Peterborough, testifying to the high esteem in which she is held.

GETS FIVE YEARS

On Three Charges of Stealing Was the Jury's Verdict This Morning

At the County Assizes yesterday afternoon Samuel Wynn was found guilty on three charges, i.e., of stealing a bay mare colt from Isaac Freeburn, Young's Point; of stealing a mare from Mr. Pollard, of Pontypool, and also of stealing a buggy and sum of money from John Henderson, of Lakefield. Mr. D. O'Connell appeared for the defence, and Mr. R. E. Wood for the prosecution. He was sentenced to the Kingston Penitentiary for five years.

MARRIED IN TORONTO

Nuptials of Mr. Fred Weir and Mrs. Fraser in Toronto

A very pleasing event of interest to many in Peterborough, took place yesterday in Toronto, when the marriage of Mr. Fred. Weir, of that city, son of Mr. Frank Weir, of Otonabee, and Miss Fraser, daughter of the late Mr. Fraser, formerly manager of the Bank of Ottawa, Pembroke, was celebrated.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weir, Otonabee; Mrs. G. F. Ward and Mrs. R. H. Leary, Peterborough.

Public Warning

The publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, warn the public regarding an offer made by certain papers in which another Montreal paper, with a somewhat similar name to The Family Herald, is offered in a clubbing combination. It is reported to the publishers that in some cases the offer has been accepted under the impression it was the Family Herald and Weekly Star. It is the Family Herald and Weekly Star that is offering the handsome premium pictures and large colored map of the Dominion as premiums. The word "FAMILY" should be used when addressing that paper. This caution should have the desired effect of putting people on their guard.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

Presentment of Grand Jury to Hon. Mr. Justice Ferguson

The following was the presentment of the Grand Jury at the Fall Assizes:

To the Hon. Mr. Justice Ferguson, presiding at the Fall Assizes, held at Peterborough, 28th September, 1903:

May it Please Your Lordship,—Your Grand Jury present that they can congratulate the County on the comparative freedom from serious criminal offences committed in this county as indicated in the smallness of the number of persons in gaol, even in the face of a largely increased population.

We have disposed of all the charges laid before us for investigation, and have to thank your Lordship for the very lucid explanation of the law applicable thereto, and have also to thank the Crown officer for his assistance.

We have visited the county gaol and find a lunatic confined therein, who has been incarcerated for a period of over two years, and who seems to be quite violent at times, and we are of the opinion that it is high time he were removed to the asylum.

In all other respects we find the gaol and gaol premises well kept and the prisoners well provided for.

We have visited the two hospitals and the Protestant Home and House of Providence, all of which are under good management and doing the work for which they were intended.

We wish to draw the attention of the municipal authorities to the condition of the hospitals in regard to infectious diseases, and to point out that the provision made for the treatment of such cases is entirely insufficient, and as these institutions, although they have admitted many patients suffering from these ailments, were never intended to meet such demand it is absolutely necessary that an isolation hospital be provided by the municipalities.

We have visited the Children's Shelter, under the control of the Children's Aid Society, and while those in charge are doing all that can be expected of them with the means at their disposal, we would suggest that the Shelter should be provided with a bath room and sewer connections.

"Love lightens labor," the saying runs, and in a sense it is true. But even love cannot lighten labor or make it easy for the woman who is in constant suffering from inflammation, bearing-down pains or other womanly diseases. The one thing that can make work easy for women is sound health, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the thing that will give sound health to sick women. It cures womanly diseases which cause weakness, and cures the backache, sideache, nervousness and other ills which are the result of womanly diseases.

"I suffered from female weakness for five months," writes Miss Belle Herrick, of Nye, Putnam Co., W. Va. "I was treated by a good physician but he never seemed to do me any good. I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, which I received, telling me to take his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' When I had used the medicines a month, my health was much improved. It has continued to improve until now I can work at almost all kinds of housework. I had scarcely any appetite, but it is all right now. Have gained several pounds in weight. Dr. Pierce's medicines have done wonderfully well here. I would advise all who suffer from chronic diseases to write to Dr. Pierce."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

DR. LORENZ METHOD FAILS

New York Medical Men Disappointed by Recent Cases

New York, Oct. 1.—Disappointment is expressed by medical men in this city at the unsatisfactory result following a number of the operations performed by Dr. Lorenz, the Vienna specialist, for congenital hip diseases. Recently the plaster casts have been removed from the legs and hips of some of the little ones, and the conditions revealed were such as to cause the gravest consideration.

Out of eight cases at the hospital for ruptured and crippled at Forty-second street and Lexington avenue, gangrenous conditions were found in four. In two of the cases the little patients had the leg amputated. One died after the operation. In the third case the advisability of amputation is being considered. In the fourth case the Lorenz operation was not a success and amputation is likely.

When these facts were called to the attention of Dr. Homer Gibney he admitted with evident reluctance that they were true, but said that many more operations had been performed at the hospital, "twenty-five or fifty," he said. He did not remember how many operations Dr. Lorenz had performed there nor what percentage of the cases treated at the hospital had been successful.

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects.

The DRAINS, either by nightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. We invite all the afflicted to call and consult us confidentially and free of charge. Cures Guaranteed or no Pay. Horrible Conduct of the Turkish Troops, Who Murder Men, Women, and Youths Indiscriminately

The British People are Horrified and Demand Action to Be Taken

Sofia, Oct. 2—The revolutionary decision to proclaim an insurrection in North and Eastern Macedonia, on Sunday night has apparently been carried out. The movement takes the character of a guerilla warfare in the mountainous districts.

Zontcheff, the well-known commander of the insurgents, has ordered some 80 bands to assume the offensive. Another conflict has occurred near Perim village, the insurgents claiming the victory. It is stated insurrection broke out on Sunday night in the whole of the Perim district. The telegraph lines were everywhere cut, and determined conflicts took place. At Butchevo and Mehomia great numbers of peasants, including women and children, have been murdered by the Turks, who are infuriated and committing atrocities. The insurgents are advancing against Butchevo and have surrounded Predeal, a fortified station of considerable strategic value.

A LONDON DEMONSTRATION.

London, Oct. 2—A pro-Macedonian demonstration, on the lines of the demonstrations formerly called forth by the Armenian troubles, was held at St. James' Hall last evening. The hall was crowded, and an overflow meeting had to be held. It is estimated that 3,000 were gathered within the hall.

The Bishop of Worcester presided, supported by the Bishop of Hereford, Right Hon. James Bryce, and ten other Liberal members of Parliament, and several clergymen.

THE LATEST FROM SOFIA.

Sofia, Bulgaria,, Oct,. 2—A despatch from Rilo Monastery says the town of Razlog has been in flames since Sunday night.

The insurgents are attacking Butchevo and fighting is reported with the Turks. Another fight is reported to have taken place near Okrhida, in which fifty Turks were killed and many wounded. It is stated that all the intelligent Bulgarians of the town of Okrhida were recently arrested on suspicion of communicating with the insurgent bands, and were sent in chains to Monastir. A letter from Philippopolis, dated yesterday, says the authorities have distributed rifles and ammunition in all centre villages for use in case of an attack being made by the Turks.

CANADA AS A WHOLE

Lord Strathcona Calls on Manufacturers to Support Grain Preference

The War Commission Gave No Private Report to Ministers

London, Oct. 1.—Lord Strathcona, interviewed on Canada's attitude in the matter of Chamberlain's proposals said that free trade within the Empire was not possible, so far as the colonies were concerned. A two-shilling duty on wheat and the same on flour would not raise the price of bread here a farthing.

Referring to the Canadian manufacturers resenting the preference on foodstuff only, Lord Strathcona said he was sure the traders and manufacturers would show themselves reasonable, rational and fair people. They would consider, Lord Strathcona had not the slightest doubt, the interests of Canada as a whole. Some people thought the profits would decrease with the preference. On the contrary Lord Strathcona believes the profits will be increased with the greater volume of trade.

Regarding the Canadian mail service, Lord Strathcona looks forward to the proposal being carried out at no distant date. The question of a fast steamship service, he said, could not be settled without taking the new adaptation of the turbine into consideration. It would be better to delay the scheme for a few months for this purpose, than to appreciate the importance of this invention when too late.

Lord Strathcona says there was no private report of the War Commission. All recognized from the evidence submitted that the administration of the Admiralty in connection with the navy was relatively superior to the administration by the War Office of the army, but the commission did not consider the terms of reference necessitated going into the matter.

Shooting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding seasons for shooting Deer, Moose, Reindeer, Caribou, etc., in the "Highlands of Ontario," and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

ANTI-BOYCOTT BILL IS SIGNED

Stringent Measure Passed in Alabama Approved by Governor

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 2—Governor Jelks yesterday signed the anti-boycott bill which passed the legislature last week. It is said to be the most rigid law ever passed in any state on the subject, and has been bitterly opposed by organized labor.

C. P. R. Announces Change in Tariff Grain Rates

Montreal, Oct. 2—The C.P.R. announced today that the tariff on grain from all points in Ontario to the Maritime Provinces will on October 8th, be advanced from one-half of a cent to two cents per 100 pounds.

CONDUCTOR AND ENGINEER

Held Responsible by Railway for Sunday's C. P. R. Accident

Ottawa, Oct. 2—The blame for Sunday's accident on the C.P.R. short line has been placed upon Conductor Horan and Engineer Dolman, as the result of an official enquiry held by the divisional superintendent of the C.P.R. and the finding will go to the general superintendent for whatever further action is necessary. The conductor and engineer were ordered to shunt up to 12.50 and then be clear on the siding. In place of doing that they worked ahead and were on the main line when the Soo train came along. It was a case of forgetting and the smash-up was the result.

Winter Routes for Canadian Pacific Steamers

London, Oct. 2—The Canadian Pacific steamship plans are being further developed. On the close of St. Lawrence navigation the London steamers, Montezuma, Montreal, Milwaukee, Mount Royal, will be put on the New Orleans service, carrying cotton, and then removed to the Liverpool and Continent routes as required. The steamers on the St. John and Antwerp services willl be the Lake Michigan, Mount Temple, Monmouth and Montrose.

HIGH SPEED ON RAILWAY

German Electric Line Reaches 117 Miles An Hour

Berlin, Oct. 2—In a trial over the Zossen experimental electric railway recently a 100-ton car was driven at rate of more than 117 miles an hour. Every part of the car was intact, and the roadbed was not affected.

This series of tests was begun 10 days ago, when a speed of ninety miles an hour was increased two or three miles, and last week the highest point was reached. The fact that the machinery and roadbed were not impaired gives every hope of attaining a speed of 125 miles an hour.

The tests will be suspended for a few days as the Government wishes to use

ENGLISH GIRL DISAPPEARED

Are Looking for One of the S.S. Ionian's Passengers

Montreal, Oct. 2—The police are looking for a pretty sixteen-year-old English girl, a stranger in this country, who has disappeared since her arrival here.

Her name is Emily Keys, and she has been missing just one week. Her sister, Maggie Louisa Keys, is also missing but some trace has been found of her.

Strange to say, Emily, who is only sixteen, but tall for her age, came out here to find her sister and obtain employment.

She arrived on the SS. Ionian, and came to this city a week ago Sunday going to the St. Andrews home.

The authorities of the Home, although they inserted advertisements in the papers, were unable to locate her sister, and, while waiting to hear what had become of the latter, obtained employment for Emily.

Emily left the Home at eight o'clock in the morning on Wednesday last to go to see her new place, and then disappeared.

She never reached the goal of her journey and has not been seen by her friends since.

Her trunk, however, is still unclaimed.

The sister, Maggie Louisa Keys, came here a year and ten months ago, leaving her mother in the Old Country to seek fortune in the new.

THE GRAND TRUNK STOPS WORK AT BRANTFORD

This Action Taken Owing to a Deadlock in City Council

Brantford, Ont., Oct. 1—This city, under an agreement which has recently been drawn up with the Grand Trunk, but not as yet ratified by the Council, has undertaken to bear all expense in closing several crossings and streets, deviating and opening up other streets, and in addition must bear half the land damages which will result in closing streets and constructing two new subways. Some of the councillors want a bylaw submitted to the people at once to raise the city's share of the cost of these charges. Others want the expense saddled on the current account of next year's council, and still others want a twenty-year debenture bylaw submitted next year. There is consequently a deadlock in the Railway Committee of the Council. Until the difficulty had been settled, the Grand Trunk Railway, which has been double tracking and rushing all improvements in this vicinity with every possible speed, has been ordered to stop operations.

FRENCH SHORE QUESTION

Reported to Have Been Settled at Last

Paris, Oct. 2—The Matin, in an inspired article, says, that while it is true that England, France and Spain have been negotiating for a long time concerning Morocco and have succeeded in reaching a general understanding, it is premature to assert that an agreement in the strict sense of the word has been reached. Despite the Matin article it is maintained that a scheme entailing a French protectorate over Morocco has been determined upon. It is said that it has been decided to mobilize 25,000 French troops under Generals O'Connor and Bulloud. The first column will operate on the north by Lalla and Maphonia and the second column by Nengut. The French fleet will co-operate with the military and possibly will land 15,000 men at Wehediyah, on the Atlantic coast, 90 miles from Fez. French troops are already concentrating on the Moroccan frontier in preparation for a forward movement early in November. England's acquiescence in the French plan is said to have been secured by a full recognition of her claims in Newfoundland and a friendly compromise and recognition of the British occupation of Egypt.

Poachers Must Stay Awake

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 1.—The new revenue cutter Tuscarora had arrived here from the Atlantic coast. One of her missions in these waters is to look fully into the trouble which American fishing boats are giving the Canadian revenue cutter Petrel. This she will do after she has taken on her full armament. At the present time she carries but one six-pound Hotchkiss rapid-fire gun, although well equipped with small arms. The Tuscarora is a handsomely modeled craft of the most recent type. She is 179 feet long and 36 feet beam. Her speed is 17.7 knots an hour.

AN INSPECTOR LOST HIS POSITION.

Remarkable Case of Smuggling in Which He Figured

PASSED MANY CLOTHES

The Business was a Lucrative One and 60 Per Cent. of Duty was Saved

Montreal, Oct. 2—One of the most remarkable cases of smuggling ever brought to the attention of the authorities in this city has recently come to light, and through it an inspector in the United States service has lost his position.

It appears that for upwards of a year large quantities of English clothing have been coming into the port from England. This clothing, all for men, and of the latest cut and material, paid the regulation duty of 35 per cent., less the usual reduction of 33 1-3, which is now in effect from England.

These suits, upon arriving in port, in cases from England, were duly unpacked and placed in trunks, 12 or 14 suits in a trunk.

These were duly checked at either the Grand Trunk or C.P.R. stations for New York, a ticket being purchased by the culprit in the regular way, so as to ensure the movement of the baggage without question. In order to avoid suspicion, a few shirts and collars were distributed among the brand new English suits, and this it did for a long time, for it is calculated that at least 300 suits have been smuggled over in this manner within the past year. As a matter of fact the game may have been going on for a half dozen years for all the authorities know.

That it paid well can be imagined from the fact that while the duty on clothing going into the United States amounts to about 90 per cent., so that about 60 per cent. was saved on every suit smuggled in, less, of course, the expense incurred in avoiding the United States Customs authorities. It is figured however, that within the past year the duties avoided amounted to some $6,000.

BRITAIN ON EVE OF A GREAT CAMPAIGN

So Thinks Mr. Charles Bradfield of Birmingham, Eng.

CHAMBERLAIN'S PROPOSALS

Hard to Upset the Convictions of Those who Believe in Efficiency of Free Trade

Montreal, Oct. 2—"I can assure you that Mr. Chamberlain has taken his coat off now, and that England is on the eve of one of the greatest political campaigns since the time of the Home Rule split."

These were the words of Mr. Charles Bradfield, of Birmingham today. Mr. Bradfield is on a visit to Canada, and although he hails from Birmingham and his views are therefore of the Birmingham school, his remarks regarding the fiscal policy of the ex-Colonial Secretary are not by any means one-sided, and he appreciated the free trade side of the question and the necessity for careful consideration of the question before disturbing the policy that had been in force for so many years.

Mr Bradfield was of the opinion that the shake-up of the Cabinet had postponed the date of the general election. The appeal to the country might be deferred for months, in order to give the electors an opportunity of understanding fully the proposed changes in the fiscal policy of the country. He did not think that success would be met with at first. It was hard to upset the settled convictions of men who had looked upon free trade for years as the foundation of Britain's commercial greatness. The process of education would be a slow one, but he was convinced that in the end Mr. Chamberlain would succeed.

Mr. Bradfield spoke of the keen interest that had been evinced in Birmingham in the recent Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire. Birmingham at the present time was the storm centre of Imperial politics. The resolution passed unanimously regarding the inter-Imperial trade proposals had been received with satisfaction.

THE BRITISH MINISTRY NOW FACE ELECTORS.

Two Thousand Delegates Attend Great Fiscal Meeting in Sheffield, Situation of Unparralelled Chaos

London, Oct. 2—Two thousand delegates assembled in Sheffield at the meeting Thursday and Friday of the National Union of Conservative and Constitutional Associations, at which they will hear Premier Balfour's exposition on the fiscal question. These politicians met in the midst of the most confused political situation in the history of British parties. Hundreds do not even know their own minds and are looking to their leaders to equip them, if not with convictions, at least with definite battle cries.

Each of the three general divisions of the delegates—protectionists, semi-protectionists and free traders — are attempting to capture the meeting. The Unionist party machine for the moment, the semi-protectionists or Balfourists, expect the victory.

Should Balfour succeed in electing a Ministry satisfactory to the King, the life of the Government is likely to be extended some months, because the majority of the several sections of the Unionist party prefers Balfour's Cabinet to any that might attain power if the existing regime were overturned. Moreover, the Irish party will support the Balfour Ministry.

BRANTFORD CHILD SLAIN, A SUSPECT IN CUSTODY IRENE COLE WAS VICTIM

Little Girl Lured Into a Willow Swamp, Outraged and Brutally Murdered, Father Found the Body.

A Recent Arrival from Ireland Named Kennedy Held by the Police, Strong Circumstantial Evidence Found in Condition of His Clothing

Brantford, Oct. 1.—The story of Glory Whalen has been repeated in the murder of 8-year-old Irene Cole, Eagle avenue, a daughter of Peter Cole, machinist in the Massey-Harris works here, but to the crime of murder was added outrage and most brutal assault. The city is in a state of excitement such as was unknown even when the Quick murder mystery was at its height, and an arrest was made of a man having marks of blood on his shirt, whom the police said answered the description of the one wanted.

The little victim met with an accident at school a few days ago, and dislocated her arm at the elbow, and consequently remained at home, where she spent the time in playing about. She was a quiet child, and seldom went far from the house. Irene was present at dinner, but was missed shortly afterwards. After hunting for her for some minutes in the immediate neighborhood and making enquiries from those living nearby, Mrs. Cole became anxious, and notified the police. The answer to the notification arrived in the form of an officer, who made an investigation, but an unsuccessful one. The girl was still absent at 3 o'clock and each hour added to the anxiety of the mother and relatives.

THE FATHER CALLED HOME.

Falkland, where Mr. Cole was at the time, is some distance from the city, but word was hurried out to Mr. Cole informing him of his daughter's sudden and mysterious disappearance. Mr. Cole hurried home. He was told the story of Irene's absence, and with a strange sense of premonition, remarked that something serious had befallen her. A searching party was formed. There were many willing volunteers, and the district was laid off in sections to be thoroughly scoured. The thought with the majority of the searchers was that some accident had befallen the little one. It was not thought likely that she would remain away for four hours with an injured arm.

The search for the first three hours was an unfruitful one. The searchers had met a boy, who said that he had seen the victim walking near the dyke in the afternoon about 4 o'clock. The lad said that a man who was laboring on the dyke beckoned to her. The girl stopped, as if to approach the man. Then, not being particularly interested, the lad returned and went away. The girl had her arm in a sling, and he was positive that it was Irene Cole. However, he was not sure that he could identify the man, as he only saw him in the distance.

FATHER FOUND THE BODY

There is added horror to the story in the fact that the discovery of the body was made by the victim's father. The little party of searchers had arrived at the willows, and were walking along a narrow path that led into their midst. Mr. Cole was in the lead. It was growing dark now, and all eyes were strained for some trace of the missing one. The body was lying close by the trail, and when Mr. Cole saw it he fell back into the arms of those behind, prostrated by the shock. The remains were discovered in a hollow in the thick of the willows. The chest was black and blue, as if the assailant had trampled the little victim with his feet. The hair was covered with clay, the clothes were badly torn, the clothes were badly torn, the limbs were spattered with blood, and it was evident that the little victim, after fighting desperately, had died of convulsions or had been choked to death.

The body was taken in charge by Coroner Fissette, who ordered its removed to J. W. Wood's undertaking establishment. The body had one severe cut, also a blow on the head, as though caused by a club.

FOOTPRINTS OF THE MAN.

Just in the rear of the spot where the body was found are several footprints, which were deeply imbedded in the soft soil. The place has every appearance of being the scene of a slight struggle. The footprints were plain and distinct in the immediate vicinity of the body, but little trace could be found of them some distance from it. The prints were that of a good-sized man. It would appear that the girl had been decoyed to the spot, and then suddenly assaulted. This would correspond with the story of the boy who claimed he saw the man beckoning to the girl.

The authorities claim that the reason for the murder is because the assailant feared that the girl might recognize him at some future time, or else the girl knew him at the time of the assault.

AN ARREST MADE.

The police worked diligently during the night, and at 2 o'clock this morning the first suspect was arrested. He is Joseph Kennedy, an Irishman from Belfast. He came to Brantford about six weeks ago, and has been hanging around the city since doing odd jobs, but obtaining employment most of the time as a coachman.

Kennedy was taken to the police station and examined. He told his name, but refused to say where he had been during the afternoon, his only reply to the question being, "I was in several places."

If ever there was a stoic Kennedy was one, but his stoicism could not save him from an examination that brought forth facts of value to the authorities. He had 32 cents and some trinkets in his possession. He wore a grey suit, a grey flannel undershirt, a blue print overshirt, a white celluloid collar.

WHAT THE POLICE FOUND.

Kennedy was stripped, and Dr. Ashton examined him closely. It was easily observable that parts of his body had recently been washed, perhaps within a few hours of his arrest, and others had not. As a matter of fact, the prisoner stated that he had not had a bath since he left Ireland.

Kennedy's clothes had been sponged within a few hours, for they were still damp. There had been much blood on the trousers, but it had been partially removed. There were some spots however, that escaped to a great extent the sponge, and one spot about the size of a five cent piece which had scarcely been touched at all, the blood being dried and clotted. Still further evidences were clearly discernible on the shirt, which had several yellow stains, such as are left after the marks of blood are sponged with cold water. On another part of his clothing was a stain several inches wide, which had withstood the effect of a sponging.

There is powerful circumstantial evidence and the police feel pretty certain that they landed the right man.

Kennedy was not in a talkative mood, but when an ordinary man under such shocking and fearful circumstances would have shown some agitation, he remained passive and calm, telling those about him that he did not know how the stains got there.

He showed what was nothing less than boldness when the medical examination of his body was being made, and did not hesitate to do directly as they told him. The officer did not expect such a bearing from a man who was in his predicament, and they do not quite understand it yet.

SEEN NEAR COLE'S HOUSE.

Kennedy has been quite often during the past few days in Eagle Place, and it is asserted that he was seen there yesterday. Anyone who saw the man will not quickly forget him. His face is red, almost florid, and he inclines to corpulency, or his carriage would give one that impression. He is about 35 years old, and nothing is known here of his past.

Kennedy was arraigned this morning on a charge of murder, and was remanded for a week. He pleaded not guilty.

This morning Kennedy was positively identified by one of the Potter children, who says he is the man she saw standing on the dyke near the scene of the murder, and who beckoned to her to come to him. The girl prudently refused to do what the man asked.

STEAM TURBINES FOR THE FAST OCEAN LINE

Lord Strathcona's Statement Viewed as Significant

London, Oct. 2—The statement made by Lord Strathcona yesterday confirms the recent assertion in these cablegrams that the practicability of the turbine for trans-atlantic steamers is under careful consideration here and in Ottawa, in connection with the Canadian fast service. Lord Strathcona even urges this as justification for the delay of the scheme for a few months.

It is noteworthy, that since his return to England Lord Strathcona has adopted a most outspoken attitude in support of Mr. Chamberlain's policy. His support is of the greatest importance to the cause, owing to his representative position and the great weight attaching to his opinion in Great Britain.

THE KING'S CHOICE FOR WAR OFFICE

His Majesty is Said to Favor Austen Chamberlain

London, Oct. 2—I understand that King Edward is strongly in favor of Austen Chamberlain for the War Office, considering him the only practical business man among those mentioned for the position.

The Westminster Gazette, referring to the payment of Canadian loans, says: "It is very satisfactory in these times, so unpropitious for large borrowing operations, that one of our colonies is in a position to redeem a debt falling due."

The State Children's Association is anxious to promote the emigration of children to Canada. The secretary points out that there are 22,000 children in the workhouses and that the cost of sending a child to Canada is £14, while the cost of a child in an aggregated school is £50 per annum.

LET US REASON TOGETHER

Thoughtful leaders of labor should carefully consider the present industrial situation.

No reasonable objection can be made to the aspiration of workers to receive as nearly as possible the full fruit of their endeavor.

On the other hand the existing economic system requires that proper return shall be made to invested capital.

When the cost of production, as determined by these elements, is greater than that of competitive products, or is more than the consumer will pay, the machinery stops.

There is every indication that this condition is now nearly reached.

If a cessation of product is forced by further demands for increases the result will be disastrous to all concerned, but first of all to the wage-workers.

The Golden Goose will be put out of business.

DEADLY WEAPONS

A thirteen-year-old boy in New York was killed the other day by his cousin, a little older than himself, while having a mock duel with revolvers. One boy had just come on a visit to the other and they seem to have found two revolvers in the bedroom wherein they were to sleep together, and they played "duel" with tragic consequences.

The prevalence of firearms among the people of the United States is a great danger to life and a frequent cause of crime. Children find loaded revolvers in bedrooms and shoot each other. Men quarrel at ball games, in saloons, or in the streets, and in a momentary rage, one, happening to have a revolver in his pocket, pulls it out and shoots the other. Five minutes later he is broken down with remorse. In hot anger an armed man shoots another as readily as an unarmed man strikes a blow with his fist. In each case anger has control of him, and he uses the weapon most convenient.

In many cases of suicide no explanation can be found except that the deed was done on impulse—the finding of a revolver in a secluded room suggesting self-destruction. The impulse may be classed with that which sometime causes healthy and happy persons, when on top of a high tower or overlooking the Niagara gorge, to hurl themselves down.

There is a great danger in having a deadly weapon within reach of an angry man's hand. When armed men fight they shoot; when unarmed they can but fight with nature's weapons, which are capable of inflicting injury enough to settle any quarrel. People carry revolvers to protect themselves but it is seldom that a revolver does this; it is the aggressor ten times for once it serves duty as a protector, and the reason is that law breakers are quicker to use guns and place less value on human life than other people do. If the man whose house is being robbed uses a pistol, so, too, can the burglar, and perhaps with deadlier effect. The carrying of deadly weapons is sternly discouraged in Canada, and there is no law that should be more rigorously enforced than this one.

Most of the people who talk a good deal about keeping the negro in his place evidently think that the place for him is at the end of a rope.

DREW FOR HIS FATE

Six Year-Old Boy Aided in Selection of the Tillman Jury

Lexington, S.C., Sept. 30. — The trial of James H. Tillman for the murder of N. G. Gonzales, is proceeding.

Custom, which is as binding as law here, ordains that the names of prospective jurors shall be drawn from a hat by a child who can neither read nor write. The names of the regular venire of thirty-six men were placed in a black sombrero. A handkerchief was placed over the hat, and Robert Harman, six years old, began the drawing of the names of the men who were to serve on the jury.

In the selection of the jury the State used its five premptory challenges, while the defence employed nine of the thirteen allowed. The work of getting a jury occupied less than two hours.

Policeman Boland, of Columbia, who arrested Tillman after the shooting, was the first witness. He testified as to the arrest and the positions of Tillman and Gonzales directly after the shooting. The witness continued: "I went up to him and said, 'Governor, you know who I am, and I'll have to place you under arrest.' I asked him if he had shot Gonzales, and he said he had, and thought he had hit him, too."

DEATH FROM LIVE WIRE

Hamilton Man Found Dead in the Public Park

Hamilton, Sept. 30.—Caretaker William Milligan of Sherman's Park yesterday morning discovered the dead body of a man in the park. Beside the dead body was a pair of shears. The remains were identified as those of William Gill, 212 Wood street east, a laborer. He was about 35 or 40 years of age. There was evidence of the deceased having been cutting wires which had supplied the park with light in the summer, and two coils of cut wire were rolled up on the ground. It was evident that the deceased had come to his death by contact with a live wire, for the current had not been turned off when the show season ended. A wagon track was clearly seen, and it is thought whoever was in the rig became frightened when he saw his companion's death and drove hurriedly away. Coroner McNichol thinks the deceased must have met his death about midnight, judging by the condition of the body.

Asleep on the Track

Keewatin, Sept. 30.—An accident occurred about half a mile west of here yesterday morning, where a freight, eastbound, killed Alfred Gault, who was sitting on the track apparently asleep.

The train was brought to a standstill, and while standing a couple of men came rushing up the track, saying that another man had been killed a quarter of a mile farther east. This latter man was afterwards identified as William Vartwright, employed by the Keewatin Lumber Company.

How Are Your Kidneys?

This Simple Test Will Tell.

If any of your family have been troubled with kidney disease, make a test of the urine, and satisfy yourself whether you need a food remedy before the disease has caused serious complications.

To-morrow morning put some urine in a glass or bottle, and let it stand fro twenty-four hours. If it shows particles or germs floating about, is milky or cloudy, or contains a reddish sediment, then your kidneys are diseased.

Commence at once to take Ferrozone to arrest these unnatural conditions. Ferrozone is especially intended for the immediate relief and cure of kidney and bladder troubles, and its health giving, strengthening properties will be felt at once in new pure blood, healthy circulation, good color, increased vigor, and a general strengthening of the system.

Ferrozone quickly corrects urinal disorders, headache, and pain in the back. It improves the appetite, digests the food, and makes it nourish the nerves, makes them strong and enduring, and fits one for lots of hard work.

Don't be misled by cheap, so called kidney cures offered by dealers for the sake of extra profits. There is only one safe and reliable specific for Bladder, Liver, and urinal troubles, and its name is Ferrozone.

Refuse point blank to accept a substitute, and insist on your druggist supplying the genuine Ferrozone; it is the best. Price 50 cts. per box, or three boxes for $1.25. At all druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

HE MARRIED ANOTHER

Fickle Doctor Promised Undying Love to Girl

Chancellor Boyd Called on to Measure in Dollars Damage to Wounded Heart

London, Ont., Sept. 30.—At the assizes here yesterday, before Chancellor Boyd, the proceedings were enlivened by a very interesting case for breach of promise of marriage. The parties concerned belong to leading families in London. The plaintiff is Miss Ella O'Neil, some 25 years [illegible] The defendant, Dr. Silk, is a well-known dentist of London.

The plaintiff related the story of the doctor's courtship, which extended from the year 1899 continuously up to the year 1903, when, without the slightest warning, as the plaintiff claims, he married a Miss Hicks of Exeter.

A bundle of the doctor's letters, teeming with expressions vowing his undying love, was filed as an exhibition.

With tears in her eyes, she stated her case, urging that her prospects are blighted, her health ruined, and that now nothing stares her in the face but the prospect of having to earn her own livelihood, instead of having the comfortable home which the doctor had always pictured to her. Hearing that the marriage to Miss Hicks was to take place on Monday, she had driven all the way from Exeter to London. There she had interviewed the prospective father-in-law, and prohibited the marriage. The father-in-law, after solemnly considering the matter, declined to waive the new title on account of any previous engagement. Miss O'Neil then wrote the clergyman, ordering him not to proceed. The ceremony was, however, performed, and now Miss O'Neil would receive from the doctor damages as the result of his wobbling betwixt beauty and duty, for it is said the successful girl was the belle of her town.

The addresses of consels was very amusing, and while the doctor did not enter the box and face his accuser, his counsel admitted the breach of promise. His sole defence was a plea for small damages. Counsel, waving his arms, called upon the Chancellor, sitting as a philosopher dealing as an expert in love, to weigh carefully the loss in dollars and cents.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

Lord Rothschild Explains the Depreciation in British Consols

London, Sept. 30.—In an interview on the financial situation, Lord Rothschild said it resulted from throwing on the market large quantities of English securities and heavy borrowing by the municipalities. Consols are also less popular than when they brought three per cent. He was convinced that the political situation had nothing whatever to do with the depression. He saw no necessity for alarm.

When asked why foreign securities were not sharing in the depreciation, Lord Rothschild replied that it was because the holders of foreign stock are a minority in England compared with those whose investments are purely British. He regarded the present as an opportune time for buyers.

Influential representations have been made to the Government in reference to the continued fall in the price of consols, accompanied by a suggestion that the time has come for the inspection of a conversion scheme having for its object the creation of a uniform British three per cent. stock, in which all outstanding securities should be merged. The Government received the suggestion in a sympathetic spirit, and several experienced financiers have been consulted. There are more unlikely events than the return of consols to a three per cent. basis.

ALMOST A PANIC IN LONDON

Demoralization in Stocks and Consols Reach Low Figure

London, Oct. 1—The renewed heavy realizations, chiefly in the best investment securities, caused a demoralization on the stock markets yesterday, almost amounting to a panic. Consols once touched 87 1-2 being a full point beneath the lowest reached during the Franco-German war.

The heavy liquidation is said to be due to the needs of American financiers and speculators. Great apprehension is felt regarding the position on Wall street and anxiety is entertained concerning the Stock Exchange settlement here Wednesday. There are rumors of probable failures, which in the best informed quarters, however are said to be exaggerated.

The slump in United States Steel stock caused some anxiety as to its probable effect on Andrew Carnegie's library endowments. It is stated, however, that Mr. Carnegie views the slump with the utmost complacency. An appeal to him on this subject elicited the following response: "Mr. Carnegie never owned any second mortgage bonds or shares of the United States Steel trust. His bonds are first mortgage bonds, covering all the property, and are not quoted upon the Stock Exchange."

CANADIAN GOODS IN FRANCE

Paris Commercial Agent Writes of Exporting Method

London, Oct. 1—The Canadian commercial agent in Paris writes that "the Canadian ham is in good demand in France and chiefly in Paris" but with the prices now in force since the custom duties were increased, he recommends that shipments be made direct instead of through the United Kingdom. This would do away with the extra commission to the British representation. The commercial agent also accentuates the opening that exists for Canadian apples and coal.

Want Engine Building

London, Oct. 1.—The Canadian firms have asked to be allowed to tender for any contracts for engines which may be required for the Transvaal Railway. The hope is expressed here that these companies may have the opportunity of tendering for engines required on Indian railways. Any difficulty of inspection might be solved by the assistance of the Canadian Government.

JURY IGNORES MURDER

No Action to be Taken Against Members of Mob

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 30. — The grand jury yesterday announced it had decided to ignore the bill against those charged with being concerned with the burning at the stake of George White, the negro who assaulted and murdered Miss Helen Bishop.

White was taken from jail and burned in the public square of Wilmington, after being subjected to brutal treatment. A minister who preached an impassioned sermon relative to the charge against White afterwards condoned the action of the mob from his pulpit.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Midland Pile Wharves," will be received at this office until Friday, October 23, inclusively, for the construction of pile wharves at the town of Midland, Simcoe County, Ont., according to a plan and specification to be seen at the office of H. A. Gray, Esq., Engineer in charge of Harbour and River Works, Ontario, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, on application to the Postmaster at Midland, Ont., and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied and signed with the actual signature of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for three thousand dollars ($3,000.00) must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the party tendering decline the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500.00, and to the five next nearest $100.00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the lists are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons our article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our Bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names, and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to us [illegible]. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $5.00 per day while here, so nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA, PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

—It you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

Purchase the Treasury Stock of

The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.
OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to [illegible] feet, and a tunnel run a distance of [illegible] feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale [illegible] shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at [illegible] cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends have been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury Stock on commission

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising [illegible] claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from [illegible] to $54.28 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file of investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Oct. 1—There was considerable selling of stocks in the market yesterday and the liquidation which was in evidence was quite mysterious in that there was no explanation. There was a theory that certain big interests were bearing the market for the purpose of facilitating the covering of short contracts, but on the other hand there was some clear evidence of longs becoming out and it was stated by close observers that certain outside interests were being made to close out speculative holdings. The decline in Penna and a few other stocks of the gilt edge type had the effect of disappointing a number of interests, and sentiment at the moment is naturally bearish. The news at hand at the moment is rather mixed. There is still a lot of favorable news in the shape of big railroad earnings, but there is still a disposition on the part of many interests to give more attention to the bad influences than to the good. The money market is still unsettled the banks generally report that funds are well employed.

Chicago, Sept. 1—There was a moderate line of selling in the wheat pit Wednesday but on the lower prices there was a fair line of supporting orders. The conditions affecting wheat at the moment are rather peculiar for reason that they are mixed. The crop news is quite favorable and while there is a moderate cash demand and a fair export of inquiry the country movement gives promise of decreasing. The primary movement continues fair and the accumulations which are being noted are only natural for this season of the year. The mills are buying sparingly now but in view of the smaller demand the country is believed to be holding back. The corn market is quite steady. Shorts are believed to be inclined to cover, though the longs seem well loaded up and they are not as aggressive as they were some days ago. Their action is explained by the better line of crop reports which are being received from the corn belt; the receipts of corn are still fair but they are expected to are expected to decrease in the near future.

WOULD MEAN WAR

Measure Advocated by the Bishops would Isolate England

London, Oct. 1.—Sir Edward Malet, formerly British Ambassador to Germany, writes to the Times this morning reprehending the attempt of the bishops to force the hands of the Government in Macedonian affairs, and says that Great Britain could only accede to the bishop's demands by, in plain English, "going to war." If the Government made such a move as the bishops demand, writes Sir Edward Malet, it would be left by the other powers in "splendid isolation," and faced with the alternative of an ignominious retreat or war. The former would do no infinite harm to the Macedonians, while the latter would mean letting loose the dogs of insurrection as well as the dogs of war, and would give the coveted opportunity to Great Britain's innumerable enemies throughout the world.

MUST NO LONGER RULE

English Paper Would Not Ignore Prof. Goldwin Smith's Opposition

London, Oct. 1.—A pro-Macedonian demonstration was held at St. James' Hall last evening. The Bishop of Worcester presided, supported by the Bishop of Hereford, the Right Hon. James Bryce and ten other Liberal members of Parliament, and many clergymen and philanthropists. A resolution was passed demanding that the direct rule of the Sultan cease in Macedonia, and be replaced by an Administration whose members shall not be amenable to dismissal by Turkey. The speakers condemned Prime Minister Balfour's letter on the subject of Macedonia, reference to which was greeted with cries of "Shame"

SHOULD BEAR EXPENSE

Lumber Dealers Say Government Should Prove Existence of Combine

Winnipeg, Oct. 1.—The Lumber Commission was this morning further enlarged for two weeks. Counsel for the smaller lumber dealers announced that his clients did not feel that they should be called on to bear the expense of proving the existence of a lumber combine, whose operations prejudicially affect the prices of lumber and prevent certain parties from doing business. They claimed the expense should be borne by the Government.

COPETE MINING CO.
27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D. Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now a clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

Catarrhozone

Rev. D. K. Smith of Waite Head N. S was cured of Catarrh by CATARRHOZONE.

The following statement coming from one of Nova Scotia's prominent churchmen carries conviction of the fact that Catarrhozone is all right.

"For years I tried all the advertised remedies for Catarrh, but was unable to get relief until I used Catarrhozone. Before I had used the inhaler half an hour my nostrils became free and clear so that I could breathe easily through them. In one day Catarrhozone helped me immensely, stopped my coughing and hawking and cured a dull pain that was continually over my eyes. I have great pleasure in recommending Catarrhozone. I have proved it the best remedy for Catarrh and diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes."

There is certainly no remedy that is so well spoken of by the clergy as Catarrhozone and this can be accounted for by the fact that it gives perfect satisfaction.

It is the only remedy that reaches all diseased parts and gives quick relief without bad after effects. Catarrhozone contains no cocaine nor morphine. It is nature's own remedy, soothing and healing, and pleases everybody that uses it.

Catarrhozone is a local and constitutional treatment. The inhaler clears the air passages, stops the headache, and Ferrozone Tablets that are included in every complete Catarrhozone outfit, never fail to drive impurities from the blood. This builds up and strengthens the system so that Catarrhal conditions cannot exist.

The speediest cure for Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma is Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment, price $1.00; small size, 25 cents; at druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Grand Trunk will run an excursion to Midland on Tuesday, October 13. The excursion will be under the auspices of the Omemee Choral Society, and the following rates have been fixed: Peterborough and Best's, $1.85; Lakefield, $1.65; Millbrook, $1.85; Hastings, $1.65; Keene, $1.55. There will no doubt be a large crowd.

Presented with a Pipe

On Wednesday evening the members of the O.D.A. met at the Crown Hotel and presented Mr. A. W. MacPherson, one of its members with a handsome pipe as a token of their esteem, prior to taking his departure from Peterborough. The presentation was made by the president of the club, Mr. Hal Burnham. Speeches were made by Mr. Dickson Davidson and others. Mr. MacPherson made a suitable reply, expressing his regret in leaving the club and its associations, and wishing the boys happiness and prosperity.

—Lindsay Post: Peterborough corporation boundaries are about to be enlarged. It is proposed to take in about eight acres. The town plot will still be about 292 acres smaller than Lindsay.

A Fall in Grain

At the Cereal Company's yard a train was switched onto the wrong siding and collided with some cars that were standing on the track. The result was that the end of one of the cars full of oats was jammed in and a large quantity of the grain spilled upon the ground. In fact the two end cars of those which were backed up will have to be almost entirely rebuilt before being again fit for service.

Married in Hamilton

The following taken from the Hamilton Times, will interest many in Peterborough, as Mr. Buchanan was formerly a resident of this town: "A pretty house wedding took place at the residence of Mr. E. B. Freeman, [illegible] yesterday, when his daughter, Miss Alma Mary, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. A. Buchanan, managing director of the St. Thomas Journal, and formerly city editor of the Toronto Telegram. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wm. Buchanan, father of the groom. Miss Olive Freeman, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor, while Mr. Frank D. Kerr, of Peterborough, supported the bridegroom. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers. The newly married couple left on the evening train for Montreal, where they will spend their honeymoon."

KING CHRISTIAN OF DENMARK

Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir,—In last Friday's issue you had an article respecting King Christian of Denmark, stating that next November he will have reigned 50 years. This is a mistake, as I was in Copenhagen in 1862, and had the honor of shaking hands with him, and he was King of Denmark then. Also in 1863 I belonged to H. M. S. Defiance that formed part of the squadron that accompanied the royal yacht from Antwerp to Dover that had on board Princess Alexandra, the Crown Princess of Denmark, to be married to the Prince of Wales, (our present king). She was accompanied by her father and mother. She couldn't possibly be the Crown Princess of Denmark unless her father was king.

Yours truly,
W. J. COOPER.

Harvest Home

The Harvest Home Thanksgiving and Anniversary, with presentation of offerings will take place on Sunday next at the Park st. Baptist church. The circular states that the offerings will be applied to the Building Fund of the new church demanded by the increasing congregations and growing neighborhood. The usual garden party and harvest home supper will be dispensed with as not being the best means of raising money for church purposes and the offerings will be presented clean.

In view of the bountiful harvest family blessing innumerable, little sickness, constant employment and ten thousand other blessings, this effort should net at least one hundred dollars.

The church will be decorated with fruits, flowers and vegetables.

Special music by the choir and sermons suitable to the occasion will be preached by Rev. H. A. Brace.

The ceremony of presenting the offerings will be observed.

This new departure from previous years and the result is awaited with great interest.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

Newsy Paragraphs Picked Up by Reporters on Their Round

—The Property Committee met last night.

—Remember the Lakefield Fair next Wednesday.

—The Echo Club met last night to arrange for their annual outing.

—The men of St. John's Church held a business meeting last night.

—Chief Boszel had a bogus quarter handed him yesterday by a local merchant.

—25 sheets of very best quality of notepaper for 5 cents at Times Bookstore.

—The following local horses took part in the races at the Galway fair: Sphinx B., Red Pat, and Keep-a-Bell.

—Fine stationery, style, quality and values are here. Reliable, handsome and low priced. All the latest tints. If you like the pure white we have that too. Times Bookstore.

—Life-like pictures of Pope Leo XIII 3½x25 in beautiful cardinal robes, for sale at Times Bookstore for 39 cents each. Get a copy early as supply is limited.

—Lindsay Post: Cheese buyer Fitzgerald, of Peterborough, has been in town since yesterday receiving and shipping the make of the factories bought by him last Friday. He loaded 318 boxes. Omemee was unable to ship, owing to a scarcity of covers, but will load Saturday.

—Our leading hotel men say the rush of travel this season has been unprecedented, and promises to become heavier this fall. The number of salesmen on the road exceeds all past records, the good times having led many commission men to take to the road.

—The cigar trust made an insidious assault on the Spartan virtue of this g. f. j. the other day by leaving two free smokes on the editor's desk. We promptly burned them up, to show our contempt for such attempts to undermine the liberties of the people.

LORD DUNDONALD'S FRIEND

A New Story of the Canadian Commander

The Times was told a good story of Lord Dundonald, the commander-in-chief of the Canadian Militia, which has not yet, we believe, been printed.

After the General had arrived in London from South Africa, a banquet was tendered him. Among the line of people who filed in and out to shake hands with the great war hero, General Dundonald perceived a face that was very familiar, but whom he could not place.

"Who are you?" he asked in an apologetic aside, as he welcomed the guest heartily.

The man blushed and murmured behind a deprecatory hand:

"Made your shirts, sir."

"Ah, of course," exclaimed Lord Dundonald, loudly, turning to the receiving committee behind him, "Gentlemen, allow me to present Major Shirts."

SOME BOLD BURGLARS

Entered Two Places but Got Very Little Money

Some time during Wednesday night burglars burglarized the office of Messrs. Brightman Bros., hide and wool merchants, Aylmer street. The men entered by prying open a window. The safe was unlocked, but fortunately there was no cash inside. They broke open several drawers, scattering the papers therefrom. From a large drawer in another part of the office a number of very valuable furs were taken but thrown to one side. In another drawer, which was evidently searched in a hurry, the burglars missed a package of $10 in silver which was lying in one corner. Mr. Brightman has no suspicions as to the identity of the burglars.

The same night the Montreal House was also burglarized, and $14 in money, besides a few bottles of liquor was taken. Mr. Laroque says the robbery must have taken place between twelve and five o'clock. The burglars left no clue.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Train Collided with a Rig on Reid Street Crossing

While driving across the Grand Trunk track on Reid street opposite Hamilton's foundry, on Wednesday evening, Mr. John Fairbairn, and Miss L. Lowry had a narrow escape from death. As they approached the crossing they did not notice the approach of a freight train until it was upon them. The buggy was hit by the train and thrown against a post by the road, the occupants being thrown out. The side of Miss Lowry's head was painfully though not seriously cut, and she was severely shocked. She was conveyed to a neighboring house, and her injuries treated by Dr. Carmichael. Mr. Fairbairn escaped without injury. The buggy was badly smashed. The horse escaped without injury.

It was fortunate that the train was moving slowly, otherwise fatal results would have followed. This crossing is a very dangerous one, and something should be done to protect the public.

A PRETTY WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Annie F. Cromie and Mr Jas. Simpson

On Wednesday evening a very pretty wedding was celebrated at 576 Water street, when Miss Annie E. Cromie, youngest daughter of Mr. Chas. Cromie was united in marriage to Mr. James Simpson of Finch, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance, assisted by Rev. J. A. Wilson.

The bride was prettily attired in a travelling suit of navy blue with white hat and was attended by Miss Ella Anderson, of Norwood, who wore a dress of steel gray with white silk trimming. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Ben. Simpson. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. T. L. Anderson.

The happy young couple received many beautiful presents among which was a silver teapot and bread tray from the staff of A. H. Stratton & Co., and a cut glass dish from Mr. A. H. Stratton. The groom's gift to the bride was a crescent brooch set with pearls, an opal pin to the bridesmaid and a pretty ring to the flower girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson left on the 9 o'clock G. T. R. train for Toronto and Buffalo, and on their return will reside at Finch. Their many friends in town wish them much happiness.

MR. M'GILL BANQUETTED

On the Occasion of His Departure from Peterborough

Last night Mr. Charles F. McGill, mechanical superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Works here, was tendered a banquet at the Snowden House, on the occasion of his departure from Peterborough. There were about fifty present, the chair being filled by Mr. R. E. Layfield, Mr. McGill occupying the place of honor.

After the patriotic toasts had been honored, the toast of "Our Guest," was proposed and drunk with enthusiasm, the chairman paying an eloquent tribute to Mr. McGill, whose departure was sincerely deplored, not only by the company and those associated with him in the works, but by the citizens generally.

Mr. McGill, in responding, said that he could hardly find words to express his feelings. He was sorry to sever his connection with the Electric Company, and those so long associated with him.

The evening was spent in songs and speeches, in which the one sentiment of sorrow prevailed at the loss which would be sustained through Mr McGill's departure.

During Mr. McGill's residence in Peterborough he has made many warm friends, who all join in hearty good wishes for his future welfare.

Mr. McGill has accepted a position similar to the one he had just vacated with the Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing Company, Pittsburg.

OSTRICH LOGIC.

"When I can't see danger there is no danger." That's the logic of the ostrich which hides its head and exposes its body to the hunter. There are not a few people who seem to have gone to the ostrich to learn logic. The most dangerous enemies of humanity are the enemies which can't be seen, the disease breeding microbes which infect the blood. It is harder to get the microbe out of the blood than to keep it out, but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does both, by purifying the blood and then keeping it pure.

If there are eruptions on the skin, boils, pimples, sores or other signs of impure blood, the Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which will purify the blood and cure the eruptions which come from it.

"My blood was all out of order, and I had to go to the doctor," writes Mrs. James R. Moss, New London, Stanly Co., N.C. "He gave me medicine which helped me for a short time. In the winter of 1899 I got worse than I had ever been. My tonsils were enlarged and my neck swollen all out of shape; my throat was sore and I could not cure it. My husband went for the doctor, but he gave me no encouragement. He helped me a little, but it did not last long. He attended me for twelve months, when I heard of a lady whose condition was like mine, who was taking your medicine and was getting well. So I secured some of the medicine and began taking it. In one week I was able to do my cooking. When I began taking the medicine I could sit up only a few minutes at a time, and I could rest or sleep only a little while at a time. My throat was so sore at times I could not even swallow sweet milk, and my tonsils were full of little eating sores. My left side was swollen out of shape and I could hardly get my breath. The doctor said I would not get well, but three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, three bottles of his 'Pellets,' three bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and the use of salt water did the work and cured me."

KEENE

The annual fair of the Otonabee Agricultural Society held here on Tuesday and Wednesday was an unqualified success, both as regards the exhibits and attendance. The exhibit of fruit and vegetables was something that many of the large fairs might boast of, and every class of live stock was well represented. The first day was taken up with placing and judging the inside exhibits. Wednesday was the big day and there were about 2,500 people present. The North Star brought in 300 from points on Rice Lake, and a large number from Peterborough drove down. The candy men did a rushing business, Charlie Guy getting rid of his stock in about two hours. One thing worth seeing was the five-legged calf shown by Staples Bros. There were only two entries in the trotting race; Arthur and J. Elmhirst, Arthur taking first place and Jim second. Grafton & Co., Gough Bros. and Turnbull had exhibits of their goods on the grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Robertson, of Peterborough, spent Sunday in the village.

Mr. George Carey, of Hastings, spent Sunday with friends here.

Mrs. Bradley, Miss May Barnett and Miss Gamey, of Buffalo, were the guests of Mrs. Roach for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Whibbs, of Douro, were the guests of Mrs. Quinn on Sunday.

Miss Florence Miller, of Peterborough, was visiting her sister, Mrs. F. Wallace this week.

Mr David Nichol, of Mamtora, N.Y., is visiting his sister, Mrs. English.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of Hoard's Station, were the guests of Mrs. English this week.

We are pleased to see Dr. Harrison out again after his accident of last week.

Mr. Wm. Andrews, of Toronto is visiting his friend, R. Campbell, this week.

ARGUMENT, GREAT BRITAIN AND CANADA

FIXING THE ALASKA BOUNDARY, A DECIDEDLY OLD QUARREL,

OBJECTED TO THE U. S. ASSUMPTIONS

The Sale of Alaska Was Kept A Profound Secret From the World, And Particularly From England, Conquering Hero.

London, Oct. 2—When the commissioners hearing the dispute between the United States and Great Britain over the Alaska boundary, resumed their seats this morning Sir Edward Carson, Solicitor-General, of the counsel for Great Britain, continued his speech, arguing still on the meaning of the words "coast" and "physical coast." He said it was absurd to suppose that the negotiators of the treaty of 1825 had a professor of international law at their elbow to instruct them in such refinements of technical rule as had been advanced by the Counsel for the United States. Sir Edward said there could be no question but that the negotiators employed the word "coast" to designate the edge of the ocean, to which alone the boundary line can be drawn parallel. It is impossible to draw a line parallel to inlets; therefore the inlets could not be included in the definition. He produced a photo of the Lynn Canal to show how clearly that narrow canal lacks the essential characteristics of the ocean and further showed how Nesselrode and other negotiators spoke of Portland Channel as having its mouth on the ocean and its head within the continent, and argued that the description is equally applicable to Lynn Canal, the head of which, therefore, could not be "ocean." Discussing article 7 of the treaty of 1825, which must refer either to the whole northwest coast or only to the lisiere, he said it could not possibly refer to the former, because Nesselrode distinctly refused to grant any trading privileges north of latitude 59 degrees. If it did not include any territory north of 59 degrees, it could not include any south of latitude 54, degrees, 40 minutes; therefore, it applied only to the lisiere.

An Old Quarrel.

Dealing with Mr. Watson's theory of Great Britain's acquiescence, he said there could be no acquiescence before it could be shown that the question was still open between the nations. England was not bound to keep on protesting at every turn. The sale of Alaska was kept a profound secret from the world, and particularly from England. At that time, Canada did not exist as a Dominion and England had no political organization in those inaccessible regions, but the United States knew perfectly well that there was no acquiescence. Sir Edward said Dennis' report of 1874 was based on an incorrect United States map, and, moreover, Dennis' recommendations were never approved nor acted on by the Canadian Government. He quoted Cameron's report to show that in 1875 the Canadian Government called for an adherence to the terms and declared that periodically afterwards England notified the United States that divergence of views existed regarding this boundary.

After detailing the various assertions in England's claim, Sir Edward Carson said they absolutely destroyed the argument based on subsequent acts of occupation by the United States. These acts moreover, amounted to little in themselves. He quoted Mr. Watson to the effect that the census of 1900 showed that there was but 22,000 population in Southern Alaska. Mr. Watson had afterwards reduced this to 11,000. By an analysis of the census he showed there were less than 4,000 in the disputed territory, which number was decreasing every year. Dyea has declined to one thousand, Skagway to one thousand, as the total population of all ages, sexes and nationalities. These facts are very different from Mr. Watson's original statement, which was made with a view to influence the tribunal against disturbing the allegiance of so many people. Sir Edward, concluding, said we were approaching the end of a long arduous investigation, but the labor time, and cost would be well spent if the results should succeed in moving the sole ground of contention between the two great nations interested.

Conquering Here.

President Alverstone, congratulating the Solicitor-General, remarked that having conquered Ireland and annexed England, he has proceeded to appropriate our greatest colony, where his fine argument will be much appreciated. When, unfortunately, Mr. Blake's health compelled his retirement, it was felt that Canada had sustained a great loss, which Sir Edward has done so much to repair.

Judge John M. Dickenson, representing the United States, began by the observation that it was a satisfaction that his remarks would bring this long debate to a close. He referred to the comprehensive speeches of the Attorney-General and Solicitor-General, and the "fascinating and elegant argument of Mr. Christopher Robinson, which was the admiration and despair of all who heard him." He prefaced his remarks by stating that the treaty should be interpreted on broad lines, that words should be read in their general sense and not microscopically examined, searching for subtle distinctions that never entered into the minds of the negotiators. He took up the questions remaining. Regarding question No. 2 he argued that by Portland Channel was meant the Observatory Inlet of Vancouver.

CALL THE CZAR A CRIMINAL

Austrian Socialists Oppose His Visit to The Emperor

Vienna, Oct. 3.—A meeting of 2,000 socialists was held to-night to protest against the visit of the Czar of Russia. Addresses of the most violent character were made. One speaker remarked: "The Czar, whose only monuments of civilization are the gallows, the prison and Siberia, comes like a thief, affected by the stigma of his crimes between a cordon of troops."

A resolution denouncing the Czar's visit as an offense to Russia's liberal population was not allowed to be passed by the official representative.

The meeting broke up with shouts of "Down with the Czar."

ELOPING WIFE FOUND

And Is Lodged in Gaol by Her Husband at Syracuse

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Mrs. John Mallory, of Gouveneur, eloped with William Sharp, of Gananoque, Ont., and went to Syracuse. The woman's husband traced them to Syracuse and found the couple at the Kenmore Hotel. Shortly after Mallory's arrival at the hotel, the proprietor telephoned for an officer, as he was afraid murder would be committed. A detective went to the hotel and arrested the trio. According to the story of the three, Sharp called at the Mallory home while Mallory was at work and they immediately entered a cab and were driven to the station, where they boarded a train for Syracuse. They registered at the hotel as Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brown. Mallory learned of the elopement through the ticket agent at Gouveneur and started in pursuit. On arrival he endeavored to prevail upon his wife to go home with him, but she refused. Mallory and his wife in the Police Court promised to go home, and Sharp was held until the couple left town.

FAMINE WILL SOON JOIN TERRIBLE MASSACRES.

In Devasting and Depopulating Turkey's Revolted Lands, An Appeal to the Pope, Courtesy and Massacre

Sofia, Oct. 3.—The horrors of the situation in Macedonia will soon be increased by famine, as a great portion of the harvest having been destroyed, while the remainder, still uncut, will soon be ruined by rains. The appeal of the American missionaries at Monastir to Britain and the United States will, it is hoped, meet with a ready response. According to a letter from an American friend at Monastir, at least 40,000 people are homeless, and the total will probably soon be 60,000. The Turks refuse to allow aid to be sent to the sufferers. The American missionaries intend, to travel into the interior of the vilayet, with the object of personally aiding the sufferers.

Sofia, Oct. 3.—Both Turkey and Bulgaria appear to be anxious to avoid the threatened outbreak of hostilities, but the situation is again aggravated by the renewed insurrection in northwestern Macedonia. It has been suggested that the Sultan wishes to avoid a winter campaign and will probably prolong the negotiations for months, but it is equally probable that he wishes to forestall the project of an effective application of the reforms under European inspection. The official note to Hilmi Pasha to avoid violence against the Bulgarians population, is noteworthy as an admission that his energies have hitherto been directed against non-combatants, though no proof is needed that the systematic extermination of the peasants has been carried out in obedience to superior orders. The Sultan's experience of the Austro-Russian reform scheme is evidently to his taste.

The march of devastation and rapine continues unchecked in the Adrianople vilayet. The Catholic Archbishop of Philippolis has received heart-rending accounts of the condition of the refugees and he has addressed a petition to the Pope, imploring his Holiness to exert his influence with the Powers to obtain a cessation of the horrors. It is rumored that the Pope is preparing an encyclical in accordance with the appeal.

COURTESY AND MASSACRE.

Sofia, Oct. 2.—The improvement in the Balkan situation seems to be reflected by the Sofia press, which no longer discusses the Macedonian situation. Prince Ferdinand returned here this morning from his country seat.

Letters from Monastir say that Turkish authorities are posing a final invitation to the insurgents to return to their homes.

A report issued by the revolutionary committee at Monastir states that the Turks killed over 200 peasants in a number of villages and that while taking 130 villagers as prisoners to Nevesko they massacred 75 of them. At another place 18 women were outraged and then shut in a barn, which was set on fire.

Another despatch from the Rila monastery gives a report that the whole population of the district of Razlog has been massacred or has fled. Three thousand women and children fugitive from the Turkish soldiery have arrived at Rila. Many villages around Razlog are said to be burning. The town itself is surrounded with tents occupied by the Turkish troops, who avoid fighting and, according to the despatch, attack only innocent people.

ISSUING CARTRIDGES.

Salonica, Oct. 3.—A consignment of 5,000,000 Mauser cartridges arrived here on Monday.

G.T.R. Reaching For American Grain Export Traffic

Reducing Rate on Wheat From Chicago and Other American Points.

Montreal, Oct. 2—The policy of Mr. C. M. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, to make a big bid for the export tonnage of Chicago, Milwaukee and the Twin Cities in grain and packing-house products will, it is expected in leading railway circles, shortly take more definite form by the announcement of a reduction of rates in these lines. The general manager ever since again assuming the management of the Grand Trunk has been convinced that with an improved road the company could, in these lines at least, outdo the roads of the American Trunk Line Association. A preliminary move was made at the beginning of the present year, when the company announced a new rate on grain that brought the price to 3 cents less a bushel than on the American roads, running through to New York and Boston. The reduction has resulted in far the largest season in the history of the company. It is now expected that the new rates on the other lines will go into force at the beginning of 1904, and their result will depend in great part on the action the American trunk lines will take to prevent the trade from being diverted.

THE CANADIAN FARMERS BEING INDUCED SOUTH

Efforts of Southern Railway to Develop at Canada's Expense

Washington, Oct. 2.—The efforts of the Southern Railway to develop the south by inducing immigration from Canada are being rewarded. Several months ago a party of French-Canadian farmers made an extended trip through the Southern States with a view to permanently locating in that section. They were so well pleased with the country they decided to take [illegible] to secure a large tract of land. This they found at Summerville, Dorchester County, S.C., twenty-five miles from Charleston. There are several thousand acres in the tract, which will be divided into farms of from [illegible] to 100 acres.

These Canadians now live in Quebec and Massachusetts. About fifty families have arranged to establish a first settlement at Summerville in a very short time. They will engage in farming, stock and fruit raising.

Drill on Canadian Soil

Sydney, N.S., Oct. 2—For the first time in the history of Sydney, marines from the French ship landed for drill when over 200 sailors from the cruiser Jurien de la Graverie came on shore yesterday, under arms, and went through drill work in Victoria Park. They were subsequently reviewed by the Commander of the ship and staff.

SCHOOL BOYS BREAK STRIKE

Work in Minneapolis Flour Mills with College Men

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 3.—Minneapolis high school students were given an opportunity to work in the flour mills in place of striking millers today. The invitation was given by a professor who said the mills afforded an excellent opportunity for employment for those who needed work and money. Thirty students reported to the mills, but most of them were persuaded by the strikers to turn away.

University students are still working in mills even after the faculty has been served with notice that the labor unions will try to prevent the passage of appropriation bills if the students were not called out.

Hunting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting Deer, Moose, Reindeer, Caribou, etc., in the "Highlands of Ontario," and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

MANY WOOLLEN MILLS WILL NOW STAND IDLE.

Many Thousands of Operatives Thrown Out of Employment by the Closing Down of Mills

Montreal, Oct. 3—The Canadian woollen manufacturing trade is in a very bad state at present.

It was estimated by an authority on the subject, this morning, that no less than 26 mills are now standing idle.

The machinery of these mills comprises 111 sets of cards. Milling men calculate that each set of cards should be equal to an output of $20,000 worth of cloth per annum.

Thus, the capacity of the woollen mills standing idle in Canada to-day approximates $2,200,000 per annum.

This estimate includes half a dozen, or less, which though idle at the moment, are not closed down permanently, but which run occasionally as may be necessary to fill orders.

It is stated on good authority that practically all the above mills were in operation a dozen years ago.

They have been compelled to close their doors because of their inability to manufacture at sufficiently low prices. Cheap goods from outside markets have been unloaded in Canada at prices with which the home factories were unable to compete, the result being the wholesale closing down of mills which should now be in operation and turning out annually almost two million and a quarter dollars' worth of products.

Following is a list of the mills, of which almost all are permanently closed down, the remainder, amounting to perhaps half a dozen, being next to silent.

THE WHEAT HARVEST

Despite Frost Value Is Likely to Exceed Last Year's Crop

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—Mr. P. A. Stewart M.P. for Lisgar, Man., has received two samples of wheat from the farm of A. L. Horton, of Carberry, Manitoba, where the late blizzard was heaviest. The wheat grades "No. 1 hard" and "No. 2 northern," and Mr. Archie Campbell, M.P., an experienced miller, is satisfied it will yield 44 pounds of flour to the bushel of grain. The samples show slight indications of being touched by the frost. It is estimated that on the 44,000,000 bushels to be marketed from Manitoba the loss will be $3,000,000, allowing still an increase of $6,000,000 over last year's yield owing to the eighteen cents a bushel advance in price.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S INTENDED VISIT.

Ex-Colonial Secretary Makes Frank Statement of His Position

London, Oct. 3.—The greatest interest is excited among the Anglo-Canadians by to-day's statement of Mr. Chamberlain giving a conditional promise of a visit to Canada and the United States early next year. Of course, the recent invitation from the Chicago hustlers only excited Mr. Chamberlain's amusement. When a well-known Canadian recently met Mr. Chamberlain, Canada's position towards his policy, and especially the attitude of the French-Canadians and Canadian manufacturers came under some discussion. Chamberlain's visitor asked:

"Why do you not come out and talk it over with us, Mr. Chamberlain?"

To this Mr. Chamberlain replied pretty much as follows:

"Ah, well, when the time comes I shall be glad to visit both Canada and Australia and thrash out the question face to face, if it is so desired, but you must see that my first business is to thrash it out with the British electorate. Canada said her first say through the Colonial Conference, and the British electorate must now say theirs. If they give me a mandate to negotiate I shall know how to talk to the Canadians and colonists generally. At the Colonial Conference, of course, my hands were tied."

In naming next year as the probable time of Mr. Chamberlain's visit, paragraphists are obviously engaged in mere guesswork. Early next year may find Mr. Chamberlain in the throes of a British general election.

Sheffield, Eng., Oct. 2—The artillery drill hall, in which Premier Balfour made his promised tariff reform speech yesterday evening, was packed by an expectant audience. Mr. Balfour did not even hint at the successors in the Cabinet to Mr. Chamberlain, Lord George Hamilton, and Mr. Ritchie. He confined himself strictly to the tariff.

Mr. Balfour attributed the prominence of the fiscal reform movement to the fact that the country was in closer touch with the colonies as a result of the late war, and that the representatives of the Ministers in the colonies had brought before the Empire the question of tariff reform.

Mr. Chamberlain's speech of last May would not have had the effect it did had it not fallen on prepared ground, and if Canada's effort to give a preference to the Mother Country had not brought out threats of retaliation from at least one foreign country.

Colonies Against Us.

For fifty years England, without making a sign, had watched the wall of hostile tariffs growing up and dividing nation from nation. "And our own colonies, our own flesh and blood, the very sinews of the growing Empire," proceeded Mr. Balfour, "are building up, one after another, a system of protection, which when it reaches its logical conclusion, will make it as hard to export to them as to America or the other protective countries, and during the whole lifetime of those I am now addressing, we have done nothing whatever to hinder a state of things so absolutely inconsistent with free trade as Cobden understood it.

Burden on Consumer.

"I confess that when I hear criticisms of the American and German policies which caused those great industrial nations to accompany their marvelous commercial expansion with protective duties which must have thrown a most heavy burden upon the consumer, I feel that they have a retort to which I at least have no reply. They may well say that although protectionist, they have established permanent free trade within the limits of their own country, where everything which can hamper production or limit the increase of wealth has been abolished by their patriotism and foresight, and they may well ask us whether we in the British Empire can point to a similar picture and whether our vaunted free trade includes those great self-governing colonies which we proudly boast are to be the great buttresses of our Empire in the future.

An Empty Name.

"Free trade is, indeed an empty name and a vain farce if it is a fact that foreign nations are setting themselves to divert our industries, exclude our manufactures, and limit the international play of supply and demand. There has been a development of which Cobden never dreamed, the trust system. The phenomenon is so new that I scarce dare venture to prophesy what development, it is likely to take; but you may be absolutely sure that in the alliance of trusts and tariffs there is a danger to the capital and enterprise of this country which will fall with its heaviest weight upon the labor classes.

"Now, if I have rightly described the dangers and evils we suffer, you are entitled to ask me whether I know of a cure. My answer will be disappointing. I know of no cure, but I do know of a palliation.

Cobden's Free Trade.

"Coboen hoped and believed in three trade throughout the world. What in fact, we have got to deal with is a world where international commercial regulations are regulated entirely by treaty. It is against common sense that we, the greatest commercial nation, should come forward and say, "We want to arrange treaties with you; but we have nothing to give you, nothing to withhold from you. We throw ourselves upon your mercy and consideration.' My fundamental and essential request to you tonight, to which the rest of my speech is subsidiary and incidental, is that the people of this country should give to its Government that freedom of negotiation of which we have been deprived, by something I can only describe as out own pedantry and self-conceit."

Proceeding to deal with the question of how the freedom he desired was to be used, Mr. Balfour thought that the question was rather unreasonable. No Minister could say how the navy was going to be used a few years hence. One can only say it is necessary to have a great navy in case of need.

Mr. Balfour thought that public opinion was not yet ripe for the taxation of food, Therefore, as an adviser of a great party, he was bound to tell them plainly that it was outside the limits of practical politics.

Still Goes to Montreal

Chicago, Oct. 1—Speaking of the traffic situation in the Central territory an official of the Lake Shore Michigan Southern Railway, said: doubt we shall not experience the present condition of affairs for very long—Canada and the Gulf ports have taken the grain business from us and it must be regained. The managements of the Eastern Railway companies have simply been dazed by the great prosperity they have had and now they are coming to their senses. The conditions prevailing have caused them to retrace their steps and endeavor to pick up the grain business again. I expect that after the lake navigation closes all the rail lines will have much more grain than they can handle, but they are not getting it now when it could be handled quickly and the most money made out of it."

"THERE'S A REASON."—

Selected field grains are put through a scientific process (that is really mechanical digestion) and Grape-Nuts come from the package already digested and ready for immediate assimilation WITH ALL THE NUTRIMENT LEFT IN.

Body and Brain get Nature's full quota of nutriment in such form the weakest stomach is not taxed to handle and assimilate it. Increased energy and brain power follows its use.

THE KEENE EXHIBITION.

The Best Fair Ever Held by the Society

The Exhibits Were Good — There were Nearly One Thousand Persons Present This Year.

The annual exhibition of the Otonabee Agricultural Society was held on Wednesday, and was a record breaker. The weather was bright and pleasant, while the attendance was unusually large. Tuesday was occupied with placing the exhibits in the building used for the display of fruits, grains, art, domestic manufactures, ladies' work, vegetables and dairy and farm produce, the array of which far surpassed both in quantity and quality that of previous years.

The following is the prize list:

HORSES.

Fighting in Montenegro

Cettinje, Montenegro, Oct. 2—The Mutesarif of Kossovo has visited the towns of Prentchani, Pristina and Daritza, with cavalry, to exact new taxes. He aroused the effects of the inhabitants, who fled to the hills. Serious fighting is expected if the Mutesarif persists in the tax gathering. It is reported that one Servian has already been killed in a scuffle.

$1000 for a Husband

Brantford, Ont., Oct. 2 — At the autumn assizes here yesterday, Mrs. Geo. Brown sued the Waterous Engine Company for $10,000 for the death of her husband, George Brown, who fell from an unprotected projection at the Waterous Works last May and sustained injuries which resulted in death about a month later. The jury awarded $1,000 to the plaintiff.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 95 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 95 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, later excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 14, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommend him from the bottom of my heart."

THE DOCTOR'S LARGEST FEE.

A Tale of a Rural Practitioner.

The doctor was a good doctor—too good for Bancroft, it was sometimes said—but his wife asserted that, however able he might be in other ways, he was no financier. He kept no books, and in payment for his services was willing to accept, in lieu of cash fees, anything that his patients might be inclined to offer.

Sometimes this proved a convenient arrangement; more often, however, it was not, for the village people soon learned that it was only too easy to impose upon the kind-hearted, gentle old doctor. They loved him, of course—they could not help doing that—but apparently the village conscience slept when it came to settling with the easy-going physician.

There were those who said that the reason he submitted so tamely to being underpaid was because he feared to risk making his patients ill again by demanding larger fees. The truth of the matter was, however, that the overmodest doctor undervalued his own worth.

"But, James," Mrs. Bronson would remonstrate, "it's all very well to take it out in potatoes, but you know just as well as I do that Timothy Peck always sells his best potatoes, and brings us only the little undersized ones that nobody would think of buying. Those last ones weren't bigger than marbles. You must stand up for your rights."

But the doctor, apparently unmoved by these protests, continued to accept his patients' excuses along with their offerings of wormy apples, wood that was full of knots, eggs that were more than doubtful, and milk that was guiltless of cream. The Bronsons were ever short of ready money, but all their other wants were, in a measure, supplied, if not always to Mrs. Bronson's satisfaction.

"I really need a new horse," said the doctor one morning, as he stepped into his shabby buggy to make his usual round of visits. "The colt is pretty sure to give out before the summer is over."

The "colt," which was a colt only by courtesy, being twenty-two years of age and old for his years, certainly looked as if he might give out at any moment. He limped slightly, he was blind in one eye, and something was wrong with his breathing apparatus. His owner drove him with the utmost tenderness, but it was plain that the doctor needed a new horse, and that without delay.

"Here's a letter for you, father!" called Cicely, the Bronsons' only daughter, as the doctor turned in at the gate that noon. "I'll put it at your place at the table, so you can read it while you are eating the beans that Mrs. Blake brought you for setting Johnny's leg."

"Now really," said the doctor, when he had read the letter, "this is very fortunate. I've tried all the spring not to wish that Sam Peters would fall ill, but it's been a great temptation, for Sam is the only person I could think of that would be likely to pay his bill with a horse. But it seems, my dears, that Sam was not my only dependence, after all. This note is from a man who seems absurdly grateful. He says he has no cash to pay what he owes me, so he is sending me a driving horse—a nice, quiet horse, he says."

"A quiet horse! Humph!" said Mrs. Bronson, with mild sarcasm. "He probably means that the horse is dead. You'd better see what you're getting before you make any bargain with him."

"I'm afraid," said the doctor, apologetically, "that it is too late for that, for the man is already on his way to New York, and the horse is to be delivered to-day. Now what did that man's wife tell me about that horse? Really, it was so long ago that I have forgotten, but it seems to me that the man was in some sort of business—I forget just what—and when his employer failed—or the concern broke up—this man's wages were paid in horses. Yes, that was it, in horses. His wife, a pretty little woman, was ill for months, eight miles up the Carp road, at a farmhouse near Cloverly—the business went to pieces at Cloverly—and those people seem to think that the woman owes her life to me."

"I guess they think right, too," said Cicely, who approved of her father with all her sixteen-year-old soul. "Isn't she the person that you sat up with for six consecutive nights when she had pneumonia? You deserve a dozen horses a week for all the beautiful, unselfish things you do."

The doctor smiled gratefully at this tribute. For all the years of his married life he had cherished a mild ambition to show Mrs. Bronson that he was really a better financier than she considered him. No one suspected it—Mrs. Bronson least of all—but the unappreciated doctor was exceedingly sensitive over his repeated failures in the matter of fees, and he longed after a very human fashion to show his family that he was as capable a business man as a physician.

The opportunity, however, seemed slow in coming. While everyone admitted his medical skill, there seemed to be grave doubts concerning his executive ability. All through the spring each bargain had proved worse than the preceding one.

Before the doctor had finished his meal the horse arrived, and was tethered to the hitching-post outside the gate. Impetuous Cicely rushed out at once to make his acquaintance. At sight of him, however, the girl stared in amazement.

"Oh!" she gasped, gazing at the doctor's latest fee. "That man said he was quiet, but he certainly doesn't look it. Why, positively, he is quite the loudest-looking horse I ever saw."

Cicely was right. However mild the horse might prove in disposition, he was anything but quiet in appearance. His cream-colored surface was irregularly marked with large reddish-brown blotches, his left side resembled a map of the eastern hemisphere, and a brownish patch on his mild countenance, shaped not unlike the arms of Russia, gave his face a curiously distorted expression. He was certainly not a prepossessing horse, and it was not surprising that Mrs. Bronson regarded him with consternation when she, too, joined the little group at the gate.

"James," said she, in an accusing voice—it was some moments before she could summon a voice of any sort—"was that man's late employer by any chance the proprietor of the circus that disbanded in Cloverly last fall?"

"Now you mention it, my dear," said the doctor, mildly, "I recall that that is exactly who he was. The man succeeded in selling one of his horses, and it seems to me he said he could get a good price for this one if he could only bring it to the right market. He said in his note that his wife was anxious to get home to her own people, and that he didn't see his way clear to selling the horse. No one in Cloverly seemed to care to buy the animal."

"I'm not surprised," said Mrs. Bronson. "His looks are decidedly against him."

"Still," said Cicely, whose darkest cloud always had its silver lining, "he is much better than a lion or a hyena. Suppose that this acrobat and his wife had been obliged to take their pay in monkeys or giraffes or boa-constrictors! Where would the poor Bronsons have been then? I think we've had a fortunate escape."

The horse, except for a few peculiarities, proved an excellent animal. He was gentle and tractable, a good traveler, and he seemed to be possessed of more than ordinary intelligence. The townspeople soon became accustomed to the gorgeousness of his exterior, and the Bronsons would have forgotten that he had once been a circus horse had it not been for a certain singular trick which he frequently played.

If his driver happened to twitch the reins in a certain way, the horse, whose name was Aladdin, would suddenly stop short wherever he happened to be, and regardless of both harness and consequences, would seat himself on his haunches, with his forefeet still resting on the ground.

Nothing that the doctor could say or do would induce his calico steed to rise. Aladdin would turn his head and look pleadingly at his master, as if imploring him for permission to stand on all fours; but the bewildered doctor was powerless to help him.

At last, when the horse could no longer endure his cramped and uncomfortable attitude, he would cast a final reproachful glance at his puzzled master, and, as if abandoning all hope from that quarter, would scramble to his feet and proceed on his way like any ordinary horse. The doctor was finally obliged to use a patent harness without breeching.

Aladdin's only other reprehensible trait was his custom of dancing to the music of the Cloverly band. Whenever the doctor's business took him to Cloverly, he found it expedient, after his first experience with Aladdin's waltzing hoofs, to enquire by telephone if there was any likelihood that the band might appear upon the streets that day.

If, by any chance, it happened to be a gala day, the doctor would turn Aladdin out to grass, and would drive the ancient colt; for a summer of idleness had much improved that misnamed animal.

County fair week was approaching, and as usual the Bronsons were short of ready money. Cicely, with her elbows on the table, spent several evenings over calculations in domestic economy, for her autumn wardrobe was in need of replenishing. She had little time for embroidery, and the only thing she had ever painted was, as she said laughingly, the front fence.

"No," she said, "I'm afraid this family doesn't boast a single exhibitable possession, unless— Father!"

"What is it?" asked the doctor, looking up hastily from his book.

"Could you possibly get along with nothing but the colt to drive all next week?"

"I suspect I shall have to," returned the doctor. "All the brass bands in the county are coming for the fair. Aladdin dances pretty well for a horse, but it's hard on the buggy."

"Then," said Cicely, giving her father's hand an enthusiastic squeeze, "if you don't mind we'll exhibit him at the fair as a carriage horse. They offer beautiful prizes in the horse department. I'm sure there isn't a more noticeable horse in the country, so there's no danger of his being overlooked."

Aladdin did indeed attract much attention at the fair. To be sure, the judges were rather inclined at first to scoff at him because of his gaudy exterior; but partly because there was very little competition, and partly because he possessed certain fine points not appreciated by the careless observer, he was finally awarded a second prize.

"I'm glad," said Mrs. Bronson, when she heard of it, "that we have one financier in the family."

Before the week was over, however even Mrs. Bronson was willing to admit that the family contained two. The three Bronsons spent Friday afternoon at the fair, going first of all to visit their successful exhibit. Even with his scarlet ribbon, Aladdin looked far from beautiful; but Cicely felt the crisp pink premium cheque in her pocket, and swelled with pride.

"Is this your horse?" asked a man, stepping up and touching his cap respectfully.

"Yes," said Cicely, who was for the moment alone. "At least, it's my father's."

"I believe I'm acquainted with that horse," said the man, with a humorous twinkle in his eyes. "Used to know him real well—lived with him, in fact. I wouldn't be surprised if I could prove it."

A stunted tree grew opposite Aladdin's stall. The man stepped to it, broke off a switch and stripped it of its leaves.

He touched the ex-circus horse lightly on the nose with the slender switch. Aladdin instantly seated himself on the ground and looked expectantly at the man. Again the switch touched the intelligent animal, this time on the knee. Up came a hoof, and the man "shook hands" with the horse.

"Throw a kiss to the ladies," said the man, touching Aladdin's ankle.

Aladdin lowered his head to meet his hoof, and flung an equine kiss to the delighted bystanders.

"Up," said the man, with another light touch of the switch.

Aladdin, with an expression of positive gratitude, scrambled to his feet.

"Well, I declare!" said the doctor. "I've sat for half an hour at a stretch waiting for that horse to get tired of sitting in the road. I'd have saved hours if I'd just been able to guess what he expected of me. I've felt all these months as if I were a terrible disappointment to him, but I couldn't make out what he wanted me to do."

"Well," said the man, laughing, "two years ago, when I and this horse were in the circus business together, he was considered one of the brightest horses in the country. If you'll sell him, I'll give you eight hundred dollars for him—mind you, I'm not saying that he isn't worth more. I'm not in the circus business any longer, but I happen to know where I can sell this animal and get my own price for him, and my business takes me right to that place next week. Maybe he isn't handsome, but he's got brains, this horse has."

"For my part," said Mrs. Bronson, as the family rode home behind the rejuvenated colt, "I don't know but what Aladdin more than makes up for all those undersized potatoes."

At this handsome admission the doctor fairly beamed over his spectacles. Indeed, so pleased was he with his one good bargain that from that moment he felt a positive pang when the time came for him to part with that bargain, even though he received in exchange his first adequate fee.—"Youth's Companion."

WOULD MEAN WAR

Measure Advocated by the Bishops would Isolate England

London, Oct. 1.—Sir Edward Malet, formerly British Ambassador to Germany, writes to the Times this morning reprehending the attempt of the bishops to coerce the hands of the Government in Macedonian affairs, and says that Great Britain could only accede to the bishop's demands by, in plain English, "going to war." If the Government made such a move as the bishops demand, writes Sir Edward Malet, it would be left by the other powers in "splendid isolation," and faced with the alternative of an ignominious retreat or war. The former would do no infinite harm to the Macedonians, while the latter would mean letting loose the dogs of insurrection as well as the dogs of war, and would give the coveted opportunity to Great Britain's innumerable enemies throughout the world.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000

PAR VALUE OF SHARES, $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD——$80,000,000——GOLD

—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 400 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,200 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 300,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $8 to $54.80 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Oct. 2.—Market closed with brilliant rally. It had opened weak under considerable pressure and for a short time there was a very few minutes for which no due satisfactory cause can be learned. The recovery prices back to about the highest level at which they were Wednesday morning, from which the average active list declined about 2 per cent. Hopeful for better business to-day the market was active throughout, amounting to about three quarters of a million shares, but in spite of brisk fluctuations and advantageous trading possibilities the importance of the outcome of the day is to be doubted. A traders market is often one confined to the room traders. It is just as much a trade market, however, if a larger and bolder class of traders buy or sell large line, 50,000 to 100,000 shares, hoping to round the endeavors of a very few of these large trade, probably not less than three and not more than 6 in the last four days, one trader has bought nearly 100,000 shares and sold them all out again, not necessarily at profit, but because the market looked precarious, covered them all in again and finally gaining more courage put them out once more.

The German Surtax

Montreal, Oct. 2—At midnight last night the German surtax went into effect, and thereafter goods imported from the German empire will be obliged to pay 1-3 more duty than from any other country. According to the Customs act, section 150, all goods entering the port of Montreal by water before midnight tonight, and if imported by land, reaching the borders of the Dominion by the same hour, will be entered at the duty less the surtax. Again German goods, warehoused previous to the 16th of April may be taken out of bond any time up to the first of January without paying anything beyond the old rate of duty.

Tuberculosis Toxin

Berlin, Oct. 1.—Professor von Behring and Dr. Althoff of the Ministry of Education have held a conference, with a view to Prussian State manufacture and control of the tuberculosis serum which the former mentioned in his address before the Naturalist Congress at Cassel that week as having been discovered by him.

The professor stated at the congress that he was firmly convinced that, like animals, human beings could be rendered immune by inoculation with a harmless tuberculosis toxim taken from cows. He added, however, that the experiments to obtain a perfect toxim were not completed.

Strike at Port Arthur

Port Arthur, Ont., Oct 2—About 150 laborers employed by Barnet and Record on the construction of the Canadian Northern Railway elevator, went on strike yesterday for higher wages. They have been receiving from $2 to $2.25 per day and ask for $3. The men are mostly Finlanders. Other men are now filling their places.

Some Notes by Burns.

The June number of "Chambers' Journal" has an interesting paper on Robert Burns, containing some annotations written by the poet on the spurious work attributed to Sterne, entitled "The Koran." Some of these notes are characteristic if trivial. For example, after this anecdote in the book, "A servant maid I had once returned home crying one day because a criminal whom she had obtained leave to go and see executed happened to get a reprieve," Burns makes the laconic observation, "Human nature!" In the margin alongside the words of St. James, "Count it all joy when you fall into divers temptations," Burns exclaims, "Ah!" as if he were in doubt about it. At the end of a love story, Burns adds this enquiry: "Is love like a present of ribbons that you cannot share it among womankind without lessening the quantity each should receive?" The following sentence, "Man was originally made of the dead earth, but woman of the living man—therefore of a very excellent nature," recalls the poet's own lines:

> Her prentice han' she try'd on man,
> An' then she made the lasses, O!

Miss Forte—What is multum in parvo? Bertie—You in your bathing suit, dear.—Ex.

"She knows where her husband is every minute of the day." "He must be in the penitentiary."

"Pa, what is a fray?" "Why, my son, that is what a person who has never been in a fight calls it."—"Puck."

LIPTON WILL KEEP AFTER CUP

Yachtsman Praises Chicago for its Continual Improvement

Chicago, Oct. 2—"If I could find a designer who I was certain could beat Herreshoff I would build Shamrock IV and challenge for the cup to-morrow. I am retaining Shamrock III, so you can see that I am in hopes of finding such a designer. I intend to keep after the cup until I get it."

These were the statements made by Sir Thomas Lipton in his apartments at the Auditorium Annex, in the first interview he has given since coming to Chicago ill about two weeks ago. "I want to repeat, he said, "that I have no fault to find with anyone for my defeat. I have seen a suggestion that the only way to revive British interest in the cup racing would be to dangle the cup in front of our eyes by waiving the rules and letting the challenged American yacht sail in British waters. I want to say that, while I personally appreciate the kindness of this suggestion, we want to win the cup and win it fairly according to the present rules. And I believe that if we did win it, it would not stay on our side more than a year."

Sir Thomas spoke very highly of Chicago and its continual improvements.

Kidney Diseases

Every Year Thousands Suffer and Die from Kidney Disease, That Never Knew the Exact Nature of their ailment.

Among the Most Easily Noted Symptoms are Pain in the Back, Frequent Desire to Urinate, Constant Headache Sleeplessness, and Nervousness.

When these signals of danger are unheeded, and proper precaution is not taken to avert more serious results, the very worst form of kidney trouble will develop, namely, Bright's Disease, which is almost incurable.

To obtain quick relief and a sure cure you must at once commence to take Ferrozone. It is a treatment for kidney and bladder troubles of undoubted merit and is prescribed now by all doctors and physicians who are abreast of their profession. Hospitals, Sanitariums and all public health institutions rely on Ferrozone in all derangements of the kidneys, and claim that it affects more cures of chronic cases than any other remedy.

The action of Ferrozone is very mild and efficient and can be depended upon to give satisfactory results in every case. It brings about a healthy condition of all the organs of the body, causes the kidneys to eliminate all poisonous products and wastes of the body. It purifies and enriches the blood, reconstructs wasted tissues, excites healthy appetite and promotes good digestion. By the regular use of Ferrozone nutrition is improved, and strength to ward off disease is established and maintained.

No remedy for the alleviation and cure of kidney disease can possibly equal or surpass Ferrozone. This fact is conceded by all those who have used it, and a trial will convince you of its merits. Don't be misled into accepting a cheap, unworthy substitute, but insist on having the genuine Ferrozone. It is the very best that money, brains, skill and scientific research can produce, and that is the sort of remedy you want. Price 50c per box, or three boxes for $1.25, at druggists, or N. C. Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

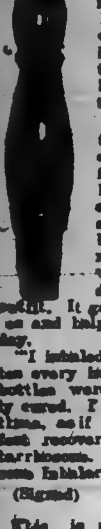
ASTHMA CURED

Mrs. Farndel, Clementsport, N. S., suffered all her life from asthama, but was permanently cured by Catarrhozone after all other means failed.

Mrs. Farndel's recovery affords overwhelming proof of what Catarrhozone will do. Nothing except Catarrhozone was of the slightest benefit, but when given a fair trial it cured

Now perhaps you need something for your cold or bronchitis or Asthma? Why not try Catarrhozone? Thousands have been cured by inhaling it a few minutes now and again, and certainly it won't do you any harm to profit by their experience.



Mrs. Farndel gives the following statement of her case for the benefit of others who are suffering from asthma and hopes that many will follow her her example and use Catarrhozone.

"I am now in my eightieth year and cannot recall the time when free from the Asthma. I had always a choking cough, feverishness, spasms, difficulty in breathing, headache and nausea. My druggist advised Catarrhozone one day, and I bought a large outfit. It gave me relief in five minutes and helped me very much in one day.

"I inhaled Catarrhozone ten minutes every hour, and by the time two bottles were used, I was completely cured. I am as free now from Asthma, as if I never had it. My perfect recovery is due entirely to Catarrhozone. I prize my Catarrhozone Inhaler next to life itself.

(Signed) MRS. T. FARNDEL."

This is proof positive that Catarrhozone is a sure and speedy cure for the worst kind of Asthma. It is guaranteed to give satisfactory results, and your money will be refunded if it fails. All you need is a trial of this grand preparation to be quite satisfied and convinced that it is the best. Your druggist recommends and sells it. Price $1.00, small size 25c. By mail from N. C. Mr. Armstrong Worse

Yesterday word was received here that Mr. Cope Armstrong, who resides in Cobourg and who has been ill for some months, had become worse and was in a dying condition. His mother, Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, brother and sisters went down to Cobourg yesterday. Their many friends here will deeply sympathize with them in their anxiety.

The Price of Coal

The price of coal in Peterborough will probably reach $8 per ton before the winter is over. Last year the price of coal went up because the mines closed down. This year the mines close down in order that the price may be kept up. So you see that come hot or cold, come weal or woe, come strike or peace, it's all one to the consumer. He pays. What the people should have and what they will demand in the near future is the public ownership of the coal fields and then coal can be purchased at the cost of production.

A Peterborough Boy Married

A pretty wedding took place last Friday afternoon at the residence of Mr. George Nurcey, Melborne street, Lindsay, when his only child, Mabel, was united in marriage to Mr. Ed. O. Armstrong, of the Dundas & Flavelle staff, formerly of Peterborough. Their many Peterborough friends will join in wishing them a long and happy life.

New County Council Act

The new County Council Act passed at the recent session of the Legislature, provides that County Councils shall be composed of the Reeves of the Municipalities and Mayors of the towns in the county. In order to make this change a majority of the municipalities must petition for it. The petition must be prepared and presented in the manner required by the new law or the present system will remain.

Judge Sutherland Returning

Judge A. E. Sutherland, of Rochester, N.Y., who has been confined to the Nicholls Hospital for a month on account of injuries received through the accidental discharge of a gun while out duck shooting at Pigeon Lake, will return home at once. He expects to leave to-morrow or Monday. Considering the serious nature of the wound it is satisfactory to note that he will be able to use his hand. Dr. Halliday attended him during his illness.

Y. W. C. A. Notes

The Junior Department of the Young Women's Christian Association as well as the other classes, have been re-opened. The Victoria Club will meet at 4.15 Friday afternoon and a good feature of this club will be the physical work taken by Miss Moodie. The Alexander Club will meet on Saturday at 3 p.m. as usual.

The regular gospel service will be held to-morrow at 4.15 and will be conducted this week by the General Secretary.

A Small Blaze

The fire brigade was called out yesterday afternoon on account of a small blaze at the Houedry Pea Factory on Dalhousie street, behind the Martin-Stanley Piano Company's works. The fire which originated from sparks from an engine passing on the track a few feet from the building started in the south east corner which was considerably scorched. Owing to the energetic efforts of the employees and those in the vicinity, the fire was extinguished before the brigade arrived.

THE LATE MRS. WHITCROFT

Passed Away on Thursday at the Age of 47 Years

The late Mrs. William Whitcroft, a brief notice of whose demise appeared in yesterday's issue, was born in Queen's County, Ireland, 47 years ago. The family came to Peterborough from Port Perry about twelve years ago, and have resided here ever since. The deceased lady had been ailing about a year and her early demise was therefore not unexpected. She leaves, besides her husband, a family of six children as follows: Mrs. Wm. Rogers, Wm. A. Whitcroft, Elizabeth, Charlotte, Louisa, Fred and Hazel.

Mrs. Whitcroft was a consistent member of St. John's Church, a loving mother and kindly neighbor, her demise is regretted by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

The funeral will leave the family residence, 302 Aylmer street, this afternoon at three o'clock

DEATH OF THOS. J. FITZGERALD

Passed Away on Thursday Evening from Typhoid

We very much regret to chronicle the death of Mr. Thomas J. Fitzgerald, whose demise occurred on Thursday night at ten o'clock from an attack of typhoid fever. He was 47 years of age. The late Mr. Fitzgerald was born in Smith and lived for a considerable portion of his life in western Ontario, moving to Peterborough eleven years ago and has resided here ever since, being employed as a teamster for J. E. A. Fitzgerald. He leaves to mourn his demise a wife, two daughters and two sons, besides five sisters, Mrs. G. Jarvis, Mrs. W. Kemp, of Lambton, Mrs. H. Mackay of Douro; Mrs. W. Rushing, of Bay City; Mrs. H. Carver, of Caledonia; and four brothers, George and Walter of Springfield, Ill.; Miles of Caledonia, and Charles, of Montana.

The funeral will take place from his late place of residence, 10 Argyle street, to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

A NEW DRILL SHED

Ten Thousand Dollars Voted by the Government

The supplementary estimates presented to Parliament on Wednesday contain an appropriation of $10,000 for a new armoury for Peterborough.

There is also another item $5,000 for dredging the Otonabee River at Peterborough. Other grants affecting these waters are $3,000 for a wharf at Gore's Landing, $2,000 for regulation of waters of Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching, repairs at Washago, etc; and $12,000 for harbor improvements at Midland.

The Trent Canal seems to have been entirely forgotten.

—And now some of Toronto's citizens want to make the boys and girls of that city grow up good by ringing a curfew bell every night at a certain hour. Let's see! Wasn't that done in Peterborough or Norwood a few years ago?

The Canadian Pacific Railway Co. Notice to Shareholders

WEDDING BELLS

Nuptials of Miss Edith Wright, of Otonabee and Mr. Herb McKay, of Asphodel

On Wednesday evening, Sept. 23rd, The Maples, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Wright, of Otonabee, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when their daughter, Miss Edith, was united in marriage to Mr. Herb. McKay, son of Mr. John McKay, of Asphodel. The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock, the Rev. D. D. McDonald, of Keene, officiating.

The bride wore a pretty dress of gray cashmere with lace trimmings and a tulle veil with a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a shower boquet.

The bride was attended by Miss Bella Sharp, of Westwood, who was also becomingly attired. Mr. Will Wright, brother of the bride, performed the duties of best man.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome gold watch and chain and to the bridesmaid a pretty gold brooch. The bride received many beautiful and valuable gifts from her numerous friends.

Patriarchate in the West

Rome, Oct. 2.—An inquiry ordered by the Vatican regarding a movement favorable to the establishment of a Western Catholic patriarchate to include all Anglo-Saxon countries which might be called semi-independent of Rome has just been completed.

Evidence was found of the existence of a movement of this kind among the advanced section of the clergy, especially the French and Irish, who wish to join forces with America to give to the Catholic Church a more modern and liberal impulse than the old-time routine maintained by Rome. Cardinal Gibbons had no connection with the scheme.

London, Oct. 2—Sir Edward Malet, formerly British Ambassador to Germany, writes to the Times this morning reprehending the attempts of the Bishops to force the hands of the Government in Macedonian affairs, and says that Great Britain could only accede to the Bishops' demands by, in plain English "going to war." If the government made such a move as the Bishops demand, writes Sir Edward Malet, it would be left by the other powers in splendid isolation and faced with the alternative of an ignominious retreat or war. The former would do infinite harm to the Macedonians, while the latter would mean letting loose the dogs of insurrection as well as the dogs of war, and would give the coveted opportunity to Great Britain's innumerable enemies throughout the world.

A PASTOR'S WIFE CURED OF PELVIC CATARRH.

She Suffered for Years and Felt Her Case Was Hopeless—Cured by Peruna.

MRS. ANNA B. FLEHARTY, recent Superintendent of the W. C. T. U. headquarters, at Galesburg, Ill., was for ten years one of the leading women there. Her husband, when living, was first President of the Nebraska Wesleyan University, at Lincoln, Neb.

In a letter written from 291 Sixty-seventh street, W., Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Fleharty says the following in regard to Peruna:

"Having lived a very active life as wife and working partner of a busy minister, my health failed me a few years ago. I lost my husband about the same time, and gradually I seemed to lose health and spirit. My daughter is a confirmed invalid, and we both felt great need of an invigorator.

"One of my neighbors advised me to try Peruna. A bottle was immediately secured and a great change took place in my daughter's as well as in my own health. Our appetites improved very greatly, the digestion seemed much helped, and restful sleep soon improved us, so that we seemed like new women.

"I would not be without Peruna for ten times its cost."—Mrs. Anna B. Fleharty.

What used to be called female diseases by the medical profession is now called pelvic catarrh. It has been found by experience that catarrhal diseases of the pelvic organs are the cause of most cases of female diseas

Dr. Hartman was among the first of America's great physicians to make this discovery. For forty years he has been treating diseases peculiar to women, and long ago he reached the conclusion that a woman entirely free from catarrhal affection of these organs would not be subject to female disease. He therefore began using Peruna for these cases and found it so admirably adapted to their permanent cure that Peruna has now become the most famous remedy for female diseases ever known. Every where the women are using it and praising it. Peruna is not a palliative simply; it cures by removing the cause of female disease.

Dr. Hartman has probably cured more women of female ailments than any other living physician. He makes these cures simply by using and recommending Peruna.

Mrs. E. L. Brown, 329 Elliott street, Memphis, Tenn., writes:

"I suffered for several years with headache brought on by nervous prostration. I was also afflicted with insomnia. I would get up in the morning more weary than when I retired and I used to dread the approach of night. Peruna came into my home as a welcome guest, and within three short months I was like another woman. I have now enjoyed perfect health for over a year, and those who have suffered as I did will know how happy I am."—Mrs. E. L. Brown.

Mrs. Esther M. Milner, De Graff, Ohio writes:

"I was a terrible sufferer from female weakness and had the headache continuously. I was not able to do my housework for myself and husband. I wrote you and described my condition as near as possible. You recommended Peruna. I took four bottles and was completely cured. I think Peruna a wonderful medicine."—Mrs. Esther M. Milner.

Congressman Thad. M. Mahon, of Chambersburg, Pa., writes:

"I take pleasure in commending your Peruna as a substantial tonic and a good catarrh remedy."—T. M. Mahon.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

$1000 for a Husband

Brantford, Ont., Oct. 2 — At the autumn assizes here yesterday, Mrs. Geo. Brown sued the Waterous Engine Company for $10,000 for the death of her husband, George Brown, who fell from an unprotected projection at the Waterous Works last May and sustained injuries which resulted in death about a month later. The jury awarded $1,000 to the plaintiff.

Fighting in Montenegro

Cettinje, Montenegro, Oct. 2—The Mutesarif of Komovo has visited the towns of Prentchani, Pristina and Daritza, with cavalry, to exact new taxes. He seized the effects of the inhabitants, who fled to the hills. Serious fighting is expected if the Mutesarif persists in this tax gathering. It is reported that one Servian has already been killed in a scuffle.

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER BY THE TURKS, THE WHOLE CHRISTIAN POPULATION OF MEHOMIA MASSACRED.

Many Insurgent Leaders Killed and Wounded and Number of the Bands Dispersed, Revolutionists Report Further Atrocities

OVER THREE THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED PERSONS SLAIN.

Stated at Sofia That Turks Have Succeeded.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 3— The Macedonian revolutionary headquarters assert that they have positive information that the whole Christian population of the Town of Mehomia (Razalog), Province of Seres, was massacred on September 29th, with the exception of ten men who escaped with the news. Mehomia is an important town and the seat of the local Government. The population was about equally divided between Turks and Bulgarians. The latter numbered 3,200 persons.

According to the fugitives, when the general rising was declared in the Razalog district on Sunday the Turkish troops in the Pirin Mountains hurried to Mehomia and surrounded the town, rendering the escape of the Christians impossible. The Bulgarian population were prepared to join in the rising. Desperate fighting occurred in the streets, bombs and dynamite being freely used. After five or six hours fighting the Turks gained the upper hand, and proceeded to massacre every Bulgarian they encountered. There is no official confirmation of the above report.

Revolt is Broken.

According to advices received here this afternoon the backbone of the revolution in Macedonia is broken, the Turkish troops are gaining the upper hand everywhere, several insurgent chiefs have been killed or wounded, others are abandoning the struggle and fleeing to the frontier, the revolutionary bands are sustaining heavy losses, and are seeking refuge in large numbers, and the Turks occupy every important point along the routes of retreat to the frontier.

Five engagements are reported to have taken place in the vicinity of Kratovo, where 5,000 Turks were attacked by revolutionary bands, and though many Turks were killed, the insurgents were completely routed.

Advices from the insurgent headquarters assert that 6,000 Turks were routed by 2,000 insurgents in the Pirin Mountains after four days' fighting. The Turkish losses in this affair are said to have been the heaviest during the whole outbreak. They included three colonels and many officers of lower rank. Three batteries of artillery left Sofia early this morning for Haskovo, near the frontier.

Discriminating Against Labor Unions.

LAUNDRY Machinery Firms of Chicago are in a pool which is discriminating against labor unions, according to a story which is being circulated in labor circles. This fact was disclosed a few days ago in the refusal of Chicago firms to sell a laundry equipment to George B. Thomas, of Portland, Oregon.

Laundry workers in the Oregon city have been having trouble recently with their employers. After a failure to secure a satisfactory agreement, certain union men decided to establish a co-operative laundry in which none but union workers should be employed, and Thomas came to Chicago to secure the machinery for the new plant.

He visited the office of a Chicago firm and had announced to the manager his intention of purchasing several machines which he had inspected, when the latter was called away by a telegram—presumably from some representative of the laundry firms in Portland which opposed the starting of the co-operative plant. The manager did not return to his customer for fifteen or twenty minutes, and then his zeal to sell had disappeared.

Thomas, however, selected some more machinery for purchase.

A telephone message at this point summoned the manager away from his customer again. On his return the manager said he had learned that Thomas was buying machinery for the co-operative plant and that he could not fill his order. Otherwise, the manager said, the firm would antagonize the proprietors of the other Portland laundries. Thomas, it is said, tried several other houses in Chicago and met with the same refusal to sell him machinery—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Hon. Joseph Chamberlain's Manifesto is Now Out

A Clear-Cut Appeal Made to Men of All Opinions, to Consider the Case

London, Oct. 3—"Every other nation, and all our own self-governing colonies, have refused to accept the gospel of Cobden, and yet, although they ought, according to its dogmas, to be in the last stage of depression and decline, they have grown during the last twenty years in wealth, population and trade, and in everything that goes to make up the greatness of a nation."

That is the keynote of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's manifesto, which will be published on Monday next in the form of a preface to a shilling pamphlet entitled, "Mr. Chamberlain's Proposals: What They Mean and What we Shall Gain by them," by C. A. Vince, secretary to Mr. Chamberlain's tariff organization.

His Characteristic Aggressiveness.

Mr. Chamberlain does not mince matters. With characteristic aggression he carries the war into the enemy's camp. "Those who maintain," he writes, "in a spirit of blind obscurantism, the absolute inspiration of an antiquated doctrine, will have much to explain."

His remarks are addressed to "men of all political opinions, since the questions now raised are not necessarily matters of party politics, nor, indeed, is it likely that the issues will be ultimately decided on strictly party lines."

He begins by saying: "It is difficult to believe that the results of the investigation will not convince every impartial man of the necessity for more reconstruction of the system which has remained stationary and unaltered for more than half a century, while every other policy has been modified and adapted to meet modern requirements.

Free Imports Without Free Trade.

Continuing, Mr. Chamberlain points out that the prosperity of the working classes has increased in greater proportion in the protected countries than in the United Kingdom, and says: "Free trade, if it had ever existed might have secured for us all that its promoters promised; but free imports without free trade, have brought us face to face with problems which never entered into Cobden's calculations. We know that the idea of a united Empire did not appeal to him, and that he regarded the colonies as an incumbrance, to be got rid of as soon as possible. The Little Englanders who follow his lead are not likely to be moved by any consideration arising out of our new found pride and faith in our distant kinsmen.

The Trades Unions Feature.

"But what would Cobden have said if he had foreseen that the trades unions, whose existence he deprecated would be successful in protecting labor in a score of ways, tending to increase the rate of wages and to raise the standard of living? Would Cobden, as the representative of the manufacturing class have still maintained that while the manufacturer was artificially prevented from obtaining labor at the lowest rate, he ought to rest content when the products of foreign labor, [illegible] by any regulations, and legislation, to which he has to submit, undersell him in his own market? Cobden's scheme was at least consistent. It was free labor as well as free imports; but, free imports combined with protected labor, is neither consistent nor profitable to any of the parties concerned."

Mr. Chamberlain holds that the consoling theory that other countries are ruining themselves by bounties and unfair duties hardly coincides with the fact that British exports have been practically stationary for twelve years while those of other countries have increased so rapidly that "if the relative progress continues for a few years longer, they will have left us far behind."

The Case for the Colonies.

Dealing with the colonies' desire for mutual commercial treatment, Mr. Chamberlain says, "It is no answer to offer them an imperial council, which they have already refused. If we reject their proposals for reciprocity we shall be in great danger of losing our present trade with them, as well as the prospects of its future extension. It is entirely owing to the growth of our colonial trade that the actual and heavy decline in our exports to foreign protected countries has been concealed in our general return."

Retaliation Would Bring Free Trade.

"Do the strong advocates of unrestricted imports consider it satisfactory that we should have nothing to bargain with and continue to be grateful for such crumbs as fall from the rich man's table in the shape, at the best, of the most favored nation clause, which only gives us the benefits of arrangements previously made with some reference to the interests of other persons, and in respect thereto we had never been consulted? Is it not childish to ignore the fact that by bargaining on equal terms other nations have been able to promote their special interests, and that if we also had in our hands weapons of retaliation we should probably be able to bring the world much nearer universal free trade system than it has ever been since Cobden's time."

The Problem for the "Food Fooders."

"Our free food friends will have to explain why the transfer of taxation, say, from tea to bread, would be disastrous even though it benefitted our industries and restored them to something like the relative position which they enjoyed twenty years ago. They will have to decide once for all whether foreign bounties are a blessing or a curse, whether 'dumping' is a philanthropic operation, whereby foreigners are endeavoring to ensure the welfare of this country, or an insidious attempt to ruin our industries and obtain our markets for themselves. They will not be allowed to evade these questions by the cheap device of abusing their opponents."

Dealing passionately with the accusation that his policy is intended to reduce the "workman and his family to [illegible] starvation," Mr. Chamberlain writes:

"Let them at least admit that, rightly or wrongly, this policy is propounded in the interests of the masses of the people, of the poor much more than of the rich, and that those who are responsible for it have earned by strenuous endeavor in the past the right to resent the charge of neglecting the interests of the industrial population.

(Signed)
"JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN."

OPINIONS OF PRESS.

London, Oct. 2— The new papers this morning all devote much editorial comment to Premier Balfour's speech. The Birmingham Daily Mail says the Premier declines the power to say that importation will not be free except to those who consent to give corresponding freedom in their markets to our producers and exporters. It is quite clear that there is a strong and enthusiastic feeling in favor of Mr. Chamberlain's complete program.

The Express says the speech was halting throughout and altogether lacked enthusiasm and inspiration.

The Morning Leader: Mr. Balfour's rhetorical declaration that he is "going to lead" is the cry of a man even more anxious to convince himself than others that he has not entirely abdicated his claim to authority.

The Chronicle: Now that Premier Balfour has spoken, the political world will find itself precisely as it was before, wholly bewildered and not a little disgusted.

The London Daily News: The speech was an attempt to outbid Mr. Chamberlain and pose as the historic successor of Lord George Bentinck and Disraeli.

The Morning Post: The adoption by Canada of the preferential tariff has created a new situation, which the policy indicated by Mr. Balfour does not touch.

LAYS BABY BEFORE ALTAR

Dramatic Scene Witnessed at a Church Wedding

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Her baby at her feet before the altar, Miss Mary Zaluda, of Bridgeport, Ill., faced a bridal party yesterday afternoon in the Lithuanian Catholic church, Thirty-eighth street and Marquette avenue.

"Anthony, don't you know me?" she cried, her arms outstretched to the bridegroom. "Don't do this thing! Remember the vows you made two years ago when you took me for your wife."

The scene was dramatic. The priest petrified with astonishment; the bride, shrinking behind the broad shoulders of the man who was to claim her and the members of the bridal party, a moment before all jests and laughter, standing in wonderment.

"It's a mistake," ejaculated the bridegroom, Anthony Aimanowicz, when he recovered from his surprise, "it's a case of mistaken identity."

"Are you certain of that?" asked Father [illegible], sharply.

"Absolutely certain, it is a case," was the bridegroom's solemn response.

The woman was ejected from the edifice. She left sobbing, her child clasped close in her arms.

The strange woman, whose appearance came so near preventing the wedding, declared she was married to Aimanowicz at Bridgeport in 1901. He went there, she says, and, although a stranger, won her heart and married her. Within two weeks he was gone, since then, Miss Zaluda declares, she has not seen him. In fact, she made but little effort to recover her recreant spouse.

"When I heard he was to be married again," she said, just outside the door of the church, "I came here promptly. I shall have him arrested. Oh, he'll be made to pay dearly for this. I am sorry only that he has succeeded in wrecking another life. He already has wrecked mine."

Detective Vincent Skiba questioned the woman, and she reiterated her charges. She was becoming hysterical when the doors of the church were opened to permit the gay wedding party to pass to their waiting carriages. With a sob she disappeared in the crowd that surged forward to catch a glimpse of the bride.

Little is known of Miss Zaluda. She is believed to live in the neighborhood of Thirty-fifth and Halsted streets, but last night she had made no effort to secure a warrant for Aimanowicz's arrest.

Aimanowicz denied strenuously that he ever was married before. He denied knowing the woman who appeared at the church, and repeated his declaration of the afternoon that "it was all a mistake." To support his statement he called his bride to the door of their home 3716 Commercial avenue.

"You don't believe what that woman said this afternoon, do you, dear?" he asked.

"I most certainly do not," said the bride, emphatically. Then, hand in hand they entered the house softly. Mrs. Aimanowicz was Miss Mary Backus, 3712 Escanaba avenue.

CLOTHES SENT TO TORONTO

Kennedy was Seen Near the Willows where Body was Found

Brantford, Oct. 2.—Prof. Ellis, Provincial Analyst, has been sent the clothing of Joseph Kennedy, the suspect held for the murder of Irene Cole, and the authorities here await the answer with interest. The clothing has been examined by local experts, who have pronounced the stains to be blood, but Prof. Ellis' answer will put the matter beyond doubt.

Chief Vaughan has given out another surprise. He found a blood-stained letter in the pockets of the prisoner. Upon it are the distinct marks of blood, as if placed there by the fingers of the owner. The police believe that Kennedy did this by putting his hand in his pocket in search of his handkerchief.

The inquest held last night did much to show that Kennedy was near the Willows on the day of the murder. No less than eight witnesses told of seeing him there, while the two Potter children swore that Kennedy stood on the dyke and beckoned to someone through the trees. Who it was that he beckoned to the youthful witnesses do not know, as the branches kept them from seeing.

Dr. Palmer said that death was caused by strangulation.

The accused was at the inquest and looked the witnesses straight in the face. He did not appear nervous, and the only sign of movement was when he chewed the end of his moustache when a telling point was brought against him. The police regard him as a remarkable man from the viewpoint of nerves, and do not look for any collapse or confession. Mr. Peter Cole, father of the little victim, gave evidence as to finding his daughter and seemed a broken-hearted man as he told his story.

Gordon Potter said of Kennedy: "That is the man I saw about 1 o'clock on Wednesday near the Willows." He said Kennedy motioned twice to some one in Mr Cole's yard, but nobody came out to him. The lad reminded the Crown Attorney that he had seen the prisoner in the vicinity of the Willows on September 5. His story was corroborated in all the important particulars by his five-year-old sister, Alberta. She also identified the prisoner, and added that she had passed him one day on the street while returning from school.

The funeral of the murdered girl took place from the home to Mount Hope cemetery yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended.

FACTORY BURNED

Flames Cause $60,000 and Throw 130 Men Out of Employment

Ottawa, Oct. 2—Early this morning fire destroyed the large factory of the Eclipse Office Furniture Company on Albert street. The walls are intact, but the inside is gutted. The loss is about $60,000 with about $40,000 insurance, principally in non-tariff companies. About 130 men are thrown out of work until the factory is rebuilt, which will be done immediately.

WILL DECLARE LOCK-OUT

Two Thousand Pressfeeders will Stand Idle on Monday

Chicago, Oct. 2—The Chicago Typothetae decided to declare a lockout of press feeders in the 400 book and job printing offices Monday. Twenty-five hundred men will be locked out, the employers declaring that the union violated an agreement in presenting demands for wage increase without extending a notice six months in advance that a change was desired.

The press feeders' union last week declared old contracts void, and presented new demands, which include wage increases ranging from $1 to $3 a week.

BIG TIN MINE IS FOUND

Discovery of Immense Deposit is Made North of Cape Nome

Butte, Mont., Oct. 3.—A hundred foot ledge of tin ore has been discovered near Lost river, in the Cape York district, north of Cape Nome. It is believed to be the greatest discovery of tin ore ever known. A hundred pounds of sample rock has been brought down for shipment to Pittsburg.

Details of the discovery are given by Joseph Hutchinson, former lieutenant governor of Idaho, who has bonded eight of the seventeen claims which embrace the ledge so far discovered. Mr. Hutchinson represents eastern capitalists associated with the American Tinplate Company.

GRAIN MOVING SLOWLY

Less Wheat Delivered at C. P. R. Elevator During September

Montreal, Oct. 3.—According to the figures received by the C. P. R., there were delivered during the month of September at the [illegible] elevators throughout the country, 3,000,000 bushels of wheat, in round numbers. For the corresponding period last year the figures show 6,000,000 bushels delivered to elevators. In September this year the number of loaded cars have been 1,574, and last year for a similar period 3,300.

These figures show a considerable decrease. In the first place the crop as a whole shows some falling off. Second the weather has been rather bad, the rainfall having been exceptional heavy. This has retarded rapid movement.

THE MONTREAL STRIKE

Activity in the Ranks of the Montreal Builders' Strike

Montreal, Oct. 3.—The Builders' Laborers' Union is very active just now and is endeavoring to bring the strike to a successful issue from the standpoint of the strikers. As a result of a meeting held late last night in St. Joseph's Hall it was decided to-day to pay each of the strikers $5.00 per week until a settlement was reached. There are indications that other organizations are coming to the help of the builders' laborers with the intention of supporting them in their fight.

The contractors, on their part, are remaining firm and claim that the seventy odd men who have quit work will find it difficult to get employment as their places have been filled, the supply of men being greater than the demand.

VENEZUELAN ARBITRATION

First Session Held Yesterday at the Hague—A Language Dispute

The Hague, Oct. 2.—The first session of the tribunal appointed to arbitrate the question of the priority of the claims against Venezuela of Great Britain, Germany and Italy, over those of the other claimants was held to-day.

The question as to the language in which the proceedings should be conducted was discussed. Great Britain and Germany claimed that the memoranda of the claims should be in English though the pleadings might be in other languages, with the permission of the court.

The tribunal decided that minutes of the decisions and awards in the question of the preferential claims of the allied powers shall be drawn up both in English and French, and that written, or printed memoranda shall be represented in English and may be accompanied by a translation in the language of the country submitting them.

FRANCE AND ITALY WAIT FOR BRITAN TO LEAD.

Expect England to Interfere in the Balkan Trouble, Turks Burning Buildings and Attacking Non-Combatants

Sofia, Oct. 2—More than 3,000 women and children are hiding at Godlevo and Pianitsa, and many others are attempting to cross the frontier. The Turks, when possible, avoid contact with the insurgents, and occupy themselves in attacking the non-combatant population and burning villages. A British officer who arrived at Rilo has requested General Tzontcheff to entrust him with the command of a corps of insurgents. The correspondent points out that the present phase of the Macedonian question is very critical because, though the immediate danger of war is less evident, decisions must now be taken not only by Austria and Russia, but by Western Europe. The part Britain will play in the near east will affect her prestige and future influence throughout Asia. France and Italy apparently await the British lead.

THE CZAR'S FAVORITE.

London, Oct. 3.—Russian correspondents of The Times say that according to Osvobozhdenie, the chief factor in the recent change in the Russian Ministry was the influence of a certain Bezobrasoff, a favorite of the Czar, who attained an influential position at the Court during the reign of Alexander III., and who has frequently advised the present Czar on important State affairs. It was he who with the assistance of several grand Dukes, officials, and the Consul at Seoul, obtained the timber and mining concessions in Corea. It was he who advised the creation of vice-royalty in the far east, in opposition to and despite the Ministers chiefly concerned, an act which led to the resignation of M. de Witte, and the difficulties with Kuropatkin and Lamsdorff. Bezobrasoff is practically a Minister without portfolio. No Court favorite has exercised such influence since Catherine II. and Paul I.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE.

London, Oct. 3—The Paris correspondent of The Times, in noticing French comments on Mommsen's appeal to the English in The Independent Review, says the French may be reassured that there is no danger of an Anglo-German flirtation which could weaken the Anglo-French entente. Germany cannot expect to recover British confidence as long as her official influence is employed to make mischief between Britain and the United States, not to mention her more or less recent efforts of a similar character in Europe.

THE MOSELEY COMMISSION.

London, Oct. 3—The Times, in an editorial referring to the approaching visit to America of the Moseley commission, commission to enquire into educational systems, says, "We lack the systematic organization and facilities for giving the best education within the reach of all. . . The best and most perfect technical instruction fails in its object if the intelligence is insufficiently developed to receive it. It is here, we suspect, that America as well as Germany have the advantage over us. . . . The very freedom from old traditions and associations such as encircle our public schools and universities rendering it sometimes almost impossible to breathe of a change, gives special interest to the educational experiments of America."

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 3.—The Macedonian revolutionary headquarters assert that they have positive information that the whole Christian population of the town of Mehomia (Razalog), province of Seres, was massacred September 29, with the exception of ten men, who escaped with the news.

Mehomia is an important town and the seat of the local government. The population was about equally divided between Turks and Bulgarians. The latter numbered 3,200 persons.

According to the fugitives when the general rising was declared in the Razalog district on Sunday, the Turkish troops in the Pirin mountains hurried to Mehomia and surrounded the town, rendering the escape of the Christians impossible. The Bulgarian population were prepared to join in the rising. Desperate fighting occurred in the streets, bombs and dynamite being freely used. After five or six hours fighting, the Turks gained the upper hand and proceeded to massacre every Bulgarian they encountered.

There is no official confirmation of the above report.

ACTIVITY AT WINNIPEG

Customs Entries Increased and Presage a Rushing Business

Winnipeg, Oct. 3.—"If we continue this average, the total number of entries for this port of Winnipeg will run over 50,000 a year." This remark on the business of the local customs office was made by an officer to-day. The total for the last year was between 30,000 and 40,000 entries. The receipts in this office for the month of September just closed aggregated $216,336.36, as compared with $209,379.97 for the corresponding month last year. September is generally a quiet month with the Customs office, but importations of stock for the winter and Christmas trades are already beginning to presage a healthy activity for the coming month.

The C.P.R. land returns for September show 60,441 acres sold for a total price of $266,958.

Soldiers at Boston

Boston, Oct. 2—The Dominion Line steamer Mayflower, having on board the Honorable Artillery Company of London, has reached here.

Foreign Office Wait

London, Oct. 2—The Foreign Office has not yet considered the question of a successor to Sir Michael Herbert as British Ambassador at Washington, and will not consider it for some time to come.

Court at Hague

The Hague, Oct. 2—The first session of the tribunal appointed to arbitrate the question of the priority of the claims against Venezuela of Great Britain, Germany and Italy, over those of the other claimants, was held to-day.

BRITAIN'S MOVE MUCH DISCUSSED 'IN EUROPE.

European Nations Wonder What Demand on Turkey Means, Severe Fighting Reported from Both Sources

Constantinople, Oct. 3.—Great Britain's almost warlike demand that the Porte stop massacres in Macedonia and hasten the application of promised reforms has produced a marked impression in diplomatic quarters here. The Sultan is said to be delighted because he regards Lord Lansdowne's asperity as a warning to Russia and Austria, not to harbor schemes of aggrandizement in connection with the Balkans, rather than as an indication that the Turkish government will be forced to move either quickly or honestly, in the direction of improved conditions for its Christian subjects.

While the Russian and Austrian ambassadors pretend to accept Great Britain's support of their programme of Turkish reforms in Macedonia with elation there is a general belief here that behind the scenes that support they will be less vigorous. Proofs of Russian duplicity in the Balkans is thought to be established by the fact that while the Russian Ambassador here urges the Sultan to crush Macedonian bands and apply reforms, the Russian representative in Sofia declares that he does not care what the Ambassador at Constantinople does, but openly shows his sympathy with bands and helps them to obtain aid from the Pan-Slavist societies of Russia.

VILLAGES BURNED.

Sofia, Oct. 3.—Telegrams from the frontier state that Batchovo with a population of 650 Christian Bulgarians and 679 of other races, was entirely destroyed. Bellitsha with a population of Bulgarians and others of 2,250, has also been burned.

FIGHTING REPORTED.

London, Oct. 3.—News from Macedonia to-day gives reports of severe fighting from both Turkish and insurgent sources. The Turks claim that 150 of the insurgents are killed at Razlog, while the insurgents report that 150 Turks were killed in the fight at Belavetis, in the Prilepe district.

London, Oct. 3—Mr. A. P. Sainsbury, who has just returned from Cape Town, South Africa, and is visiting his brother, Brice Sainsbury, on [illegible] street, said yesterday, in the course of an interview:

"The Boers that I have met regard the present peace but an intermission in the warfare of South Africa. They do not regard their case as hopeless, but think that while it is England's day today, theirs will come later on. And when it does come they profess to believe they will sweep the British out of the whole of Dutch South Africa."

Mr. Sainsbury says that in the streets of Cape Town the Boers speak bluntly of the day that is to come for them and boast that at one time, when the British were scouring South Africa for De Wet, the famous Boer commander was being cared for within that city, and that he could have been kept there yet, and the British would never have known it. Mr. Sainsbury inclines to the opinion that the British are too easy with the burghers, and that they will yet pay a terrible price for their leniency. "The trouble with the Boers," said Mr. Sainsbury, "is, they believe that God intended South Africa to be the home of the Boers, and to be ruled by them, and on this point they are next to fanatical."

YOU PAY ONLY IF CURED.

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write for It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has fourteen certificates and diplomas from colleges and medical boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own home, and so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has [illegible] method and the ability to do as he says, Dr. S. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, vital weakness, varicocele, lost vigor, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, etc.

DR. S. GOLDBERG.
The possessor of fourteen diplomas and certificates, who wants no money that he does not earn

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and if you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interest of every man who suffers in this way, to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the fourteen diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Avenue, Room 302, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 5 1903

LORD STRATHCONA STAYS

The assurance of the Government that there is no thought of permitting Lord Strathcona to retire from the High Commissionership so long as he can be persuaded to serve, was hardly needed—for no one would accuse the Ministry of the colossal folly of letting slip so splendid a servant a servant of the country—but it is comforting to know that His Lordship is not thinking that he might soon seek the ease for his ripe years to which he is fairly entitled. For it will be a great misfortune to Canada when, from any cause, she must do without the services of Lord Strathcona in the London office.

Lord Strathcona has for years given this country a representative in the Imperial Capital who must have been the envy of all the other colonies. His strong personality, his fervid patriotism, his marked ability and his vast wealth have won for him a unique position in the London world. He is more like an ambassador than a colonial representative in importance; though a Minister of the Crown in the Home Government would be a better comparison when we think of his intimate relations with the British Cabinet and his prestige with the British people.

This all means that he has been able to do for us an immense amount of effective work which a lesser man could not have accomplished at any cost. We shall probably never know all we owe to the fact that, during these critical years, our spokesman at Westminster has been a Peer of the realm and a subject of the calibre of Lord Strathcona. What has been easy to him would have been impossible to most; and he has by no means contented himself with doing for us what was easy.

The strongest wish of all Canadians respecting him is that he may long be spared to represent us in the chief city of the Empire.

GOVERNMENT THAT GOVERNS

The Chicago Chronicle has the following to say about Canada: It is not surprising, perhaps, that Canadians are not enthusiastic annexationists. It is not surprising that they think themselves in some respects better off as they are than they would be if the Canadian provinces were states of our union.

They are aware, for one thing, that they have a government which governs. It is essentially a republican government—a representative government of the people—but it is one that governs, instead of being governed by, the lawless and irresponsible.

Even on the frontiers, in the mining and logging camps, toughs and desperadoes do not find the atmosphere congenial; much less do they "run things" as they have been known to do not only in our "wild and woolly" west, but even in some of our populous cities. It is a well known fact that desperadoes greatly prefer this side to the Canadian side of the line because they have a free hand and stand a better chance even if brought to bar.

We have just now an instance fresh in the knowledge of all newspaper readers going to show that in Canada the government governs.

An American company capitalized at $100,000,000 has been spreading itself over things at the Soo, especially on the Canadian side, and employing many men in the development of mines and other resources. This great company on paper recently went to smash because it had not enough credit to borrow $5,000,000 to meet a debt which had already been extended six months by obliging creditors, and when the property was looked over only about $250,000 of assets could be discovered.

Workingmen to the number of 3,000 or more had not been paid for a long time and they began to think they would never get their money. Their case was undeniably a hard one and the sympathies of all who knew the situation was with them. In their desperation they made the mistake of resorting to mob law.

Some 1,500 of them, learning from a notice posted by the company that there was no work for them and no prospect of pay in less than thirty days, attacked the office building on the Canadian side, smashed the windows and furniture and set forth to wreck the property.

The town is not a large one, but the authorities were not passive from sympathy or paralyzed with fear. The local military company was called out at once to reinforce the police and comparative quiet was soon restored. But as the force was deemed inadequate deputies were sworn in, as many as could be obtained, and an appeal to the government was responded to instantly, regular troops being ordered to the scene of the disturbance.

This was not because the authorities were "enemies of labor." Premier Ross of Ontario telegraphed that the government would protect the interests of the workingmen in every way possible, withholding subsidies, etc., and the city is assisting in feeding the men who are left destitute.

But while the officials thus give the most substantial evidence of sympathy they do not forget or neglect their public duty. They realize that it is their duty to govern as well as to aid. They do not hesitate an instant to use all the force they find to be necessary to protect life and property and restore order. They first force obedience to law, and afterward express sympathy and take measures to relieve distress.

Government that governs, which they have in Canada, is sadly lacking in some parts of the United States—Chicago, for instance.

Boston, Oct. 2—The following resolution was included in the platform adopted by the Democratic State convention here yesterday: "Reciprocity with Canada we demand as a natural right, and an opportunity to preserve and enlarge our commerce with our northern neighbor.

Bad Complexion

Has Its Cause in Impure or Impoverished Blood

To have a soft, smooth skin, free from eruptions and unsightly blemishes, the blood must be maintained in a healthy condition.

Face powders, lotions and other toilet preparations may, for a short time cover up a multitude of wrongs in the blood, but they cannot remove those red, disfiguring pimples that are the bane of so many young ladies' lives.

Why not use Ferrozone? It is an unfailing cure for the worst kind of skin disease, the most effective of all blood purifiers, and cures bad complexion by removing its cause.

Ferrozone invigorates and purifies enfeebled blood. Makes it strong rich and red. Ferrozone puts power into the blood to nourish the body and all its organs. It is a regulator of acknowledged merit, and is quite unrivalled as a remedy for Female disorders.

Mrs. Shanly, of Pittsburg, Ont., says: "For five years my face was disfigured by raw, bleeding eruptions that resisted all treatment.

"Three Kingston doctors did their best for me and when they acknowledged themselves beaten, I tried Ferrozone. The first box helped me quite a little, and by the time I had used six boxes I was cured. Ferrozone is a fine remedy for [illegible] disorders of all kinds and I can highly recommend it." (Signed), Mary Shanly.

Growing girls, women, men, in fact everybody can derive untold benefit from Ferrozone. It is a tonic for the blood, brain and nerves and worth its price ten times over to everyone who uses it.

Three weeks' treatment contained in a box of sixty-three chocolate coated tablets, cost 50c., or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by all druggists, and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

REJOICING IN THE TRUTH.

Rev. Henry Olmstead, Church of the Holy Apostles, New York.

Charity rejoiceth in the truth.—I. Cor., xiii., 6.

If we are convinced of the truth of a simple fact, such as the form of some object, then we believe it; but the conviction produces no effect upon our feelings. But there are truths which, when we are assured of them, either sadden or make us happy.

A friend comes to a mother, and gently breaks the news that her child is drowned. But she cannot believe it. She will not believe it. Only an hour ago this dear little one was nestling to her bosom, full of the joy of life and basking in the happiness of a mother's love. "My child cannot be dead," she cries; "I will not believe it." But at last, when she sees the body of her little one borne in to her the dreadful truth is realized, and the pent-up agony gives way to a flood of tears. Here indeed we have truth that may not be rejoiced over.

But, on the other hand, the news of a certain fact may bring with it a world of joy. The lost may be found. The son who had wandered away from his home and loving family, and who had spent his youth in riotous living, returns at last. His father runs to meet him, he recognizes him, and his heart goes out to the son who was dead and is alive again, and was lost and is found. What a happy moment was that in the life of the aged patriarch Jacob when his sons returned from Egypt with the news, "Joseph is yet alive." At first he could not believe, but when they had told him all their tale, and showed him the waggons which Joseph had sent to carry him, the spirit of Jacob, their father, revived, and Israel said: "It is enough; Joseph, my son, is yet alive. I will go and see him before I die." Yes, it is indeed joy to be convinced of truth like this.

All these events, which affect more or less our human life, are of little consequence, however, compared with the greater truths concerning the universe and God himself. Under the former head we may consider scientific truths—truths which men have discovered and proved by profound study and research. They are the revelations of things which God meant us to know. New facts are being discovered every day in the world of science, and in regard to these things it is our duty to receive them when we are convinced of their truth.

But belief is one thing, and rejoicing in what we believe is altogether another. A scientist, a bacteriologist, a student of disease germs, is studying some painful and contagious disease. He thinks to himself, "Now, this disease must be propagated by some kind of germ. Let me try to discover the presence of such." With great pains he analyses everything which may be the lurking place of such germs as he supposes exist. At last he is rewarded by finding the cause of the trouble, and perhaps also discovers some way of exterminating the bacteria. He has discovered the truth. He has convinced others of his profession that his conclusions are true, and he is very happy. Others who have been laboring to heal people of this disease, without success, read of his experiments, realize how great is the discovery, and rejoice with him.

Science deals only with the world and man's physical life. There is a still greater fund of truth which it cannot touch—the great facts about God and heaven and man's spiritual being and prospects. These we may call divine truths. We shall see that they are of the greatest interest, not to a few people only, but to every child of man. Yes, they should interest him and make him rejoice.

It is not enough that I believe in the creed and in all the facts of our Lord's life. It is not enough to say, I know, I believe, but, rather, "Praise the Lord, O my soul, rejoice and be exceeding glad, for the Lord hath showed thee, O man, what is true. Rejoice, therefore, in the truth." If these things which I enumerate in my belief do not make me glad, then I must indeed be a bad man.

We say that we believe the Old and New Testaments to be the Word of God. We all know this fountain of truth, but does it make us glad? Do we take up the Bible, read it carelessly, and put it down again with a sigh of relief, as if a disagreeable duty had been accomplished? We say that we fully believe what we have read, but what is the value of such belief? As well read some profound and abstract treatise on mathematics, which we know to be true, but which interests us not at all. Far better it would be, it seems to me, to read even sceptically, expecting to disbelieve, than to read carelessly. Better an honest doubter than one who can read the glorious pages of God's work and not rejoice.

Then we say that we believe all the articles of the Christian faith as contained in the creeds of the Church. But if our belief does not make us happy, our belief is in vain. I believe in the Fatherhood of God, and if I believe as a Christian should, I shall be indeed happy in God's family. God tries to make His children happy. They know their blessings, but they refuse to repay Him with one grateful prayer, with one smile of trusting love.

We believe that God sent His Son into the world to redeem mankind, but does the thought of the Incarnation at Christmas have as much to do with our happiness as the family reunion, the good dinner or the many gifts? The angel who came from the throne of God, from the delights of heavenly worship, to bring the news to fallen man, thought well that his news would make men glad. "Behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy." But many of us believe, and yet we do not rejoice. Oh, my people, why is it? Can we truly believe in all God's blessings, in the great truths which affect our eternal welfare, and not rejoice?

There can be no cold, unfeeling belief in God's great truths. They are too vital, too essential, and if they do not make us happy, then our faith is as nothing. Believe in the truth. Yes, but believing, we must rejoice with joy unspeakable.

C.P.R COAL SUPPLY

Will Save Large Sums on Fuel in the Mountain District

Montreal, Oct. 2—An ambition that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy for the last couple of years has been trying to realize has borne fruit, and as a result the Canadian Pacific will mine its own coal for the mountain districts from its own lands in British Columbia. Anxious to see if coal could not be located, the president has had prospectors at work under the direction of Mr. W. H. Aldridge, the manager of the company's smelting works at Trail, B.C. The report prepared by Mr. Aldridge shows that already two seams of fair grade bituminous coal have been found, and that there will not be any difficulty securing sufficient for all the company's needs in the mountainous district.

Notwithstanding the operating expenses of the company, the annual saving of the company will run into the hundred thousand dollars. Up to the present the coal for this district the company has secured from the Frank Coal Mining Company, at Frank, Alberta.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

This machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500.00, and to the five next nearest $100.00 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the [illegible] is in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1.00, with your name and address plainly written, by registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $5.00 per day while here, so nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA., PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000

PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

Purchase the Treasury Stock of

The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 450 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large fortunes have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 300,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 25 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich, assays have run from $3 to $64.00 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file of investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 168 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, Oct. 3.—The stock market displayed considerable strength Friday and many good judges were under the impression that a good bank statement was being discounted. The prospects are all in favor of a good statement of averages, for the reason that the banks have gained considerable cash during the week, while the sub-treasury operations have also favored the institutions to the extent of over $4,000,000. There has been some liquidation of loans and all in all there should be some increase in the surplus reserves. The situation is not a good one, many interests in and out of Wall street will be greatly disappointed. The general money market is offering money more freely though rates are still being maintained. On four to six months loans call money is quite easy to borrow and the collateral, in many instances, is being less carefully scrutinized. The foreign situation is figured as more favorable and the English element is reported to be more favorable also.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Hogs 7,000, strong, lights 5.85 and 6.50, mixed 5.80 and 6.45, heavy 5.20 and 6.20, rough 5.25 and 5.45, cattle 4,000, steady. Kansas 4,000, steady. Omaha not in. Sheep, 2,500.

DIFFERENCES IN THE RANKS

The Conference at Sheffield Terminates After [illegible] for Army Efficiency

Sheffield, Eng., Oct. 2.—The attendance today at the conference of the Conservative Associations was much smaller than yesterday, the opening day. The irreconcilable differences in the party on the fiscal question were again emphasized in the debate, and ultimately, in the interest of unity, Henry Chaplin, M.P., former President of the Board of Agriculture and a life long protectionist, withdrew his "rider" moved yesterday, and thereupon Sir John E. Dorington's official resolution of yesterday was carried unanimously, Sir John Gorst saying in behalf of the free traders that they did not desire any more amendments.

In withdrawing the "rider" which promised further to disrupt the ranks of the Unionists, Mr. Chaplin explained that he was convinced, after hearing Mr. Balfour's speech of last night, that it would be mischevious to press the matter, as it was directly hostile to the Premier, and nothing was further from his views.

Lord Hugh Cecil, M.P., and Winston Churchill, M.P., subsequently announced that they had neither voted for nor against the Dorington resolution.

After the passage of a resolution urging the Government to take steps to ensure the efficiency of the army, the conference terminated.

Premier Balfour addressed the delegates after lunch this afternoon. In the course of his speech he announced that Lord Milner did not feel himself able to accept the Colonial Secretaryship.

Russians Will Stay

London, Oct. 2—The Hong Kong correspondent of the Daily Mail learns that ten thousand Chinese laborers are building barracks at Port Arthur for 50,000 additional Russian troops, and that feverish haste is being displayed in railway construction.

The Daily Mail says Japanese troops despatched to Corea are intended to guard her telegraph lines but that means the occupation of Corea, which Japan will probably refuse to evacuate till Russia evacuates Manchuria. This means a permanent occupation.

Wheat Not Moving

Montreal, Oct. 2—Returns of wheat shipments in the North-West for September show that it has only been half the volume of the same month a year ago. The interior elevator returns for the month show that 2,236,000 bushels a year ago, and the number of cars loaded decreased from 3,269 last year to 1,878. The difference is attributed to the backwardness of the season.

Weary of Fighting

Chicago, Oct. 2—After a lockout of over seven months, the 600 employes of the plant of the American Corn Products Co., known as the Chicago Glucose Factory, will go back to work under union conditions, with union pay and hours. In the long fight which has followed, both sides became wearied, and the steam power council had no trouble in securing a settlement.

Not a Statesman

Chicago, Oct. 2—Sir Thomas Lipton smiled when told that Senator Kearns had mentioned the Baronet as being an ideal successor to Sir Michael Herbert. He said: "I am not a statesman, and there is no possibility in the world of my representing Great Britain at Washington."

THE STERLING OIL CO.

brought in on Monday the 20th of July one of the biggest gushers in Sour Lake. It is situated in the Wirt-Davis tract and has been producing oil continuously since it came in, the Spindletop Power Com[illegible] taking the entire output from the well. Besides owning this [illegible] the Company owns two other valuable pieces of Oil Land at [illegible] Lake, where they have just let a contract for drilling a second [illegible] the gusher district. The Company has acquired a twelfth interest in 87 acres of land near Saratoga and a well will soon be drilled on this land, the indications are that fine gushers will be developed in this territory. The Company also owns property in Beaumont, Texas where there are two wells.

All who purchase the stock prior to September 15th. will participate in the September dividend. The price of the stock is 20 cents per share. No orders accepted for less than 50 shares.

COPETE MINING Co.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a one hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street, New York.

Are You Deaf?

Hundreds of perfect recoveries from impaired hearing and deafness are reported as a result of the use of Catarrhozone

The result of actual experience proven that ninety cases in every hundred can be cured, and stay cured, of impaired hearing by the regular use of Catarrhozone.

Among the many prominent business men whose hearing has been restored by Catarrhozone, might be mentioned Mr. Geo. W. Warner, of 310 Wellesley street, Toronto, and Mr. William Jones contractor, of Halifax, N. S. Both these gentlemen have testified to the merits of Catarrhozone as a valuable cure for deafness, and their statements prove beyond all question that Catarrhozone cures impaired hearing and even total deafness.

The efficiency of Catarrhozone is placed beyond dispute by its long list of successful cures, and on the highest authority we can recommend it to our readers. It is a very simple remedy to use, and never causes confusion or gets out of order.

Catarrhozone inhaler is beautifully polished and made of hard rubber. It is suitable to carry in the vest pocket and can be used in the church, theatre street car, at any time, in any place. The complete outfit costs but $1.00 and lasts two months. Trial size 25c. Sold by druggists or sent to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Late Mr. G. C. Armstrong

It is with great regret that we are obliged to chronicle the death of Mr. George Copley Armstrong, a former resident of Peterborough which occurred at Cobourg on Friday last. About nine months ago Mr. Armstrong became a sufferer from stomach trouble, which resisted all the efforts of the best medical skill in the province. He was the youngest son of the late Mr. Thomas Armstrong, town. Mr. Armstrong leaves a wife, mother, two brothers and three sisters to mourn his demise, to whom The Times extends its sincere sympathy. The funeral will take place this afternoon in Cobourg.

An Example for Peterborough

Just now when Peterborough is interested [illegible] the following may be of interest. The town of Paris, Ont., a few months ago, took over the gas and electric light and power plant, paying $100,000. It being in poor condition and not adequate to requirements, the town council, we learn, voted $70,000 to the Light Commissioners to put the plant on a proper basis. Instead of steam, coal gas engines will be installed, the second in Canada. Incandescent lights will be supplied at a cent a night per light, and the price of gas reduced to one dollar per thousand.

A Serious Accident

Lakefield News: On Monday last, Mr Wm. Millar, of Douro, met with a serious and a very painful accident, by which he barely escaped losing the sight of both of his eyes. It appears that Mr. Millar went out with his shotgun to kill a hawk, which had been taking his chickens, but when he arrived on the scene the bird had flown away. He threw open the breech of the gun to extract the cartridge, which exploded as he did so, throwing the whole charge of powder into his face, burning and puncturing it in a shocking manner. Medical aid was immediately sent for, and his wounds carefully dressed, and it is hoped that Mr. Millar will retain the use of both his eyes.

Entertaining Fiction

One advantage of reading a serial story in a daily newspaper is that an installment of convenient length is received every day that does not consume an undue amount of the reader's time. An installment of a high grade serial story appears in every issue of The Chicago Record-Herald, a popular feature of that enterprising Chicago daily. Among the successful stories which have recently been enjoyed by Record-Herald readers are "Soldiers of Fortune," by Richard Harding Davis; "The Thrall of Leif the Lucky," by Ottilie Liljencrantz; "Tristram of Blent," by Anthony Hope; "When Knighthood Was in Flower," by Charles Major, "Alice of Old Vincennes," by Maurice Thompson, and "Graustark," by George B. McCutcheon. Every issue contains also a clear illustrated "human interest" story on the editorial page. Readers of The Record-Herald can depend upon a never failing source of pleasant entertainment in the noteworthy fiction that is always to be found in its columns.

Y.M.C.A. EVENING CLASSES

The educational classes in connection with the Y.M.C.A. will open on October 12th. Young men are fortunate in having at their disposal the exceptionally good advantages offered by the Y.M.C.A. in this line.

The courses are planned by men who know what is needed and the instructors are in it solely to help the man. Those in charge of the classes are the best that can be obtained and include the following: Mr. Enos Maybee, J. A. File, B.A., E. C. Brigley, Commercial Specialist, Geo. Robertson, J. C. Smith and J. W. Kelsey.

This year a tuition fee of one dollar is being charged for each subject, which is considered only a nominal charge and in no way equal to the benefit received by young men who enter, in that the studies will enable a young man to hold the job he has and be prepared for promotion when it comes.

The following are the courses:—Mechanical drawing, Algebra and Trigonometry, Shop Arithmetic and Geometry, Book-keeping and penmanship, Arithmetic and spelling.

Full particulars can be had at the building or through the booklet. All who intend to enter should enrol at once at the office of the Y.M.C.A.

—Dr. T. F. Chamberlain, inspector of gaols, hospitals and charities, was in town on Saturday on an official visit. He has visited the several institutions under his inspectorate and reports maintain the usual condition—all in good shape and up to the usual standard.

WEDDING BELLS

Nuptials of Miss Rebecca Wood and Mr. J. W. Perrin, Both of South Monaghan

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Wood, South Monaghan, at four o'clock on Thursday afternoon, when their only daughter, Miss Rebecca, was united in marriage to Mr. J. W. Perrin, son of the late Mr. Jas. Perrin, of South Monaghan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Drew.

Master Harold Moncrief, cousin of the bride, assisted as page, and Miss Edith McLennan, of town, played the Wedding March.

The bride was presented with a handsome Westminster clock by the members of the Methodist church, Bancroft. Mr. and Mrs. Perrin left for Detroit on their honeymoon, and on their return will reside in South Monaghan.

Boston, Oct. 2—The following resolution was included in the platform adopted by the Democratic State convention here yesterday: "Reciprocity with Canada we demand as a natural right, and an opportunity to promote and enlarge our commerce with our northern neighbor."

CAPT. CARSON HONORED

He was Presented with a Gold Watch on Saturday

A pleasant affair took place at noon on Saturday at the gate house of the Canadian General Electric works, when Capt. R. W. Carson, the labor foreman, was presented with a valuable watch, the gift of his fellow-employees. Capt. Carson has severed his connection with the company, having accepted a position with the C.P.R. The following address was read by Mr. J. G. Wilson:

To Capt. R. W. Carson, Labor Foreman, C.G.E. Co., Peterborough, Ont.

"Dear Sir and Friend, — Learning with deep regret that you are severing your connection with the Canadian General Electric Company, and that you will [illegible] 12 years of service with the company, yet we are pleased to know that you are retaining yourself, both that we are not losing you as a fellow-townsman, and we will yet have the opportunity of giving you the glad hand of fellowship.

"As a slight token of our regard and esteem, we ask you to accept this watch and may it always be a memento of those you leave behind, and we bid you God-speed in your vocation. Signed on behalf of the subscribers, A. W. Patterson, chairman; J. G. Wilson, A. E. Meetheral, C. B. Robertson, W. S. Hodgson, Committee of Presentation."

In reply "Cap" Carson thanked them for their presentation and address. Although he was leaving he expressed his pleasure at being able to see his former employees frequently as he would not be leaving town. In conclusion he again thanked all for remembering him on this occasion of his severing his connection with the company.

The men, who numbered a couple of hundred, gave three very hearty cheers and then dispersed.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

Newsy Paragraphs Picked Up by Reporters on Their Rounds

—It will soon be time for the tax collector to get busy.

—At Saturday's market butter sold at from 20 to 21 cents; eggs from 16 to 17 cents; chickens from 40 to 50 cents, and geese from 70 to 80 cents.

—Life-like pictures of Pope Leo XIII 24x20 in beautiful cardinal robes, for sale at Times Bookstore for 30 cents each. Get a copy early as supply is —Remember the public meeting to-morrow evening in St. Paul's church, when Rev. G. H. Bondfield, of Shanghai, China, will give an address in the interests of the Bible society.

—The Canadian Pacific Railway has placed an order for one million dollars' worth of passenger equipment with its superintendent of rolling stock at the Hochelaga shops.

—At the Stouffville Fair, Mrs. Roszel, wife of Chief Roszel, of Peterborough, acted as judge in the Baby Show. Three girls and a boy were entered for competition, the prize going to the boy.

—The Postmaster-General has authorized the issue of $5 postal notes. The commission on these postal notes is only 5 cents, and is a convenient and safe way of sending money, a receipt being given.

—The wages in lumber camps this year are said to be higher than ever before, and so much has the cost of getting out timber been increased that higher prices are talked of.

—Brantford's population is 18,107—an increase of 1,261 over last year. That's better than Peterborough did; but, in the undying words of Tarte, "Wait till you see us next year."

—Fine stationery, style, quality and value are here. Holmsdale, handsome and low priced. All the latest tints. If you like the pure white we have that too. Times Bookstore.

—The bartender at the Hewis House, Midland, lost an eye by the accidental bursting of a bottle which he had just taken in his hand. A piece of flying glass struck him just below the eye, laid the cheek open and cut the eye out. He was sent to Toronto for hospital treatment.

—Mention was made in the Toronto papers last week of several new lines of railways which the C.P.R. contemplate building in Ontario, among others a line from [illegible] to Toronto, via Campbellford, Warkworth, Cobourg, Port Hope and Oshawa, entering the towns along the front where the Grand Trunk is a mile distant.

Guarding The Hunter

Vienna, Oct. 2—The precautionary measures taken for the safety of the Czar were largely extended today. Fresh detachments of gendarmes have been ordered to the hunting districts, where all movements of unauthorized persons are prohibited during the times the Czar and Emperor Francis Joseph are hunting.

Widower and Prisoner

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 5.—Because he pointed a gun that he did not know was loaded at his wife Ignatz [illegible], aged 22 years, of Olyphant, a groom of two weeks, is a widower and a prisoner.

Recently he and his 17 year-old bride returned from their wedding tour and began housekeeping. Yesterday he started out on a hunting trip. As he kissed his young bride good-bye at the gate she laughingly said something about his being unable to shoot and that she would give him "leave" to shoot her. He playfully raised the gun, pointed it at her and it went off. She was only six feet distant and the top of her head was blown away. He said that he did not know the gun was loaded. He was committed to the county jail, but will likely be released on bail.

$500 REWARD! FOR WOMEN WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they can not cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Their financial responsibility is well known to every newspaper publisher and druggist in the United States, with most of whom they have done business for over a third of a century. From this fact it will readily be seen how utterly foolish it would be for them to make the above unprecedented and remarkable offer if they were not basing their offer on curative means having an unparalleled record. No other medicine than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription could possibly "win out," as the saying goes, on such a proposition. But they know whereof they speak. They have the most remarkable record of cures made by this world-famed remedy ever placed to the credit of any preparation especially designed for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments. This wonderful remedy, therefore, stands absolutely alone as the only one possessed of such remarkable curative properties as would warrant its makers in publishing such a marvelous offer as is above made in the utmost good faith.

"I want to tell you of the great improvement in my health since taking your 'Favorite Prescription,'" says Mrs. H. A. Jones, of Forest, N.C. "When I began its use I was a physical wreck and had despaired of ever having any health again. Could not sit up all day. I noted a great improvement before the first bottle was used. Was suffering with almost every pain that a woman is subject to; had inflammation of ovaries, painful and suppressed periods, and other symptoms of female disease. After taking six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' I felt like a new person. Can ride horseback and take all kinds of exercise and not feel tired."

If you are led to the purchase of "Favorite Prescription" because of its remarkable cures, do not accept a substitute which has none of these cures to its credit.

If you are looking for a perfect laxative try Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

BLOOD DISEASED MEN

If you ever contracted any blood disease you are never safe unless the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Have you any of the following symptoms? Sore throat, ulcers on the tongue or in the mouth, hair falling out, aching pains, itchiness of the skin, sores or blotches on the body, eyes red and smart, dyspeptic stomach, sexual weakness—indications of the secondary stage. Don't ruin your system with the old fogy treatment—mercury and potash—which only suppresses the symptoms for a time only to break out again when happy in domestic life. Don't let quacks experiment on you. Our New Method Treatment is guaranteed to cure you. Our guarantees are backed by bank bonds, that the disease will never return. Thousands of patients have been already cured by our New Method Treatment for over 20 years. No names used without written consent.

Mr. E. A. C. writes: "Your remedies have done me more good than Hot Springs and all the doctors and medicines I had previously tried. I have not felt any of those pains or seen any sign of blotches for over seven years and the outward symptoms of the loathsome disease have entirely disappeared. My hair has grown in fully again and I am married and happy."

VOL 31 NO. 232 PETERBOROUGH ONTARIO TUESDAY OCTOBER 6 1903. PRICE TWO CENTS

TO QUASH THE ST. RY. AND LIGHTING BY-LAWS

Otonabee Power Co. Give Notice That They Will Apply to the High Court of Justice for An Order to This Effect.

At the Town Council meeting last night, Mr. R. R. Hall, acting in behalf of the Otonabee Power Co., submitted the following notice of action on the part of his clients to bring the matter of the street railway franchise and street lighting up before the High Court of Justice:

The Corporation of The Town of Peterborough.

Take notice that on behalf of myself and all other ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough, I intend to apply to the High Court of Justice for an order to quash two certain by-laws, one of which affects the granting of a franchise to the Peterborough Radial Railway Company and the other of which affects the franchise to light the streets of the Town of Peterborough or for such further and other relief as I am entitled to upon the following, amongst other grounds, namely,—

1. That the said by-laws, prior to the final passing of the same should be submitted to the vote of the ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough.
2. That no petition has ever been presented to the Council of the Town of Peterborough, pursuant to section 6o of "The Consolidated Municipal Act," 1903, asking for any bonus to the Peterborough Radial Railway Company to assist in the construction or operation of the Street Railway in question.
3. That no by-law authorizing the corporation of the Town of Peterborough to grant any bonus whatever to the Peterborough Radial Railway Company has ever been submitted to the properly qualified ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough as required by said section 6o.
4. That under section 25 of "The Street Railway Act" the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough has only power to exempt the property of the company from taxation for a period not exceeding ten years, whereas according to the by-law affecting the street railway the council of the said town pretends to exempt the property, real and personal, and the income derived therefrom, for the period of twenty-one years after the first day of June, A.D., 1904, and the Corporation further undertake to extend this exemption for nine years.
5. That the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough has no power or authority to agree that the said Corporation of the Town of Peterborough shall be at the expense of removing snow from the streets of the Town upon which the said street railway operates.
6. That the said Corporation has no power to grant the exclusive franchise of all the streets of the Town, except Crescent street.
7. That the said Corporation has no authority to enter into an agreement to pay the Peterborough Light and Power Company $50 per lamp for 120 lamps per annum for street lighting purposes in the face of a Bona Fide offer on the part of the Otonabee Power Company to supply an equal quantity of light for the same period at $36 per lamp.
8. That it is contrary to law for said corporation to pass the said street railway by-law on the express Condition and Agreement with the said Radial Railway Company that the said Peterborough Light and Power Company are to secure the street lighting franchise at a price that would net the said Peterborough Light and Power Company $14,000 more than the Otonabee Power Company, Ltd., are willing to supply the same light for.
9. That the said Street Railway Company are only required to make a deposit of $5000 with the Town that they will perform their agreement and it is still open to the Radial Railway Co. to forfeit $5000 to the Town and refuse to construct the railway, and thereby give the Peterborough Light and Power Company $9000 more for lighting the streets of the Town of Peterborough than the Otonabee Power Company are willing to supply the same light for.

Dated at Peterborough this 5th day of October, A.D., 1903.

W. H. MELDRUM,

A ratepayer of the Town of Peterboro.

Referred to the Legal Committee with power to act.

STREET LIGHTING.

Ald. Morrison, seconded by Ald. Rush, introduced a by-law to authorize the execution of a contract for street lighting with the Peterborough Light and Power Company, Limited, which passed its several readings. The by-law gives contract to the Peterborough Light and Power Company for 10 years, from January 1st, 1904; at the end of ten years the right of the Company to a franchise of the streets for their poles ceases.

Ald. McWilliams was in the chair, and he suggested that the contract governed by the by-law be read for Mr. Hall and Mr. Meldrum's benefit.

Ald. Best—"Who authorized this contract?"

Ald. Morrison—"The Committee of the Whole Council."

The contract was then read. It provides that the Peterborough Light and Power Company furnish 120 lights of 2000 c. p. at $50 each, a year, the lamps to be of the best and most modern design approved of by the Town Council. Additional lights are to be placed under the supervision of the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, including the village of Ashburnham, if incorporated. The distance between each lamp is not to exceed 500 feet. The company are to run the lights from sunset to sunrise equivalent in the aggregate to 300 full nights in any year. The nights on which the lamps are not in service shall be those nearest the full moon, and if such periods are cloudy the lamps shall be lighted. The company must furnish current of 9 1-2 amperes with a pressure of 50 volts. In event of any breach of contract by which Company are at fault, they are to pay the Town 25c. per light each night the service is not supplied. The company shall not increase the number of their poles now in use, or required for additional lamps, without permission of the Council. The contract price is subject to a pole rental of $400 per year.

Ald. Best—"I would like to ask the mover and seconder by what authority they introduce a by-law authorizing the acceptance of a tender higher than that of another Company."

Ald. Morrison—"There are several reasons. First, the Committee were not in a position to go into municipal lighting, and in view of the offer of the Peterborough Light and Power Company to resuscitate the street railway. We judged it to be in the best interests of the Town to accept their contract. You'll notice this Company's tender is for the renewal of the old contract, while that of the Otonabee Power Company is for a new light. The former is for a direct current open lamp, which Toronto and other cities and towns claim to be perfectly satisfactory. There is now in the market a direct current closed lamp. Mr. Hall offered us an alternating current lamp, which many experts agree is not as good for street lighting as the direct current, although highly satisfactory for store, house, or factory purposes. I would like to correct Mr. Hall, in his letter, where he states that Toronto Junction's lights are only 1200 c. p. We have a letter from the clerk of that municipality, in which he states that their lamps are 2000 c. p. alternating current enclosed. And they are closer together than ours. The city of Hamilton, after using an alternating current 9 1-2 amperes open lamp for two years, are throwing them out, and are installing the best alternating current lamp in the market—those made by the Canadian General Electric Co. Ottawa and London are using enclosed direct current lamps, which supply a beautiful light. The lamp offered us by the Otonabee Power Company is only of 6 1-2 amperes, while those our contract calls for and which we are using today, are 9 1-2 amperes lamps. Under these circumstances we concluded that we are getting a better bargain from the Peterborough Light and Power Company, even leaving out the question of the street railway. Should we accept such lamps as are in use at Toronto Junction the people would quickly demand more lights and we would need a third more lights to get as good a service as we are enjoying today, which would bring the Otonabee Power Co's price up to the same as that of the Peterborough Light and Power Company."

Mr. Hall—"I have never been able to get at the actual lamp called for by the contract; that is left to the Town Engineer. I would call the Council's attention to the fact that the kind of lamp is not specified. The Otonabee Power Company are ready to install the most improved and best modern lamp in existence, even like those at Ottawa, with a direct current. We are prepared to go farther, and enter into a contract at $1400 a year less than the tender of the Peterborough Light and Power Co. and under the same terms and conditions specified in the contract read here tonight. The Toronto Junction lamps are not our lamps—they are only 6.6 amperes, while ours are a size larger, 7.5 amperes with a greater candle power capacity. Then we are not wedded to any company for lamps, but will put in the best in the market, and not any rattle trap lamp which your expert says should be thrown on the scrap heap." Mr. Hall then went on to quote expert advice that the alternating current closed lamp gives a more equally diffused light, without shadows and a much stronger illumination midway between lamps. "We offer to accept the same contract read here to-night at $1400 a year less than tendered by the Peterborough Light and Power Co. This is a straight and plain proposition, and the Council, according to their declaration of office to give out just and fair administration, cannot legally or honorably pay $1400 a year more for street lighting than is necessary. What judge would justify a Council in paying so large a bonus?"

Ald. Best—"Early in the year the Committee on Light and Franchises were to look into the question of municipal lighting. As a matter of fact, an expert named Phillip was brought here, but he never met that committee at all. The committee was never called. In 1901 a Committee was formed to take over the Water Works, and in 1902 a by-law was submitted to the people for this purpose with the understanding that there was plenty of water at the water works dam with which to do our own lighting. Mr. Kennedy, the expert on that occasion, reported that there is 700 horse power at that dam, 200 of which is now used for water works purposes, leaving 500 undeveloped horse power lying practically idle. Now the Town could raise that dam 3 feet more in which event we would have 900 horse power. In the face of this why should we ask any company for tenders for lighting. Our liabilities on water works debentures amount to $247,000 and you want all that 700 horse power to remain idle. An expert reported that Ottawa could do its own lighting for $40 per lamp, an all night service every night, based on a 16 horse power furnished by an electrical company. We have an offer from the Otonabee Power Co of power at $10 per horse power. Now I am prepared to prove that we can do our own street lighting as cheap as the Otonabee Power Co., and have power to spare for industrial purposes."

Ald. Morrison admitted that the Committee did not meet Mr. Phillip as he came one morning and left for Orillia on urgent business at noon the next day. He, however, reported to the Council. As to Ottawa, one of the Aldermen said the expert reported the city could do its own lighting at $40 per lamp, but he—the Alderman—thought it could be done at $46. But then Ottawa uses 400 or 500 lamps.

Ald. Best—"We can do our own lighting at $35 a lamp."

Mr. W. H. Meldrum—"100 or 125 lamps can be furnished just as cheaply per lamp as 500. Get figures from any electrical engineer you please—not the man you got, Ald. Morrison, for no one knew him to be an expert till he came here. Then I know for a fact that the Peterborough Light and Power Co do not intend furnishing the lamps we have on the streets today under their new contract. They will put in a new kind: but this is left for the Council's acceptance. The Otonabee Power Co. are just as able to put in as good and as economical a light, and can put up as satisfactory a guarantee as the Peterborough Light and Power Co. We will also accept the same contract at $1400 a year less. Then we have figures and are prepared to show that the Town can do its own lighting at $38 a lamp per year.

Mr. Felix Brownscombe, who was acting in Mr. Armstrong's unavoidable absence, then went on with the second reading of the by-law. The second clause provides for granting the contract to the Peterborough Light and Power Co., and Ald. Best moved, seconded by Ald. Clinkscale, that this clause be read six months hence.

Ald. McWilliams here remarked that had he been in town when the street railway by-law was read he would have voted for it; and he intended voting for this by-law should a casting vote be necessary. Had Mr. Hall's offer at $1,400 less been made earlier it would have put a different face on the matter. He thought, however, the light offered by the Peterborough Light and Power Co the most preferable of the two.

Mr. Hall—"The communication we received places us in an unfair position to reply with the request. We were asked to tender on certain terms which meant we would have to bid on a scrap-heap lamp as alluded to by the expert; this we were adverse to doing. But conditions have changed and now that it is open for us to agree with the Council on the kind of a lamp preferred, we are ready to supply it. We are coming in at the earliest possible moment we heard of the changed conditions. We place it fairly and squarely that the Council should not give a bonus of $1400 a year to the Peterborough Light and Power Co. That is the position we take and intend to maintain.

Ald. Morrison—This contract is the best ever offered the Town for light. It calls for a 9 1-2 amperes lamp, and we have inserted a clause providing that the company shall remove their poles at any time the corporation desires it, free of charge. Toronto pays $5 for every pole removed by the corporation's order. Then the Peterborough Light and Power Co. always claimed a perpetual franchise of our streets, but we have here a clause authorizing the council at the end of 10 years to order the removal of all poles erected subsequent to seven years of the term of contract. And now that this Company have come to our terms it would be breaking faith with them and dishonoring this Council and the Town were we not to award them the contract.

Ald. Best—"Those who are in favor of giving everything to the Stuart Co. may feel so, but don't include all the aldermen."

Ald. Morrison —"We'll exclude you, then."

Mayor Roger did not think it imperative to accept the lowest tender. Most of us, he said, are influenced in a degree by the advantages accruing from the early operation of the street railway. Should we accept the Otonabee Power Co.'s tender we would have a new set of poles on our streets and this is not desirable. Then the Peterborough Light and Power Co. possesses an advantage in possessing an alternative light in the shape of gas in case of emergencies. There were other considerations to which our attention was called by the expert, which I don't care to mention here as it might reflect on the Otonabee Power Co. We are also advised that we cannot do our own lighting at as low a figure as either tender. I believe we have as cheap and as good light as any town in Ontario today, together with the street railway to be in operation next year.

Ald. O'Connell agreed with the by-law and said that after carefully considering the whole question in Committee and after the Mayor and the chairman had visited different parts of the country, gleaning information as to light, and from the advice of the expert, the Committee had concluded that in giving the contract to the Peterborough Light and Power Co., they were acting in the best interests of the town. He believed that even in paying $1400 a year more for our light we shall be securing better service for our money. Then the advantage of having the street railway much exceeded the difference in the tenders.

Ald. Best here enquired where Mr. Phillips got his instructions to report on this question—from the Peterborough Light and Power Co.?

Ald. Morrison—"I take the privilege of resenting Ald. Best's insinuations as a gentleman."

Ald. Best—You and the Mayor did the whole thing. When Mr. Kennedy came here on the waterworks question I called a meeting of the committee; but in this case I, a member of the Committee in question, was totally ignored.

Ald. McWilliams—You have a right to resent not being called to meet Mr. Phillips, but not to make such insinuations regarding who instructed Mr. Phillips to report.

Ald. Best—I firmly believe he got his instructions from the Peterborough Light and Power Co.

Ald. Morrison here read Council's instructions to Committee to secure advice as to the best and most modern lamp, a valuation of the Peterborough Light and Power Company's plant, and the cost of equipping and maintaining a municipal lighting plant.

Mr. Meldrum here submitted in writing the Otonabee Power Co.'s offer to accept the same contract under consideration at $1400 a year less.

His Worship submitted that in view of Mr. Meldrum's own statement that the Town could do its own lighting at $36 per lamp per year, the Town could not consider the Otonabee Power Co.'s tender even should they refuse the one under discussion.

The amendment to postpone the by-law's second reading for six months was here voted on and lost.

BIG STEEL STRIKE NEAR

Amalgamated Association May Order Walk Out From All Plants

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 6.—Unless the differences at the New Philadelphia plant of the American Sheet Steel Company is adjusted this morning a general strike at all the union works of that company is threatened by the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. It is alleged that the American Sheet Steel Company has violated the agreement at these works in removing the limit of output. The big steel strike of 1901 was brought about by the enforcement of a law that a dispute in one mill must be followed by a strike in all plants.

It is reported that the former Amalgamated lodges at Joliet, Milwaukee and South Chicago are making an effort to rejoin the association. These lodges were suspended under a fine of $10,000 each for refusing to come out on a sympathetic strike during the big steel strike two years ago.

HER MONEY STOLEN

A Toronto Woman's Experience at Rochester

Rochester, Oct. 3.—With the money sent her by her husband to pay her fare back to Canada stolen, Mrs. Anna McDonald of Toronto was arrested and sent to jail here for vagrancy. This occurred nearly two weeks ago, but the facts in the case only came to light this morning, when Mrs. McDonald informed Police Matron Miller that her husband was willing to provide for her if she could get back to Toronto. Her husband had sent her $30 to pay her fare home, which, she claims, had been stolen by a brother-in-law residing in Brockport. Convinced that the woman was speaking the truth, Mrs. McDonald was taken to Brockport, where relatives raised enough to purchase her a ticket to Toronto. The charge of vagrancy was then withdrawn, and Mrs. McDonald starts for Canada tonight. Her husband is a conductor on the railroad running from Toronto to Belleville.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The Programme for The Season — Ticket Selling Nuisance

The following ministers were present yesterday at the October meeting of the Ministerial Association held in the parlor of the Y.M.C.A.: Revs. J. P. Wilson, President; J. A. Wilson, Secretary; J. C. Davidson, W. J. Jolliffe, J. Hastow, Dr. Torrance, W. L. Armitage, J. G. Potter, W. Bennett, A. H. Brace, J. G. Lewis. Rev. Mr. Potter presented the report of the programme Committee as follows:

October meeting—Rev. J. G. Potter.
November—Round Table Conference on Relation of Church to the Labor Question.
December—Rev. Dr. Torrance.
January—Rev. E. A. Langfeldt.
February—Rev. J. C. Davidson.
March—Rev. J. G. Lewis.
April—Rev. A. H. Brace.
May—Rev. W. L. Armitage.
June—President's Valedictory.

Some discussion took place regarding the ticket-selling nuisance and other kindred nuisances perpetrated by church people particularly upon the merchants of our town and the following resolution was passed:

"Resolved, that this Association deprecates the indiscriminate sale of tickets or other canvassing for financial support of particular congregations, or enterprises connected with them, among professional men or merchants not connected with the congregations named."

Mr. Robert Harrison, secretary of the local branch of the Lord's Day Alliance, was heard with regard to the work, and it was arranged to have contributions for this work taken up in our churches on some Sunday in November.

Rev. Mr. Bennett presented his report regarding visitation of hospital and Protestant Home, and Rev. W. L. Armitage presented the report regarding arrangements for school visitation.

Owing to the amount of business on hand Rev. Mr. Potter's paper on "The Day's Work of a City Minister" had to be deferred.

INSANE ON HIS HONEYMOON

Chicago Undertaker is in Police Cell at Niagara Falls N.Y.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Herman Hocker, a Chicago undertaker on his honeymoon, has gone insane, and is now locked up at police headquarters. Mr. and Mrs. Hocker arrived here yesterday afternoon. Last night Hocker acted so queerly that his wife called a policeman. He was examined by Dr. McBrien and to-day again by Dr. McLain. Both physicians say the man is insane. He will be held until the arrival of a brother from Chicago. Hocker is 26 years old.

Alcoholic Kidney Remedies Add Fuel to the Fire of Disease.

DR. PETTINGILL'S
Kidney-Wort Tablets
ARE SAVING THOUSANDS OF LIVES

A vast number of men and women suffer from a slow consumption of the kidneys, and yet do not realize the fact that they are slowly dying from Bright's disease. Many such victims who feel that their kidneys are in a disordered condition are seeking relief by using some of the liquid kidney remedies largely composed of alcohol. Such treatment adds fuel to the fire of the disease.

Dr. Pettingill's Kidney-Wort Tablets is now the recognized specific for all forms of kidney diseases, urinary and bladder troubles. They are strictly pure in composition, and are now prescribed by our ablest physicians. Kidney-Wort Tablets are curing thousands who failed to find relief in the ordinary remedies of the day. Ask your druggist for them: he will guarantee them. Price 25 cents per bottle or six bottles for $1.25.

CLEARING THE WAY FOR CHAMBERLAIN' RETURN.

Mr. Balfour Almost Ready to Welcome the Late Colonial Secretary Back in the Cabinet

London, Oct. 6.—Whoever else may be dissatisfied, Mr. Chamberlain must feel particularly cheerful as he glances back over the past week's momentous happenings. Mr. Balfour, as leader of the Unionist party, has endorsed his full policy of Imperial protection as the ultimate wisdom of statesmanship, and has, moreover, left the impression on the rank and file that he only awaits Mr. Chamberlain's proof that food taxes will not be increased to induce him to welcome him back to the Cabinet on a full Chamberlain policy.

OPPONENTS HAVE GONE.

So returning, Mr. Chamberlain will find practically a clear field within the Cabinet inasmuch as his arch-political enemies, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Mr. Ritchie and Lord George Hamilton, free traders all, have been frozen out. The Cabinet will patch itself together meanwhile; but as things are now running, official Unionism bids fair to come entirely under the Chamberlain umbrella.

ENLARGING THE UMBRELLA.

To this end the Chamberlain umbrella is being greatly enlarged. This campaign was started with Mr. Chamberlain's blunt admission that British food must bear a substantial tax to save the Empire. By-elections and Unionist mutterings have brought about the declaration that there is no need to increase the food bill. The only change that the $65,000,000 now paid on imported sugar, tea, cocoa, etc., will be paid on foreign as distinct from colonial cereals, meat and dairy produce.

NOW TO THIRD STAGE.

The Sheffield conference, last week, brought the Chamberlain programme to its third stage. There is to be a reduction instead of an increase in food taxes. The new taxes on produce from outside the Empire, it is estimated, will realize $50,000,000, therefore $50,000,000 will be lifted off sugar, tea and cocoa. A new feature is that the remaining $15,000,000 of existing food taxes will also be removed, the loss of revenue being recovered from the tariff on manufactured goods. This tariff is proposed at 5 per cent. on partly manufactured, and 10 per cent. on wholly manufactured imports, and the proceeds are expected to be $35,000,000, which will leave $20,000,000 for the reduction of other taxes.

DAILY MAIL'S SUPPORT.

It all seems to work out beautifully. Ha'penny paper, the Daily Mail, which, with its own million readers and with the allied Harmsworth journals throughout the provinces, probably reaches 2,000,000 of voters, declares that such a preferential scheme will change its present hostility to Chamberlainism into the warmest support. It will be surprising if it does not also win the support of Mr. Balfour and official Unionism, which eagerly awaits some such attractive electoral programme.

THE VACANT EMBASSY.

The Ministry's selection of a successor to Sir Michael Herbert is rendered more difficult by the anomaly whereby one of the most important posts in the diplomatic service carries with it only second class emoluments. This tends to limit the choice to rich men, and it is widely felt that the time has come when the Treasury should re-adjust those emoluments to the altered circumstances of Anglo-American relations.

THE MACEDONIAN SITUATION.

The Ministry is receiving little support in its attitude towards Macedonia. English opinion would welcome the placing of that country under a Christian Governor-General, independent of the Turk. Many would go the length of supporting the despatch of a combined fleet of British, French and Italian ships into Turkish waters with orders, if the Turkish troops do not leave Macedonia, to appear before Constantinople.

"If," says the Spectator, "Austria and Russia occupied the Balkans so much the better, for they will not take that step without eliminating the European rule of the Turk."

The Spectator cautiously adds that a Prime Minister who knew his own mind could exercise immense pressure at Constantinople without the risk of involving his country in war.

THE TALLEST MAN IN THE WORLD GOING TO ENGLAND

He is Seven Feet Nine Inches in Height and Hails from Russia

London, Oct. 6.—The tallest man in the world is coming to England. He is Feodor Machow, of Kustjak, Russia, and he is 7 feet 9 inches in height. Until some scientists "discovered" him and brought him to Moscow, Feodor looked upon his abnormal height as a grave drawback. Now he is rather proud of it.

This man is not only the largest man alive but his measurements are greater than those of any known giant of the past two generations. He is but twenty-two years old and remarkably well proportioned for his height.

The Anthropological Society of Berlin is taking a very lively interest in Machow and many learned men have measured and studied him during the past few months. Professor Felix von Luschan, the famous ethnographical student, has made the official report, and this is what he finds:

"I have carefully examined and measured from an anthropological standpoint Feodor Machow, who is now about twenty-two years of age.

"He is 7 feet 9 inches in height and can therefore be classed with the largest giants that have ever lived. He exceeds in height all the known living giants by at least a head, and is in many respects of great scientific interest."

As a matter of fact, all the giants who have been exhibited in Europe up to the present time were from 4.7 ins. to 5.9 ins. shorter than Machow. Their average height was between 6 feet 10 ins. and 7 ft. 5 ins., according to documents placed with the Anthropological Society by the late Professor Virchow. The showmen, however, always exaggerated the height in advertisements.

Feodor Machow comes from an old Russian family, whose ancestors are said to have emigrated to Russia from the south, probably from Syria. His parents, as well as his two brothers, and one sister, are all of normal size. His grandfather was large, but in no sense a giant. It is said, however, that in earlier generations of the family large specimens occurred. Viewing this case from the standpoint of the theory that mental and physical traits are inherited it would seem that the theory is strengthened to a certain extent, especially in regard to bodily stature.

The boots worn by Machow, which scarcely reach to his knees, reach an ordinary person almost up to the waist, and a twelve-year-old boy could easily find room inside one of them. The ring which adorns the index finger of Machow's right hand is so large that a half-dollar can easily be passed through it. A steel spring mattress of extra size and strength had to be made for him and placed on a strong iron frame. This promising youth eats at each meal at least 3 pounds of meat and a proportionate quantity of potatoes, vegetables and bread, with a relishing appetite. It is at the cost of much trouble and still greater expense that the society is entertaining him.

TURKS WAGE WAR ONLY ON WOMEN

Troops Make No Effort to Meet Armed Bands of Insurgents

Sofia, Oct. 6.—More than 2,000 women and children are hiding at Godlevenia and Planina, and many others are attempting to cross the frontier.

The Turks, when possible, avoid conflicts with the insurgents and occupy themselves in attacking the non-combatant population and burning villages.

A British officer, who arrived at Rilo, has entrusted General Tsontcheff to entrust him with the command of a band of insurgents.

Correspondents point out that the present phase of the Macedonian question is very critical, because, though the immediate danger of war is less, it is evident that decisions must now be taken not only by Austria and Russia but by Western Europe.

The part Great Britain will play in the near East will affect her prestige and future influence throughout Asia. Both France and Italy apparently await the British lead.

[illegible] in a Wreck

Belgrade, Servia, Oct. 6.—The Orient express, bound for Constantinople, ran into a freight train to-day at Pasua, Hungary, near the Servian frontier. Many persons were injured. Princess Clementine, mother of Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, and the latter's children were on the express, but they were uninjured.

SEVERE ATTACK ON PREMIER BALFOUR

He is Accused of Caring Nothing for the Colonies

London, Oct. 6.—The Times this morning gives prominence to an article purporting to represent the colonial view and strongly criticizing Mr. Balfour's attitude on the fiscal question, as showing that he cares nothing for the colonies, to whom his attitude means not only disappointment, but disaster. The article asks whether some convulsion such as the secession of Australia is needed before the colonies can get their requests considered, and accuses the Premier of sacrificing colonial feeling to the desire to keep his own party in power.

Hunting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting Deer, Moose, Reindeer, Caribou, etc., in the "Highlands of Ontario," and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

OIL INSTEAD OF WATER

One thing is certain, that sprinkling streets with water is very expensive and does not accomplish the purpose; the dust begins to blow on a hot day within a few minutes after the water cart has passed. The watering cart is a primitive way in which to overcome dust, and after more than a century of trial has not proven a success. During the summer months travel by railroad is made unpleasant because of the dust, and the traveler must either suffer from the dust or the heat from closed car windows. A few years ago a railroad company in Pennsylvania tried the experiment of sprinkling the roadbed with coal oil, which proved effective, only one or two sprinklings being required during the year. In Southern California the highways and streets in the country and cities are sprinkled with coal oil, and it is said there are no finer roads in the world. They are elastic and have less tendency to disintegration, and there is but little odor from the oil. On sprinkled roads are neither dusty nor muddy and they need sprinkling with oil but once a year. While it would be impracticable to sprinkle asphalt pavements on account of the hard, smooth surface, it would be just the thing for macadam roadways. If in the warmer climate of Southern California one sprinkling of oil suffices for the year, certainly it would not need any more here in Canada, where to keep warm requires the furnace fires to burn from seven to eight months in the year. The first cost might be a trifle heavy, but consider the cost of thirty or forty teams and water carts during six months in the year and then not being free from dust. Chairman [illegible] spare hours in figuring out how much it would cost to give the streets one sprinkling of oil, and then compare it with the present, including the extra cost of pumping and waste of water.

A LOAN COMPANY TRAGEDY

In connection with the proceedings to wind up the Atlas Loan Company, whose failure was the sensation of the St. Thomas district last Spring, a grey-haired farmer, who is said to have lost $6,000 by the collapse, addressed the court at some length and with vehement earnestness. Among other things, he said:

"The hardship upon our city is beyond the notion of those not familiar with [illegible] [illegible] to instance the actions of those banking people and indicate the spirit with which their business was conducted—St. Thomas is a railroad town to a great extent. Whenever a railway man was killed in his dangerous calling, and the insurance or compensation was paid to his widow, these sharks of these bankers — this Atlas Loan—hounded the widow until they [illegible] [illegible] may be considered, when it took the place of the family bread winner—at any rate the only support of the widow and orphan."

There are few acts so callously cruel as to rob the widow and orphan of their means of support. A man must be hard-driven indeed, to be guilty of such darkness. And it is precisely such results of financial collapse as these which make failures of banking and loan institutions such terrible tragedies.

But, in face of the fact that the widow and the helpless are always involved in such crashes, ought not the law of the land to be more careful in guarding against them. One banking act now makes a bad failure almost impossible; but loan companies are not so well protected. Certainly a company founded to invest money in "gilt-edged" mortgages, and in nothing else, should never be permitted by a belated amendment to use the funds entrusted to it for this purpose in speculation—probably "on margin." Certainly, too, it should be frequently and rigidly inspected.

Every deposit receiving company looks, to the untrained woman and the inexperienced man, like a bank; and the law should insist upon making it equally safe.

DELAWARE JUSTICE

In Wilmington fourteen culprits were forced to hug the whipping-post in the yard of the county workhouse while forty lashes descended with the force of the keeper's strong arm upon their bare backs.

One convict is reported to have taken his punishment "without much display of pain, although he must have suffered torture, as forty lashes is an unusually severe punishment." Another convict "groaned aloud as the cat descended upon his back, and for a time it was feared he would faint before he got through with the forty.

After the public whipping had been administered, the fourteen prisoners, two of whom were white and the remainder colored, were compelled to stand for an hour in the pillory, when they were taken back to the workhouse to serve the sentence of six years each.

Three of the men who were thus severely punished had been convicted of highway robbery, and another, a negro, was convicted of feloniously assaulting a white woman.

We are more lenient with such criminals in Ontario. White women are assaulted by white men, and the assailants are not even arrested. Highway robbery may not be so common here as in the State of Delaware, yet it is common enough to call for the exercise of the strong hand of the law, which would be all the more efficacious with a whip at the end of it.

STOLE A CHILD

A Woman Accused of Kidnapping a Little Girl

London, Oct. 5—Chief of Police Mains of Fort Erie passed through the city yesterday with a little child which has been missing from its home at Fort Erie for the last ten days. The case was one of kidnapping, and one of the [illegible] is suspected to be a [illegible] Keefer, who lives near Komoka. The woman was disguised as a nun. She told a tale of woe and got money from many people.

She went to Fort Erie some weeks ago, and stayed with the family of which the little girl was a member, where she fully ingratiated herself. Her departure from the home was marked by the disappearance of their daughter. She was suspected at once, and Chief Mains immediately commenced work on the case. The woman was always dressed as a nun and called herself "Sister Magdalene."

Chief Mains visited many Canadian towns, and finally traced the object of his search to a house about a mile from Strathroy. Here he found the child, but the woman had disappeared, leaving her disguise and other belongings in this house. Chief Mains went back yesterday morning to Komoka, where Miss Keefer's home is, and will endeavor to find some trace of her there.

She is rather pretty, and has brown hair and blue eyes. She is short and about forty years of age. One of her chief characteristics is her smoothness in speaking.

BODILY WEAKNESS

A DISTRACTING CONDITION THAT IS PERMANENTLY CURED BY FERROZONE. A PLEASANT REMEDY IN TABLET FORM TO BE TAKEN AFTER EACH MEAL.

All fagged out ideas come as slow as molasses in January. You think of things just a minute or so too late. Snap is gone and the bouyancy and strength that makes life a pleasure, that's gone too.

The doctor would say that you are run down, and you don't eat or digest enough. Your stomach requires some aid, and probably your digestion needs a bracer. The blood should have phosphorus and iron to strengthen and purify it.

Now Ferrozone is a wonderful blood maker and nerve stimulant. It is really a food for the blood, nerves and vital energies and will improve your run down condition in a very short time.

Ferrozone will make you strong and capable of doing a heavy day's work without fatigue. It is a marvellous remedy and does marvellous things as the following testimonial proves.

"After my baby was born I was left in a weak, sickly condition, totally unfit for a mother's household duties. I was excitable and nervous, and trifling things bothered me very much. I somehow would not gain strength, although I took malt extracts and tonics all the time. A lady friend recommended Ferrozone which I used with splendid results. The first box helped quite a little, and when I had taken six boxes my former health, rosy cheeks and good spirits, were fully restored."

You can't spend 50c. to a better advantage than on a box of Ferrozone and the sooner you get Ferrozone the sooner you will get well. Don't accept a substitute, but insist on your druggist supplying the genuine Ferrozone which sells for 50c. a box, or three boxes for $1.25. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

CHINESE LODGED IN JAIL

Sunday School Teachers Call on Their Foreign Pupils

And Bring Them Dainties and Money for Cigarets

New York, Oct. 5—On information furnished by girls of tender age the police of the Gates avenue station in Brooklyn rounded up and arrested all the Chinese laundrymen they could find yesterday in the outlying wards of Brooklyn. Later some of them were discharged for lack of evidence. According to the statement made last night by Police Captain Buchanan, who superintended the work of raiding many of the Chinamen learned what was to happen, and fled after closing up their places of business.

More arrests will follow today, for Capt. Buchanan says that not less than fifty Chinese laundrymen whose places are in the Stuyvesant Heights district, which is one of the choice residential sections of Brooklyn, are implicated. In connection with the case, warrants have been issued for the arrest of a married woman, a Chinese merchant, and a girl 17 years old, all of whom, the police say, were in a plot to bring about the ruin of Brooklyn girls. Several white girls are under arrest also.

Women Call at Jails.

Magistrate Furlong questioned the girls. They wept as they confessed [illegible] gang who made it a practice to [illegible] that they were members of an organization to procure girls for Chinese laundrymen. A woman named Kratz, they said, was the organizer of the gang. The money they received amounted to $5 or $10 a day. Some of it went to their parents who thought the girls were working in the department store.

Last night many fashionably dressed women visited the Gates avenue police station and wept in the corridors of the cells where the Chinamen were confined. They told Police Captain Buchanan that they were the Sunday school teachers of the Chinamen behind the bars. The Chinamen nodded assent, and explained to their teachers that it was not their own fault that they had fallen from grace but the fault of the girls who complained.

The majority of the women who called at the station were young and comely. They told the captain that they would pledge their jewelry to obtain funds for Hu Tom's release.

Soon after 8 o'clock the first woman missionary entered the police station.

"I would like to see Charley Wah," she said.

"Why are you?" enquired Captain Buchanan.

"I am his Sunday school teacher," said the young woman. "My name is Miss Del Livingston."

"Miss Livingston," said the captain, "this Chinaman is held on a serious charge. He is not in the cells here, but has been committed to Raymond street jail. The charge against him has been made by a fourteen-year-old girl."

"The police ought to have spanked her instead of paying any attention to her story," remarked Miss Livingston.

Fruit for the Prisoners.

Two young women who said they were from the Friends' Chinese Mission in Monroe street called and left a bottle of coffee, some sandwiches, and a basket of fruit for Charley Wah. The captain learned that they were members of a Baptist church in the neighborhood.

A Chinaman, who said he was Thos. Wah, a missionary connected with the Tompkin's Avenue Methodist Church's mission on Myrtle avenue, called. He was accompanied by a man, who introduced himself to Capt. Buchanan as Mr. Warner. They wanted to see Hu Tom, who, Wah explained, was one of the pillars in the Chinese mission, connected with the Tompkins Avenue Methodist Church.

"My wife and her lady friend are outside," said Warner. "May I call her in?"

"Certainly," said Capt. Buchanan.

Warner went to the door and beckoned to two women who were on the stoop. One, who appeared to be about 25 years old, was richly gowned.

"I am Mrs. Nellie Warner," she said, "and I am anxious to see Hu Tom. I do not care to give my address, but I would like to talk with him for a few minutes."

"We found your address in one of the prisoners' pockets," explained Capt. Buchanan. "Here it is, Mrs. Nellie Warner, 727 Lexington avenue."

"I don't know how he got my address," said young Mrs. Warner, "but I am a teacher in the Myrtle avenue mission, and the only one I am acquainted with is Hu Tom, who is my Sunday school pupil."

Mrs. Warner talked with three of the prisoners and after glancing at the fourth said that she was not acquainted with any of them.

"I am acquainted with the two in the jail," she said. "One of them, Hu Tom, is a quiet, peaceful fellow. He is my scholar. It's a shame to have him and the others here locked up. Those girls who complained ought to be sent to prison for long terms. They are more to blame than these poor Chinamen. They tear down what we build up. It would serve the girls right if they were sentenced to a long term."

After the Warner party left the station two women called and introduced teachers from New York. They asked permission to leave some cakes and pies for the prisoners, and one of them handed over a two dollar bill to buy cigarets for the prisoners.

Three women with bunches of roses and bags of apples and oranges came next. These also declared that the girl complainants deserved to be punished instead of the Chinamen.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

This machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a pail or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

$2000 GIVEN AWAY IN CASH

Do you want to make $1000 easily?

IF SO, tell us how many hairs you think there are in a solid round bunch of horse tail hair ten inches long and three inches in diameter. This hair is made up in a solid round bunch and the hairs are all one length, to the best of our knowledge.

To the person who tells us the exact number or nearest to the number of hairs in this bunch we will give $1000.00; to the second nearest $500.00, and to the five next nearest $100 each. This money will all be paid in cash as soon as the lists are in. This bunch of hair is now sealed up and has never been counted, and will not be counted until all lists are in.

TERMS upon which your number will be received are as follows: Send us at least ten names of the owners of horses, or the mothers of children UNDER THREE YEARS of age. These names we want for our mailing list to bring before such persons an article of long felt necessity. Also send us $1 [illegible] registered letter, post office order or express order.

Now in order that everyone will be compensated for their work we will give everyone sending us at least ten names and $1 one of our bonds, payable in gold, paying 10% interest per annum. In making out your lists be sure and keep the names of the owners of horses separate from the other names, and write their names and addresses plainly.

In order that everyone will be satisfied with the counting of these hairs we will select three persons from among those who send numbers to count them. These persons will be selected from different sections and we will pay their fare both ways and allow them $5.00 per day while here, so nothing can be fairer than this.

Send your lists and numbers in at once.

Address the American Interlaced Horse Collar Company,
FRANKFORD, PHILA., PENN., U. S.

For each dollar you send we will give you one Bond, and will allow you to select Twenty Numbers that you think are in the bunch for each Bond you get. This will give you twenty-fold opportunity to secure the amounts that are offered.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.
OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of [illegible] to [illegible] feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,3[illegible] feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 250,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 25 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order, payable to the order of

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
136 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns [illegible] acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sergeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $54.[illegible] per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Oct. 4.—There was considerable selling in the stock market Saturday, but this sort of business was largely for the account of longs who were disposed to take profits. The short interest in the general market is still figured to be of substantial proportions but those who are now short are believed to be in position to take care of their interests, and under the circumstances there is less of a demand in the loan crowd for stocks. The bank statement Saturday, while considered quite good by many was less favorable than indicated by the preliminary figures and naturally not a few interests were inclined to be a little pessimistic with regard to the monetary situation. The foreign element is inclined to buy own stock on the lower levels and there is still a good reason to look for gold to go to America, except under protest. London 1 1-8 to 1 [illegible] lower. Professionals threaten to attack New York Central for a turn and Geo. J. Gould says he is a bull. Get Missouri and Pacific corroborate this. St. Paul ex div. at opening will be cheap around 1[illegible]7. Statement to be made at steel meeting when dividends will be declared should effectually put at rest all disquieting rumors. Temporarily trade for quick turns preferably buying on little dips specialties. Traction shares are certain to improve. Buy [illegible] conservatively.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Hogs strong; Holdovers 4,[illegible]; lights 6.90 and 6.[illegible] mixed 6.[illegible] and 6.60; heavy 3.23 and 6.[illegible]; roughs [illegible] and 6.50. Cattle 27,000, steady. Sheep 40,000, lower. Kansas hogs [illegible], [illegible] strong. Omaha not in yet.

THE BERLIN CONFERENCE

Some Very Important Questions Under Discussion

Berlin, Ont., Oct. 5.—The General Conference of the Evangelical Association, which is in session in this town during the next three weeks, has a multitude of important interests committed to its care and management.

The conference must elect bishops, publishers, editors, and secretary-treasurers of the Missionary Society, boards of publication, church extension, and various other officers of the different institutions of the association. Several amendments to the discipline will be discussed, and the conference will express itself on the temperance issue, Lord's Day observance and the marriage and divorce questions.

The bishops' message entered its protest against introducing "certain modern methods practised so extensively nowadays in many so-called evangelistic efforts where thoroughness seems to be lost sight of, and which results in a superficial experience and an indifferent Christian life."

The tendency of the times towards liberality towards indulgence in all manner of popular sinful amusements was also strongly denounced.

AN OPPORTUNITY

C. C. Pugh, postmaster at Adel, Dallas county, Iowa, and Dr. W. J. Williams, surgeon for the Milwaukee railroad at that place, are very successful mining men. They understand the western country and know the mines and their possibilities. They are selling Williams Fork Stock at 1[illegible] cents a share. This stock went off the market about July 1 this year and there is none to be had at the company at any price. They guarantee this stock to be gilt edge $10,000 worth of ore on the dump now. If you want 1,000 shares of this stock send draft for $1[illegible]0 to Adel State Bank, Adel, Iowa, and they will send you your certificate for same. If you want 500 shares send draft for $50 to said bank. Pugh and Williams do their business through this large bank, hence you are safe in sending money to them. Dividends will come soon from this property and it will then go to $1.00 per share. It is in Colorado and officials of that state write that it is a magnificent property. If you knew this property and the people back of it you would want this stock. For reference write Hon. Geo. W. Clarke, Adel, Iowa, member of the Legislature. He will tell you as to our reliability. If you buy 1,000 shares of this stock we send you a guarantee and you will also thank us for calling your attention to it. An honest proposition. Write immediately with draft as this stock will be offered but a few days at 10 cents. Last shipment of ore went over $120 to the ton.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

BRONCHITIS

Catarrhozone cures Bronchitis of three years' standing after four Doctors Failed

A Remarkable Case

"I feel it my duty," writes Mrs. Boyd, of Lawrenceville, N.B., "to let you know that I have been cured of bronchitis of three years' standing by Catarrhozone.

"With the least change in temperature or exposure to inclement weather, I was attacked with bronchial discomfort, wheezing in the chest, hoarseness, sore throat, partial loss of voice and stuffiness of the head. I consulted four doctors and was treated by them all without any benefit.

"Catarrhozone was strongly recommended to me by several persons whom it had benefited, and I was induced to give it a good trial."

"It quickly relieved my difficult breathing, so I got the complete outfit, hard rubber inhaler, etc., and I began systematically the Catarrhozone treatment.

"In a few days the huskiness and hoarseness disappeared, and my voice became stronger. The running of the nose, and 'stuffiness of the head,' feverishness, difficult breathing, were all done away with before I had been using Catarrhozone very long.

"About six weeks' treatment was sufficient to do more for me than four doctors failed to do in three years' time. It cured me and I don't believe there is another such a remedy on earth. Its action is speedy, pleasant, and permanent."

Catarrhozone is a new, scientific treatment, and is guaranteed to cure Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Cold, etc., or money refunded. It contains nothing injurious and can be used by the infant as well as by the adult.

It is both a local and a constitutional remedy. The inhaler supplies abundance of medicated air, which spreads through all the air passages, killing germ life, and healing sore spots as it goes.

The impurities in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone tablets which strengthen and build up the system to such a healthy condition that disease simply can't exist.

Catarrhozone is recommended by doctors and druggists for all respiratory diseases. It relieves quickly and cures permanently. Complete outfit costs $1.00; trial size 25c. At Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy Catarrhozone to-day.

Our New Story "Rose of the King" to Start This Week

We call the attention of the readers of The Times to the splendid new story, entitled "Rose of the King," the opening chapters of which will appear in these columns in a day or two.

The story is one that we can recommend, and will be found intensely interesting.

OPERATIONS AT BUCKLEYS LAKE

Mr. Ed. Wade is Superintending the Drainage Works

Mr. Ed. Wade, who has had charge of the operations at No. 3 dam for the Lakefield Cement Company, is engaged in superintending the work of draining Buckley's Lake. A number of men and teams are employed, which force will be largely increased as rapidly as possible.

To The Times Mr. Wade said that it would take a year or more to complete the job. There was a cutting of about 2 1-2 miles to be made. Besides, it is possible that machinery may have to be used in excavating the marsh, as the bottom was soft.

It is expected that four thousand acres of land will be reclaimed.

A DISTRESSING ACCIDENT

A Little Three Year Old Girl Terribly Burned

A distressing accident occurred yesterday morning at 9.30 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Geo. L. Armour, 31 Lanton street, when his little three-year-old daughter was painfully burned. It appears that the child in some way obtained matches, while playing in an upper room of the house, and started a fire. Her screams quickly brought assistance, but not before the little one was severely burned about the head face, arms and body. Dr. Brown was summoned and did everything possible to relieve the terrible agony of the little sufferer.

Although in a critical condition, it is hoped that she will recover. Much sympathy is felt for the little child and her parents.

Galt's Plan to Provide Houses for Labouring People

Peterborough is not the only place where a house famine exists. The town of Galt has had difficulty in providing houses for the laboring classes, and the matter had finally to be taken up by the Board of Trade, who appointed a committee to confer with a representative of Kingsmill & Co., barristers, Toronto, who have undertaken the work.

Like Peterborough there has been for a long time past an urgent need in Galt for houses for workingmen that would be fitted up in modern sanitary style and capable of being rented at a reasonable figure. By the scheme presented there will be a series of such houses erected, each surrounded with a small plot of ground, that will rent at $7, $10 and $14 per month. It has been asserted by prominent manufacturers that if such houses could be rented without delay. Men have been compelled to leave their employment because they could not get houses to live in. Practically similar conditions of affairs exists in Peterborough. Our Board of Trade might follow the example of Galt.

ANNUAL RIFLE MATCHES

Will Take Place To-Day at the Rifle Ranges

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Rifle Association will be held at Curtis Ranges today, beginning at 8.30 a.m. These matches are open to all the world and are governed by D. R. A. Rules. The "Bankers Challenge Cup" (1898) is to be held by the winner, who must be a resident of the county for one year and becomes his property on winning it twice in succession on three times, twice of which must be in succession. The same rule applies to the Stratton Cup (1902.)

Ranges in the "Bankers" match are at 200 and 500 yards, seven rounds at each range. Eighteen cash prizes ranging from $1 to $7 making a total of 50 dollars. The first prize includes the "Bankers Cup" and six prizes of $1 each for tyros.

The ranges in the "Cox" match are at 400 and 600 yards, seven rounds at each range. Eighteen cash prizes are offered running from $7 to $1 a total of $50, with six prizes of $1 each for tyros. The final prize includes the "Cox Cup."

Awards in the Stratton Match are to be made to the highest aggregate scores in the "Bankers" and "Cox" matches. The seven cash prizes range from $5 to $1 and the first includes the Stratton Cup. There are two prizes of $1 each for tyros.

There is another extra series at 500 yards, all day, five rounds, unlimited entries, position any, any opensighted rifle. Two highest scores to count. Open to all. Ten cash prizes ranging from $4 to $1, making a total of 20 dollars.

Lunch may be obtained at the ranges.

Peterborough Talent Abroad

Oshawa Reformer: The Ladies' Aid Association of the Baptist church held a very successful social evening at the home of Mrs. Wm. King, King street west, on Friday evening, September 25. About a hundred persons assembled and indulged to full enjoyment in the merriment of social convention. Miss Ross delighted everybody by her splendid reading, and Mr. G. K. Martin, of Peterborough, who sang "The Light of the World," in a rich baritone voice, was pronounced a singer of no mean order. A number, by members of the choir, concluded the programme. The proceeds netted a substantial sum.

BREAK THE FAST

The Morning Meal Should Not be Missed

After a night's fast the stomach should have some food for breakfast to sustain mind and body during the morning. It should not be a heavy meal but wise selection will pay immensely.

A young Los Angeles woman says "For years until I used Grape-Nuts I have never been able to eat breakfast, for eating in the morning was always followed by terrific sick headaches and my stomach has always been delicate.

"Some time ago a friend urged me to try Grape-Nuts food and I began eating it every morning. As a result of its steady use I have gained 11 pounds and the headaches have disappeared entirely and my weak stomach has become normal and strong. All my food digests and I now perform my daily duties with a renewed cheerfulness and energy. Evidently I had been eating the wrong food but Grape-Nuts soon put me right." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek Mich.

THE TOWN COUNCIL

Ald. Best and Cinkscale voted for the amendment and Ald. Corkery, Batten, O'Connell, Rush, Morrison and Edgcumbe and the Mayor voted against it. Ald. McWilliams was in the chair, Council being in committee of the Whole.

The By-law then passed its second and third readings.

EXEMPTION FOR RY. CO.

A by-law to exempt the Peterborough Radial Railway Co. from municipal taxation for a period of 21 years from January 1st, 1904, passed its several readings.

EXTEND THE TOWN LIMITS.

Ald. Cinkscale submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That a copy of the petition asking that part of the Township of Smith be annexed to the town be sent to the Council of that township, with a request to be informed if that council will consent to the annexation being made, and if it does consent that the Town Council take steps, before July 15th of next year to have the limits of the town extended, as it is too late to have it done this year.

2. We recommend that the Mayor Ald. Finnie, Rush and Batten be a committee to consider the subject of a hospital or hospitals for the treatment of contagious diseases.

3. We recommend that the Treasurer be authorized to pay for gravel being delivered on the certificate of the Chairman of the Board of Works and the Street Commissioner.

The report was adopted as read.

FIXED ASSESSMENT.

Ald. Rush submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Manufactures and Railways Committee beg leave to report and recommend that the Colonial Weaving Co. be given a fixed assessment of $4,000 for ten years on the terms of their letter of August 28th, 1903, and that a by-law for this purpose be prepared, the company to pay the expense of securing legislation to confirm the by-law unless the town of its own account applies for legislation by a special act for some other purpose.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted as read.

The remainder of the evening's proceedings will be published to-morrow.

An Excellent Program of Delightful Numbers Given by This Talented Young Artiste.

Miss Helen Davies, Peterborough's talented young musician and vocalist, made her first professional appearance in town last evening in the lecture hall of the Y.M.C.A. As the possessor of a charming soprano voice, Miss Davies is well known to Peterborough audiences. Her performance last evening sustained her previous reputation, and she was given a very fervent greeting. Those who were fortunate enough to be present received a musical treat which will ever be remembered. The lecture hall was crowded to the doors with an attentive and enthusiastic audience. The different piano solos given by Miss Davies excelled in faultless execution and she displayed marked talent, splendid technique and conscientious interpretation. In the vocal solos the beauty of tone and clear resonant qualities of the singer's voice were heard to great advantage.

At the conclusion of the programme Rev. J. C. Davidson in a few well chosen talented daughter on the excellence of the entertainment given, to which Mr. Davies made a feeling reply.

An elegant upright piano of delightful tone was kindly furnished for the occasion by Messrs. Heintzman & Co.

Fell Forty Feet

Mr. Edward Chambers, of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co., met with a severe accident yesterday morning, which nearly cost him his life. He was at work at the new dam which the Cereal Company are building. It appears that Chambers caught the hook of the derrick and was swung out into space with the derrick. His signal to the engineer to lower was not observed, and the man was left hanging with his hands onto a hook some 45 feet in the air. The man clung on until his strength failed, when he unloosed his grip and fell 40 feet on some stones on the ground beneath, in his fall narrowly missing the concrete wall of the power house. Chambers' left ankle was broken and his left leg badly scraped, otherwise his injuries were of an unimportant nature. Dr. Scott was summoned and the injured man was taken in the ambulance to his home, 45 Patterson st. He is aged 27 years, is married and has three children.

NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH

When Sandow poses and the muscles ridge his back and knot his arms, we think we have before us the very secret of strength in those magnificent muscles. But we haven't. Starve Sandow, or, what is practically the same thing, let him be dyspeptic, and his muscle would soon fail. Strength is made from food properly digested and assimilated, and no man is stronger than his stomach, because when the stomach is diseased digestion and assimilation are imperfect.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food so that the body is nourished into perfect health and strength.

"I had what my physician called indigestion. He gave me medicine for the trouble but it did me no good," writes Mr. W. H. Wells, of Wilfred, N. C. "I wrote to Dr. Pierce and stated my case. He sent me a descriptive list and hygienic rules. I carried out these as best I could, bought six bottles of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and commenced taking it. A few days later I noticed a great change. Felt like a new man. Before I began the use of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I suffered greatly with pain in stomach, my nerves seemed all 'run-down,' I was very thin in flesh, but now can eat heartily and sleep good at night."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

EMPLOYERS HAVE THROWN DOWN THE GAUNTLET TO THE LABOUR UNIONS.

And War to the Knife Has Now Been Declared Between Capital and Labor.

A Union of All Employers in U. S. Being Formed

Chicago, Oct. 7—Organization of a national employers' association, whose members will be bound to the "open shop" principle and united against the exactions of labor unions, was projected last night at a conference held at the Auditorium Annex.

Representatives of thirteen organizations of employers were present and pledged themselves to the movement to form a central organization which shall be to the employers what the American Federation of Labor is to the unions. D. M. Parry, president of the National Manufacturers' Association; Frederick M. Job, secretary of the Employers' Association of Chicago, and E. F. Du Brul of the National Metal Trades' Association, were among the most prominent of those present. Employers' organizations in Cincinnati, Dayton, Kansas City, Denver, Akron, New York city, Sedalia, Mo., and Marshalltown, Iowa, were represented.

In addition to pledging themselves to war against the exactions of the unions the conference also declared that they opposed the interference of the National Civic Federation in labor affairs. The federation was denounced as an organization of politicians which served "no useful purpose."

"The National Civic Federation's existence constitutes the only cloud on the labor horizon to-day," was the expression used by Secretary Job in denouncing the organization which Senator Hanna is credited with controlling.

MASS CONVENTION NEXT.

While the meeting of the Annex was merely preliminary, plans for the new organization were outlined. These plans are tentative, however, and must be approved at a convention of employers which is to be held in Chicago early in November or in the latter part of October.

A call for this convention is issued by a committee consisting of Frederick W. Job of Chicago, A. C. Marshall of Dayton, O., and E. G. Hornbrook of Kansas City.

Delegates from 400 to 500 employers' associations in every part of the country will attend the convention. They will represent nearly 100,000 employers and billions of capital. Even the larger corporations which do not belong to the employers' association will be represented, it was declared.

According to the statement issued by those present at the conference the object of the new association is to "protect and promote the interests of the employers and the independent workmen of the country by legitimate means."

STAND BY "OPEN SHOP."

It was explained that the employers who are promoting the national organization intend to insist on the enforcement of the "open shop" principle throughout the country. There will be no discrimination against union men, but the employers will insist on their right to employ non-union men in the same shops with union men.

For the purpose of protecting association employers who become involved in difficulties with labor unions it is proposed to create a "defence fund." Upward of $5,500,000 already has been pledged to this fund.

In addition to utilizingt his fund in protecting manufacturers, it is intended to carry on a thorough campaign of "education and organization." Paid organizers will be sent into all parts of the country to induce employers in the various cities to join the new association. The first work of organization will be done among the employers of Joliet, Ill., who appealed for assistance to organize yesterday. Through the newspapers and other publications the association will carry on its educational work.

CANADA TO BE INCLUDED.

It is proposed to include Canada in the operations of the colossal association. The present Employers' Association, as well as the Manufacturers' Association, will be affiliated. That war to the knife has been declared against labor unions there is no longer any doubt.

COLONIES TO SUPPLY FOOD AND WORK

The Times Has Faith in Economic Unity of Empire

GERMAN TRADE HARD HIT

The Canadian Surtax is Likely to Kill Certain Lines of Business

London, Oct. 7.—The Times says: "The Colonies are capable of supplying nearly all our requirements and they are also capable of keeping our factories in full and steady work. Our system of unrestricted imports was the policy of the Little Englander, who regarded the colonies as encumbrances; we have come to regard them as the brightest jewels in the crown of the Empire, and we plainly owe it to them as well as to ourselves to mark and accentuate a relationship which both sides may well be proud to claim."

The Standard says that so far as appearances go the colonies are quite as anxious, nor should we blame them, for it, to develop their industries, as our foreign rivals.

FAVORS PREFERENCE.

Professor Ashley, formerly of Toronto University has come out with a book presenting a strong case for preferential tariffs within the Empire. He does not believe in the gratitude of the colonies to the Mother Country but is eager to develop commercial chances. He says that if the colonies do not enter some scheme with Great Britain they will ultimately range themselves against her.

REFUSAL DANGEROUS.

Alfred Baldwin, M.P., speaking at West Worcester Conservative Association said if England refused the proposals of the colonial premiers for retaliatory and preferential tariffs it would lose the colonies who might adopt preferential treaties with foreign countries.

THE GRAIN SUPPLY.

Hon. T. Brassey, speaking in Liverpool on his arrival from Winnipeg, where he went to view Canada's wheat growing resources, said: "I am convinced the territory is capable of producing all the wheat the Empire needs for generations to come. Mr. Chamberlain has taken the right course by resigning."

GERMANY FEELS THE LOSS.

The Chamber of Commerce of Chemnitz, Germany, reports the increase in import duties into Canada has hit the Saxon textile industry very hard especially cotton woven gloves and stockings, which were largely exported from Saxony to Canada. The additional increase of 33 1-3 per cent. will completely prevent the continuation of the Saxon export to Canada. The toy industry is also seriously affected, and the whole of this export trade to Canada will be lost if the increase of 33 1-3 per cent. duty becomes permanent. The German Chamber of Commerce urges a friendly arrangement with Canada on a basis of mutual concessions. It points out the serious consequences of a customs war with Canada, as it would endanger German commercial relations with England and German industries could not stand the consequences of a customs war with England.

The German press continues to urge all manner of objections to the adoption of a Protectionist tariff by England.

THEY SAW KENNEDY NEAR THE WILLOWS

Prisoner will Make a Statement Thursday

CLOTHES WET.

One Witness Saw Him Kneeling, "I Must Have Been Praying," said Accused

Brantford, Oct. 6. — To-night, after Coroner Fissette's investigation into the brutal murder of Irene Cole at the Willows on Wednesday last, Jos. Kennedy, the prisoner, stated that he would make a statement at the preliminary investigation at the Police Court on Thursday. He will not tell whence he comes, in order that his relatives may not hear of his trouble.

The evidence was principally a continuation of the testimony tracing Kennedy's movements on the day of the murder. He was seen at noon and about 4 o'clock near the Willows, and later at a hotel. The testimony did not tell on the accused, who is bearing up wonderfully. Over five hundred people clamored for admission. Kennedy, as a precaution, was brought up from the jail, before 7 o'clock, long before the crowd had gathered. A large number saw him taken back to jail. The inquest was again adjourned till Wednesday night, when it is expected Prof. Ellis' report on the examination of the clothing worn by Kennedy on the day of the murder, will have been received.

Seen Near the Willows.

George Teakle, an employe of the Waterous Engine Works, saw Kennedy last Wednesday when he was crossing the T. H. and B. tracks on Newport avenue. This street is within a short distance of the Willows. John Cameron, of Eagle Avenue, another employe of the Waterous Works, also saw Kennedy last Wednesday at noon, when the latter was going towards the Willows.

"That's the man I saw going along the dyke towards Cole's house last Wednesday," asserted Mrs. Paul Potter, "he was looking in the direction of the children, who were playing in the yard."

Mrs. Potter's children, at the last sitting of the inquest positively asserted that Kennedy had motioned to some one in Mrs. Cole's yard.

Emmerson Berry, one of the workmen at the Massey-Harris establishment, was engaged in hauling lumber, for a point close to the Willows on Wednesday last, when he saw Kennedy pass. This was between 2 and 3 o'clock. "Kennedy seemed to be pretty steady on his feet," added Berry before stepping down.

Saw Him Kneeling.

Robert Walsh, a civic employe, fixed the time at which he met Kennedy near the Willows on Wednesday by the number of loads of gravel he had moved. It was probably 2.30 o'clock. Kennedy was in a kneeling position, and seemed to be filling his pipe.

"I must have been praying," broke in Kennedy.

"Pretty hot day," Walsh said, as he passed. "Yes, it is," replied Kennedy. There was nothing unusual in Kennedy's manner. The spot where Kennedy was kneeling is about 300 yards from the point where Irene Cole's body was found.

Wm. Stewart recognized Kennedy as the man who was hurrying away from the direction of the Willows on Wednesday afternoon. "I noticed his red face," exclaimed Stewart. "His pants were wet, and he seemed to be very much worried. He turned a corner. He had his hands in front of him, and he daren't deny it," asserted Stewart.

"Are you sure it was water on his pants?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"Any sensible man knows water," curtly replied Stewart.

Kennedy then stood up and said: "What distance were you off when I passed you?"

"Just a half-dozen yards," replied Stewart.

"Let us understand exactly the position of both of us on that day," added Kennedy.

Stewart went over his evidence on that part again, and Kennedy sat down.

"He can't deny it," explained the witness, as he took his seat.

John Hartman, proprietor of the Butler House, explained to the jury that Kennedy came into his hotel on Wednesday just a little after 4 o'clock and remained for about an hour. "I did not notice anything peculiar about his clothing that day," said Hartman.

O. Gladiator, a teamster, met Kennedy near the Butler House on Wednesday about 5 o'clock. Gladiator works at Hunt and Colster's stable, where Kennedy was arrested.

WOMEN TEACHERS

Women Now Invading Domain of Men in Schools

According to the figures of attendance at the Ontario Normal College, women teachers are becoming decidedly more numerous in the secondary schools of the Province, and there is danger of these schools becoming "emasculated," as the public schools have already become through the great preponderance of female teachers, as compared with male. This year there are 39 men registered at the Normal College, and 85 women. Until lately the men have always been in a large majority at the college, but of late, owing to the big demand for capable men in industrial pursuits and the higher salaries paid fewer college graduates and holders of senior leaving certificates have been going into the comparatively low salaried teaching profession. The number of women taking university courses, and subsequently, qualifying for teaching in high schools or collegiates, has, on the other hand, has been steadily increasing.

One of the most serious defects which critics of our national system now point out is this tendency towards emasculation as regards the personnel of teachers in the public schools of the Province. There are a large number of public schools where pupils in the character-forming period of their lives never come under the influence of a man teacher at all. Now indications point to the accentuation of this defect by the ousting of men teachers from the secondary schools as well. The Education Department regards the present tendency with considerable alarm.

—An inquiring bachelor friend dropped in to ask, "What's a military opening anyhow?" and before the g. f. j. could frame an appropriate answer a smart young married man on the staff butted in as follows: "Why, it's that unseemly gash in your income which extends from the top of your wife's head to the bottom of your pocketbook."

IS IT A DROWNING ACCIDENT?

A Canoe Found Afloat in Sturgeon Lake Sunday

Lindsay Post: On Sunday Mr. Cottingham, of Lindsay, was cruising in his steam yacht Mizpah, when he noticed a light green canoe afloat among a tangle of bushes on the west shore of Sturgeon Lake, about opposite Blythe, though making enquiries about the lake no clue as to its ownership could be established. The canoe is an ordinary ribbed 16 foot, is painted a light green and had small transfers of crossed flags at the bow. When found it was full of water but right side up and had nothing in it, paddles and even the floor boards gone. A small mast such as would be used with a "leg of mutton" sail was still standing in the bow. Not obtaining any information as to ownership the Mizpah towed the canoe on to Lindsay. This may be the first indication of a tragedy or drowning or it may simply be that this canoe got adrift from its owner but the fact of the mast still in its socket would rather point to some accident for it is seldom that a canoe is put away in a boathouse or even left on shore with the mast in situ.

ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL

The Matter of Union with Peterborough Comes Up

The Ashburnham Village Council met Monday night; all the members present.

A letter was read from Mayor Roger, regarding annexation. A lengthy discussion followed, ending, however, in the letter being laid over until next meeting.

A petition was received from the Hydraulic Power Co. re water privileges on the Otonabee River. No action was taken in the matter.

It was moved by Mr. Scott and seconded by Mr. Faint, that the following accounts be paid:

Peterborough, fire protection...	$92 50
Times Printing Co......	25 00
J. T. Craig, watering cart	5 00
Gas account, for July	60
Pay Sheet No. 10......	24 35
Pay Sheet No. 11......	21 00
Pay Sheet No. 12......	25 75
Wm. Fitzgerald	15 00
D. Conroy, charity wood	9 75
Total......	$200 65

It was moved by Mr. Gibbs and seconded by Mr. Hourrigan that the application of the Otonabee Power Co. for an extension of poles on Stewart street, south, be granted when the contract between the company and the municipality has been signed.

The treasurer presented the following statement of receipts and expenditures:

	Aug.	Sept.
Receipts	$ 104 96	$ 463 71
Expenditures	581 31	121 00

The council then adjourned.

MR. BONDFIELD AT ST. PAULS

Very Interesting and Instructive Address Delivered

The public meeting held last night in St. Paul's church was fairly well attended, when the Rev. G. H. Bondfield, spoke in the interests of the British and Foreign Bible Society. Mr. Bondfield is one of the delegates sent out by the Home Committee to personally thank contributors to this most worthy cause.

Sheriff J. A. Hall, President of the Peterborough Bible Society, occupied the chair.

After the formal opening with prayer, Mr. Bondfield said: "In view of the fact that next year is the hundredth birthday of the British and Foreign Bible Society, the management thought it proper to send a deputation to the principal parts of the British Empire to review the work being done and to extend the cordial thanks of the Home Society for the bounteous contributions and help given the cause during the past century. About a century ago there were only 40 or 50 different versions of the Bible in use and 15 of them had almost gone out of use altogether, so that things were very dark and gloomy for the patient teachers of God's word but now the English Bible may be read in almost any known language, and appeals to the heathen in his own tongue in his far and practically unexplored country.

"None of you people dreamed 20 or 25 years ago that your great Western Territories would blossom forth as they have at present and yield such harvests as they have year by year, amazing alike the settler and the experts sent out by your government, but with this increased extent of Territory came increased wants in the way of Scriptural literature. The Upper Canada Bible Society last year found it necessary to translate the Bible into 21 new languages to supply the wants of the increased extension of civilization.

"In 1828 when the first translation of the Scriptures was made, several missionaries were sent to Siberia by the Russian Government and after many trials and dangers succeeded in reaching the more remote parts of the country, but shortly afterwards were recalled, owing to political difficulties. Many will be surprised to hear how much the Russians appreciate this noble work; last year, while travelling over the Siberian Railway, by kind permission of the manager of one division, we had from 60 to 100 tons of Scriptural literature transported from St. Petersburg and Moscow to the far western part of the country—over 6,000 miles—free of charge, and also were permitted to view the great Russian prison in Siberia, where we found the Bible taught and many of the prisoners glad to welcome us and receive copies of your Scriptural work. We also found great pleasure in distributing the work among a train load of exiles who were on their way to the far north to spend their lives away from their kindred; they seemed particularly delighted to get our works to take to their desolate homes. Stations on the Siberian railway are all supplied with Scriptural matter, which is much used by the peasants of that country.

"There are now 147 different languages in the Indian Empire and only 46 of these have been made use of through the translation of the Bible. There are therefore, 101 different languages to which the Bible is unknown, while 81 languages of the South Sea islanders are in darkness to the Divine teaching.

"In Canada last year 15 new languages were used by the Society for the first time even the Esquimax on our North shore not knowing a word of God's Book, which seems incredible, nevertheless it is still true. Hundreds of the translations are still incomplete and are keeping back the work of the noble missionaries who are using them. Every new worker sent out by the Society still needs help, even more so than in the past. It is unreasonable to increase the number of workers without increasing the means of doing the work in the way of Bibles, Testaments and Scriptural literature. It is our privilege to help forward this noble work in many different ways, and bring the benighted heathen to a knowledge of the Great Redeemer who gave his life for the salvation of all mankind."

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Bondfield for his excellent address.

LORD PRESIDENT OF COUNCIL RESIGNED BUT NEW MINISTERS ADDED TO CABINET

AMERICANS HAVE CONVENIENT EYE.

The United States is Arguing the Reverse to Their Behring Contention.

HAVE TURNED SOMERSAULT

Judge Dickenson Says Alaskan Tribunal Should Define Mean- of Words.

London, Oct. 6—The Alaska Boundary Tribunal this morning again listened to a discussion of the meaning of the words used in the treaty. Judge John M. Dickenson continued his argument for the United States, dwelling for a considerable time on the meaning of the word "coast," as used by the negotiators of the treaty.

Dickenson addressed himself to the fourth question, and argued that the line should be drawn from the head of Portland Canal, along the valley, continuing in the general direction of the canal until the 56th parallel is reached.

Senator Turner —"You have an absence of direction at both ends of Portland Canal; why not apply one rule in both cases, connecting by the shortest possible line the south point of Prince of Wales Island with the mouth and the head with the point where the 56th parallel intersects the mountains parallel to the coast?"

Judge Dickenson demurred to this solution. Analyzing the questions five and six, he attempted to show that they assumed much of what the United States contends for, referring to the ownership of the heads of the inlets.

President Alverstone,—"Do you mean that this treaty of reference prejudges these questions in your favor?"

Useless Discussion.

Judge Dickenson said he was trying to get at the meaning of the questions submitted to the tribunal. He declared it was the duty of the tribunal to define the meaning and applications of the words, 'coast,' 'ocean,' and 'sinuosities,' and the like. Otherwise there was no use in being here. He discussed article seven of the treaty of 1825, and said that Russia knew that England claimed the territories lying south of 54 degrees, 40 minutes, as well as the United States, but did not know which had the better claim, so she took reciprocal privileges there from both to make sure. This affords a simple explanation of article seven. He argued that the term "north-west coast of America" meant the whole coast.

The British contention limits it to the lisière. In the Behring Sea arbitration these positions were reversed; the United States then argued that the phrases meant only the lisiere, in fact their whole case depended on that interpretation, which they now deny. Judge Dickenson took up and dismissed what he termed the crucial question of the meaning of the word "coast" and argued that all the negotiators of the treaty of 1825, Canning, Bagot, Pelly, and the Russians, everybody considered it to mean the whole coast, not a coast composed partly of land and partly of a line drawn across the water. Their use of the expression, "sinuosities of coast" he said, put this beyond doubt.

The tribunal adjourned at 10 o'clock to attend the memorial service of the late Sir Michael Herbert.

The King Has Accepted His Resignation, Lord Lansdowne Will Now Lead.

Resigned Because of Balfour's Sheffield Speech.

London, Oct. 6— The three weeks' cabinet crisis has ended in a manner more remarkable and dramatic than that of its inception. The most sanguine supporters of the government to-night express the smallest hopes of such an administration living many months, and the prevalent idea is that there will be a general election before Parliament reassembles. The withdrawal of the Duke of Devonshire is a heavy blow. Mr. Balfour's extraordinary letter, reproaching the Duke of Devonshire with breach of faith, is the theme of universal surprise and comment in all quarters.

Lansdowne Will Lead.

One consequence of the Duke of Devonshire's retirement is extremely unfortunate for the government. It will bring the leadership of the House of Lords to Lord Lansdowne. No successor has yet been appointed to the Duke of Devonshire and several minor government offices still remain vacant. Of the new appointments announced tonight, the most surprising is that of the Hon. Alfred Lyttelton as Secretary for the Colonies. Mr. Lyttleton is a man of acknowledged ability and a good speaker, but he has had no ministerial experience whatever. He is better known to the colonies as a cricketer than as a politician.

WHY HE RESIGNED.

London, Oct. 6—The Duke of Devonshire, who was the leader of the Conservative party in the House of Lords, has resigned the office of Lord President and the King has accepted his resignation.

The Duke of Devonshire write to Mr. Balfour giving his reasons for his resignation, which he attributed, among other things, to the Premier's speech at Sheffield and his pamphlet on insular free trade.

The Duke of Devonshire has not yet made his letter public, but a letter of acknowledgement from Mr. Balfour, dated Oct. 4, and published tonight, says:

Intended to Remain.

"It was on Sept. 16 that you informed me of your resolve to remain in the government. This decision was preceded by much confidential correspondence, much intimate conversation. There was no phase of policy which I was not prepared to discuss, and which I did not, in fact, discuss with perfect frankness. The decision arrived at, I had a right to consider final."

Accordingly I consulted you on the best mode of filling the vacancies in the government, of which you are the most distinguished member. You were good enough to express some weighty judgments on the delicate matters submitted to you. You even initiated proposals of your own, which I gladly accepted. Our last communication on these subjects was in the letter I dictated during my journey to Sheffield on Thursday afternoon.

"Less than 48 hours, thereafter I received in Edinburgh the telegram which first announced your intention to resign, and your desire to see the process of resignation consummated without delay and without discussion. The principal occasion for this singular transformation was, you tell me, my Sheffield speech. This is strange, indeed. In intention, at least, there was no doctrine contained in that speech which was not contained in my note on insular free trade, and in my published letter to Mr. Chamberlain.

"With both, you were intimately acquainted during the whole fortnight, in which you lent your countenance to the government after the recent resignations. I must suppose, therefore that it is some unintentional discrepancy between the written and spoken words which now drives you to desert the administration you so long adorned. But till 1 o'clock this afternoon I had, I confess, counted you not as an opponent, but as a colleague. To such a one it would have seemed natural, so I should have thought, to take in case of apparent discrepancy the written rather than the spoken, words, or, if this is asking too much, at least to make enquiry before arriving at a final hostile conclusion.

Complains of Procedure.

"But what and where is this discrepancy? I do not believe that it exists. Am I not right in complaining of your procedure in reference to my Sheffield speech. You fear that it would aggravate the party division. If there is anything certain, it is that the declaration of policy then made, produced, and is destined to produce, greater harmony in the party than has prevailed since the fiscal question first came to the front six months ago. Had you resigned on the 15th or had you not resigned at all, this healing effect would have suffered no interruption. To resign now and to resign on the speech is to take the course most calculated to make harder the hard task of the peacemaker.

"Again, do you not feel some special regret at having, at this particular juncture, to sever your connection with a Unionist administration? At the moment of its most buoyant prosperity your absence from its councils would have been sensibly felt, but you have, in fact, left it when in the opinion of your opponents its fortunes are at the lowest, and its perplexities at the greatest? I see no difficulty in carrying out the policy, which, for a fortnight you were willing to accept, by the aid of an administration which for a fortnight you helped to construct."

LIKELY SOLUTION OF THE BALKAN DIFFICULTIES

The Organization of A Council of Foreign Consuls Likely to Meet Approval

Vienna, Oct. 7.—Despatches from Sofia would represent the leaders of the Macedonian agitation as hopeful that the powers are finally about to enter on a scheme for the control of European Turkey that will insure a decent government and meet the irreducible demands of the insurgents. However, it is stated that important measures of relief cannot be expected immediately. Meanwhile the insurgents are vigorously prosecuting their campaign. Observers in this city reserve their opinion as to the probable effect of the new Russo-Austrian scheme until they learn what measure of foreign control it is ing to defeat them.

proposed to introduce. They believe that if that control should stop short of practical exclusion of Turkey from the management of local affairs in Macedonia the crisis will simply continue to move forward to a decisive climax. Great Britain's vigorous initiative is credited with whatever added virtue may be found in the plans Russia and Austria now intend to put to the test. A diplomatist of the Czar's suit assures the press that the revised programme of reforms will prove unequal to pacify the war ridden vilayets and that the Sultan will never contemplate the folly of try-

LYTTELTON FOR COLONIES SURPRISING

Appointment Received With Surprise

RISING BARISTER

Of No Administrative Experience, a Stroke of Fantastic Irony

London, Oct. 6.—The Standard says: "The appointment of Alfred Lyttleton to the great imperial secretaryship will be received with blank amazement. To pass from Chamberlain to Lyttleton seems like a stroke of fantastic irony. Why this rising barrister of no administrative experience, and no commanding position either in the parliament or in the law courts should be suddenly selected for one of the greatest offices in the empire we have not the faintest idea."

The Morning Post says: "Alfred Lyttleton is in full sympathy with the colonial policy of Chamberlain, who is too broad-minded to be a mere partisan, too sensible to hesitate to act vigorously with the party, so long as it is in accord with his main purpose." The Morning Post believes the country will adopt Chamberlain's policy, which the repeal of the corn duty and the German attempt to intimidate Canada forced him to undertake.

The News says: "We condole with Mr. Lyttleton. He is too genial and useful a man to deserve being made ridiculous, but he who dons grand robes may not complain if he excites laughter."

THE CITY FATHERS IN REGULAR SESSION

The Grand Stand Muddle to Go to Committee of the Whole

The Board of Works Report — Grant of $300 to West Peterborough Agricultural Society — Communications.

The Town Council met in regular session Monday night, when there were present Mayor G. M. Roger, and Aldermen Edgcumbe, Rush, Morrison, McWilliams, O'Connell, Clinkscale, Dalton, Corkery and Best.

In the absence of Town Clerk Armstrong, Town Treasurer Felix Brownscombe acted as clerk of the proceedings.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were confirmed as type written.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Otonabee Power Co., asking permission to erect a number of new poles for the conveyance of light and power.—Board of Works and Engineer to report.

From H. C. Brown, stating that he is building five houses on Lafayette Ave., and asking that a sidewalk be constructed thereon from Albert street to Chamberlain street.—Board of Works.

From Bishop O'Connor, asking for the construction of a granolithic walk in the vicinity of the cathedral, under the usual conditions.—Board of Works.

From G. R. McGregor and other bakers, asking the council to change the existing by-law regarding the weight of bread from two and four pounds to one and a half and three pounds per loaf, one reason for this being that a misunderstanding exists in the public mind as to the weight of local bread as compared with that shipped in. The bakers are allowed to make one and a half and three pound loaves but must ticket them and this entails extra expense.—Legal Committee.

From John Ryan and others, protesting against the action of the council respecting the building of a granolithic walk along the west side of Reid street, between King and Sherbrooke.—Board of Works.

From the Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Co., asking that some action be taken to improve the sidewalk in front of their mill; also that they have easy access to the keys for the hydrants in the vicinity, and a sufficient length of hose, to be prepared in case of emergency in event of fire.—Board of Works, and Fire, Water and Light Committee.

A request for overcoats for the police was referred to the Supervision Committee.

From Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr & Mcwatson plaintiff's solicitors in re Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., Limited, vs. Albert Minney, Margaret Finney, Fannie Matechke, Jas. Johnston, John Johnston, J. B. Graham, D. W. Dumble, T. M. E. Jeanes and Sarah A. Jeanes and Charlotte A. Sherwood, executors; John McGrath, Hannah Moore, W. A. Stratton, Angelique Gagnon, Jas. O'Connell, John Thomas O'Connell, Elizabeth O'Connell, Richard Hall and Chas. McGill, Trustees; Rebecca Croly, the Municipal Corporation of the Town of Peterborough, and the Municipal Corporation of the Village of Ashburnham, defendants, notifying that Judge Weller had appointed October 20th, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, at his Chambers for the purpose of considering the petition of the Hydraulic Company, and hearing objections thereto. The Hydraulic Company are petitioning for the right to raise the water of the Otonabee at what was known as the Dixon dam, now the Quaker Company's new dam, in order to use and improve the water privileges by raising the head of water in the existing pond, and extending the area of the said pond, for mechanical and manufacturing and milling purposes. This dam is on the property of the petitioners, and the channel of the river will thereby be deepened six feet, and will slightly encroach, save where the banks are perpendicular, upon certain lots and parts of lots, but in no case overflowing the banks. The prayer of the petitioners is that such proceedings may be had and taken under Chapter 141, of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897, as may seem just for the purpose of enabling them to improve their water privileges. And that an order may be made fixing the height to which the proposed dam may be built, the time within which same shall be built, the lands to be taken and used, and the compensation to be fixed therefor. That an order may be made fixing the area of the millpond to be created, and such further and other relief may seem just and equitable in the premises. — Legal Committee.

From the Secretary of the Railway Committee of the Privy Council, enclosing certified copy of the order approving of the C. P. R.'s construction of additional tracks over Townsend, Bethune, Rink, Stewart, Perry, Park, Chamberlain and Romaine streets, and boundary road.—Received.

From W. J. Pope, claiming as a resident of the town a refund of $20 on a pedlar's license fee of $30 which he had paid.—License Committee.

From George Milne and other ratepayers, petitioning for a pipe sewer on Sherbrooke street, from Aylmer street east, some eighty feet. — Board of Works and Engineer to report.

From R. R. Hall, stating that he was instructed by the Otonabee Power Co. to represent them before the council when the proposed by-law affecting the street lighting franchise is discussed. The company, he pointed out for the benefit of the aldermen who seemed to misunderstand, proposed to install a lamp of 2,000 candle power. The lamp inspected at Toronto Junction was only 1,200 candle power. The proposed lamps are the best made by the Canadian General Electric Company, but if the council considered them inferior, the Otonabee Power Company desired to have the opportunity of installing the most up-to-date 2,000 candle power lamp that is manufactured in any place in Canada, England or United States.—Received.

From W. H. Roberts, asking the council to put a price on that part of lot 11, north of Murray and west of George, which he understands the town intends disposing of.—Property Committee.

From Emma H. Campbell, calling attention to the condition of Edinburgh street just east of the railroad, and asking that some action be taken whereby water, especially at the time of the spring freshets, will be drained away from that locality. Improvements are also needed in street lighting and in sidewalks.—Board of Works.

ACCOUNTS.

A number of accounts were referred to the Finance Committee for certification thereto.

BOARD OF WORKS REPORT.

Ald Best submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works beg leave to report as follows:

1. We recommend that the Street Commissioner be authorized to lay a crossing at Mr. John Hayes new house on Bethune street.

2. We recommend that Mrs. A. M. Austin be given permission to cut down a poplar tree in front of her premises, No. [illegible] Water street, the stump to be taken out and the street properly cleaned off, the work to be done under the supervision of the Town Engineer.

4. We recommend that the engineer be instructed to put in a catch basin at the northwest corner of Charlotte and Bethune streets.

5. We recommend that the application of the Otonabee Power Co. to put in poles on the following parts of streets be granted, namely, Murray street, between Rubidge and Gilchrist streets, 5 poles; Park street, between Gilchrist and Elm streets, 4 poles; Downie street, between Murray and Brock streets, 4 poles and Brock street, between Downie and Donegal streets, 1 pole; the poles to be placed subject to the approval of the Town Engineer.

6. We recommend that the Street Commissioner be instructed to put McDonnell street in order, and repair Reid street, between the Hamilton Co.'s shops and McDonnell street.

7. That having examined the petitions for granolithic sidewalks as local improvements on the west side of George street from Smith street to Argyle street and on the east side of George street, from opposite No. 718 George street to the northerly limit of lot No. 21, plan 42, and found them sufficiently signed, we recommend that they be granted.

This report was adopted as read.

FINANCE REPORT.

Ald. Rush presented the report of the Finance Committee, recommending payment of a number of accounts, and also that the Mayor and the Chairman of this committee be authorized to issue the debentures for $1,000 to meet the deficiency in the sale of the original water works debentures in such denominations as they shall find to be most suitable and that they be authorized to sell the debentures.

The report was adopted as read.

GRAND STAND MUDDLE.

Ald. O'Connell gave notice of motion to amend by-law 612. He suggested that the matter be referred to the Legal Committee.

Ald McWilliams stated that it had already been referred to that committee and might better be referred now to a Committee of the Whole.

Ald. O'Connell subsequently agreed with Ald. McWilliams and the question was referred to a Committee of the Whole.

This is dealing with the grand stand on the T. A. S. grounds.

GRANT OF $300.

A by-law to grant $300 to the West Peterborough Agricultural Society passed its several readings.

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS.

A by-law to amend bylaw 1040 so as to permit of the construction of a sewer on Bethune street, from Smith to London street, passed its several readings.

BRAIN POWER

HOW IT MAY BE STRENGTHENED AND INCREASED

The brain is a great nerve battery that presides over all the powers and impulses of the human body.

Very frequently as a result of poor blood, it becomes enfeebled, and a general weakness of the entire system follows.

No remedy possesses the marvelous brain strengthening power that Ferrozone has demonstrated in thousands of cases.

It contains an abundance of phosphates and iron which are essential in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, and in this way supplies the brain with extra power to perform its numerous and important duties.

Ferrozone is the best preparation for brain workers, and those inclined to a sedentary life. It improves the appetite, insures good digestion, regulates the bowels, and helps the stomach to do its work.

Lawyers, ministers, and those whose occupation entails much thinking and brain labor, will find Ferrozone of immense value, because of its power to stimulate mental activity. Students who take Ferrozone regularly, find it not only clears the brain and makes it more receptive, but makes them strong in body as well as mind.

A medical student of Toronto University, who has proved the good qualities of Ferrozone says: "On my study table there is always a place for Ferrozone. I find by keeping my digestion in perfect order, and maintaining a splendid appetite, it enables me to accomplish a great deal of hard work. I consider Ferrozone at the same time food for the brain, the blood and the nerves and can highly recommend it."

Very few are so strong and healthy that a course of Ferrozone would not benefit. It is good for the young and old alike, and is prepared in convenient tablet form, price per box 50cts, sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co. Kingston, Ont.

HAVE YOU CHRONIC AILMENT?

Recognized as the oldest established and most reliable specialist.

In the course of his practice as specialist in the treatment of chronic ailments, Dr. Goldberg has evolved a system of his own, which is a positive cure. His method differs widely from the old fashioned system as taught in colleges, and yet is along the strictest scientific principles, with this exception, that where the old methods took months and sometimes years to bring about a cure, his latest method does it in a few weeks and cures are thorough, permanent and reliable. The curing of chronic diseases has been his specialty for years.

He will cure you quicker than any other specialist in the world. There are thousands in this broad land today who are healthy and happy, who once suffered as you perhaps now suffer, and who owe their present well-being to Dr. Goldberg's Latest Method Treatment. If you are sick it is only natural for you to want to be well. Before you decide definitely on the doctor to intrust your case call or write to Dr. Goldberg and find out all about his Latest Method of curing chronic diseases without pain and permanently. It will cost you nothing to learn the particulars and it will in no way put you under obligations to him.

If it is inconvenient for you to call in person write the doctor and he will explain his method to you just the same, free. Do not delay; promptness is certainty.

Each Time You Call You See Dr. Goldberg Personally or each time you write it receives his personal attention, and remember he is the only specialist who allows the patient to pay when cured. You need pay nothing until a complete cure has been made.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

CHAPTER I.

A stormy night in March. During the day the snow had been falling heavily; it was whirled along now by the bleak gusts of wind that swept through the narrow streets, for the streets were very narrow in this quarter of the town where Mrs. Errol had taken up her abode.

She rented two small furnished rooms in a dingy-looking house known as Lilac Villa.

Doubtless the solitary bush in the front garden had given rise to this distinction, although, on gazing out of the window during the early part of the day, Mrs. Errol had thought the barren patch of earth, with those few straggling branches, painfully suggestive of a graveyard.

Meagre as were her surroundings, she was glad enough to have found this refuge.

As the night advanced, she drew the curtains over the window to keep out the draught; and after stirring the fire into a cheerful blaze, busied herself with some needlework.

She was making a little frock of white woollen stuff.

By her side, near the fireplace, there was a cradle, with a baby's head just visible above the coverings; and, as Mrs. Errol stitched the narrow tucks in the garment she was making, her attention was constantly directed to the tiny sleeper.

Her thoughts were not happy ones. Her expression was one of mingled tenderness and sorrow; and, occasionally, a sigh escaped her lips as she glanced towards her sleeping child.

A light tap on the door made Mrs. Errol start, and a look of fear came to her eyes.

"How nervous I am to-night!" she thought, recovering herself as she recognised her landlady's voice asking for admission.

Then aloud she said—

"Come in, Mrs. West."

The woman entered, quietly closing the door after her.

"The pretty dear's still asleep," she whispered, looking at the child. "Shall I put a bit more coal on the fire? It's a bitter night."

"It is, indeed!" the young mother responded, shivering as she laid aside her work; but there was an under-current in her tone, of which her listener was unconscious, and the bitterness passed all on Bertha Errol's face.

"I came to know, ma'am, if you'd be wanting me any more to-night. I've had my son and his wife spending the evening with me, and I thought, if you wouldn't be wanting me again, I might as well walk with them to the station."

"By all means, Mrs. West. Baby and I will take care of the house, and let you in when you come back. We shall not give you any more trouble to-night."

"Trouble!" echoed the landlady. "I should like to know how much I have of that from you and the dear little pet there. I only wish you'd ring for me more often, ma'am. Why, sometimes I hardly know you're in the house."

"I suppose baby's voice reminds you of that fact?"

"No, ma'am, I've never come across such a good child; and I've seen a great many of 'em in my time. Somehow, I took to that little soul the moment I set eyes on her, and there's nothing in the world I wouldn't do to please her."

A softer light crept into Bertha's eyes.

"You are very kind," she said, with the sigh that came so often to her lips. "Baby can never have too many friends. May the affection you have given her prove a blessing in the days to come."

"Bless her, I hope it will," and then, with something like a lump rising in her throat, the woman re-crossed the room, and stood by the door.

"Are you sure you don't mind being left alone in the house, ma'am?" she asked, her tones betraying hesitation. "I'd just as soon stay at home."

"Do not think of me," Bertha said, quickly; "I know you would rather see your son to the station. I shall listen for you, and open the door to let you in."

"You needn't do that, ma'am; the street-door opens from the outside, and there's no occasion for me to disturb you when I come back."

"But will it be safe to leave the door without bolting it?"

"Lor, ma'am, yes. What is there to fear in a quiet place like this?"

"I don't know; but I was thinking somebody might come in and rob the house."

The landlady smiled.

"There's nothing valuable enough in the place to make it worth a thief's while to break in. Besides, I've been in this neighborhood for the last twenty years, and such a thing's not happened since I can remember, though most of the doors never get fastened winter or summer."

"I shall feel quite safe," Bertha said. "Don't keep your friends waiting, Mrs. West, they may miss their train."

With a few more civil words the landlady left the room, and hurried downstairs to get on her bonnet and shawl.

As she trudged through the snow to the station, with her son and his wife, Bertha was the subject of their conversation.

"You seem to think a precious lot of that new lodger of yours," James West remarked, as they turned the corner of the street and got into a wider thoroughfare. "What's her name, do you say?"

"Errol—Mrs. Errol."

"Where's her husband, then?"

"She never mentions his name."

"That sounds queer. I suppose he isn't dead?"

"I should say so. But there, it's no affair of ours if she likes to keep things to herself. Depend on it, she's some reason for taking lodging by herself and her little one; and as long as she pays me my rent regular, I'm not going to ask questions."

"It's my opinion you wouldn't say anything if she paid you nothing at all," James said, giving his mother's arm an affectionate squeeze.

He had been married only a few weeks, and was walking between the two women, holding an arm of each.

"You've got a kind heart mother, that you have; there's not many that would knock in vain for you to let 'em in."

"Well, you can't help your likes and dislikes," Mrs. West admitted, giving a vigorous sniff. "There was something about my new lodger that took me the instant I looked at her. She seemed so helpless—just like a child that's lost its way—and though the rooms came to more than she wanted to pay, I made my price meet hers without another word—not letting her know I'd taken anything off."

"You'll make your fortune if many more like Mrs. Errol come to you," laughed Mrs. West, the younger—"she's worth seeing if she's as pretty as you say."

"Pretty's not the word. She's like that picture we have of the Virgin Mary. I always think of it when I see her dressing the baby of mornings—and she's so fond of it. She nothing less than worships the little creature."

"Ah, well, I shouldn't be too trustful of her all at once," James said. "I shouldn't wonder if she'd run away from her husband, and is hiding from him. Take care she doesn't go off and leave the child. More unexpected things than that have happened before now."

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure the gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trantwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trantwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns [illegible] acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising [illegible] claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 184 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from [illegible] to $54.88 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. (This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

C. C. Pugh, postmaster at Adel, Dallas county, Iowa, and Dr. W. J. Wilsner surgeon for the Milwaukee railroad at that place, are very successful mining men. They understand the western country and know the mines and their possibilities. They are selling Williams Fork Stock at 15 cents a share. This stock went off the market at 25 cents July 1 this year and there is none to be had of the company at any price. They guarantee this stock to be gilt edge $40,000 worth of ore on the dump now. If you want 1,000 shares of this stock send draft for $150 to Adel State Bank, Adel, Iowa, and they will send you your certificate for same. If you want 500 shares send draft for $80 to said bank. Pugh and Williams do their business through this large bank, hence you are safe in sending money to them. Dividends will come soon from this property and it will then go to $1.00 per share. It is in Colorado and officials of that state write that it is a magnificent property. If you knew this property and the people back of it you would want this stock. For reference, write Hon. Geo. W. Clarke, Adel, Iowa, member of the Legislature. He will tell you as to our reliability. If you buy 1,000 shares of this stock we send you a guarantee and you will also thank us for calling your attention to it. An honest proposition. Write immediately with draft as this stock will be offered but a few days at 15 cents. Last shipment of ore went over $120 to the ton.

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Oct. 6.—Absence of large speculative orders there was an absence of yesterday. Of the large individual orders which were a feature of the market early last week there was a decided inclination Friday and Saturday buying on the part of room traders to buy the list in anticipation of a demand which was expected the bank statements would create a favorable statement was looked for on all sides if the showing had been good liquidation was expected. The taking of profits on good news since the showing was poor the liquidation came but demand failed. The decline could not go in., however, for there is a notable absence of serious liquidation. The market apparently reached its lowest point some time ago. It will be noticed yesterday that whenever prices got down one per cent. business was at a standstill. The London participation in the market was not extensive and amounted in selling tot 15,000 shares. Mostly during the first hour. It is expected the London market will become considerably easier. The money movement shows little change in currency, it still being drawn from New Orleans, but to Chicago are still only nominal earnings again increasing. The reports of earnings for the last week of September show a renewed tendency to improvement. The L. & N. increase of 9 per cent. is about a fair average of the whole. The C. P. R. increase, which is constant, week after week, is smaller. On other hand South Western shows a more decided tendency toward improvement. The Central West made the best showing of all The Wabash increased for the week about 25 per cent. and the improvement by the soft coal roads of Ohio was even much greater.

New York, Oct. 6.—London 1-4 to 1-2 off consols half lower. British Cabinet resignations helping depression, emphasized by steel dividend uncertainties. Traders continue bearish but will in all probability some shorts before 2 p.m. Since the action of the U. S. directors will not be known until the market closed insiders still insist that having been made full dividends will be paid. The Standard Oil stock will be the barometer since it is conceded that Mr. John D. Rockefeller has the resources and can at will turn the tide of speculation. St. Paul will set the pace. Renewed efforts will be made by the Waldorf crowd to depress New York Central but the stock is a buy on point breaks. Specialties—tractions should be bought on dips of point or so.

A SPLENDID PROPOSITION

A Mine With a Great Future—A Chance for Investment

We call attention to the advertisement of the Pearl Gold Mining Co., of Boise, Idaho This company is owned and controlled by experienced mining men, who have been successful in other fields and have recently secured seven groups, consisting of thirty-seven properties in the best camp in the State of Idaho. The personnel of the directorate guarantees that the investor will have careful, prudent and experienced men in charge of the affairs of the company.

The Pearl Camp is situated in Boise County, Idaho, from which over four hundred millions of gold have been taken from the placer mines. This company is now developing the ledges that fed those placers, and so far the development work shows most gratifying results, indeed the Pearl Camp is exceptional in this respect; every company operating in the camp that has gone down three hundred feet has developed a mine. The Pearl Co. has seven groups and will open up seven separate mines—all under one management. Consequently, the expenses of this company will be diminished, and larger dividends can be paid the stockholders.

Prof Bell, Mine inspector of Idaho, says in his official report on the Pearl Camp, "Pearl is a busy little mining camp, nestling among a group of rounded grassy, granite hills, that form the termination of the Boise ridge and divide between the Boise and Payette rivers. Gold was discovered prior to 1870 and some oxidized ore was found near the surface, milling values ranging from $25.00 to $100.00 per ton. The veins are from two to thirty feet in width and below the zone of oxidation are found to contain a blue, chalky, feldspatic gangue filled with metallic sulphides—and almost invariably carrying a well defined pay streak of high grade ore. This district with its great veins and dyke systems is especially well supplied with the ideal conditions necessary for the development of great and profitable mines. The district is worthy of the most earnest local support. I again repeat it has developed the definite evidence of shortly becoming a producer of gold bullion, that will amount to millions of dollars each year."

The Pearl Gold Mining Company is incorporated under the laws of Idaho. Capital stock, 600,000 shares, par value $1.00 250,000 shares of the above are placed in the treasury of the company to be sold for development.

With its low capitalization—large acreage, having thirty-seven claims, containing seven hundred and forty acres and being in the heart of the district, surrounded by producing mines, the Pearl Company should soon pay large dividends and its stock be worth much more than its par value.

The officers of the company are the leading citizens of the state. The president, Mr. Dorsey, served in the Congress of the United States, as a representative from Nebraska. Mr. Coffin is State Treasurer of Idaho. Mr. Katz, general manager of the Mutual Life of New York for Idaho. Mr. Neal is cashier of the Capitol State Bank of Boise. Messrs. McMillan and Rogers, capitalists
